CLINCHES PENNANT

Plainfield's Claim to Championship Made Sure By Defeat of Somerville.

A HOTLY FOUGHT CONTEST.

Imported Batteries — McConnell's Great Pitching Won the Game For the Winning Team of League—Score 2 to 1.

"Ernie" Dorhinger's Plainfield Pets did the vanishing act on the slight doubt regarding the winning of the Central New Jersey League pennant by defeating Somerville Saturday. The score was 2 to 1 and stands as the result of one of the most exciting games of the season. The last half was played under weather conditions far from the baseball ideal, but the intense interest of the outcome, which was in doubt until the last man was out, gripped hard, every one of the 2,500 fans, holding them chilled through to the end on the wind whipped field. This, however, the followers of the Pets did not mind, as victory brought a glowing warmth. On the other hand the county seat delegation became so sad over the smashing of their carefully built expensixe machine that they were oblivious to any other sensation as dejectedly they bade farewell to Crescent Oval until next year.

Soon sadness was replaced by anger as is always the case when a sure thing goes wrong and then there was plenty of heat. In this torpid condition a number of minds became affected and made the owners howl "robbery;" that they are always "robbed" in Plainfield and other "shortsport" remarks in which hard losers seek comfort after being defeated.

Of course, it was hard for the Somerset bunch to be trimmed, for no expense nor pains had been spared in capturing big leaguers to trim the Pets, who did some padding themselves and would have had bad tastes yesterday had they lost.

Both teams had imported batteries. Manager Cawley did not send Andy Coakley, the Athletics' star twirler of a season or two ago, to the delivery end at first, but left Clinton in and Jimmy was going his best when pulled at the beginning of the sixth. Kleinow ex-Yankee catcher, did the backstop end. "Lanky" McConnell, of Rochester's Eastern League team, and Fisher, of the same circuit, only with Toronto, were in the points for the Pets. In addition to the bateries the padding extended to other points. "Tim" Jordan, another Eastern League player, played first for Somerville, and the only "Cy" Seymour was in centre field. Jim Bailey, also of the Eastern League, was on first for the Pets and Lou Hartman was seen again guarding the third corner. Thus were both teams loaded and the crash as their heavy bodies came together will be long remembered.

Big Mac gave the Somersets a ray of hope and local fandom goose flesh by passing Gordon, first up, whom all know as a swift on the bases. Swanson neatly laid it down and Gordon took third on Wolff's jumper to Crist. Tim Jordan was looked to for a wallop but dribbled weakly along the line made by Wolff for an easy out, retiring the side and everybody sighed in relief. Cosgrove fanned as an opener for the Pets. Harter rapped through second and stole while Crist was being effaced. Bailey drew a pass and stole second. McConnell looked big enough to bring both in, but his slice went to Swanson for an easy out.

In the second no one reached first on either team. Mac opened the third by passing Piel who was sacrificed by Clinton only to be caught napping on second by Mac's quick throw to Martin. Gordon poled to right and succumbed stealing. Hartman singled to left and was sent to second by Cosgrove's sacrifice. Lou frose to the pillow as Harter and Crist were retired on flies.

In the fourth Mac disposed of the invaders, two by the whiff route and made one pop to Stallings. The Pets drew first blood. Bailey drew a pass and on an attempted bunt Mac fouled out. Bailey stole second while Fisher was drawing a pass and Martin had one handed to him filling the cushions with one down. Stallings rapped one on the seam straight at Clinton, which he slowed just enough to make Swanson play it to first. Eddie was nipped, but Bailey scored on the out and the others all moved up, making it look as if more were to come across, as Hartman was corked in the back by an inshoot. He was forced at second on Cosgrove's dribble to Swanson ending the session.

Cy Seymour was fanned as an opener for the fifth. Kleinow doubled to left and it looked ominous with Brown viciously swinging at them. The best he could do, how-

TO CONFIRM STILLMAN APPOINTMENT TONIGHT

An important matter to come before the Common Council tonight at the October meeting will be the confirmation of the appointment of William M. Stillman as corporation counsel. Mayor G. W. V. Moy has selected Mr. Stillman, as exclusively told in this paper. It is reliably reported that the appointment will be promptly confirmed. Mr. Stillman has always been a resident of this city and is in close touch with local affairs, especially those pertaining to the city government. A number of lawyers have commented favorably upon Mayor Moy's selection and they agree that a better one could not have been made.

Provided the appointment is confirmed, Mr. Stillman will succeed the late Craig A. Marsh, who held the position of corporation counsel for more than twenty years. Since the first of the year, Mayor Moy made two appointments for this office, the first one being Arthur Lovell, of this city, who practices law in New York, and Walter L. Hetfield, a Democrat, who withdrew has name before the Council had an opportunity to either reject or confirm his name. Shortly afterward, upon the recommendation of the councilmanic finance committee, the Council engaged former Judge W. A. Coddington as special counsel for the Board of Health, it being understood that he would give legal advice to other city departments when necessary. It was further understood that his services could be terminated at will.

RALLY DAY EXERCISES AT FIRST PRESBYTERAN

Rally day service at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning attracted a large attendance of pupils, officers, teachers and friends. During the service Miss Sadler and Mrs. Mason, soprano and contralto soloists of the choir, sang a duet. Allen Beals presented a banner to the school, which had been donated to the school by Superintendent L. H. Gates. Miss Lillian Vail was appointed superintendent of the primary department to take the place of Miss Ella Lounsbury, who resigned on account of her health.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring addressed the school, urging all those who had been baptised to take active interest in the Sunday-school and church work.

The promotions were as follows:

From cradle roll to the beginners—George Carpenter, Irving Hinman, Potter Paine, William Archer, Chester Van Cleef, Elinor Van Clief, Elizabeth Price.

From beginners to primary—Elinor Wood, Mary Van Clief, Alvin Dunn, Norman Abbott, Edwin White, Nestor Albert.

From primary to main school—Elida Townley, Gladys Albert, Ethel Hazel, Marjorie Searing, Edward Boyle, Harold Britton, Edward Gates, Edgar Ackerman, Edna Mantz, Russel Burke and Viola Briknor.

FINED "FARE," REVOKED LICENSE OF CABMAN.

Lottie Copeland, alias Lottie Johnstone, colored, of Mountain avenue, was arraigned in the city court this morning on complaint of William Bird, a hackman, who charged the woman was breaking a glass in his wagon Saturday night, after he had refused to take her to a point beyond where she said she wanted to go and which called for an extra fare. The woman said that the glass was broken when Bird left his seat and entered the back of the conveyance where she was riding and attempted to misuse her. In the alleged struggle, she said, her clothing was torn and she was bruised.

Lottie's record in the city court is bad, however, and Judge DeMeza was inclined to doubt the truth of her tale. Patrolman Vanderweg testified that he had seen the woman earlier in the evening and that she had been drinking. Bird said that she was quite drunk when he was engaged by her. In disposing of the case Judge DeMeza imposed a fine of $10 or forty days on the woman and revoked Bird's license.

The business of both offices will be continued at 84 William street, New York city, under the name of The John L. Dudley, Jr. Company, fire undrewriters, The International Agency, New York and London. Mr. Buxton resides on West Front street and is a member of the Common Council from the Fourth ward.

MRS. KATE YEOMANS HAS PASSED AWAY

After an illness of short duration, ending in a complication of diseases, Mrs. Kate Yeomans died shortly after noon today at her home on Leland avenue. She had been residing with her daughter, Mrs. Alice Sandford, for some time, having come here from Coxsackie, N. Y. She affiliated with Trinity Reformed church and when the Netherwood Reformed church was established became a member there.

Since residing in this city Mrs. Yeomans had formed the acquaintance of a large circle of friends to whom the sad word of her death will come as a great shock. Mrs. Sandford alone survives. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

FIRST FALL REUNION OF WOMAN'S SOCIETY

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, held its first fall reunion Saturday night, the affair being marked by an attractive program. The feature was a talk by Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal of the Franklin School, dealing with incidents relative to her trip through England and Wales during the past summer. It was illustrated with views she had secured by means of a projectoscope operated by George L. Babcock. Miss Bullock's talk differed from the usual lecture on these countries, inasmuch as she took her listeners to the smaller towns and country districts instead of the large places usually visited by tourists. The views were splendid.

Other numbers on the program were a violin solo by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson, accompanied by Miss Mabel Maxson, and a vocal solo by Roy Titsworth, accompanied by Miss Eva Rogers. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

The affair was arranged and in charge of the entertainment committee of the society of which Mrs. Asa F. Randolph is chairman.

EXERCISES ARE HELD AT CONGREGATIONAL

Rally day service was held at the regular Sunday school hour at the Congregational church yesterday and was a very interesting exercise, a feature of which was the singing by the vested choir of the church and by the school children. The class roll call, which was responded to by the teacher,, who also told the number of pupils present, was deeply interesting.

The banner for largest attendance during the last three months was awarded to Mrs. Phillip Suffern's class. It consists of a large American flag spread over the class. Two classes were promoted from the primary to the junior department and Superintendent J. M. Whiton presented the boys with convention buttons and the girls with pins. William D. Murray gave an instructive and interesting talk on the work of the boy scouts of England.

The pupils promoted were Kenneth Voorhees, William Runyon and the Misses Harriett Morgan, Estelle Bowers, Grace West and Helen Rice.

UNION WILL VOTE ON SMALL COUNTY BOARD.

The plan to replace Union county's present "large board" of freeholders with a seven-member commission under the provisions of the Strong act will be voted upon at the coming general election. The necessary petitions have been filed.

Advocates of the present system declare the change will be defeated. If the small board proposition wins, the new board will be elected in November, 1912, assuming office January 1, 1913.

Here's a Burner.

Chief T. O. Doane returned yesterday afternoon from Milwaukee, where he attended the convention of Associated Fire Chiefs. He said that the demonstrations of automobile fire-fighting apparatus was a gigantic display. The experimental stage in automobile apparatus is past, he considers, and no department will be properly equipped a few years from now without this sort of fire-fighting machines, one of which, he claims, is much more effective than three of the present day hose wagons or chemical engines.

—Neuman Bros. will offer for tomorrow's trade a choice assortment of peaches, grapes, Fall Pippins and Northern Spy apples.

FIND WOMEN DEAD

Miss May M. Bourne a Victim of Apoplexy at Home of Robert Murray.

SHE WAS HIS HOUSEKEEPER.

Thirty-five Years of Age and a Native of Birmingham, England—Sad News Cabled to Her Parents.

Miss May M. Bourne, housekeeper for Robert Murray, the auctioneer, died suddenly at her employer's home while in the act of preparing the evening meal on Saturday. She was found face downward on the basement floor having descended to secure some provisions and it was at first believed she had fallen in a faint. Drs. Pittis and Lufburrow were summoned but there was nothing the physicians could do on their arrival. Apoplexy is given as the cause of death.

Miss Bourne had been complaining of being ill at times for two weeks or more, but it was only given momentary thought. She was about the house as usual Saturday and seemed in the best of health when she went to the basement. She failed to return after several minutes and Miss Christine Murray, daughter of Mr. Murray, decided to see what detained her. Miss Bourne was discovered a short distance from the bottom of the stairs to all appearances being in a faint. With this belief in mind, Miss Murrry summoned her sister, but their efforts to revive the young woman were futile. Mr. Murray was then called from his store and in turn summoned the doctors.

Miss Bourne was a native of England, where she was born thirty years-five years ago. She came to this country six years ago and had been employed by Mr. Murray nearly all that time. When only nineteen years old she was manager of a large dye works and had considerable experience in employment agency work before leaving for America. She had charge of this branch of Mr. Murray's business. She was quiet and unassuming by nature and had many local friends. She is survived by her mother, two brothers and two sisters, all living in England. They have been cabled of the young woman's death.

The funeral will be held at Runyon & Son's undertaking parlors, tomorrow afternoon at 3:00. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL WILL CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fourth anniversary of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be celebrated Thursday night in the council rooms in the Scheurer building on West Front street. The affair will be in charge of the good and welfare committee and the members, their wives and women friends have been invited. There will be an entertainment and refreshments.

Franklin Council is the oldest council of that order in the city, and has a membership of over 300. The council is in a strong financial condition. Several State council officers have been invited to attend the anniversary celebration.

CANDLES CAUSE FIRE AT LOCAL SYNAGOGUE.

Some candles, left burning after the service held last night in the synagogue, marking the opening ceremonies in observance of Yom Kippur, bent and melted from the heat and set fire to the woodwork. Patrolman Wicht happened to be passing at the time and saw the flickering light through the stained glass windows and smelled smoke. He pulled box 46 at West Second and Liberty streets. The firemen made quick work in extinguishing the blaze with chemicals after arrival and kept the damage at a minimum, Chief Doane fixing it at $50.

Plainfield Water Pure.

The local Board of Health states that at no time was the typhoid fever cases in this city due to the alleged contamination of the city water supply; nor was there the slightest indication of an epidemic of typhoid fever in Plainfield. The source of infection the board states, was due to other causes than the water which is ure. There are only a few cases of typhoid fever in the city and they are convalescing.

An Address on Alaska.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will hold it first fall meeting tomorrow afternoon at the usual hour, when Mrs. John M. Whiton, of the Congregational church, will give an interesting talk on Alaska, which place she visited within the past year. Mrs. Susan Wilson will lead the devotional services.

FINDS ITALIAN BABY AT HER FRONT DOOR

A baby's cry attracted the attention of Mrs. Ralph Matthews, of East Fourth street, Saturday night, and on investigation she found an infant boy on her front porch, where it had been left by some unknown person. She took the little one inside and notified the police who arranged for her to keep it for the night. Yesterday Overseer of the Poor Alexander Ayers had City Physician Lufburrow examine the babe and he said that it is evidently an Italian child about five weeks old. It was well dressed in clean linen but there were no marks by which identification could be made. Unless claimed by its parents the little waif will be sent to the State Home for Children.

BURNS WIFE'S SWITCH AND PACKS HIS TRUNK

Because he burned up a switch which cost $3 and then slapped her face, Mrs. Louis Davis, of South Second street, had her husband arrested and brought before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. Davis admitted having burned the hair. He said that he objected to his wife wearing it and furthermore did not propose to wait for his breakfast while she combed and braided it. He works nights and when he returned home Saturday morning that is what she was doing, he declared.

An argument started during which some of the eggs he had bought on his way home were broken. Then to the smell of $3 worth of burning hair, man and wife mixed things until he locked her in a bed room and packed his trunk to leave. Then she had him arrested.

Judge DeMeza said it looked as if Davis and his wife could not agree so to keep from fighting he advised them to separate. Davis was ordered to make weekly allowances for her support. With this understanding, a sentence of $10 or 30 days was suspended on him.

HUNT CLUB RIDERS IN THE SADDLE AGAIN

The riding members of the Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed a chase after the hounds Saturday afternoon. About fifteen members joined in the hunt and some of the new hounds were used for the first time. The members met the hounds on the Blackford farm, circling around the Holly farm to the Hunt Club grounds, the Mumford farm, finishing at the kennels. The run was a short one owing to the heavy underbrush and foliage.

Rufus C. Finch was master of the hounds and among others taking part in the chase were Col. Clarence E. Stanley Bellows, first whip; former Assemblyman Lindon Bates, Jr., of New York ,a new member; Edward R. Finch, of New York; R. H. Thomos, J. J. O'Donohue, Harry L. Finch, Harry A. Bourne and Huntsman Watkins. Several grooms were also out exercising their mounts.

"BOB'S SISTER" TONIGHT AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE.

George Bernard Shaw in his preface to the recently published volume of plays by Brieux says that their particular strength and force lies in the fact that the auditor leaves the theatre not in the state of mind of one who has seen the end of a fictitious tragedy, but with the feeling that he is a fellow actor in a tragedy which is continuing day after day in actual life. Though in much lighter vein than the Brieux dramas, the new play of modern American life, "Bob's Sister," has precisely this same quality that Mr. Shaw commends.

The characters drawn by Geraldine Bonner and H. H. Boyl, the authors, are so thoroughly human and the story is so true to every-day life that the auditor feels that the episodes are his own concern and that the characters are members of his own household. The play is produced by Edw. F. Rush and Walter N. Lawrence and will be seen at the Plainfield theatre tonight.

Goes to St. Louis.

Thomas Gordon Whitaker, formerly physical director at the Y. M. C. A., has signed a contract to succeed Frank Sullivan as swimming instructor for the Missouri Athletic Club at St. Louis for the coming year. Mr. Whitaker will go to St. Louis this week, when activity in acquatic events will begin at once. Mr. Whitaker was recently swimming instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, which position he resigned to go to St. Louis.

SLIGHT CUT ON HAND ALMOST CAUSES DEATH

Newton Kane, a well known resident of the West End, is resting easily at his home on Essex street, today, following a serious attack of blood poisoning, which until yesterday threatened to result fatally. The amputation of an arm was all but decided upon but through the efforts of Dr. Yood, who remained with the patient almost constantly, the alternative was not resorted to. He will probably be entirely well in a few days.

Kane sustained a slight cut at the base of the middle finger on his left hand three weeks ago. He gave it only passing attention and forgot all about it. A few days later a swelling appeared on his arm near the elbow. The swelling continued to the shoulder and chest and when Dr. Yood was called in last Wednesday night, Kane was delirious. Blood poisoning was plainly evident, having spread all through the system. The physician resorted to the Fand treatment, a new German process, in order to save the man's life but it was Saturday before satisfactory results were obtained. When a change for the better came, following the drawing off of the poison, favorable progress for the better was rapid.

Kane was pronounced out of danger last night, his temperature and general conditions becoming normal. He is a brother to James Kane, of Vine street, and is widely acquainted in the city and borough.

DRIVER WENT ON AFTER KNOCKING WOMAN DOWN.

John Boskoski, a driver, was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, charged with reckless driving and with knocking down Mrs. Mary Navotney, of Sycamore street, Saturday night at Park avenue and Fourth street. Dr. Pittis was called to attend the woman and found that she was only slightly injured. She was accompanied by Mrs. Cabbella, a neighbor, who was struck a glancing blow by the shafts as the wagon dashed past.

After bowling the woman over, Boskoski did not stop although several other pedestrians called to him. Patrolman Kelley took up the chase on a wheel some time later and located Boskoski on West Front street. Nolan had the injured woman removed to the police station. Judge DeMeza put the case over until Wednesday morning to admit of a thorough investigation being made.

Chalmers "36" Makes Big Hit.

The new self-starting Chalmers "36" was the center of attraction at the Thompson Auto Co.'s show room, which was crowded Saturday evening and all day Sunday. The self-starting feature attracted the most attention, and the engine never failed to start without cranking. This car embodies all the very latest and most up-to-date features, among which are the long stroke motor, 4 speed forward transmission, compressed air for pumping up tires, centinential Q. D. demountable rims and needless to state it has the usual finish and class only found in Chalmers and the most expensive cars.

Miss Anna Warnock, of Craig place, is able to be about after ten days' illness with malarial fever.

"Square Pot" Boilers for Service and Heat

Boynton Square Pot boilers outlive the ordinary make by virtue of their superior construction and better materials. They give most heat because none can escape until its full duty has been discharged.

This sectional view shows how directly the fire comes in contact with interior water surfaces, thus giving rapid circulation with free steaming. It is equipped with the famous square fire pot, patented by the BOYNTON FURNACE CO.

This square pot increases the effective radiating surface 15%, which greatly mimimizes the cost of heating.

Had a Full Course.

The sign in front of a Harlem restaurant attracted the eye of a farmer, and he went in. He had a raw, a fry, a stew, a pan roast, a broil, and a steam-on-toast. When he got through he ladi a quarter on the cashier's desk, only to be told that he was shy a dollar and a quarter.

"No, by jing!" said the farmer. "A quarter's right. Doesn't your sign say, 'Oysters in every style for twenty-five cents?'"—October Lippincott's.

New York drew a little nearer that National League pennant yesterday when it won the last game with the Cubs in Chicago. The Giants have twelve more games to play, one of these being with Pittsburg today, another in Philadelphia tomorrow, the third in Brooklyn Wednesday, the fourth also in Brooklyn Thursday, the fifth at the Polo Grounds Friday against Philadelphia and the rest with Brooklyn and Boston. If the Giants win three of their remaining twelve games they can beat the Chicago Cubs out one game for the flag, even should Chance's men win all of the seven games which they have yet to play. The Giants with three more victories would have a percentage as follows:

Giants	95	59	.617

The Cubs with seven more victories would make their standing at the end of the National League season read as follows:

Saturday's game between Plainfield and Somerville reminded one of the old days, when John Harkins was the terror of the Plainfield team.

Wonder how Jim Metz felt after McConnell fanned those three batsmen in the ninth. That was the last straw to break the camel's back. Jim had a fist full of the long green which was left in town.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy was one of the interested spectators and he apparently enjoyed the game, especially Plainfield's victory.

Hartman was not scheduled to cover third, but it was lucky that Dave Driscoll brought him along. Lou cracked out a hit that brought home one of those two runs.

Before the game McConnell told Manager Dorflinger that he was in fine condition, that he "had everything" with him. This was shown by the way that he fooled those Somervillians, especially Seymour, Kleinow and "Tim" Jordan.

Fisher, of Toronto, caught a magnificent game for the locals, and he handled McConnell to perfection. His whip was in great condition, catching several would-be base stealers.

Before the game the word was passed among the Plainfield players that Kleinow had a sore finger on his throwing mit and they all took the hint. The result was that several bases were stolen.

Langdon, the New England League umpire, was right on the job. His decisions were impartial throughout giving no cause for complaint, even though Seymour and Kleinow did try to bait him once or twice.

Clinton pitched fine ball and was lucky to hold the Plainfield hitsmiths until the sixth. They were getting acquainted with his shoots rapidly when Manager Cawley replaced him with Coakley.

Coakley, the former Philadelphia Athletic pitcher, had little on the ball, yet he held Plainfield to one hit. It looked as though he was throwing a straight ball.

Following the game some of the players and Manager Dorflinger had a social session. Among the guests was Judge McMahon, of the First District court, Hoboken, who was delighted to see Plainfield win.

Too much credit cannot be given Dave Driscoll for his excellent judgment as captain in selecting players for the local team, throughout the season and especially on Saturday. In his opinion McConnel and Fisher could turn the trick, Dave believing them to be the best available battery. He remarked before the game that he did not care who Somerville had he was sure that the premier twirler from Rochester would bring home the bacon.

Jordan, the former Brooklyn player, was to have been in the Plainfield lineup, but Somerville heard of it and raised the ante. "Tim" was looking for the dough and Captain Driscoll told him that he would be a fool not to accept Somerville's offer.

The receipts showed that there were more than 2,000 people at the game, and the best of it all is that Manager Dorflinger closes the league season with all bills paid and a little nest egg beside. During his career as a baseball manager he has never closed a season on the wrong side of the ledger.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., October 2, 1911.

EDWARD SCHIERHOLTZ FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON.

The funeral of Edward Schierholtz, who died suddenly on the grounds at Muhlenberg Hospital, Saturday, was held at his late home on Watchung avenue, this afternoon. Rev. George Bowers was the officiating clergyman and a large number of relatives and friends attended. Burial was in the North Plainfield cemetery, six men from the Scott Press Works, where he had been employed as a machinist, acting as pall bearers. There were numerous floral tributes.

Schierholtz is survived by his wife and one daughter. A son, five years old, was accidentally killed by the discharge of a gun in Colonel A. G. Perry's store on Harrison avenue in 1906. The father was then a pressman in the employ of an Asbury Park paper.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATE INCURRED $1.60 EXPENSE.

According to the statements filed with Borough Clerk Frederick A. Martin, only one North Plainfield candidate spent any money in the primary election campaign. This was Samuel St. John McCutchen, who incurred $1.60 expense as a candidate for mayor. The amount represents the single fare from Belmar to Plainfield, Mr. McCutchen having to come from the former place to vote.

There were fifteen borough candidates all told and the other fourteen submitted sworn statements that they had not spent a cent.

CAN YOU BEAT THIS; A POLITICAL UTOPIA.

According to the Corrupt Practise Act it is necessary for all candidates for political offices to file a bill of expenses with the city clerk within five days after the primary. The local candidates for city offices as well as those for members of the city and county committees have filed their statements with City Clerk J. T. MacMurray and according to them not one penny was expended by any candidate, neither was any money received by any candidate for campaign purposes.

Fair Heirs in Auto Accident.

C. E. Leonard, of Caldwell, who is one of the heirs of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, who were killed in an automobile accident in France a long time ago, also figured in an automobile accident at Montclair Saturday night, sustaining slight injuries. Leonard, his wife and two children and Allan Lindsley, a Caldwell real estate dealer, were driving along Orange road, when their car collided with that of L. P. Martin, of Bloomfield. Lindsley and Leonard were the only ones injured, the others escaping.

New Members at Trinity.

The Lord's Supper was celebrated at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning, when six new members were received by letter and five on confession, four of whom were from the Sunday school. Rev. Dry Cleaning like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

GOV. WISON'S ANSWER TO THE NEW MEXICANS.

Roswell, N. M., Oct. 2.—The following telegram was sent to Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, by the local leader of the Progressive Democrats:

"The Progressive Democracy here is in a death struggle with the old line reactionaries. The action of this county may affect the result of the entire State. The Progressive element favors Wilson and Clark. Will you wire sentiment, to be used in this campaign, at my expense? Send one word even in support of honest government. (Signed)

"A. L. WHITEMAN,
"Roswell, N. M."

Mr. Whiteman received the following answer:

"The whole country takes it for granted that the Democratic party will stand for the interest of all against special or party advantage. Every member of the party should be proud to advance the principles of a progressive program. (Signed)

"WOODROW WILSON."

WOMAN TELLS OF AN ATTACK BY WILDCAT.

New Providence, Oct. 2.—The few remaining campers of Berkeley Camp, particularly those who are living in tents, are in a state of panic over an attack on one of their number the other night by an animal she believes was a wildcat. The camp is located on Plainfield avenue, Berkeley Heights. The person attacked is Mrs. A. M. Bacciacho, of New York. She had retired with her little child when, she declares, the beast sprang through the mosquito netting over her window and landed on her bed. The "cat" scratched and tore at her. F. V. Burlovitz, who was in a neighboring tent, went to the woman's assistance, when he in turn was attacked.

The "cat" clawed Burklovitz savagely in the face. Finally he got clear of the animal and, with blood streaming down his face, ran for aid. Other neighbors drove the animal away. While Burklovitz was away for help the animal tried to attack Mrs. Bacciacho again, but she fought it off. She was not severely hurt.

BULLFIGHTS IN PORTUGAL.

The Battles Are Bloodless and the Contestants Rarely Hurt.

The distressingly cruel treatment of animals so common in the Latin countries is almost entirely absent among the Portuguese, and for this reason their great national sport, the bullfight, is really an enjoyable spectacle to an American, writes Mrs. C. R. Miller in Leslie's Weekly.

In the Portuguese version the bull is never killed. The horrible goring of horses—a feature of the Spanish fight—does not occur, for if a horse was injured in a Portuguese performance the rider would be hissed from the ring and very likely mobbed afterward. The men taking part are rarely hurt, although the skill displayed is much greater than that shown in the Castilian style of the sport.

Occasionally they have a burlesque Spanish bullfight in Lisbon with the cruelty eliminated. The horses ridden by the picador are armored and cannot be gored, and when the bull is to be killed the matador strikes him in the particular spot on the back of his neck, which in Spain means almost instant death to the animal. Instead of killing the bull, however, the Portuguese matador's sword doubles up after the fashion of the ones used by the sword swallowers in our sideshows, and a red mark appears where it has touched the animal's skin, thus showing the audience that the matador has been successful. The horses and bull then run out of the ring uninjured.

THE TEREDO.

Curious and Destructive Worm That Digs Tunnels In Wood.

It was in 1731 that Holland narrowly escaped inundation along its coast because the timbers of the sea dikes in many parts were discovered to be quite unsound. The timely discovery of the real condition of the dikes saved the country from an awful catastrophe, the full extent of which was comprehended by only a few Dutchmen.

The timbers had been honeycombed by the teredo, or shipworm. This creature burrows into any wood immersed in sea water. It makes an entrance when young and digs channels along the grain of the wood, living and often dying in the timber. The worm grows in some localities to a length of twelve inches, its girth being one and a half inches, and the curious thing about its whiplike body is its exceeding tenderness. It cannot bear its own weight. It will break if subjected to any strain.

It will burrow straight along the grain of the wood unless turned aside by a knot or nail, and, no matter how many of these worms may be burrowing in the same piece of wood, they never run their channels into one another. By some marvelous instinct they keep clear of each other's preserves. We have seen a cross section of a log eighteen inches in diameter, and we counted no fewer than 800 distinct burrows.—Exchange.

His Wrong Lead.

Some forty years ago at Aldershot the camp was commanded by Sir James Yorke Scarlett, a Crimean veteran. On the occasion in question he was directing some sham fighting. In a manner then usual he was leading a line of skirmishers of one force against another many yards in front, as in earlier times he had led the heavy brigade at Balaclava against three times its numbers. To a soldier of the younger school it seemed a preposterous proceeding, and Sir Evelyn ventured to criticise it.

Sir James replied: "Young man, have I not ordered you twice to hold your tongue? If I like to lead my skirmishers, what the —— is that to you?" Sir Evelyn replied, "Ten thousand pardons, sir, but it is the enemy's line in retreat you have been leading for the last ten minutes." He was shortsighted and did not wear glasses, so was unable to see the distinguishing mark, a sprig of heather worn in the shakos of the troops he was attacking.—Westminster Gazette.

Keeping on the Safe Side.

"Here," she said when they met after the judge had granted the decree for which she had prayed, "is the engagement ring you gave me. You may wish to use it again some time. Perhaps you would like my wedding ring also. It, too, may come in handy in the future."

"No; keep them," he replied. "I am afraid to accept them."

"Afraid! Why should you be afraid?"

"If I took them back I should not have to buy rings for the next lady, and the courts may find us guilty of combining in unreasonable restraint of trade."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Phrenologist Right.

"This large bump running across the back of your head means that you are inclined to be curious to the point of recklessness."

"Right you are. I got that by sticking my head into an elevator shaft to see if the elevator was coming up, and it was coming down."—Houston Post.

Game For Her.

Mr. Knox—You don't want to meet Mrs. Gaybird, you say? Mrs. Knox—No; I pick my friends. Mr. Knox—Well, she's just the sort of woman you and your friends would like to pick—to pieces.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Not Curious.

Doctor—What made that mule kick you? Patient—I may look foolish, but I am not fool enough to go back and ask him.—Toledo Blade.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

By HENRY RUSSELL MILLER

Copyright, 1910, by Bobbs Merrill Co.

Many have often tried to imitate them in vain, perhaps because they breathe a spirit that cannot be simulated convincingly. He is no longer a public figure in the Steel City. Few now remember his sensational disavowal of McAdoo, fewer still his equally sensational amende. Sometimes there have been struggles with a burning appetite. At such times he has fled to Kathleen. He tells her it is she who has conquered.

Both Kathleen and Paul are happy. At least they have achieved content.

The train that whirled Paul toward the Steel City was passed by another bearing Mayor McAdoo to the death bed of a man who had come very close to him.

Bob saw much of Murchell during the two years following the Steel City mayoralty election. He came to feel a mighty admiration and affection for the great general who had created a new political era, who had shackled a nation to the service of a vast, voracious system, who had lifted at least one notentity to the president's chair and who in the last years of his life was struggling to undo the work of his prime.

"When a man reaches his threescore years and ten," Murchell said to him one day, "he has learned that the evil or good a man does concerns himself least of all. The balance must remain heavily against me. I must strive not to atone, but to make the way ready for other men who will undo what I have done."

Murchell's lofty self ignoring gave him an example that he strove to emulate.

Many other things of less abstract kind he learned from the master. Murchell revealed to him the secret intricate inner workings of the vast machine that gripped the state as in a vise. It was not all pretty. More than once he saw rebellious bosses enter the presence of the master to leave shaking, stunned by the knowledge that they were inextricably in the power of a man who seemed to know everything. Many things Murchell and Bob did of which they said naught to the gentle Dunmeade, that they might save his heart from burning.

Gradually Bob came to understand, too, why the secrets and sources of Murchell's power were revealed to him. He was being prepared to take Murchell's place. Upon him, not upon Dunmeade, the master's mantle was to fall.

And now Murchell was dying.

Bob knew as the train bore him swiftly to the east that he was going to assume that mantle.

Years before "I will be master of the state before I die!" ambition had cried. Now he said, "I am not yet forty, and I am master of the state."

Master of the state! He had dreamed of power. Now power, tremendous, far-reaching, almost unlimited power, would be his if he could retain what Murchell would very soon place in his hands.

"I can! I will!" His teeth clinched, his muscles tightened in the stress of his determination. "I will be true to my trust. I will use my power for the good of this people. So help me God!"

His words were a prayer, not an oath. There was no exultation in his heart, neither was there humility. Self was forgotten. His task loomed large before him, self obliterating, filling his horizon as he hurried toward the governor's mansion. In the library some one was playing the piano very softly, the gentle, soothing chords lingering in the air. Thither the servant showed Bob.

On the threshold Bob halted sharply. Death, power, battle, were in an instant swept from his mind. His heart leaped convulsively.

The player's back was toward him. She did not notice his entrance. He did not move, lest he might disturb her. Then her voice rose, full and clear and plaintive in a song that not all the street pianos in the world can rob of its appeal. Bob listened in rapt attention. Once before he had heard her sing that song, on the night when, on that very spot, he had dealt her the cruelest blow a man could give a woman.

At the last line her voice shook slightly; once it faltered.

"To kiss the cross, sweetheart—to kiss the cross."

The last long quivering note died away. She turned and arose to face him. For a long minute they regarded each other unwaveringly. It had been two years and more since they had met, these two whose lives had so strangely crossed. They had been constantly in each other's minds, in each other's hearts. Each saw that the years had wrought changes in the other.

Every time he had seen her beauty had struck him anew. It was as different from that of the few women he knew. But he had loved her to remember her as he had last seen her, when she had come to him in the days of his sickness. How often during the long months, in the secrecy of his room he had opened the book of his memory to look upon her standing there before him, her startled eyes answering the love in his. Now, in this sudden meeting, the picture he had carried seemed to him woefully inadequate. She was even more slender than before, yet less fragile. Her face was marked by a new gentleness, a new patience and withal a new strength that made her to Bob's eyes beautiful beyond dreams.

She, too, saw a change. He was the same stalwart figure as before, yet a slight stoop had come into the big shoulders. Streaks of gray were in his hair. The thin, strongly marked, ascetic face was the same and yet not the same; the bold arrogance, the look of the all conquering viking, was gone. In its place had come the quiet matured strength of the man who has proved himself and the great kindliness of a strong man who has suffered without hardening.

Under his steady regard she trembled. She tried to take her eyes from his, but could not. She knew that in that moment of silence they were saying what must not be said. She tried to speak, to break the spell.

"I was singing for him—he asked me," she said unsteadily.

"I heard you sing that song for him once before, the night when I"— He could not go on.

"All that is forgotten, Mr. McAdoo."

He shook his head slowly. "It can never be forgotten, Mrs. Gilbert. Every night I dream of it," he answered sadly.

"It tore my heart that night, your singing." The words fell slowly. "I knew that these kind people had something I had not. They had learned the lesson. But I, in my ignorance, could not see how one could learn to kiss one's cross."

"Ah!" she answered gently. "I knew that something was hurting you that night. Otherwise"—

"Otherwise I should not have been so unspeakably brutal to you?" he interrupted forcefully. "You are generous to find an excuse for me. But that is not true. A man such as I was is apt to do such things, Mrs. Gilbert."

"A man such as you are is apt to be too harsh with himself, Mr. McAdoo. And"—she could not help the hint of pride in her voice—"I have heard fine things of you. You have learned to kiss the cross, I think."

Again he shook his head. "I fear not. I have not grown so far yet. And"—his voice was losing its steadiness—"seeing you here, I—I realize how heavy my cross has become."

He had need of all his strength to repress the words that flooded to his lips. His body became rigid with the effort. Yet his eyes, eloquent and compelling, held hers, crying out that she was his—his! Her own, helpless to deny him, answered. And she knew that it was true, that from the very beginning of things the force which had so strangely brought them together had intended them to be of one piece. He might cruelly hurt her—he had cruelly hurt her—yet she could not free herself from the bond that held them, could never desire release. For so do strong men and women love.

Yet between them stood the barrier that could not be ignored. Fearing, she summoned her defenses against the love that was overcoming.

"Mr. McAdoo, have you heard from him?"

He passed his hand in a hopeless gesture across his eyes. "I had forgotten that. I have heard nothing. I have no hope of finding him. I'm afraid something has happened"—

"No, no! You mustn't say that. We mustn't lose hope of finding him and saving him from himself. Surely, surely nothing can have happened."

He shook his head hopelessly, answering nothing. To both of them in that moment the bitter cup seemed overflowing. Their eyes at last turned away, each fearing to look upon the other's suffering.

"Shall we go up to him?" she said. "He wants to see you before he dies. He is waiting for you."

"Yes, I—I had forgotten why I am here."

Together, in silence, they mounted the stairs to the chamber of death.

That night William Murchell died.

And Robert McAdoo reigned in his stead.

WESTFIELD FORFEITS TO HIGH BRIDGE TEAM

There was no game Saturday between Westfield and High Bridge at the former place and the stories regarding the reason are at variance. Umprie Dalley, however, gave the game to High Bridge on a forfeit, as when its players arrived on the scene the Westfield players were filing out of the gate and in reply to a question said that the contest was called off because the visitors were late in arriving. It was before 3:30 the scheduled time. The Westfield manager could not be found for an explanation so the forfeit was declared.

It was stated in Westfield this morning that the game had been called off by mutual consent because of the small attendance and the cold weather. This story does not agree with that told by the High Bridge players who saw a part of the contest here between Somerville and Plainfield.

ever, was to take three swings. Then come a bit of big league stuff by Kleinow. Piel jumped one to short and Kleinow jumped in front of Martin just as Jack was ready to trap it Hence the error for Jack. It was no use, however, for Mac picked Clinton's bouncer one handed with ease, facility and grace. Although Bailey and Mac both drove hard to left in Plainfield's half there was nothing doing at the plate as Harter and Crist went out on flies and Fisher dribbled one to Jordan.

A fast turned double by Mac, Martin and Bailey and a beautiful catch by Stallings was the action in Somerville's half of the sixth. Clinton was replaced by Coakley whose first act was to pass Martin. Stallings went out, Swanson to Jordan, Jock making second and scoring when Hartman smashed a double to left. Lou then stole third and died there as Coggy poped to Piel and Harter fanned.

Seymour and Kleinow each made a single in the next and it looked like the unlucky seventh, but Jordan blew to Cosgrove, Brown fanned for the third time and Piel went down, Hartman to Bailey. More relief and sighs, but a decided chilly feeling, for the sun had gone down and left the wind in command. Although Andy gave another pass and allowed another hit in Plainfield's half there was no scoring.

With two down in the eighth Hartman made a bad throw of Swanson's grounder and this error cost the one run scored by Somerville, for Wolff, next up, made his usual long clout of every game. It was a whole of a drive to centre, food for two cushions, scoring Swanson. Jordan drove inside the first bag as next up and was thrown out by Bailey, Mac covering first for the throw. The Pets went out in order and did not bat in the ninth. Three visitors tried to. Seymour, Kleinow and Brown. All were retired by the whiff route, Cy for the second time.

NAIRN DEFEAT PLAINFIELD IN A SOCCER CONTEST.

The Plainfield Association Football Club was defeated by the Nairn A. A. at Kearney, Saturday afternoon by a score of 2 to 1. The Plainfield boys were not in the best of condition, while their opponents put up a strong game in both halves. The Eagles defeated the Elizabeth United by a score of 4 to 3. The Plainfield team lined up as follows: Goal, McNeice; backs, Somers, Craig; halfbacks, Kenny, Zacheiss, McComb; forwards, Heneghan, Spalding, Crawford, Sutton and Buckland.

NO GROUND FOR KICK SAYS MGR. DORFLINGER

When seen yesterday Manager Dorflinger, of the Plainfield team, said that he felt satisfied with the result of Saturday's game here and that the kicks made by some of the Somerville fans to the effect that they had been robbed were most unjust and unsportsmanlike. When asked regarding the contest he said that it is very doubtful if it will ever be played as there is nothing to play it for because the result cannot possibly affect the winning of the Central New Jersey League pennant. A meeting of the league managers will be held Wednesday night to wind up all league business.

Herbert LeRoy Schenck.

Herbert LeRoy Schenck, aged 20 years, son of former Judge Louis H. Schenck, of Somerville, died on Wednesday of tuberculosis. He was a young man of much promise and every effort was made to save his life. He was stricken two years ago and for a time was an inmate of the sanitarium at Glen Gardner.

GRAND OPENING

A Universal Invitation

THIS IS FALL OPENING WEEK AT THE PEOPLES STORE

It is with great pride and pleasure that we are extending a very cordial invitation to the general public and to the men and women of this city and vicinity in particular, to call and examine our excellent display of beautiful and stunning Fall and Winter Garments for Men, Women and Children.

Our Most Phenomenal Success

In making popular priced clothing for the whole family, is largely due to the fact that we produce only serviceable and conservative styles. Here you get one hundred cents' worth of clothing for $1.00. This season we are positively offering better values than ever before. Many of the garments we are selling at $12.50 and $15.98 are priced elsewhere at $20.00 and $25.00.

It gives us great pleasure to state that we are better able to serve you now that ever before. For the past nine years we have been located on the upper floor of this building, and have from time to time enlarged our store in response to the demand of the thrifty shoppers of Plainfield. In the year just past, which has been a most successful one for us, our business has taken another leap forward, and keeping pace, we have not only enlarged our quarters once more, but have added to the convenience of our patrons by concentrating our entire business in the ground floor store at this address, having built a very large addition to the rear of the present store, entirely discontinuing the former second floor. The result is, NO STAIRS TO CLIMB. Instead, A STEP FROM THE SIDEWALK brings you into our store, the largest, brightest and finest of its kind in the city of Plainfield.

CONFIRM STILLMAN

Mayor's Appointment For Corporation Counsel Approved by Common Council.

IS TO TAKE OFFICE AT ONCE.

Confirmation Unanimous—City Fathers Much Pleased With Mr. Moy's Selection—Succeeds Late Craig A. Marsh.

William M. Stillman is now corporation counsel of Plainfield, the Common Council, at its October meeting, last night, confirming the appointment, which was made by Mayor G. W. V. Moy. All of the members promptly voted to confirm the appointment and there were no comments. This action was exclusively foretold in The Daily Press. Mr. Stillman suceeds the late Craig A. Marsh, who died about a year ago. His appointment, judging by the comments heard about the city, meets with general approval.

Mr. Stillman has been a resident of Plainfield all his life and as already stated, has kept in close touch with affairs pertaining to the city government. He is said to be particularly well qualified for the position because of his intimate knowledge of local affairs. He is about the oldest practitioner in the city and is said to be well posted in corporation laws. Mr. Stillman will immediately take the oath of office and enter upon the duties of his new position.

After the Council meeting last night there appeared to be much satisfaction on the part of the councilmen over the fact that the city now has a corporation counsel and the appointment was generally considered a most excellent one for the interest of the city.

ENGINEER TO GET $50 A DAY FOR HIS WORK

James H. Fuertes, the engineer, who was engaged by the Common Council to make an extensive investigation of water conditions here, and who afterward prepared an elaborate report on the subject, was engaged at the October meeting of the Council, last night, as an associate of Albert C. Wall, the attorney, who has been retained to conduct the condemnation proceedings with a view to acquiring a municipal water plant. This action was taken through a resolution offered by Councilman F. E. Mygatt, who first explained the matter, and afterward presented a letter from Mr. Fuertes.

Mr. Fuertes stated that he would be glad to prepare the engineering data required for the condemnation proceedings, and suggested that his pay be on a per diem basis with the understanding that his services could be terminated at the will of the Council. He agreed to take up the work for $50 a day and expenses, the same to be paid monthly. The expenses referred to include traveling and those for assistants as he may require help.

Mr. Fuertes assured the Council that he would perform his work in a thoroughly concientious and satisfactory manner.

Following the reading of the letter, Mr. Mygat moved that Mr. Fuertes be engaged in accordance with the terms as set forth in his letter. Mr. Holt said that while he was opposed to the condemnation proceedings on general principles, he would vote in favor of Mr. Mygatt's motion, because he believed that the services of a competent engineer would be required for the work. The motion prevailed.

Mr. Fuertes was paid $5,000 by the Common Council for his report on the water investigation.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR WARREN CHOIR MEMBER.

Charles D. Wheeler, of Stone street, was given a birthday surprise at his home last night by the choir of Warren chapel, of which he is a member, and the evening proved one of pleasure and profit. Twenty-five members of the choir and a few friends were present. During the evening, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, on behalf of the company, presented Mr. Wheeler with a silk umbrella, the appreciation for which was expressed in a few words.

The rest of the evening was devoted to games, music and refreshments. Mr. Wheeler was organist at Warren chapel for nineteen years, resigning three years ago. Since then he has been a member of the chapel choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, organist.

PARTY PLATFORMS

Republicans and Democrats Frame Their State Resolutions at Trenton Today.

REGULATED BY GERAN LAW.

Carlton Pierce Objects to One Plank of G. O. P. Platform—Gov. Wilson Controls the Democratic Convention.

United States Senator Frank O. Briggs called the Republican State convention to order in Trenton at 12 o'clock today, and State Senator John D. Prince, of Passaic, was made temporary chairman. The convention was in session about ten minutes, when an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock, to allow time for the preparation of the platform to be presented later. The four progressive candidates from Hudson county, led by Edward A. Ransom, it was stated, would make strong efforts to secure radical progressive ideas incorporated in the platform.

The committee had prepared a tentative platform, but it was the belief that there would be a lively discussion over that plank which calls for the abolishment of grade crossings. The committee is anxious to incorporate such plank in the platform, pledging the party to the abolishment of "dangerous" grade crossings, but there is said to be strong opposition to the plan.

Mr. Pierce, the Republican candidate for Senator in Union county, refuses to agree to any such plank, and threatens to carry the fight right to the floor of the convention. He demands a plank for the abolishment of all grade crossings, because he contends the insertion of the word "dangerous" is in the nature of a straddle, as the courts of New Jersey have decided that a six-track railroad is not a dangerous crossing.

Among the familiar faces seen about the convention hall during the day were those of County Chairman Frank H. Smith and George L. Babcock, the Assembly candidate from this city.

The most important fact which developed at the Democratic State convention which convened at noon today in Masonic Temple Hall, Trenton, was that Governor Woorow Wilson was in complete control, having the united support of all the delegates with the exception of the twelve Assemblymen from Essex county. They are under the influence of the Nugent faction and can be depended upon to oppose the Wilson forces.

The convention was called to order at 12 o'clock by Edward Grosscup, chairman of the State Democratic committee. Senator Edward Osborn, of Newark, was made temporary chairman, and William Devereaux was made secretary. Immediately afterward it was learned that Governor Wilson had the complete support of the delegates, with the exception of Essex.

Governor Wilson was made chairman of the platform committee, comprising one representative from each county in the State. Robert H. McAdams was named as the Union county representative on the committee, and Assemblyman George LaMont was chosen as a member from Somerset county. After the temporary organization was effected, adjournment was taken until 2:30 o'clock, to prepare the platform to be presented this afternoon. Governor Wilson held a conference with about fifty delegates during the morning to discuss features that it was thought should be incorporated in the platform, but nothing definite was decided upon at the conference. There appears to be harmony among the Democrats and no opposition to the regular program is anticipated when the convention re-assembles this afternoon.

United States Senator James E. Martine and LeRoy J. Ellis, president of the Plainfield Democratic Club, were among the familiar figures about the State Capitol and at the convention hall.

Co. K to Resume Drills.

Captain Harry B. Kitchell, of Co. K, announces that drills will be resumed at the armory on West Front street, Monday night, October 9, and thereafter will be held every Monday night throughout the winter months. The assembly will be at 8:15 sharp. The olive drab service uniform will be worn. PARENTS OF TRUANTS ARRAIGNED IN COURT.

Joseph Najack, of Johnson avenue, was ararigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning on complaint of Miss Ball, who complained that he did not send his fifteen-year-old daughter to school regularly. The parent said that it was necessary to keep the girl home to attend the smaller children while his wife goes out working. Judge DeMeza told him to have the little ones sent to the day nursery when their mother is away from home and to send the older girl to school. This he promised to do and sentence was suspended.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Suydam, of Muhlenberg place, was arraigned on the same charge and said that in the future she would send her children to school after being threatened with a jail sentence if she did not. She was inclined to resent the "interference" of the court and Miss Ball in the matter and the jail threat was necessary to make her respect the law.

PLAINFIELD'S WATER IS ABSOLUTELY PURE

That Plainfield's water supply is absolutely pure and that the typhoid fever cases here were in no wise due to it is amply demonstrated in the reports of three analyses made by Herbert B. Baldwin, chemist of the department of public health in Newark. Mr. Baldwin examined three samples of Plainfield water on September 22.

A score of other tests were made by the State Board of Health during the last month, and in each instance "B. coli communis" was found to be absent.

Here is Mr. Baldwin's report on three successive tests:

(Results expressed in parts per million. To obtain grains per gallon, multiply by .0583).

Odor, none, none, none; turbidity, none, none, none; color (platinum standard), none, none, none; nitrogen as free ammonia, .006, trace, trace; nitrogen as albuminoid ammonia, .008, trace, trace; nitrogen as nitrites, trace, none, none; nitrogen as nitrates, 1.1, 1.3, 1.1; chlorine, 6.5, 6.5, 6.5; temporary hardness (alkalinity equivalent to carbonate of lime), 118., 117., 118.; total solids (residue on evaporation), 200., 183., 202.; loss on ignition of residue, 35., 35., 45.; fixed mineral matter, 165., 148., 157.

Bacteriological Examination—Fermentations in lactose bile, ten tubes 1 c. c. water in each: Positive (indicating B. Coli), 0, 0, 0; negative, 10, 10, 10; red colonies in litmus agar, 0, 0, 0; bacteria per C. C.: 24 hours at 37°C. 3, 2, 4; 48 hours at 20°C, 8, 5, 9.

Both chemical and bacteriological data on these samples show the water to be of an unusualy good quality, from a sanitary point of view. Colon bacilli are absent and the few bacteria present have no other significance than a very low bacterial count.

CAN'T FIND PARENTS OF ABANDONED BABE

All efforts to learn the parentage of the abandoned baby left on the porch of Ralph de Matthews' home on East Fourth street, Saturday night have been futile and the infant is in charge of the matron at the Industrial Home pending its admission to the State Home for Children. The police ran down several clues in an endeavor to learn the parents' identity without success.

Mr. Matthews furnished the first which led to the others. His wife has a child about two months old and he was approached by a man last week who asked if they did not want to take another baby. This man was found yesterday and he gave the police the other clues, one of which led to a local doctor who had a patient with an infant which she was unable to properly nurse. Upon locating this woman it was found that she still has her baby and intends keeping it.

EXPOSITION OPENS

Mayor Moy Touches the Button and the Spectators do the Rest at Show.

MARTINE TO SPEAK TONIGHT.

City Executive Proud That Plainfield Has a United States Senator to Address His Fellow-Townsmen On This Occasion.

The Industrial Exposition was informally opened last night. The weather conditions were far from favorable and the attendance was not as large as expected or as the show deserves, but it is believed that when the formal opening takes place this evening the grounds will be thronged with visitors. Mayor Moy pushed the button last night illuminating the grounds and the spectators were impressed with the display.

Geo. H. Babcock, president of the Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the exposition is being given, made a brief address in which he told of the feeling of the chamber on the proopsition which is to the effect that such an affair was advisable and voiced the hope that the public would show its appreciation by making the exposition the success he considers it is entitled to and by so doing to materially benefit the business men and interests of the city to no small extent.

Mayor Moy said that New Jersey has but two senators and Plainfield is the home of one of them—Senator James E. Martine—who would be the speaker at tonight's formal opening. The city executive declared that a large audience should greet Senator Martine as a testimonial if for no other reason. There were other reasons he explained, and proceeded to compliment the Chamber of Commerce on the spirit of progressiveness in undertaking such an exhibition and he asserted that he felt sure it would prive to be a benefit if the public would embrace the opportunity put within reach through the efforts made in bringing the show to this city.

The "Commuters' Day" automobile parade tomorrow promises to be more gratifying in its results than was at first expected. Entries have been received from Somerville, Bound Brook, Westfield, Cranford and other places which augurs well for a fine display of machines. F. L. C. Martin has been appointed grand marshal and thinks that the parade will equal any event of like nature held in this State. The line will form at Watchung and Crescent avenues at 3 o'clock and will move through the principal streets of the city.

CRYSTAL WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. DUFFORD.

The fifteenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Dufford, of West Front street, was commemorated at their home Saturday night.

A Birthday Surprise.

A surprise birthday party was given Mrs. Benjamin Todd at her home on Watchung avenue last night by about thirty friends and neighbors. She received a number of presents, including a gold watch from her husband and two sons, William and John, and a number of pieces of cut glass. The evening was pleasantly passed with musical selections and games, after which refreshments were served.

ANOTHER EXTENSION FOR OVERSEER; ONLY A 'PHONE, HOWEVER, THIS TIME

A controversy which occurred at last night's meeting of the Common Council bears proof to the statement that little things sometimes sharpen the wits of solons and produce a fund of sub-conscious humor. Councilman Montgomery called the attention of the city fathers to the fact that Overseer-of-the Poor Alex Ayers needed a telephone in his office and immediately everyone began to think of something to say, facetiousness predominating, of course. Most everybody knows that the overseer has been hanging on to his job with one hand and keeping his ear to the ground since the first of the year, consequently there was plenty of opportunity.

Mr. Montgomery, who is chairman of the alms committee, was positive the overseer should have a 'phone in his office. Mr. Mygatt retorted that the city already has its limit from the company and suggested that the overseer should be given a key to the committe room, where there is one he would be safe in using. Mr. Montgomery did not take to the idea but replied it might be all right to run an extension into the poormaster's sanctum.

"Quite the right thing," declared Councilman Buxton, "and I move you that the extension be made from the mayor's 'phone."

No one need be told what great love the bartender has for the cash register, likewise it was unnecessary to have Mr. Buxton's remark analyzed. The chairman of the alms committee comes from a peace-loving family and looked aggrieved. Another city father whispered to a colleague that the 'phone company could come back at the city for damaged apparatus, while still another breathed aloud that Mr. Ayers had so many extensions in his official career since January 1, the very suggestion was odious to him.

The vein of humor played out in the end and the overseer will have an extension, but it wont be on the same wire with the mayor's office.

It is to cost fifty cents a month and the amount will be more than refunded to the taxpayers in the saving of Mr. Ayers' time.

STORING GASOLENE

Standard Oil Wants City to Let It Store 40,000 Gallons Above Ground Here.

ACTION IS AGAIN POSTPONED.

Councilmen Holt and Montgomery Do Wholesome and Effective Work In Preventing Permission Being Granted.

The attempt on the part of Councilman Duncan W. Taylor to settle the question as to whether the Standard Oil Company shall be given permission to erect large tanks in the city for the storage of gasolene and kerosene, provoked considerable discussion at the October meeting of the Common Council last night. The amendment to the building code, which was previously introduced and later vetoed by Mayor G. W. V. Moy, was called up by Mr. Taylor with a view of disposing of the matter. After much discussion, it was finally decided to hold the matter up until the meeting on October 16.

Mr. Taylor explained that the amendment if passed, would permit the storage of more than 250 gallons of gasolene or kerosene in tanks above ground, although it would not necessarily mean that such a permit would be given. It would still require a company or individual making such application to file plans, etc., acquainting the Council with what they proposed to do. Personally, he said he favored the amendment and he moved that it be passed notwithstanding the objections of Mayor Moy.

Replying to Mr. Taylor, Mr. Holt said that while he voted for the change in the code before he now believed that the Council should go slow in the matter. Before the original section of the ordinance was adopted information concerning restrictions in other cities was obtained to guide the committee in its work. Now it was proposed to allow a company to erect a tank for the storage of 40,000 gallons of gasolene above ground. In the opinion of Mr. Holt the proposed action was unwise for it meant going back on the action of last year. He then stated that he intended standing by the original ordinance. Beside, he was not sure that it would not be dangerous to permit the provisions of the amended ordinance to be carried out as planned, it might be very dangerous and he did not propose to take any chances.

Mr. Montgomery said that he had heard that the Standard Oil Company planned to plce the proposed tank in the Second ward, and he wanted to sy that it was not wanted in that ward.

The discussion brought out the fact that the present tank of the company on East Fourth street is underground, but the representative of the company who was present, in answer ot questions said that he had never heard of such a tank as was proposed to be erected, being placed underground, and he said that there is not a city in the State that had imposed such restrictions. He declared that the tank proposed would be twenty feet in diameter and twenty feet high.

It was further stated by the company's agent that the "S. O." has such tanks in possibly seventy-five cities in the State, and those in Newark, Jersey City, Camden and New Brunswick are of the size proposed to be erected in Plainfield. In none of those cities are the tanks underground. He thought that the provision to erect a concrete wall around the tank would prove an ample safeguard from all possible danger. He said that the company's tank at the foot of Third street in Newark is much larger than the one planned for this city, and that is above ground.

Mr. Holt again speaking on the subject, remarked that he knew of no section of the city that would not eventually build up and if the Council should now permit the erection of such a large tank there might be reason to regret it later on. Mr. Mygatt questioned the representative of the company, bringing out some interesting points, and finally, when it was learned that there was no hurry about the matter at Mr. Mygatt's suggestion, the ordinance was held up until the next meeting, which will be on October 16.

Rally Day and Opening.

DOUBLE THE FORCE

Twenty-Five More Policemen to be Put on Duty to End Burglary Wave.

TO ADVERTISE FOR MORE MEN.

Chairman Randolph's Resolution Adopted By City Fathers On Request of Police Board.

In view of the numerous burglaries committed in the city of late, the Common Council at the October meeting last night, voted to engage twenty-five special policemen for regular duty at once. The matter was discussed at a meeting of the police board prior to the Council session, and Councilman C. C. Randolph, chairman of the board, was instructed to offer a resolution at the Council session, which it is hoped will bring about the desired result.

The resolution carries with it the provision that the police board advertise for men who are capable of doing police duty, and advertisements for that purpose will be inserted in The Daily Press and the Courier-News. While the board places the number at twenty-five, it may decide to use that many men. The object is to give all parts of the city proper protection. At the present time the police department consists of twenty-three men doing regular duty.

Independent of the above action, Mayor G. W. V. Moy earlier in the evening appointed William H. Smith and Fred A. Kiederling as special policemen. They were confirmed, as was also Alexander Meile, who was appointed at a previous meeting by Mayor Moy. They will go into service at once.

DUNELLENITES OBJECT TO SEWAGE ADDITION

At a regular meeting of the Dunellen Council last night, a vigorous protest was made by the local Board of Trade and Board of Health against Plainfield's proposed enlargement of its Rock avenue sewage beds. In petition form, the organizations asked that the State Board of Health be called upon to heed the plea of the borough citizens and refuse permission to the city to make any additions to the plant. A resolution to this effect was passed and will be forwarded to the State health officials with the request that a date be set when the Dunellen sewage commission could be given a hearing to properly present the grievances of the people. The town is unanimous in its objection to an increase of area at the plant on the ground that the beds are already a detriment to health and should not be made worse.

Councilman Charles E. Richards tendered his resignation as president of the body, owing to the fact that he is a candidate for mayor, and C. B. Berkheiser was elected to fill the vacancy. The matter of painting the borough fire tower, which has been under consideration for some time, was again taken up and the clerk was authorized to ask for bids. The matter of lowering the floor of the fire house and substituting concrete for wood was referred to the fire and water committee. Mayor Sandford and Councilman F. H. Gise were not at the meeting.

Elizabeth, Oct. 3.—In accordance with the request of the city attorney at the last meeting of Council that he be empowered to act against the grade crossings of the city, he was last night authorized by the Council to secure the evidence necessary to present the matter to the Public Utilities Commission. The police force of the city will be used to secure the necessary evidence. In view of the recent good feling between the city and the railroad, however, it was decided to notify the railroad of the contemplated action of the city, and before any action was taken ask the railroad to submit plans of any improvements it expects to make in the grade crossings of the city.

On the recommendation of the street lighting committee it was decided to place one light on each trolley pole, thirty-eight in all, between Elizabeth avenue and the Broad street arch, when the Broad Street Merchants' Association have deposited the necessary two-thirds of the year's cost in the city treasury. This is about one-half of the number at first proposed. This places the matter up to the merchants' association.

It is expected that the money will be paid in at once, however, and the Public Service Railway Company will at once start the erection of the lights. It is expected the lights will be turned on November 1. The lights will be erected under the city's contract with the lighting company. The reduction of the lights is a matter of economy for the merchants.

President Nugent announced the following appointments: To fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Frank Engel, councilman from the Ninth Ward, George Schlotterer, to the school estimate committee; Dr. Otto Wagner, to the finance committee, and Frederick Reike, to the street railway and railroad committee.

Council passed on third reading the bond issue for $60,000 for the two new firehouses. The bonds will be advertised in the near future. The bond issue for the proposed $500,000 for street paving will be put before the voters at the next election.

The city surveyor's office asked that it be supplied with an automobile. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

An ordinance directing the street commissioner to publish notice of intention to close the balance of Isham place was passed on its second reading. This affects the 125 feet from Second street to the Singer Manufacturing Company's plant.

LITERARY.

The October issue of Physical Culture, in addition to its usual number of contributions dealing with exercise, diet and other means toward health-building, includes much information of particular value in the household. An especially notable article in this number is "Need Motherhood Prove an Ordeal," which relates the experiences of a wife and mother with her first-born in a manner as uncommon as it is enlightening.

Why is the soda cracker to-day such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

To-day there is a soda cracker which is the recognized staple — Uneeda Biscuit.

Uneeda Biscuit are the most nutritious food made from flour and should be eaten every day by every member of the family from the youngest to the oldest.

Uneeda Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package.

TENNIS.

TRENTON DISLIKES COMMISSION RULE

Trenton, Oct. 3.—Friction between the members of Trenton's new city commission, which has been in control of municipal affairs for just six weeks, resulted in an open break at yesterday's meeting, in which Mayor F. W. Donnelly charged his associates with being influenced by improper motives, and two of the other commissioners replied in kind to the Mayor.

The trouble, which has been brewing almost since the day that the commission took hold of the reins of government, reached a climax when the commission yesterday decided to re-elect temporarily City Treasurer Harry E. Evans, City Clerk Harry B. Salter and City Comptroller E. W. Lee, the latter one of the five commissioners. The fact had been brought home to the commissioners that the radical changes which they had promised to make in the city government could not be accomplished as easily as they had at first expected. In fact, it was admitted that to dispense with the services of the three officials involved might lead to serious complications.

The action of the commission displeased Mayor Donnelly, who took the opportunity to denounce secret conferences, such as had been held by the commission, as inimicable to good government. He said it was plain that the work of degenerate politicians had been influencing the control of the city's affairs.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The tennis tournament will be played on the Netherwood and P. H. S. courts. The entries will be closed October 3, and play will be begun the next day. It has been decided to present silver cups to the winners of both the boys and girls singles. Bronze medals will be awarded to the winners of the doubles and mixed doubles.

Manager Phillips is completing his schedule. He is trying to arrange a game for Saturday afternoon with Princeton Prep at Parker Field.

THE FORUM.

THE WATER PROBLEM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I have read the letters of Messrs. Runyon and Sebring recently published on the water question in the borough, and find them full of that kind of information which it is easy to get and dangerous to rely on.

Mr. Sebring mentions the quarterly, not yearly, rates that prevail in Hackettstown, but does not tell us whether the water is supplied there by pumping, or gravity, a matter of considerable importance in passing judgment on the question he raises, nor does he tell us whether the works are self-supporting, or whether an annual deficit is made up by the taxpayers. It is strange how much advocates of municipal ownership depend on rumor and fragments of information, and how little use they have for the results of careful investigation.

In my former letter I referred to the experience of Madison, which for about twenty years has operated a water and electric light plant jointly. There has been a great deal of nonsense circulated about it, but the truth is beginning to emerge. It seems that the joint enterprise is not satisfactory, to the taxpayers at least. Some think the trouble is with the electric end, and some think differently. But the taxpayers seem to be tired of the whole thing. About a year ago a demand arose for gas in Madison. The advocates of municipal ownership, who are not disturbed by facts nor daunted by experience, insisted that a municipal gas plant should be installed. The matter was discussed vigorously at several public meetings, and then the question was submitted to a popular vote at a special election. The advocates of the municipal plant lashed the town into a great state of excitement, but when the time came to vote the taxpayers quietly went to the polls and voted the proposition down by 391 to 207, nearly two to one. This I suppose is a reliable verdict on municipal trading by a community that has been in the business for twenty years. Still, I have no doubt that one can still find in Madison any kind of information he is looking for on the subject.

But we are told that water differs from gas and electricity; that municipal water-works will pay no matter how small the town is, and it does not make any difference whether or not a company is already in possession of all the business and is supplying eight or nine other towns besides. It is not necessary to go as far as Hackettstown to get some information on this point.

Several years ago a committee of citizens of Westfield were appointed to consider the same question that Mr. Runyon's committee decided so easily. They spent four months in making an elaborate investigation, and then made a report of which I have a copy. At the beginning of their report they made the following candid statement:

"At the commencement of its deliberation, this committee was unanimously in favor of municipal ownership, if under the circumstances of our case it should seem feasible. As the investigation progressed, however, it was found that the sentiment in favor of a municipal plant was largely only a sentiment, and it was not strengthened into conviction by the facts as they developed from time to time."

The conclusions reached by the committee are as follows:

'It is impracticable and inexpedient at the present time for the township of Westfield to install its water supply or distributing plant.

"There is no adequate benefit or improvement to be attained thereby in return for the very great expenditure involved.

"The present water supply of Westfield compares favorably in all material particulars with the supply of other towns of less than 15,000 population.

"The financial results attained by other municipal plants are not, on the average, sufficiently favorable to encourage municipal ownership in Westfield, if it is to be undertaken as a paying venture."

The committee also stated in their report that they had addressed inquiries to nearly fifty municipalities similar to Westfield, in New Jersey, New York and Massachusetts, and then said:

"No towns could be found where the municipal works were in competition with private suppliers. The replies received to these inquiries, showed, moreover, that the financial results obtained by municipal plants were not, on the whole, encouraging. A number of them showed actual deficits; many of the others had a revenue just about equal to the disbursements. Where profits were shown the amount of the same was not in any case enough to indicate that municipal ownership was attended with a safe margin to guard against a deficit, which would be required to be raised by taxation."

I may add that Westfield has recently made a contract with the water company for a supply of water from Netherwood for thirty years.

During the past few years the city of Plainfield has spent, it is said, ten or twelve thousand dollars in making investigations of the same subject, with expert assistance. The results are (1) that the people should not expect to get water under municipal ownership at lower rates than now prevail, and (2) that the cost of a municipal plant for the city would be from $714,000 to $1,531,000. These, it should be remembered, are mere estimates, to which every prudent man would add from thirty to fifty per cent. Yet these estimates are twice as much as a first-class plant would cost, according to the predictions of the cartail orators.

Those who are really looking for the truth might also learn something from Cranford, where about a year ago, in a moment of enthusiasm, the people voted $4,000 to begin a municipal water plant. The "engineers" have got the money already. All work has been abandoned, and a thick silence covers the remains of the business.

There are other important features of this matter that do not appear to have occurred to Mr. Runyon and his committee, but this letter is long enough for today.

L. B. WOOLSTON.

TO ENTERTAIN MISSIONARY UNION OF NEWARK CLASSIS.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, at its October meeting, yesterday, discussed plans for entertaining the Missionary Union of the Classis of Newark at its one-day session to be held in Trinity Reformed church, Tuesday, October 31, morning and afternoon. Both reception and entertainment committees were appointed by the president, Mrs. Edward T. VanWinkle, from among the membership of the Ladies' Christian Work Society and the Young Women's Mission Band. Luncheon will be served at noon on the day of the meeting.

The members also turned in their dollars as the September offering, taking the place of the peach festival, which was given up. In this way $45 was received and a number of members are yet to be heard from. The officers and members are much pleased with the result of the plan. There was a large attendance of members at yesterday's meeting and much enthusiasm was evidenced in the fall and winter work.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's German Lutheran church will hold its next monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Leinan, 118 Dunellen avenue, Dunellen.

PHTHISIS HOSPITAL BIDS ARE TOO HIGH

When the committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders in charge of the erection of the county tuberculosis hospital back of Scotch Plains met yesterday at the Courthouse, Elizabeth, to consider the bids submitted last week, those received for the power plant were rejected entirely and the two lowest for the main buildings will be returned with a set of modified plans in which the wings of the building will be eliminated and other features eliminated so that the structure may be erected within the appropriation made by the Board of Freeholders. C. W. Oakley, of Elizabeth, is the architect. M. Byrnes, of that city, and Metzgar & Wells, of Philadelphia, were the lowest bidders. It is thought that with the altered plans these two can submit bids not above the amount appropriated. The heating plant will be entirely changed and all new bids advertised for.

Orders a Recount.

On the application of Raymond T. Parrott, attorney for John H. Doremus and Donald H. McLean, attorney for Charles Clark, Justice Bergen issued an order directing the recount of the votes cast at the last primary election in Union Township for county committeeman on the Republican ticket. Each petitioner received 47 votes and the law seems to make no provision for the selection of a candidate in case of a tie.

Home From Western Trip.

Michael L. Griffin, of Spooner avenue, returned home yesterday after a delightful three weeks' western trip. Most of the time was spent in Colorado, where he visited Denver, Colorado Springs, Cripple Creek and other points of interest. He also stopped at Chicago and Washington on the return trip.

Held For Grand Jury.

James Lindzey, of Dunellen, was arrested at that place yesterday on a charge of atrocious assault preferred by Mrs. Catherine Brant and taken to New Brunswick, where he was arraigned before Justice Housell, who held Lindzey for the action of the Middlesex Grand Jury.

Funeral of Mrs. Kate Yeomans.

The funeral services and interment of Mrs. Kate Yeomans, wife of the late David Yeomans, who died at her residence, 303 Leland avenue, yesterday, will take place at Cosackie, N. Y., on Thursday.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Pilgrim church, West Sixth and New streets, with preaching by Rev. N. H. Nyrap, of Brooklyn.

RAILROAD TAX FOR SCHOOL EDUCATION

In accordance with the new law which was passed by the State Legislature last winter requiring all of the railroad money collected by September 15th, annually to be paid to the school districts of the county instead of April 15th, as heretofore, County Superintendent Savitz paid on Friday, September 29th, the following amounts to the various school districts:

Clark	$ 203.79
Cranford	3,795.00
Elizabeth	44,553.71
Fanwood	1,424.28
Garwood	993.47
Kenilworth	911.15
Linden	2,051.90
Mountainside	229.99
New Providence Borough	891.85
New Providence T'w'ship	708.94
Plainfield	17,385.89
Rahway	8,350.65
Roselle	3,206.14

Springfield	1,398.77
Summit	4,773.95
Union	2,956.57

Total	$104,466.09

This sum is about sixty per cent of the total "railroad tax" apportioned to Union county. The balance will be paid to the districts on April 15.

Dry Cleaning

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

ROUTINE MATTERS IN COMMON COUNCIL

Considerable business of a routine nature was considered at the October meeting of the Common Council, last night. All of the members, including John E. Dunn, who has been absent most of the year because of illness, were present. Prior to taking up the regular order of business, there was a public hearing on the ordinance to establish side lines on West Seventh street, near Monroe avenue. The ordinance was finally adopted.

George W. Cole communicated with the Council relative to a piece of property at 1309-1315 West Front street, in which he is financially interested, with a view to securing the same. He holds a mortgage for $500 on the property and stated that the taxes have not been paid since 1900. They amount to $475. Mr. Cole offered $250 for all claims, provided the city will give him a quit claim deed. The matter was referred.

George L. Babcock and others petitioned for an arc light at West Front street and Madison avenue. This was referred.

Overseer-of- the-Poor A. D. Ayers reported expenses for the past month to be $223.25. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court, reported monthly receipts of $131.56 and expenditures of $39.54. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of sixteen permits, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported that he had granted twenty-four sewer permits during September. Resolutions offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, provided for the borrowing of $1,000 for sewer extension work and $3,000 for the fire fund. In the case of the latter a three months' note will be executed in the usual way.

Mr. Gloak offered a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that the Union County Board of Freeholders be requested to take over South avenue, between Terrill road and Richmond street, as a county road. This is part of the county road, but the county has never taken care of that particular section.

Another resolution by Mr. Gloak, which was adopted, authorized the sewer committee to engage George W. Fuller, sanitary engineer, to draft plans for the improvement of the local sewage beds with a view to taking care of the increase flow of sewage. He is to be paid $750, but if his plans are adopted that sum is to become a part of the engineer's regular fees.

George J. Tobin was awarded the contract for installing a heater at fire headquarters for the sum of $261, on motion of Councilman Duncan W. Taylor.

Mr. Gloak offered several ordinances pertaining to street work, which were adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. One provided for changing the grade on South Second street, near Clinton avenue. Another provided that leaves can be burned during the forenoon, but that all debris left from such a fire must be removed within twelve hours of daylight after the restricted hours. Another ordinance calls for the opening up and laying out of St. Mary's avenue, between Jackson avenue and Berckman street. Public hearings will be granted on all these ordinances on Monday night, November 6, when any person will have an opportunity to speak for or against their final adoption.

Mr. Gloak also offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the Court of Common Pleas shall, on October 8, appoint three commissioners for the purpose of assessing benefits in the matter of street macadamizing. This is all new work. A large number of streets were improved some time ago and the street committee is now anxious to have the assessments levied and paid. The Council decided to hold an adjourned session on Monday night, October 16, when Mr. Gloak desires to bring up some addition al matters pertaining to street work.

DISPUTE HORSE OWNERSHIP.

Roselle Park, Oct. 3.—Samuel Black, a contractor, of Roselle Park, believes that he has located one of the horses of the team stolen from his stables last March. He went to the Bull's Head stables in Newark Saturday afternoon with County Detective John A. Gallatian and picked out a bay horse which he says belongs to him.

The identity of the animal is disputed by Thomas Noy, proprietor of the stables.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nughton, of East Seventh street, have gone to Norfolk, Va., for a two weeks' visit.

—Don't forget our job dep't.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB HEARS RECITAL

The Monday Afternoon Club resumed its meetings for the fall and winter yesterday afternoon at the Hartridge Auditorium, with a reception and musicale, an innovation for the club. The affair proved to be a delightful one and was enjoyed by about seventy-five members and a few friends. During the reception, which marked the first part of the program, the president, Mrs. Hugh F. Fox, and vice presidents, Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Miss Arnold and Mrs. William Griscom, received the guests.

Following the informal opening reception, there was a pleasing song recital given by Miss Grace Carroll, contralto soloist, with her sister, Miss Alice Carroll, at the piano. Miss Carroll was in fine voice and her numbers were received with appreciation and much applause. The program which was made up of classical and popular numbers was as follows:

Part I—Il mio bel foco, Marcello; Trockne blumen, Schubert; Am meer, Schubert; Widmung, Franz; Sandmannchen, Brahms; Where e'er you walk, Handel. Part II—Tom, the rhymer, Loewe; Blow, blow thou winter wind, Sarjeant; There's a bower of roses, Irish song; Jock o'Hazeldean, Scotch song; My love, she's but a lassie, Scotch song. At the close of the above numbers, Miss Carroll sang for an encore number, "Birthday Song," by Cowen.

The recital lasted about an hour, after which tea was served. Those presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Morris Benton, Mrs. Harold D. Corbusier, Miss Ruth Maxson and Mrs. J. P. Stevens. The auditorium was attractively decorated for the occasion with cosmos and dahlias.

The club has arranged a program for the winter of unusual interest, including three lectures on the general subject of "Hygenic Development of the Present Day.' On October 30, Dr. Richard Cabot, of Boston, will lecture on "Medical Sociology," and on November 20, Dr. Simon Flexner, the director of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, will lecture on "Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine," and on December 4, Dr. Wood Huntchinson, the well-known physician and writer, will lecture on "Popular Fallacies."

It is the intention of the club to also make a special study of Germany, and several lectures will be given on that subject, including one on October 16 by Prof. J. Duncan Staeth, of Princeton University.

YOUNG WOMEN FORM AN INDUSTRIAL CLUB

The young women and girls belonging to Hope chapel met last night and organized an industrial club, the purpose of which is to advance the members in useful accomplishments. It will be known as the Monday Club, meetings being held every week on this night. The charter list starts off with forty names.

Mrs. Frederick L. Green presided as chairman at the meeting and in the election of officers was chosen president. The other officers are Hughes, vice-president; Miss Edna Eckert, secretary; and Mrs. Neff, treasurer. The following teachers were appointed for the various classes: Embroidery, Miss Elizabeth Maclay; millinery, Mrs. Neff; stenography, Miss Anna Becker and Miss Mary Mortimer; gymnasium, Miss Lona Becker. The classes will begin next Monday night and any young woman or girl wishing to join may do so at that time.

CLAY PIPE RIGHT SORT FOR FALLING WHEELMAN.

Paterson, Oct. 3.—The fact that it was a clay pipe, rather than any less britle sort, doubtless saved Peter Strand, of 31 William street, from fatal injury Sunday. Had he been smoking any other kind when he fell from his bicycle, it is believed he would now be dead. He fell in such a way that the stem would have pierced his brain; the doctors say, if it had not broken.

As it was, he was unconscious for sime time. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. The accident happened opposite Lambert castle. He will recover.

—We would like to call attention to the advertisement of Mrs. Eisenberg-Beard. A Missouri paper, where Mrs. Beard taught, says of her: "She has more than a local reputation as a musician and teacher, having studied her art in the best schools of this country and Europe."

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were irregular and dull in New York yesterday.

The election of a sucessor to Gresser was postponed by the Mayor to give all "opportunity to be heard."

Nathan Allen and John R. Collins were fined $12,000 and $4,000, respectively, for smuggling jewelry into New York city.

Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley died suddenly from apoplexy while walking alone in West 44th street, New York.

M. von Hellen, president of the High Court of Justice at Abo, Finland, was shot dead by an assassin, who immediately killed himself.

The Mayor of New York city opened the budget exhibit with a few remarks about partisans and bigots and those who hammer the anvil.

The British steamer Hatfield and a crew of twenty went to the bottom after a collision with the steamer Glasgow, to whose aid the former had gone.

Tax assessment books were opened and $1,000,000 in taxes paid, the figures for 1912 giving New York city $14,750,000 additional borrowing capacity.

At a mass meeting of Mahometan East Indians at Calcutta a cable message was sent to London asking England's intervention in checking Italy's war on Turkey.

Thirteen hundred Maltese refugees who fled from Tripoli on an English vessel, were rendered almost frantic for lack of food and water; seven of them became violently insane.

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Haswell, an American vaudeville performer, who was asphyxiated by gas in London, found that the woman was insane when she took her life.

R. P. Richardson, Jr., & Co., an American Tobacco subsidiary, filed a protest against the adoption of the trust's reorganization plan, saying a worse monopoly than ever would be created.

Cromwell Dixon, a young American aviator, who flew across the Rocky Mountains last Saturday, was killed by the fall of his aeroplane at the Interstate Fair grounds, Spokane, Wash.

The Temple Iron Company filed a brief in the United States Supreme Court, denying it had intended to establish an anthracite monopoly by its purchase of the Simpson & Watkins collieries.

The government report on the cotton crop announced in Washington indicated a record crop; ginning also was shown to be far advanced, and prices on the New York Stock Exchange broke sharply, the staple selling below 10 cents.

President Taft received a cording non-partisan welcome to Nebraska and to Lincoln; William J. Bryan, rising before the guests at the luncheon given there in Mr. Taft's honor, proposed a toast to the President of the United States, and the President responded feelingly.

Absence of further news of actual fighting between Italy and Turkey confirmed the belief that Germany's effort at mediation was likely to prove successful; it was admitted on both sides that no Italians have been landed in European Turkey, and it was deferred for three days.

Latest official estimates of the dead in the Austin, Penn., flood disaster placed the number at 100; 86 persons were reported missing, and 24 of the 26 bodies found were identified; relief work went forward rapidly, but many were needed to remove the debris; the only investigation of the cause of the disaster appeared to be that of the State, the local authorities being inactive.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The period of Fiske O'Hara's new play, "Love's Young Dream," which comes to the Plainfield theatre Saturday night, is that of the early part of the eighteenth century and the fine opportunities for elaborate costuming have enabled Manager Irvin to stage the play as few Irish dramas have been staged in recent years. A number of costume plates in water colors have been designed by a well known artist and every detail in this part of the production is said to be historically correct.

Direct from the Maxine Elliott theatre, where it enjoyed a prosperous run of four months, comes the comedy sensation of the season, "The Real Thing," which is being presented en tour by Miss Henrietta Crosman and will be seen here at the Plainfield theatre Thursday night. Surrounding Miss Crosman is the same wonderfully clever company and the remarkable scenic concomitants that caused so much favorable comment during the Metropolitan engagement. The New York critics, notably Alan Dale, Acton Davies and Charles Darnton, were unanimous in praising not only the charming acting of Henrietta Crosman, but the sterling qualitites of the play itself. The comedy deals with a new version of an old theme—marital discontent.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

The State conventions to be held under the Geran law, are mere talkfests. Instead of having a convention to make a platform on which the candidate is to stand, the proceeding is reversed, and the platform stands on the candidate. The inverted pyramid lacks attraction architecturally, but in politics it may operate to better advantage. The Governor is a member of the Democratic convention, so the delegates will, at least, hear a good speech.—Newark Call.

Governor Wilson made a vigorous attack upon boss rule and graft government in Cape May, on Friday night, and it may have some effect. If it does, it will be the Governor's most remarkable achievement in reform. Cape May has been somebody's pocket-borough ever since it was created. With a population of only 20,000, it has a State Senator and Assemblyman and all the machinery of a county government, and a large part of the taxation is upon non-residents. The opportunities for political plunder are, therefore, peculiarly wide. Nominally, the county is Republican; in fact, it is controlled by a machine, and always has been. If the Governor has aroused that inert people, he has accomplished what no other man has been able to.—Newark Call.

There has been considerable discussion, participated in by Governor Wilson and others, in regard to the high rates charged by the liability companies for insurance under the operations of the new employers' liability law in this State. The Governor says the rates are exorbitant, and the companies say they are not. The actual condition is perfectly understood by all business men of intelligence. The companies are undertaking to insure employers against an unknown risk. It may be very great; it may be small. There is no experience worth the name, and all insurance rates have to be based upon experience, to be equal and fair. Until they have had experience, the companies naturally charge the maximum rate, because if they made it too low, they would be ruined. After a year or two there will be a revision, as a matter of course. The law is a good one when it gets working, but meanwhile it makes a lot of trouble.—Newark Call.

RISE AND WANE OF THE TURK IN EUROPE.

The Turks captured Constantinople, the capital of the old Eastern Empire, in 1453, and for a time rapidly extended their power over the nearby Christian States of Bulgaria, Hungary and Servia. Advancing on Vienna, they were turned back by Sobieski, King of Poland, in 1683. Hungary, Transyvania, the Crimea and parts of southern Russia were wrested from them little by little and the close of the eighteenth century saw their frontiers restricted by the River Dniester and the Carpathian Mountains. Further losses would have followed had it not been for the jealousies and ambitions of the great powers.

Joseph II, of Austria, attempted to strip them of other possession and failed. In 1798, Napoleon seized Egypt, but Great Britain forced him to give it back in 1802. In 1807-12, the Czar of Russia, Alexander I., took Bessarablia and compelled the Turks to grant greater privileges to Moldavia and Wallachia. In 1806-17, the Servians revolted and wrested from them important rights of self-government.

Ten years later, with the help of England and France, Greece secured her independence. In 1829, Russia compelled the asknowledgement of Moldavian and Wallachian independence. Again, in 1854-55, the powers intervened to prevent further dismemberment, France, England and the Kingdom of Sardinia making war upon Russia. In 1862 the Servians achieved complete independence. In 1877 came the Russo-Turkish War, resulting in the treaty of San Stefano to which the powers demurred and substituted the treaty of Berlin. Bulgaria, Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina were subtracted from the Turkish possessions. Cyprus passed under a British administration.

PROGRAM FOR DEMOCRATS.

The program has been issued for the annual convention of the Federation of Democratic Clubs to be held in Masonic Hall next Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. The convention will be called to order by Ray E. Mayham, of Union county, president of the federation. He will introduce Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton, as temporary chairman, who will make a short address, to be followed by an address of welcome by Mayor F. W. Donnelly, of Trenton. The response will be by Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City. Next will come the appointment of committees on credentials, rules, permanent organization and resolutions.

Following reports from these commitees, the new president of the federation will make a brief address. Then will come addresses by Governor Wilson, Edward E. Grosscup, chairman of the State Democratic committee; Job H. Lippincott, of Jersey City, New Jersey member of the Democratic national committee, and United States Senator James E. Martine.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

By HENRY RUSSELL MILLER

Copyright, 1910 by Bobbs Merrill Co.

Alone in the big old library with its fragrance of memories Bob watched the night through, bracing his soul for the struggle that was coming. Until the morning, as did Jacob, Bob wrestled with his soul, bearing always the last words of the man who had died: "Your people. You must be true."

And his soul's answer, "I must be true—in all—or in nothing!"

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END.

IT was long before sleep came to any in the house of death that night. To Eleanor it did not come until the first streak of gray showed in the east. Then she fell into a light, dreamful slumber that lasted only until broad daylight had come. She was awakened by the sun shining into her eyes. It was the mating time. From without came the blithe call of bird to mate. She stirred contentedly. It was the first night she and Bob McAdoo had passed under the same roof. The thought was like a caress.

She arose and went to her bath, to emerge fresh and glowing. She went downstairs to find the hall deserted by all save the sleepy manservant.

"Is no one down?" she asked him.

"Mr. McAdoo, madam," he answered, struggling manfully to stifle a yawn. "Beg pardon, madam. He's been out these two hours—went to send a telegram, he said."

She passed on out to the wide vine covered veranda. There she stood, drawing in deep breaths of the pure spring air.

"Let me not be too happy. Let me not forget that there is a tomorrow."

From down the street came the clang of swift footsteps. Her heart beat time to the stride. She knew who the pedestrian was.

He halted close to her. Once again he caught her in that grip of the eyes from which she could not free herself.

"You are like no woman I have known," he said slowly.

"Yet you have known none but good women."

He shook his head proudly. "That is not the difference."

"I have given you little reason to think me good," she said sadly.

"You are good; I know that. But were you the wickedest woman in the world still you would be the one woman to me. Eleanor! Eleanor!" he breathed.

"Ah!" she cried. "You must not! We dare not"—

"How I love you!"

"Ah!" She drew a long, shuddering breath. Then her head went back proudly. "Why not? Why may our lips not say what our hearts and eyes have said, since we ask nothing? I love you. I always shall. I can't help it."

"Do you want to help it?"

"See!"

She stepped down one stair, where her face was on a level with his. Fully and freely she gave him of her eyes, that through them he might see down into her heart, afire with the love surpassing, that asked nothing, that was content with loving.

"Eleanor, Eleanor!" he breathed again.

"Yes." She met his eyes steadily, fearlessly. "Even though we may never know the happiness of sharing one life I shall always be yours and you mine. Life can't take that from us."

He turned away in the anguish of temptation. His big body trembled. His voice was hoarse as he spoke.

"I know now why men give up honor for a woman. Do you know how easy it would be for me to throw everything else overboard and seek happiness with just you in spite of everything even now?"

"Look at me!" Slowly he turned once more to meet her eyes. "You will not tempt me, will you? You are stronger than I; you mustn't let me be weak. Do you think I don't know? How often during the last two years I have prayed that you might be weak enough to come to me and that I might be weak enough to yield! But we must not. It would be a cowardly happiness. It wouldn't be clean. Until he is found and we know he is reclaimed we could never be really happy; there would always be a stain on our love. We know what selfishness brings. You belong to the people of this state. Our false happiness would cripple you, because you would always have the knowledge that you hadn't been true to yourself. And if you aren't true to yourself how can you be true to your trust? You won't tempt me, will you?" she pleaded, her voice growing paler and more unsteady. "Because I—I am so happy in just being near you. When I am with you something keeps pulling, pulling me to you. I am almost past the resisting point. Don't tempt me, for I want you to tempt me. You must be strong, for both of us.

"And remember," she went on, trying to be strong. "Remember that it is harder for me than for you. Tomorrow, after the funeral, I go back to my little work, which, after all, is only a scanty refuge, while you go on to your great task that often will shut me out of your mind and heart. It will always be that—your work always first, I always second."

"No!" he said roughly. "It will never be that. You are first—you always shall be."

"Ah! I wanted you to say that. But you mustn't. And it mustn't be true. That is the selfish part of my love I must always fight to keep down even if—even if we must not always be apart. You mustn't let me be selfish. If you place me first, if you don't sacrifice me when it is right, you can't be true to yourself, you won't be my man. You are so strong. You mustn't come to weakness through me."

"Yet you say you are not good!" he cried.

The vine wreathed veranda hid them from the world. She went to a chair, fell into it and buried her face in her hands. Harsh, dry sobs shook her.

Bob was helpless to comfort her. Awkwardly, as one unused to caress, he put out his hand and let it rest upon her hair. The unaccustomed touch sent fire racing through his veins.

"Eleanor!" he murmured hoarsely.

She caught his big hand and pressed it to her cheek. "I am not good. I am only weak and shameless. You must be strong—or take me."

He sat down beside her and took both her hands in his firm, strong clasp.

"Dear!" How strangely the word dwelt upon his lips. "Dear, look at me. Two years ago I found myself. The people of my city trusted me when they would have been justified in crushing me."

"But you weren't guilty. Katherine has told me."

"I wasn't directly responsible for the crime that was done. But I don't hide behind that. It was done for me, and I accepted the benefit. But my people didn't know it. Nevertheless they trusted me. They have helped me to grow stronger at home and over the state. The good people here—they have trusted me and strengthened me. In a few weeks I am to be nominated for governor. I can be elected, I think. Great power has been placed in my hands. I am under the most sacred obligations to the people of this state, to John Dunmeade, to him who is dead. I can do much. These two years I have tried to atone. I have tried to kill the ugly self that ruled me. I thought I had succeeded. And now I find I have failed. I am ready at your word to forget everything but myself, but you. We must start a new life together. The wealth that Murchell has left me I will give to Dunmeade. All the knowledge I have gained, all the power I have won, all the power that has been given to me for a purpose not my own, must be thrown aside. All Murchell's work will have gone for nothing. John Dunmeade, left alone, will be beaten. The people who have trusted me will be helpless. I must give these things up because, having been weak once, I dare not face the responsibility of weakness in power. It would be easy. Every nerve in me aches to do it. If you say the word I will give up these things for you, and I will never reproach you, never blame you."

He paused questioningly. While he was speaking her eyes had not left his. She was very white.

"My answer is—I love you!"

"And that means—no?"

"And that means—no!"

Their eyes fell away. She leaned back in her chair and looked out into space. Half unconsciously she freed one hand from his clasp and with it caressed the backs of his hands. He watched the gesture sadly.

After awhile, "We need each other to be strong, don't we?" she said softly. He gave no answer.

"I am afraid," she went on later in dreamy, detached phrases—"I am afraid to hope. I have always felt that he would return and thought that with his coming everything would be right. Now I dare not hope. All at once it is clear. Ah, I can't bear to think of that. We are not our own."

Suddenly he caught her hands to his lips and covered them with rough, passionate kisses. She let him.

COURSES AT Y.M.C.A. TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Fall work for the gymnasium and education classes will be resumed at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow for the season of 1911-1912, and the prospects are most encouraging for a successful year under the direction of General Secretary Herbert E. Parker and Physical Director E. C. Ostlin. The gymnasium, the lockers, baths and swimming pool have been put in first-class condition and all parts of the association equipment present an attractive appearance.

In opening the fall work an effort will be made in unison with all the associations of North America to increase the membership from the present figures of 540,000 to 1,000,000 within the next three years. The local association will try to increase its membership from 550 to 750. A twenty-four page booklet prepared by the association officers and giving a complete schedule of association activities can be had upon application. These include classes in mechanical drawing, orchestral work, Bible study and gymnasium classes.

The gymnasium classes will open tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock when the boys from Leal's school will resume their work. At 5:40 the business men's class will meet. Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock the high school boys will begin their work and at 4 o'clock the grammar school boys will resume. In the evening at 8:15 the young men's class will meet, all under the supervision of Physical Director E. C. Ostlin. Members and friends of the association are invited to visit and inspect the building and equipment. A little later the basketball schedule will be begun.

IT COSTS CITY $1,800 FOR ITS ANNUAL AUDIT

The Common Council at its October meeting, last night, passed the resolution engaging Patterson, Teele & Dennis, of New York, expert accountants, to audit the city books, notwithstanding the objections of Mayor G. W. V. Moy. The resolution was passed at a previous meeting and sent to Mayor Moy. He returned it to City Clerk J. T. MacMurray without his approval. Mr. Buxton then moved that the resolution be passed regradless of the Mayor's objections.

The New York firm of accountants was retained to audit the city's books at a price not to exceed $1,800. This same firm audited the city books and accounts last year, according to the ual custom.

Elizabeth Presbytery Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery is being held at Bedminster, Somerset county, today. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. F. L. Greene and Rev. F. D. Tilton, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastors of the local Presbyterian churhes and chapels; also Robert Radford, of the First Presbyterian church, are in attendance.

PLAINFIELD CLERICUS INSPECT REFORMATORY

Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, was the only local member of the Plainfield Clericus yesterday afternoon attending the session of that body at the Rahway Reformatory when the guests were entertained by Rev. Dr. C. L. Cooder, of Rahway. There were about a dozen members of the clericus present from various places in the county. During a business session, three new members were elected, after which Dr. Frank Moore, superintendent of the Reformatory, gave an interesting talk on the subject: "Mentally and Morally Delinquent."

Dr. Moore told of the many cases that had come under his observation, relating numerous incidents about the prisoners committed to the Reformatory, showing how some of them improve and become useful citizens, while others never improve.

Following Dr. Moore's talk, the ministers inspected the Reformatory and gained considerable knowledge concerning the system employed there for the treatment of the inmates. There are now 550 boys and young men at the institution.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

On Sunday morning, October 8, the sacrament of infant baptism will be administered at Trinity Reformed church.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold a regular business meeting in Vincent chapel Friday evening.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the First M. E. church are holding an all-day meeting in Vincent chapel, today.

Owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Raymond Guinn, who lives on Leland avenue, adjoining the church, the bell at the Netherwood Reformed church was not sounded Sunday.

An echo meeting of the Atlantic City International C. E. Society convention for Union county Endeavorers will be held in the Third Presbyterian church at Elizabeth, Thursday night.

The winter schedulde of Sunday services at the Temple Baptist church is as follows: 10 a. m., prayer service; 10:30, preaching; 2:30 p. m., Sunday school; 7, C. E. meeting; 8, preaching.

Following the business session of the Christian Endeavor Society at Trinity Reformed church this evening there will be a social hour, called "A Feast of Fun and Reason," and all the members are urged to be present and participate.

The first fall meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will be held in the church parlors, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This will be a rally of the members and a cordial invitation will be given to any woman of the church who may be interested in this branch of church work.

EDUCATIONAL BOARD'S FREE LECTURE COURSE

The regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education was held last night and it was reported that 775 pupils had been examined during the month and with few exceptions all were in good health. Doctors Tomlinson and Van Horn were re-elected as medical inspectors and Doctors Stelle and Hillmen were re-elected as dental inspectors for another year.

The public lecture course for 1911-1912 was announced and shows exceptional offerings in instructive and interesting topics. The first will be given in the High School building and the others in the Washington School. Bills to the amount of $5,000 were passed and the report of the finance committee shows that there is a balance on hand of $6,374.30. The collector reported that during the month $964.44 had been collected. Other routine business consisted of authorizing the borrowing of money for current expenses and salaries if necessary, and the purchasing of two Underwood typewriters for the commercial department.

The first lecture of the course will be delivered October 16 by Howard Williams, of Philadelphia, who has selected as his subject, "Mexico—Its Lands and People." It will be illustrated by stereopticon views and moving pictures. The others are as follows:

November 1, Frederick B. Wright, of Washington, "By Boat and Rail Across Siberia and Turkestan;" December 7, Clifford H. Easton, of Brooklyn, "3,000 Miles Across Labrador;" January 4, John M. Whiton, "A Familiar Talk on Japan;" January 25, Lewis William Armstrong, of New York, "Ireland in Song and Story;" February 15, George N. Cross, of New Hampshire, "The Splendors of the Alps;" March 13, Edward Avis, of Connecticut, "Our Wild Song Birds;" April 18, Robert G. Weyh, Jr., of Brooklyn, "Our Pacific Empire."

The material for Mr. Williams' lecture on Mexico was obtained from several tours through the various parts of the republic and his collection of beautifully colored lantern views and rare motion pictures is exceptional. The motion pictures will present scenes from the front of an engine running through the country; the historical pageant at the centenary of Mexico City in 1910; typical folk dances, and other scenes.

Mr. Wright is Secretary of Records of the Post Society of Washington, and has traveled extensively in all parts of the world. His lecture on Siberia is illustrated by views taken by himself on an expedition through that country.

Mr. Easton's lecture follows the course made notable by Leonidas Hubbard in his ill-fated expedition in which he lost his life, and presents interesting views of the scenery and animals and inhabitants and native customs of Labrador.

Mr. Armstrong gave a delightful lecture and concert in the course last year, treating of the famous songs of England and Europe. This year he will confine himself to Ireland and will sing some sixteen famous Irish songs and ballads.

Mr. Whiton's talk on Japan will be an interesting description of the sights and scenes, the people and customs of that land as they appear to the eyes of a traveler first visiting that country. His views are either taken by himself or personally selected when visiting that country.

Mr. Cross, who gave one of the most popular lectures of last year's course, returns this year with a lecture on Alpine scenery and experiences.

Mr. Avis, who was also in last year's course, drew such an audience that the auditorium was not large enough to contain it. Those that were able to get in were greatly delighted with his pictures, his description, and his inimitable imitation of bird notes and songs.

Mr. Weyh presents the history, the scenery, and the industries of our great Western Empire, California, Oregon and Washington, and may be expected to keep up the high standard of the rest of the course.

Return of Favorites.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church has secured Mr. and Mrs. Walter David, of New York, to give a musical in the lecture room of the church, Friday night, October 27. Mrs. David is a harpist of rare ability and Mr. David is an excellent impersonator and reciter.

Will Follow Hounds.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold its first scheduled chase after the hounds tomorrow afternoon meeting at the kennels at 3:30 o'clock. It is expected htat a large number of the riding members will join in the hunt.

—Neuman Bros. will have for tomorrow's trade fancy peaches, apples, Bartlett pears, grapes and quinces, all choice fruit and the best the market affords.

The second union prayer meeting in preparation for the revival services to be held under the auspices of the local Methodist churches will be held in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church tomorrow night.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. SUSAN P. CASE

The funeral service of Mrs. Susan P. Case, who died suddenly last Friday following an operation, was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, J. Herbert Case, 1126 Martine avenue, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including many older residents who had known Mrs. Case for years. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, former pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Case was a life long member, conducted the service.

After reading appropriate Scripture selections, Dr. Chambliss spoke tenderly and impressively of the beautiful life and character of Mrs. Case, of her marked devotion to her home and her faithfulness to her church. He commented upon her sunny disposition; also upon the fact that she had been left with five small children, which it had been her privilege to see grow into manhood and to honor and revere her for all her patient effort.

Dr. Chambliss referred to Mrs. Case's serious illness two years ago, when she was restored to health and permited to continue to be a blessing to those about her. He also spoke of the great loss sustained by the grandchildren and he felt sure that the love and influence of the departed grandmother would always be felt in the home.

During the service, a quartet from the First Baptist church, comprising Miss Ruth Harris, soprano; Miss Nan Randolph, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, sang two selections, "Nearer, My God to Thee," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." There were many beautiful floral tributes, including several wreaths, from relatives and friends as further evidence of the high regard felt for Mrs. Case. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall bearers were the five sons: Samuel P. Case, J. Herbert Case, Joseph T. Case, Willard L. Case and Howard M. Case.

Miss Margaret Alice Campbell, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Richard S. Campbell, of 26 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, and Grenville Temple Strong, son of Mrs. Thomas S. Strong, of Setauket, N. Y., were married at noon today at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of the relatives and a few friends of the couple. Rev. Dr. Richard S. Campbell, father of the bride, officiated, it being a single ring ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mary W. Campbell, who was maid-of-honor, and the groom was unattended. The bride's gown was chiffon over white satin, trimmed with duchesse lace and pearls, and she carrieda bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids. The maid-of-honor wore a gown of blue chiffon over blue satin, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

The reception which followed from 12:30 to 3 o'clock was largely attended by relatives and friends, and the couple was showered with congratulations. During the reception a wedding luncheon was served. Later the couple left on an extended wedding trip. The couple will live in Milwaukee for one year, where the groom is in business and after that they will remove to New York.

The house was attractively decorated for the wedding and reception, there being a pleasing arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and oak leaves. The bride received a large collection of handsome gifts from relatives and friends. There were friends present from New York, Philadelphia and this city.

$25,000 DAMAGES FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Josephine Kyle received a verdict of $25,000 damages yesterday in the Somerset county court at Somerville for the loss of her husband, Robert H. Kyle, who was killed on the Hillsborough crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad on the night of April 9, 1910, while driving to his country place near Trenton in a carriage.

Mrs. Kyle received a verdict of $35,000 last November, but the company carried the case to the Supreme Court. That tribunal set aside the verdict on the technical ground that Judge Vail in his charge to the jury had not allowed enough latitude to the railroad company in defining its rights.

There was an abundance of testimony that the crossing was extremely dangerous. The books of Newland & Co., cattle dealers, of Jersey City, of which he was a member, were offered in evidence to prove that Mr. Kyle earned more than $9,000 a year.

FREEHOLDERS INSPECT COUNTY ROAD WORK

The Union County Board of Freeholders in three automobiles yesterday inspected all the road work done in the county during the summer months. Those in the party were Director Cady and Freeholders Krausse, chairman of the road committee; Hennessy, Pierson, Aiken, Jones, Hall, Darby, Greuner, Teller, Meisel, Wilbur and Engineer Bauer.

While in this vicinity the freeholders inspected Terrill road and the new bridge which is being erected over Green brook on Washington avenue. RECOMMEND CHANGE IN THE SCHOOL LAW

Complications resulting from the amendment passed to the school laws last winter abolishing teachers' city certificates formed the topic of discussion at a conference at Trenton between the State Board of Examiners and several city superintendents of schools. It was decided to recommend to the State Board of Education an amendment to the rules regulating teachers' certificates which would relieve municipalities from the embarrassment some of them have encountered during the past few months.

The situation disclosed at the conference was that a number of teachers, principally those employed at high salaries in some cities, were not willing to wait for the State examinations which would compel them to run the risk of failing, before making contracts with the municipalities. The result, it was stated, was that the services of many competent and available teachers had not been obtained.

When the new rules of the State Board of Education were adopted last winter the amendment to the law abolishing city certificates had not become effective. Therefore, the State Board had made no provision for such a contingency.

COUNTY CHAIRMEN ARE BOTH RE-ELECTED

In acordance with the provisions of the Geran law, both the Republican and Democratic county committee met at Elizabeth last night for reorganization. The meetings were held in the respective headquarters.

The Republican committee was called to order by chairman Frank H. Smith, of this city, who was re-elected to this office. The other elected were James C. Calvert, vice-chairman; Edward S. Atwater, Jr., secretary; Dr. J. Edward Rowe, of Summit, treasurer; Edward Bauer, sergeant-at-arms. Arrangements were made to appoint committees pro tem for the general transaction of business. Arrangements were also made to revise the by-laws to conform with the Geran law and a committee of which N. R. Leavitt is chairman, was designated to do so.

Congressman William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, was re-elected chairman of the Democratic committee, and the others elected were Frank J. Shattle, of this city, vice-chairman; Fred Zior, of Elizabeth, secretary; J. William Crane, Elizabeth, treasurer; John H. R. Corbert, sergeant-at-arms. Dennis F. Collins, as a member of the State committee, made an address in which he declared indications pointed to the success of the ticket this fall. He also stated that Governor Wilson would stump the county in behalf of the candidates on October 19 and give this itinerary: Summit at 9 a. m.; Garwood at noon; lunch at Congressman Tuttle's home; Rahway at 5 p. m.; Elizabeth at 8, where a big meeting will be held in the Broad street theatre. At 9 the governor will leave for Cranford and from there come to Plainfield.

The Poor Devils.

"Marriage is lottery enough without cheating the poor devil out of his just dues, once you've got him in your clutches." The above remark of the widow in "The Real Thing," Henrietta Crosman's great New York success from the Maxine Elliott Theatre which will be seen here tomorrow night, shows that some women believe in giving the man a square deal.

Edgar McCrea died yesterday afternoon at his home, 211 West Third street, from pulmonary trouble. He had been ill a long time. He was a well known hotel waiter, having followed that occupation for many years. He is survived by a wife, a son and two daughters. The funeral will be held at the Mt. BOOMS EXPOSITION

United States Senator Martine Speaks to Crowd at Chamber of Commerce Fair.

LOADED DOWN WITH SAMPLES.

Many Attractions On the Grounds Now—Poultry Show to Be a Feature Tonight—Some of the Exhibitions.

The Plainfield Industrial Exposition being held at Richmond and East Fifth streets struck its stride last night and now is in full swing, affording amusement and instruction to all who visit the grounds. The feature of last night's formal opening ceremonies was an address by Senator James E. Martine, the first his townspeople have heard since the toga was placed upon his square shoulders. Plainfield as he saw it when a youth; its present position and some impressions of this country were the chief topics of his discourse. The Senator's address was heard by a large audience. In the absence of President Babcock, of the Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the show is being held, Secretary John Ulrich made the introductory remarks.

Before Senator Martine began speaking he was obliged to find a large vacant space on the platform at which to deposit the numerous samples presented to him at the different booths. These consisted of tea, maccaroni, tobacco, starch, talcum powder, stain removeds, breakfast food, silver polish, coffee, candy and circulars of automobiles, furnaces, scales, shoes, electric motors and divers other articles.

By this evening it is expected that the poultry show, cooking lectures and picture theatre will be in full operation. Several more concerns which have accepted concessions will be ready with displays of their goods. Hahne & Co. have a fine showing of articles from all departments from house furnishings to fancy goods. Among the other exhibitors are the Public Library, the Charity Organization Society, a nursing tent from Muhlenberg Hospital. The Exempt Firemen have their silver hose cart and antiquated hand engine on exhibition and they prove to be a source of interest to all.

In his discourse last night Senator Martine said that little did he dream when a lad more than fifty years ago and a pupil in the little red school house on East Fifth street, then known as "Dominie Bond's Orchard," that he would live to see Plainfield become such a fine city. Pointing to the silver hose cart he told more of the days of forty odd years ago and rapidly took his hearers over the country with him showing them how when he was away out west and down a silver mine he found that the machines in use there were made by the Pond Machine Tool Works. When he went to Washington, he said, he went into the printing department only to find that the machines used in printing stamps and bonds and other government work were the kind manufactured by the Potter Printing Press Works.

Continuing for some time in this vein he again became reminiscent and told of men he now saw before him whom he recalled as boys coming in his apple orchard in knee pants and barefooted. Older faces he recalled as some of those who had ran with "Old Gazelle" in the days when the now Queen City Hotel was Ed Thorne's place and the engine was needed every once in a while to pump the water out of Ed's cellar. At that time he said he became interested in politics and this interest has continued, increasing rather than diminishing as the years went by and no doubt there were some within sound of his voice who had thought of him as little more than an office seeker.

In this respect Senator Martine said that it was the duty of every man to take an interest in the government of his town, county and country. He ended his discourse with an appeal to the women present to take an interest in political affair and ot instill in their growing sons the need of able men in handling public affairs and after remarking that 'the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world,' closed with a sentimental couplet from "My Country."

The Royal Venetian band occupies a stand well in the centre of the enclosure and is one of the features of the show.

Free Use of Public Library.

The Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, at its meeting last night, granted the request of Mt. St. Mary College for the free use of the library during the entire school year, as the college books were destroyed during the fire at the college and have not yet been replaced.

PROTECTIVE FUND

Master Builders' Move to Meet Provisions of the Employers' Liability Law.

L. B. WOOLSTON PRESIDENT.

Dues in Proportion to Number of Men Employed—Alexander Milne Chosen As Vice President.

Local builders have organized what will be known as the Master Builders' Protective Fund as a means of protection under the provisions of the Employers' Liability Act. Lemuel B. Woolston is president of the mutual concern, Alexander Milne is secretary and treasurer and the executive committee comprises Charles W. Krausse, John Cose and H. A. Todd.

The initiation fee has been fixed at $10 and each member will pay into the treasury 50 cents a month for each man in his employ. In this way a sufficient fund will be provided to protect the master builders, it is expected, against loss through any injuries which their men may sustain and by which the employees might be able to collect under the new law.

President Woolston said today that under ordinary conditions the new law could easily put some men out of business, and it is for the mutual protection of the master builders that the protective fund is established. It is believed, he asserted, that the mater builders of other cities throughout the State may follow the example of the Plainfield men.

BOY JUMPED IN FRONT OF MOYNIHAN'S AUTO.

While turning from Watchung avenue into Front street in his automobile yesterday afternoon, Michael Moynihan, of Dunellen, bowled over the ten year old son of Louis Beekman, of Elm place, who was playing with another boy and did not notice the machine. Mr. Moynihan stopped his car immediately but by the time he had alighted the lad had picked himself up and scampered away not heeding the autoist's shouts to come back so that he could find out who the little fellow was and whether he was hurt.

Richard Elliott, of Elm place, saw the accident and gave the number of the automobile license to Mr. Beekman, who reported the matter to the police, declaring that the lad had been cut about the face and neck. The police were also given to understand that Mr. Moynihan had not stopped after hitting young Beekman, but this he denied to Chief Kiely this morning.

CITY COLLECTED $1,600 AT DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

Tax Collector William R. Townsend, conducted a tax sale of properties at his office yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of collecting the various amounts delinquent on the same. About $1,000 was collected from the sale of the other properties.

CENTRAL LEAGUE OFFICERS WIND UP BUSINESS TONIGHT.

The officers and directors of the Central Baseball League will hold a meeting at the Queen City Hotel, tonight, to transact business pertaining to closing the season and to discuss plans for next year. It is probable that the organization will be continued and possibly other teams may be admitted, making it an eight-club league.

It is understood that New Brunswick and Elizabeth have made application for admission and there is a possibility that clubs from those cities may be taken in. This, it is believed, would increase the interest very much.

Fiske O'Hara Coming.

The third act of "Love's Young Dream," which Fiske O'Hara is playing this season, is laid near the famous cliffs of Kilkee in the County Clare. The coast at that point is one of the most picturesque places in Ireland and William Hawley has made a fine reproduction of one particularly rugged place from photographs obtained in Ireland. Fiske O'Hara made a big hit here last season and it is expected that the house will be crowded on Saturday night.

The charges were made in writing by the street committee. Mr. Jackson was not present at the meeting. A date will be set for the hearing.

Mr. Jackson was appointed last January by Mayor Edwin W. Packer. He and the Mayor have had several tilts over the condition of the streets. He is the Democratic candidate for councilman in the third ward, a position he previously filled for several years. It is said he intended to resign as street commissioner the first of the year.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Plainfield women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of gravel, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills should be used. Here's proof of their merit in a Plainfield woman's words:

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "You may continue to publish my endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills which I gave in August 1905. I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and when I arose in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain in my back always made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians but their medicine did not help me and it was not nutil I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store, that I had any hope of getting rid of my trouble. This preparation made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since. I use Doan's Kidney Pills once in a while however, and they keep my kidneys in good working order."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburin Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PAPER STOPS; CHARGES PLOT AMONG HELP.

Asbury Park Journal Mentions Conspiracy and "Brewers' Interests"—Plan to Resume.

Asbury Park, Oct. 4—Alleging that there has been a conspiracy among certain of its employes who it is charged were backed by the brewers' interest, the Asbury Park Journal, the oldest paper in this resort, has suspended publication, at least temporarily. The Journal was established by Founder James A. Bradley.

In an editorial in The Journal Monday was what purported to be an expose of conditions that led to its troubles, and it was stated that a capias had been issued for one of its heretofore trusted employes.

It is an amazing series of allegations and asserts that the plot was elaborate and far reaching.

SUES LAY PREACHER FOR ALLEGED JILTING.

Paterson, Oct. 4—Papers in the breach of promise suit started against a lay preacher, whose residence is given Rev. Edward Elliot, a colored Baptist, as 141 Warren street, Newark, were filed by Isadore Klenert in the Supreme Court Monday. The plaintiff is Miss Sarah Walton, of 76 Warren street, Paterson. She demands $50,000 from the preacher.

While in Ridgewood preaching Mr. Elliot and Miss Walton became friendly. About fifty letters written by Mr. Elliot to the plaintiff are in the hands of the latter's lawyer. They will be used as evidence against the defendant in the proceedings.

The letters are said to be couched in endearing terms, the preacher often addressing the plaintiff as "Dear Wifey," "Baby Dear," "Most Beautiful Creature" and "My Dear Sweetheart."

Several times, it is alleged, the defendant borrowed small sums from Miss Walton. Elliot, it is asserted, told her he had property in Newark, and was also negotiating for the sale of property in Elizabeth, which deal, when completed, would enable him to pay back the money he had borrowed from her. According to the plaintiff, he never paid back the borrowed money. The last letter Miss Walton received from him was addressed "My Dear Miss Walton." In this letter he makes an apology for being unable to pay back the money borrowed.

The following statement was made yesterday by the Rev. Edward Elliot, colored, of 142 Warren street, who claims that he is a Baptist minister doing evangelical work:

"I know a Sarah Walton, of Paterson; she was a member of the Baptist church in Ridgewood, where I conducted a revival meeting about a year ago. I never promised to marry her, or paid her any attentions, borrowed or otherwise. I have not seen her since the revival. I have not been served with any papers and what you tell me is a big surprise, and I cannot understand it."

ARMED MOBS HOLDING UP TRAINS IN GEORGIA.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 4—A state of anarchy exists along the line of the Georgia and Florida Railroad owing to the strike of the firemen, which was declared last week. General Manager Turner admitted that not a train has got through on the system since last Saturday, and he declares that under the present conditions there is little hope of resuming service.

The white firemen went out first because the road refused to increase wages, and the negro firemen struck in sympathy. From the beginning the strike has been marked by violence, which has grown each day.

The burning of a trestle 300 yards long near Douglas on Sunday was followed Monday by the capture of two passenger trains by armed mobs. With their guns these mobs forced the engineers to take the trains back to Douglas, which is a division point, and there sidetrack them.

The Georgia and Florida operates several hundred miles of road, its southern terminus being Madison, Fla. It is controlled by John Skelton Williams, of Richmond, Va., who is prominent in the management of the Seaboard Air Line.

KILLED AFTER HE WAS LEAVING MASS.

Elizabeth, Oct. 4—While on his way home yesterday morning from the 7 o'clock mass of the forty hours' devotion at the Church of the Holy Rosary, where he had received holy communion, Thomas Scully, aged sixty-two, was run over and instantly killed by a trolley car. The accident occurred on Elizabeth avenue in front of the rectory. The victim was horribly mangled. Jacks had to be procured to raise the car before the body could be extracated.

Policeman Frank Lehman arrested Harry W. Knobel, the conductor, and Frank Brobst, the motorman, and took them to police headquarters.

The dead man was very deaf and, it is said, paid no atention to the warning gong. The motorman declared he was unable to stop the car before it struck Scully.

The victim had lived in Elizabethport several years, making his home at 540 Fulton street with his daughter, Lulu M. Scully.

The motorman and conductor were arraigned before Judge Atwater, who discharged the conductor. He held the motorman in $1,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. Bail was furnished by John W. Whelan, secretary and treasurer of the Elizabeth Water Company.

LEGALITY OF TOWN PRIMARY DOUBTED.

Irvington Leaguers, Following Commission Rejection, Seek Opinion As to Whole Election.

Following the rejection of the returns on the vote for commission form of government in Irvington by the Town Council of that place, on the advice of its attorneys, Tuesday night, a question has been raised involving the validity of the entire primary election in the town. Attorney General Wilson has been asked to give an opinion on the matter.

This new phase of the election tangle was brought out by the Irvington Commission Form of Government League after the reading of an opinion from Riker & Riker, holding that the election of last Tuesday, which resulted in the adoption of the commission government, was illegal. It was also hinted at the meeting that the question of the legality of the commission vote might be taken into court for adjudication.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., October 4, 1911.

The re-election of Frank H. Smith as chairman of the Union County Republican Committee means that the party's campaign will be handled in an able way and that the candidates will have as chief manager of their fight one who will leave nothing undone to further their interests.

When we recover from the shock caused by the good news that the city fathers have decided to double the police force, something which should have been done years ago, we may be able to survive the tidings that something will actually be done towards a system of garbage collection and disposal.

Certainly it was a reminder that "it's an ill wind that blows nobody good" when, because of the numerous burglaries, the city fathers awakened to the fact that the community is inadequately policed and ordered twenty-five more men placed on regular duty. For several years, every thinking citizen has been aware that Chief Kiely's work has been greatly handicapped because of small corps of patrolmen rendering it impossible for him to give satisfactory results in his department. It had been freely predicted that the day would come when burglars would make Plainfield a scene of their operations. To expect one solitary patrolman, for instance, to cover a beat embracing nine miles of streets is uterly absurd and yet that has been the situation here. With the additional men, however, it is safe to say that conditions will be remedied speedily, but it will be most unfortunate if the enlarged force is to be only a temporary arrangement. Forty-five regular men are absolutely needed and no man knows that better than Mr. Kiely himself. Give them to him.

HIBBEN FOR PRESIDENT OF PRINCETON COLLEGE

Princeton University's presidental problem has entered a still more acute stage, and action is expected at the trustees' meeting on October 19. Those trustees who represent the policies advocated by Governor Woodrow Wilson when he was president of the institution have been trying to pick a candidate who would be acceptable to their opponents. Several days ago they pressed Dr. H. A. Garfield, president of Williams College and son of the one time President of the United States, as the most available compromise candidate.

Dr. Garfield was professor of politics at Princeton from 1903 to 1908 and was one of the most popular members of the faculty.

Professor Henry B. Fine, dean of the faculty, was the favorite of most of the so-called Wilson trustees, while Dr. John Grier Hibben, professor of logic, was urged by a strong party composed of the anti-Wilson trustees and a few independents.

Alumni sentiment in favor of Dr. Hibben is said to have developed to such an extent that the supporters of Professor Fine, believing that his candidacy had little chance of success, turned to Dr. Garfield as the last hope of their cause.

It is said that the leading supporters of Dr. Garfield are Cleveland H. Dodge, of New York, and Cyrus McCormick, of Chicago. One of the pro-Garfield trustees a few days ago went with an olive branch of peace to a leader of the pro-Hibben trustees and a dialogue something like tthis is reported to have ensued:

"A year has elapsed since the presidency became vacant through the resignation of Dr. Wilson," said the pro-Garfield trustee, "and we should elect a president at the October meeting. We propose Dr. Garfield as the compromise candidate. He knows Princeton and her needs and would make an excellent head."

"Dr. Garfield is an estimable gentleman, a good executive and a scholar of high standing," was the reply. "All of these requirements are possessed by Dr. Hibben, with the additional ones of being a graduate of Princeton and the favorite candidate of the majority of the alumni.

"We will not accept Dr. Garfield because the sentiment of the alumni is declaring itself more and more for Dr. Hibben. He is recognized as a growing man. Dr. Schurman, of Cornell, for instance, has said that Dr. Hibben is the strongest man who has been mentioned in connection with the presidency of Princeton.

"We will stand for him to the last. He has always been friendly to Dr. Wilson, and his support of the anti-Wilson side in the graduate college controversy, which is now a thing of the past, was of such a character as to cause no enmities among those who differed from him. He is considered by the alumni to be best qualified to weld the forces of the university into a compact whole. He was the acting president of Princeton at the request of Dr. Wilson when the latter had a long leave of absence in Europe several years ago."

Booth Tarkington, who is president of the Princetton Alumni Association of Indiana and has been sounding many of the alumni, said last night in regard to the growth of the Hibben sentiment: "'The alumni of the West are strongly in favor of Dr. Hibben. I expect to see him elected by force of the alumni sentiment."

COURT DISMISSED ACTION FOR FRAUD.

Charles Swartzman was arraigned before Judge Edward S. Atwater in the Union County Court in Elizabeth this morning on the charge of defrauding Mrs. Rachel Dym, of South Second street, out of a $17 board bill. Robert Newton Crane appeared for the defendant and said that under the complaint no evidence had been adduced to substantiate the charge and asked for a dismissal, which was granted by the court. Mr. Crane contended that in order to prove the charge it would have to be shown that his client did not intend to pay any board at the time he engaged it with the plaintiff.

Dry Cleaning

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

BARGAIN IS A BARGAIN HOLDS SUPREME COURT

Trenton, Oct. 4—Applying the homely rule that "a bargain is a bargain," Justice Garrison has filed an opinion for the Supreme Court, sustaining a judement of $175, obtained in the Paterson District Court by James S. Payne against William S. Twitchell. Counsel for Mr. Twitchell sought to escape the claim by interposing technical legal grounds, all of which were dismissed by the court.

Mr. Twitchell made a written agreement under which he was to pay Mr. Payne a five per cent. commission for obtaining a purchaser for a twenty-acre farm at Wortendyke. The latter part of the agreement read: "I agree to pay him a commission of five per cent. if he secures a buyer at a price satisfactory to me." Mr. Payne secured the buyer, who was both able and willing to purchase the farm for $3,500, but it turned out that the property had been sold a few days previously.

It was claimed for Mr. Twitchell that the sale of the property prior to the production of the purchaser by Mr. Payne constituted a revocation of the contract of employment. Justice Garrison said that this claim could rest apparently only on the notion that the employment of a person to secure a buyer implies that the principal will be able to sell to such buyer. This he said was a misconception of the nature of the employment in which the principal does not bind himself to sell or even stipulate that he will be able to convey the property. In such a case it is not even necessary that he be the owner of the land or able to control the title.

Elaborating upon the view that a contract or agreement to obtain a purchaser for property does not necessary imply that there must be a sale, Justice Garrison said:

"A person who has been injured in a collision may desire to put into communication with those who witness the accident; a solicitor may be seeking the heir to an estate; a mother may wish to have her child adopted and a host of such cases may be imagined; in all of which the character of the employment is not legally distinguishable from that on one who desires to be put in touch with a person who will pay a certain price for a certain piece of land.

"Yet I apprehend that no one would think of saying that the price stipulated for the service when rendered need not be paid if the plaintiff had settled his damage suit, or the solicitors had retired from the case or the mother had decided to keep her child. The rule of law is really all summed up in the homely saying, that 'a bargain is a bargain,' and a bargain once made remains such until change of mind of one party known only to him has been communicated to the other party."

Complaint Dismissed.

Nat Levy & Co. withdrew the charge made against Miss Pasqualina Omgommieo, of Willever street, whom they charged with the theft of a skirt from the factory last Saturday. Judge William G. DeMeza dismissed the complaint.

Court Union, No. 3277, Independent Order Foresters, at a meeting last night, received five applications for membership, after which there was a smoker and refreshments.

Miss Ruth Douglas, manager for the girls' basketball team, has purchased a new basketball and supplies. The practice will begin next week on the outside court.

The committee chosen by the senior class to select a class pin has secured about a dozen designs from which a selection will be made by the members of the class.

Over one hundred pupils from the science classes are planning to attend the industrial exhibition today and tomorrow. The boys and girls will attend in a body.

Although the P. H. S. football squad has been training for over two weks, Coach Daggett has not permited any scrimmage until yesterday, where there were enough candidates out to make up two teams. Until after the first game it will be impossible to tell who will comprise the first team. Captain Lindzey is now being trained for the position at quarterback. Monroe Good, who played fast football at the end of last season at fullback was out yesterday for the first. James Nash, last year's right halfback, is in line for the position this season. Bill Peacock and Jack Ricketts look promising for the backfield. Members of last year's team who are trying for line positions are Hinman Rosenson, Gordon Moy, Joseph Carty, Rynier Veghte and Edward Jenkins.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"Once upon a time"—and "they lived happily ever after" might be the beginning and the end of "The Real Thing." It was in this play that Miss Crosman had New York at her feet for months, and it is in "The Real Thing" that she will appear at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. No problem play is this. Just a pure, clean, sweet story that is happening about us every day. You doting mothers, you dutiful wives, you spoiled children, you dear husbands, you sweet girls; all of you must see Henrietta Crosman in this play. You are all there. You will all recognize yourselves and you will laugh and cry to your heart's content.

NAPOLEON'S TAILOR.

The Man Who Dared to Disobey His Imperial Master.

The diary of Poumies de la Siboutie (born 1789, died in 1863), recently translated into English, has something about Napoleon, that remarkable man who continues to be the most interesting figure in European history. Here is one about Napoleon's carelessness in dress and what came of it:

In 1810, when Napoleon went to Compiegne to receive Marie Louise, his sister, the Princess Borghese said to him:

"Your clothes are badly cut and do not fit you. You are so obstinate about not wearing braces—your trousers always look as if they were falling off"—

"Well," answered the emperor, "what do you advise me to do about it? Can you recommend another tailor?"

"Have a talk with Constant."

Constant, the emperor's valet, was sent for and named one Leger, who was tailor to Murat, Prince Eugene, Joseph and Jerome Bonaparte. A messenger was sent to summon him, and he arrived at Compiegne the next day. From that moment he made everything Napoleon wore. He consistently ignored his imperial patron's suggestions concerning his clothes. For instance, the emperor wished the skirts of his tunics to be turned back, like those of Frederick the Great. "I should not think of allowing such a thing, sire! You would look absurd, and my reputation would be lost. The eyes of the whole world are upon your majesty, and if you were seen wearing such a uniform as you propose it would be a disadvantage to you, and I should have to bear the blame. I would not make you such a tunic if you offered me the whole of your empire."

ESKIMO SEALERS.

A Battle of Alertness Between the Hunter and His Prey.

The Eskimo method of hunting seals shows a primitive calling improved to a fine art. When a seal is discovered the direction of the wind is at once noted. Then the hunter, keeping himself to the leeward of the seal, walks up to within about a quarter of a mile of it. Beyond this he begins to crouch and advances only when the seal's head is down.

Now, as the seal is one of the most wideawake of animals and has the habit of throwing up its head quickly every few seconds to guard against danger, it follows that the Eskimo has to be extremely alert if he would get his seal. When the seal's head is down upon the ice its eyes are shut, and it is said that in these brief intervals it takes its sleep.

The hunter by carefully watching the seal's movements is able without much difficulty to get within about 200 yards of it, but at closer quarters he is obliged to employ other tactics. He lies down at full length on the ice. Then the real sport begins.

When the seal's head is down the hunter, who keeps a keen eye on his prey, is able to approach still nearer by dragging himself forward on his elbows. This maneuvering continues for some time until the distance between man and beast has been reduced to a few yards.

When near enough to make a sure shot the Eskimo takes his bow and arrow from his side and sends a swift shaft through the head of his outwitted companion. Sometimes instead of the bow and arrow a harpoon is used with equal effect.—Harper's Weekly.

The Parents' Joke.

Some parents seem unable to resist the temptation to make a joke with the Christian names of their children, says the London Chronicle. The Somerset House registers testify to the existence of a Mr. Mineral Waters, a Frosty Winter and an Alfred Days Weeks. There is something to be said in favor of naming children in the order of their arrival—Primus, Secundus, etc.—but it is unfortunate for a well known Canadian named Cumber that it should have fallen to his lot to be Quintus, for his name is always appearing in the papers as Mr. Q. Cumber.

A Boston Street.

It was one of the older conductors breaking in a new recruit who had shown that he was not particularly quick to catch an idea. The car came to Webster street, and the older conductor whispered the name to the recruit. The latter did not understand, and the conductor, losing patience, said, "Webster—Webster's dictionary." And the passengers were amazed to hear the new man bawl out, "Webster's dictionary."—Boston Post.

Yearned For Excitement.

"Yes, the great society leader is absolutely ennuied."

"Tired of everything, eh?"

"Positively. The last time I saw her she was faintly wondering in a bewildered way whether she'd better take up aviation or get a divorce."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Quick Recovery.

Miggleton—It looks like rain. Hambaugh—What looks like rain? Miggleton (taken by surprise but equal to the occasion)—A shower bath in action.—Chicago Tribune.

Enmeshed.

Maud—After all, a hammock is nothing but a net. Jack—Right! Many a girl makes a good catch in one.—Exchange.

One may ruin himself by frankness, but one surely dishonors himself by duplicity.—Vieillard.

The Big Five in Millinery

It doesn't matter much what other milliners may do to achieve distinction—they cannot by any manner of means, surpass us in our production of becoming hats at popular prices. We have made a wonderful reputation for producing the sort of hats that women like to wear—hats that look just right—that are just right in style, in material, in color.

There are five great groups of these popular-priced trimmed hats, and each in their class outline others that pretend to compete with them.

First of these specialty lines are the beautifully trimmed and widely varied hats of which we make and sell so many at the little price of $4.75

Next in rank is the collection of hats revealing many original touches of our best milliners which we sell at $7.50

Following this line is the one embracing so many very stylish effects, and bringing to you hats of very good quality at the low price of $9.50

Mounting a little higher we reach the line of hats most of which are copies of fine imported models, both in style and color effects—beautifully trimmed hats which we offer at only $12.50

Going still higher we reach hats of such a character as will compare with hats selling in many stores at a great deal more—original creations of our most skilled trimmers and accurate copies of the finer imported hats, equaling them in every way, often even in quality, yet sold at only $15

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Do We Sleep Too Much?

Perhaps, on account of popular opinion and personal habit, we waste much time in a jellyfish condition that could be more profitably spent in active pursuit of our ambitions. The answer, of course, depends upon the nature of our occupation. If there is much muscular effort involved, with a corresponding large amount of waste in the cells and blood, eight hours or more are probably necessary. But if our work is of a sedentary nature and mainly of the brain there is naturally a smaller quantity of accumulated waste, and less time is required for its removal. Many are the instances of great men, past and present, who have lived healthfully and worked unceasingly and strenuously on only four or five hours of sleep, or half the laborer's portion. Surely we are not to suppose that those men were or are physically different from others, but rather that by inclination or necessity they have developed a habit of sleeping intensely for a short period instead of lightly for a longer period, with resulting gain of time and efficiency.—Atlantic Monthly.

Kings Are Useful.

A king is a hand embroidered gentleman trimmed with metals, faced with whiskers and thatched with a metal roof that would never keep off the rain. Nominally he is the head of the nation; actually he is a figurehead, and that is figuratively speaking only, for he is generally too fat to claim a figure and seldom has much of a head—except on the morning after a celebration.

Once upon a time the king was the big tuba of the band. Now he is merely an oboe—until there is a revolution, and then he becomes a real live hobo.

However, a king has his place, although he is yearly finding it more difficult to stay in it.

Kings are found to be very useful in poker games, and by society ladies who wish to be presented to somebody they can brag of having met when they get back home to their long left loved ones.—Detroit Free Press.

Light and Sound Waves.

With reference to our ability to tell the direction from which sound proceeds, attention may be called to an interesting difference between the eyes and the ears in relation to the size of the waves that strike them. The average wave length of light is about one ten-thousandth of the diameter of the pupil of the eye. On the other hand, according to Rayleigh, the waves of sound proceeding from a man's mouth are about eight feet long, whereas the diameter of the passage of the ear is quite small and could not well have been made a large multiple of eight feet. One consequence of the minuteness of light waves in comparison with the size of the eyes is that the lenses of the eyes are able to concentrate rays of light upon the retina with great efficiency.—Scientific American.

According to Orders.

In employing men to work at his Palo Alto farm in California the late Senator Stanford gave strict orders that they were never to strike, kick or whip a horse. On one occasion, while at dinner, one of the drivers insisted that he must see the senator. He was ushered in, with blood over his face, which was badly cut. "John knocked me down," explained the man, referring to one of the trainers. "What did you do?" asked the senator. "Nothing," replied the man. "But you must have done something. I want the truth," persisted the senator. "Well, I only kicked a horse," growled the man, "and John knocked me down." "Those were John's instructions," said the senator emphatically, "and he did just right."

Gallant.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt once told of a gallant to whom she had been introduced. "His compliments," she said, "were so glowing that at last I cried out:

"'But, monsieur, remember, I am sixty-four years old!'

"'Madam,' he replied, 'to me you are just thirty-two, for I, seared as I have been by scandal, am too charitable ever to believe more than half of what I hear.'"

Some Squeeze.

A judge was questioning an old Irishman.

"He took you by the throat and choked you, did he?" asked the judge.

"He did, sor," said Pat. "Sure, sor, he squazed me throat till I thought he would make cider out o' me Adam's apple."—London Telegraph.

Her Aim.

Mr. Binks (after an absence)—And so you shot a burglar while here and unprotected. You are a brave little woman. What became of him? Mrs. Binks—The other burglar carried him off. Mr. Binks—Which other burglar? Mrs. Binks—The one I aimed at.—Puck.

Experience Teaches.

She—Dearie, shall I learn to make biscuits the way your mother used to make them? He (with a shudder)—No, darling. She used to beat 'em, and my poor father always thought that was how she developed her muscle.—Exchange.

No Touches For Moods.

Figg—Well, you know the old saying, "Contentment is better than wealth." Fogg—That's so. People don't try to borrow it from you.—Boston Transcript.

The fear of being found out is often mistaken for the prickings of conscience.

THE MAN HIGHER UP

bitterness and its sweetness, and to know that we have been strong and always shall be!"

"Eleanor! Eleanor!"

"And we shall always be together, for always you will know that I am praying for you and loving you, as you will be loving me!"

The temptation flew away and left them, if not at peace, with a new courage.

Once he turned to her and cried, "I would not be without this love, even though it means heartache!"

"Nor would I. And somehow—now—this happiness is so real, so wonderful, the heartache so far away, so impossible, I have faith!"

CHAPTER XXVIII.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE FORCE.

SOMETIMES the two on the veranda spoke in low, hushed tones they had not used even at Murchell's bedside, broken, detached sentences of what they could not have told. They came very near to each other in that hour.

Up the street tramped a figure, still powerful if a bit too large of girth, with the rolling, swaggering gait that misfortune never taught. He puffed as he walked, his wind not being what it had been when he pommeled the great Donnelly to a draw.

Bob saw him.

"It's Haggin. Something's wrong." The hushed, gentle tone had given place to the crisp, curt voice of the man of affairs.

"Mornin', governor. Miss Flinn sent me"—

"Kathleen! What's wrong? Is Patrick"—

"Naw! Nothin's wrong. Everything's right. Pat's all right, too, except that he's in a split stick whether to hang crape on his buzzom because he's dead or fly a flag because you're the boss now."

Bob smiled sadly. "We may all be sorry, Tom."

"Right!" Haggin answered, sobering instantly. "He was a big man. But you're a bigger."

Bob shook his head. He turned to Eleanor. "Mrs. Gilbert, I want to introduce one of my best friends."

Haggin's hat came off awkwardly. His red face turned purple.

"Pleased to meet ye, ma'am," he managed to stammer.

She held out her hand, which Haggin first surveyed doubtfully, then took gingerly into his own big fist.

"I am very glad to meet you, Mr. Haggin. And I think, from what I've heard, you're a friend worth having."

"Oh, we're all glad enough to be his friends down our way." Haggin grinned. "It pays, though that ain't the only reason. He's—he's on the square. There ain't many men I'd say that for, an' he knocked me out once too." The grin returned.

"Knocked you out? I'm afraid I don't understand"—

"Put me into the clear." Haggin defined, illustrating by punching himself lightly on the point of the jaw.

"Oh, he hit you hard!"

"Yes, ma'am," he answered soberly. "He hit me awful hard." He winked ponderously at Bob.

"But he was generous enough to forgive me." Bob smiled.

"I had to, an' I ain't ever been sorry he's neither." Haggin returned to his awkward embarrassment. "He's been on the square with me always."

"Sit down, Tom." Bob commanded. "And tell us what you came for. Please don't go," he said to Eleanor. And the eyes added, "I can't bear to lose these minutes with you."

Haggin deposited himself in a chair and leaned back comfortably. "Pretty, ain't it?" He waved his hand toward the lawn. "You'll like it when you come here next term." Then he added casually, "Paul Remington came back last night."

"Paul Remington!" cried two voices. And Haggin suddenly became aware of two white, strained faces turned toward him.

"He has come home," Bob repeated slowly, dazedly. "How?"

Haggin shook his head. "On the bum. Too much"— He executed a gesture that was intended to indicate the act of taking a drink.

"I've been afraid of that," Bob muttered. "Tell us."

"Well, last night Miss Flinn called me up an' told me to come up to the house quick. When I got there I found him. Guess I was kind o' rough with him. Asked him what he was doing there." Haggin grinned ruefully. "Miss Flinn told me where to get off at. Said where should he go but to his friends. I guess you'll back that up?"

"Yes. Go on."

"I'm glad o' that. I always did like him—he was such a nervy, good lookin' cuss. An' I always had a notion they got him foul on that convention business somehow." Bob heard Eleanor draw a quick, gasping breath. Impulsively he put out his hand and let it rest on hers for a moment. Haggin discreetly looked the other way.

"He had a kid with him—his sister's—a little girl that—ahem!—that ought not to 'a' been born. It seems as he'd been hittin' it up gay when he run into his sister. She was sick an' broke, an' he took care o' her till she died. Then he took care o' the kid awhile. An' then, I guess, he couldn't stand it no longer, so he brought her over to Miss Flinn."

"Thank God!" breathed Eleanor.

"Yes, ma'am," Haggin agreed politely. "He ain't all piker, governor. You think so?"

"I know he isn't, man."

"He never says a word while I'm rough housin' him. When I got through he says sharp, 'Haggin, Miss Flinn tells me you bribed those delegates.' 'That's straight,' says I. 'What are you goin' to do about it?' He never batted an eye—he ain't a four flusher, governor. 'There's just one thing to do,' he says. An' we done it!"

Haggin straightened up triumphantly.

"There won't be so much talk about that convention business now, I guess. I took him to a reporter an' he give another interview, tellin' all about that convention an' about how you took the blame that b'longed to me. It's a bully story. The reporter got it straight an' knew how to write it up. It's in all the mornin' papers.

"When we got back to the house Miss Flinn asked him, 'Will you stay now, Paul?' He didn't say nuthin' fer awhile. Then he straightened up an' said, 'If Bob will let me.' These was his very words. 'You'll let him, won't you, governor?' Haggin was very earnest. "He's been up against a tough game."

Bob held out his hand. Haggin took it.

Haggin turned to Eleanor. "Didn't I say he's on the square? He's my kind o' man!"

Then Haggin noted a singular phenomenon. Neither Eleanor nor Bob was paying the least attention to his words. They were both standing, each lost in the other's eyes. He shifted uncomfortably in his chair, then arose, coughing loudly.

"Well, I guess I'll be goin'. If you're goin' down to see him, governor, I'll meet you at the 'leven-forty."

"At the 11:40," Bob mumbled mechanically. "Oh, yes, of course, the 11:40. I'll be there, Tom."

"Well—why, bless me, I nearly fergot! Before I left Paul said to me: 'Tell Bob to tell Mrs. Gilbert that there is no reason in the world—none at all—why I should stand between her and happiness. She will understand.' He made me say it over again. Those was his very words."

Once more Haggin noted that strange forgetfulness of his presence. After a long moment Bob came to his senses to remark:

"Tom, the governor has some very particular, as I have heard. If you will go into the house the butler will attend to your case."

Tom went.

Bob turned to her and touched her hand gently, reverently.

"I can't believe it. It has come so soon. Ah, we had so little faith! Eleanor! Eleanor!" His voice was low and husky. His hand fell from hers and his head went up bravely.

"I have been newsboy, mill hand, heeler, grafter. Please God, that last at least is ended! I don't know what crime stained my birth. I don't even know that I have a right to the name I bear. But—I love you."

"And that is all I want," she answered simply.

"There is no reason why we should wait, is there, Eleanor?"

"There is none. You are all I have in the world, Bob, dear."

As she spoke his name he thrilled.

"You never took a vacation, did you, dear?"

"Yes, once—when I was sick."

"Oh, that doesn't count, you know. Will you take one this summer—with me? Just one little week—if the campaign will allow it?"

"We'll make the campaign allow it." His laugh rang boyishly.

"There's a place I know in the woods. It is on a river, such a beautiful river, so cool and clear and deep. The woods are always deliciously fragrant. You sit in your canoe and float and dream all day long. And at night you light your campfire on the water's edge, and you sit by it and watch the rippling path of gold it lays above the river and count the stars and wonder what they all mean up there and forget that there is any one in the world—except just we two."

He caught her closely to him.

"I haven't kissed you yet."

They had forgotten death.

After a time he remembered.

She saw that his thoughts were afar off. She wondered what he was thinking.

He was looking into the years ahead, looking with the sure knowledge of the man who has seen the test applied. He saw the struggle, for he knew the enemy. He saw the temptations fought and overcome, for he knew himself at last. He saw the ultimate victory, for he knew his people. His heart filled with his longing and purpose. He, who had done so little, had received the reward of the faithful servant. Henceforward he would measure his service to the richness of the reward that was his.

She saw his lips move, but no sound fell. She read the words:

"Let me serve! Let me serve!"

"Ah," she cried, "you are forgetting me already!"

He looked down into her eyes and drew her more closely to his heart. She was content.

"Let us serve!"

The death of Murchell brought to the harassed interests no relief. Neither did it bring fear to the people of that state, for both knew that on guard between them stood Bob McAdoo.

THE END.

Scene in "The Real Thing," with Henrietta Crosman at the Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

HAINS IS NOW OUT OF SING SING.

U. S. Army Captain, Slayer of Annis, Leaves Prison Accompanied by Father.

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 4—Captain Peter C Hains, Jr., who killed William E. Annis in August, 1908, received his pardon yesterday and left Sing Sing prison a free man. Accompanied by his father, General Peter C. Hains, U. S. A., retired, he took a train for New York city.

Hains' pardon was brought about mainly by the tireless efforts of his aged father. What finally caused the Governor to act, however, was a petition signed by all the jurymen who found him guilty of manslaughter. His sentence was not less than eight nor more than sixteen years.

Hains's defense at his trial was that a blow on the head when a boy had affected his mind. His attorneys also declared he had been frenzied by stories of relations between Annis and Mrs. Hains. Hains got a divorce from his wife last August.

After his imprisonment Hains resigned from the army.

SOMERSET S. S. CONVENTION.

Whitehouse, Oct. 4.—Arrangements have been completed for the fifty-second annual convention of the Somerset County Sunday School Association, which is to be held in the Reformed church at Bedminster on Friday, October 6, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. The opening session will be at 10 o'clock and a delegation from all the schools of the county is expected to be in attendance. Herbert Lloyd, of Bound Brook, will be in charge of the musical portion and Louis H. Koehler and Miss Alice B. Hamlin will make addresses, conduct conferences and hold round tables.

The chief address at the morning service is to be delivered by Rev. H. F. Randolph, pastor of the First Methodist church at Montclair, who will have for his topic: "The Church and the Child." In the afternoon Rev. Dr. W. W. Giles, pastor of the First Reformed church in East Orange, will speak on "The Natural and Acquired Qualifications of the Teacher."

The evening session will have for its speaker Rev. Dr. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church in Plainfield, who will tell of his experiences in the Upper Congo. His subject will be "Shadows and Lights of African Missions."

Will Sue to Get Horse.

Roselle Park, Oct. 4—Still convinced that one of the horses of the team stolen from his stables in Westfield avenue, Roselle Park, last March, is now at the Bull's Head stables in Newark, Samuel Black instructed his attorney, N. R. Leavitt, to begin suit against the stable proprietor to replevin the horse. Black also took the matter up with the county authorities. Thomas Moy, proprietor of the stables, declared Tuesday that Black was mistaken; that the horse he claimed had come from the West and was not the same age as the stolen animal.

WILL COVER WORLD'S SERIES FOR THE NORTH AMERICAN.

Charles S. Dooin, manager of the Phillies, who had his team high in the National League race till the loss of Magee, Titus and the manager himself killed pennant hopes, will head the staff of baseball experts who will cover the world's series for The North American.

Mr. Dooin is a foremost expert on the science of the game, and until his broken leg put him out of commission it was conceded that he was proving himself the greatest of the younger set of baseball managers.

All of the tactics employed by Managers Mack and McGraw in the series between the Athletics and Giants will be clear to Dooin, who has spent years on the field studying methods of the opposition and devising means of circumventing them.

Mr. Dooin is also an excellent writer, and his articles will not only be informative from the scientific side, but will be graphic in description and filled with personal angles on the players engaged in what should be the greatest of all baseball struggles.

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The election of officers, presentation of reports, followed by a social called a "Feast of Reason and Fun," combined to make the annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church an interesting affair last night. The business meeting was held first, when these officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Miss Lucie M. Coriell; first vice president, Elmer Gayle; second vice president, Russell Doeringer; recording secretary, Miss Lena Bohan; corresponding secretary, Miss May Randolph; treasurer, Miss Edna Dilts.

The reports which were presented by the secretary, Miss Anna Bach, and the treasurer, Miss Edna Cole, during the social hour, were encouraging. The present membership is about sixty, active and associate, in addition to a long honorary list. During the past year the society gave $22 for the Endeavor camp at Scotch Plains; $25 to the church building fund, besides contributing to other objects in the church. The society also gives $50 annually to the support of Dr. Paul W. Harrison, the church missionary in Arabia. The sum of $5 was voted to the church calendar fund.

"The Feast of Reason and Fun" was an innovation and greatly enjoyed. Attractively decorated menu cards were distributed on which was printed the following:

Consumme a la Gallop, piano duet, Miss May Randolph and Miss Elsie Dunavan; pressed tongue, reports of secretary and treasurer, Miss Anna Bach and Miss Edna Cole; Scotch marmalade, Scotch song, Miss Etta Raybert, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lucie M. Coriell; Beans a la Ketchum, bean-bag game, in which the Endeavorers formed sides; Saratoga chips, reading of selection from "Aunt Samartha at Saratoga," Miss Marie Hahn; game, in which peanuts were strung all over the room. The shells were filled with mottoes. The Endeavorers marched about the room accompanied by piano music and when the music stopped, the young people opened the peanut directly over their head and read the motto. The program was concluded with "Rarebit et Creme," which comprised ice cream and cake.

The whole affair was in charge of the social committee comprising Roy Layton, chairman; Miss Marie Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Dunavan, Miss Elsie Dunavan, Miss Myra Dunavan, Miss May Randolp and Russell Doeringer.

DINED DR. DUNDON

Popular Physician Guest of Honor at Banquet Given by Fifty People

HELD AT THE HOTEL WALDORF.

Judge Wm. Newcorn Acted As Toastmaster and Mayor N. B. Smalley and Others Paid Tributes to the Doctor.

Dr. A. H. Dundon was the guest of honor at a dinner given last night in the Waldorf Hotel by about fifty friends. The affair was a testimonial to mark his return from Europe. It was delightfully informal as befitted the cordial atmosphere. Judge William Newcorn gracefully discharged the duties of toastmaster.

Dr. A. H. Dundon.

Dr. Dundon was not called upon until the last and gave a tablet talk on the impressions the old world had made upon him. A number of his experiences were very amusing as was instanced by the difficulty he had in making himself understood to the Germans although having received a high average mark in that study when in college. He only just referred to the real purpose of his visit which was to gain more knowledge in his science. Some present would have liked to have heard more along this line, unique though it be as an after-dinner toast.

Andrew E. Kenny, who is associated with Dr. Dundon on the North Plainfield Board of Health, gave an intimate talk on accomplishments of the board under his able advice and reviewed his career since locating here for practise. Harry Sanderson, manager of the Proctor and Sanderson houses in this city, was assigned the toast of "Goodfellowship." In his usual dignified and easy manner he told of the many real manifestations he has had of this quality since coming to Plainfield a few years ago and was very glad, he said, to say that in this direction he had had the pleasure of experiencing this virtue in the guest of the evening on more than one occasion.

Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, gave one of his characteristic addresses in which he pointed out that the doctor was able to "come back" and that his friends were as happy over the event as Dr. Dundon himself appeared to be. Edward F. Feickert was the next speaker and has as his toast, "What We Think of 'Doc.'" They are both directors of the State Trust Company and while no business secrets were revealed, Mr. Feickert made it evident that the opinions regarding the doctor as a banker are gratifying.

Dr. Dundon was then introduced and received a rousing reception. He lead his friends by easy stages to each of the cities and points of interest he had visited and described in a graphic manner the things that appealed to him and concluded by saying that he was glad to be home and among friends again. Expressing his appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him and for the handsome gift with which he had been presented as a souvenir of the occasion he was given three rousing cheers.

REV. F.K. MATHIEWS TO TALK ON BOYS

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews will give the first of a series of four lectures to mothers of boys on "The Soul of a Boy." Mr. Mathiews' topic will be "What a Mother Can Do for Her Boy; the Sphere and Atmosphere of the Home." A synopsis of the lecture follows:

Introduction: How religion strengthens the authority of the parent; the might of moral muscle on the boy when strengthened by the motive power of religion.

The sphere of the home; the kind of homes the great men of the nation come from; there can be no substitute for the home in the moral and religious training of children—some startling facts and figures; a grave indictment, "mental rickets" and "curvature of the soul" in children; one great mistake too often made by parents; hope for the future, the beginning of a timely movement for more adequate training of children in the home.

The atmosphere of the home: The things that help to make it moral and religious; the contagion of character, when the influence of the parent is felt the most and least—what a survey of children's ideals has revealed; what a mother should do for her boy—the divinely appointed place of the woman in the home.

Admission will be free to the public. There will be an open conference at the close.

ACCUSE RAILROADS OF FORMING TRUSTS

Violations of the Sherman anti-trust law by the Reading Railroad and other carriers and the Temple Iron Company are alleged in a brief filed in the Supreme Court at Washington, D. C., in behalf of th attorney-general of the United States. The case will come up on appeals taken by both the government and the Reading Company and also on the appeal by the Temple Iron Company from the decree of the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern district of Pennsylvania of December 20, 1910, adjudging the Reading Company and the Temple Iron Company a combination in restraint of trade and enjoining their continuance as such.

A specific instance of alleged illegal combination in restraint of trade to which the government will direct particular attention is the illegal control through stock ownership by the Reading Company, of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company. The government will also argue that the control, through stock ownership by the Erie Railroad Susquehanna and Western Railroad Company, a competitive interstate line, is illegal.

The case will probably come up for argument before the court early in the term, which will begin on October 10.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE DAMAGES BOROUGH STORE.

Fire in the fruit store of Jannuzzi Brothers on Somerset street, opposite Manning avenue, caused damage to the extent of $100, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. It originated among a stock of matches in a back room and had worked its way into the front place when discovered by Lafayette Rosenstiehl, who lives next door. He turned in an alarm from box 142, across the street, summoning the borough fire department.

One line of hose was laid in to the back of the building and the flames were extinguished after a twenty-minute fight. The loss is fully covered by insurance and is equally divided between building and contents. The former is owned by Tom Ferrari, of Newark.

John Sesko.

John Sesko, aged 23 years, a Hungarian, of Keasby, near Perth Amboy, who was admitted to the hospital on September 25 for treatment for heart disease, died at that place, last night. He was unmarried and was employed as a laborer. His body ws removed to Perth Amboy, where the funeral and burial will take place.

Marone Pleads Guilty.

Frank Marone, arrested here some time ago charged with carrying concealed weapons and held for the action of the Grand Jury, by Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court, was arraigned before Judge Edward S. Atwater in Elizabeth yesterday. He plead guilty to the charge and will be sentenced next Wednesday.

RELIGIOUS EFFORT

Plan Conference of Pastors and Laymen in Men and Religion Movement.

AT Y. M. C. A. HALL, OCTOBER 30

Addresses to Be Made By Newarkers Interested In Cause—All Local Protestant Churches to Be Represented.

A local committee which will work in conjunction with the Newark "Men and Religious Committee" in promoting a similar movement in Plainfield and North Plainfield was organized at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening. The committee comprises Howard McWilliams, chairman; Dr. H. K. Carroll, George H. Batchelor, F. R. Stevens, F. E. Smith, H. E. Parker, secretary.

The committee has planned for a conference of pastors and laymen to be held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Monday evening, October 30, at 8 o'clock. The purpose of this conference will be to suggest ways in which the local churches may participate in the movement. The program will include two addresses of vital interest to all men who are concerned in the promotion of this great movement here.

These addresses will be given by Henry D. Dickson, executive secretary of the Newark "Committee of One Hundred," who will speak upon the place of the local church in the "Men and Religion Movement," and by Rev. John McDowell, pastor of the Park Presbyterian church, of Newark, whose topic will be "The Church and the Social Problem." Mr. McDowell, who is chairman of the Newark committee on "Survey," will emphasize particularly the value of the survey which is a feature of the movement.

The committee has invited and has already received assurances of the co-operation of the pastors of all the Protestant churches of Plainfield and North Plainfield. Each pastor will appoint five laymen, who, together with himself, will represent his church at this conference. It is desired that just as far as possible these laymen represent the five phases of the movement's effort, namely, Evangelism, Bible study, Social Service, Missions and Boys' Work.

Invitations will be sent to the churches of all the surrounding towns to send representatives to this conference.

PLAN POULTRY SHOW AT LOCAL EXPOSITION

Perrin B. Jordan has been placed in charge of the poultry show at the Plainfield Industrial Exposition which will open tonight. All raisers and breeders of fancy and blooded fouls are requested to enter their birds in the show and a series of ribbons will be awarded for the most perfect specimens. There is no expense in connection with the entries and arrangements have been made with the Spratt Company to coop and feed the fouls while on exhibition. Two local fanciers will be named as judges to make the awards and Mr. Jordan, who is editor of a poultry journal published in Pennsylvania, promises to give all ribbon winners good space in his publication.

All desiring to make entries can do so by application at the exhibition grounds any time before Saturday but in order to make this feature of the affair a success and to afford a good showing, those who expect to make entries are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

MANY APPLICANTS FOR POSITIONS ON POLICE FORCE.

Since the resolution of the Common Council to increase the police force by twenty-five more patrolman became known, Chief Kiely has received numerous applications, a number of them being from out of town residents. They do not understand the law which requires them to be legal voters of Plainfield before being eligible to appointment. Among those who have made application are a number of men whom the chief thinks would make good men and when a sufficient number have been selected to make a class the examination will be held.

Announce Revival Meetings.

Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, will begin a series of revival meetings Sunday evening and they will continue for ten days. Rev. W. A Brown, of Orange, an evangelist, and excellent singer, will assist Mr. Roberts.

TETANUS VICTIM

Edwin Meyer Succumbs to Attack After Brief Illness.

SPLINTER CAUSES INFECTION.

Brother Died From Same Disease Four Years Ago—Family Continuation of Misfortunes.

Edwin Meyer, the seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, died suddenly at his parents' home yesterday afternoon following an attack of tetanus. The dreaded disease originated from a splinter in the palm of the hand and although the boy suffered pain for several days the seriousness of his condition did not become apparent until a short time before death ensued. His jaws began to stiffen yesterday morning causing the family great alarm as four years ago another son became a victim of tetanus, and three physicians were hastily summoned. Their efforts proved futile as the sufferer passed away at 3 o'clock.

Edwin was splitting wood at his home htree weeks ago and ran a small sliver in the palm of his hand. It escaped his notice until the slight wound began to fester. The splinter was then found and removed but later on the hand began to swell, forming an abcess. This was lanced by Dr. Westcott, the family physician, and to all appearances the trouble was overcome.

Shortly after arising yesterday morning Edwin declared his jaws felt stiff. Drs. Westcott, Munger and Hedges were hurriedly called and they found tetanus fully developed. Extreme measures were resorted to in the hope of saving the boy's life, but all to no purpose. The end came after considerable suffering.

The death of the young man came as a great shock to the community, especially to the younger people, with whom he was very popular. He had many friends here as well as in his home town. Beside his parents he is survived by five brothers and three sisters. They are Charles, Henry, Jr., William and Albert, of Scotch Plains, and Ferdinand, of Orange; Mrs. Alexander Muir, of Newark, and the Misses Louise and Esther Meyer, at home. Another son, Louis, died from tetanus in 1907. He had been celebrating the Fourth of July with a blank cartridge pistol and the accidental discharge of it lodged a piece of wadding in his hand. Lockjaw developed, causing his death after several days of intense agony.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer have been subjected to a series of misfortunes of late and have the sympathy of all. They returned from Europe after a two months trip two weeks, ago, accompanied by their son Albert. The latter met with a severe accident while on shipboard by falling on his head from a rope ladder. While the parents were away, Miss Louise Meyer was stricken with appendicitis, undergoing an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital. She has since fully recovered. Mr. Meyer also punctured his hand with a rusty nail several days ago and is still under the care of a physician.

The funeral of Edwin will be held at the parents' home, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

MISS FAHRENHOLZ MR. STENGLE'S BRIDE

Miss Rose Charlotte Fahrenholz, of New York, became the bride of Frank Hopkins Stengle, of East Seventh street, at his home this morning just before noon. Rev. Elory G. Bowers, rector of St. Stephen's church, officiated at the ceremony, which was attended only by the families of the bride and bridegroom. After the wedding service, an informal reception was held and a luncheon served before the newly married couple left for Philadelphia on their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside on East Seventh street.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Etta Fahrenholz as bridesmaid and Charles Lee, of Grove street, was best man.

Plainfielders Attend Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy J. Ellis, of this city, were among the guests at the wedding of Lucius T. Russell, publisher of The Elizabeth Evening Times, Elizabeth, and Miss Marion Genevieve Cronin, of Elizabeth, which took place in the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon. Among other guests were Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., and Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead

HIS PEACEFUL END

Nestor Woodworth Rappleye Passes Away While Taking a Nap.

AGED SEVENTY-EIGHT YEARS.

Wife, Two Children, Two Brothers and a Sister Survive Him—Funeral Services at Late Residence Tomorrow Afternoon.

Nestor Woodworth Rappleye, aged 78 years, a well known and respected citizen for many years, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. M. VanEmburgh, 1214 Putnam avenue, while taking his customary afternoon nap. He had been sleeping a little longer than his daughter thought he should and going to his room, she found her father lying on the floor.

Failing to arouse her father, the daughter summoned a neighbor, and then the family physician, Dr. E. W. Hedges, was called. When he arrived he found that life was extinct. Recently Mr. Randolph fell unconscious on the street and his physician told the family at that time that it indicated a serious condition and to be prepared for the worst.

Mr. Rappleye was born at Interlaken, Seneca county, New York, April 11, 1833, and was married in New York city, December 25, 1861, to Miss Helena Westervelt, of New York. While living at Interlaken, Mr. Rappleye was a farmer. Later he was engaged in the express business in New York and Jersey City. He had been a resident of this city about fifteen years, where he was a familiar figure and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

Mr. Rappleye is survived by an invalid wife; two children, Mrs. F. M. VanEmburgh, of this city, and Miss Eva Rappleye, who is a teacher in the public schools, Jersey City, and who lives home; also two brothers, George Rappleye, of Texas; Cedric Rappleye, of Brooklyn, and a sister, Mrs. Ann Covert, of Interlaken, N. Y.

The funeral service will be held at the late home, 1214 Putnam avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The burial will be private in the family plot at Hackensack.

TRINITY JUNIORS SELECT OFFICERS

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held its first meeting of the fall in the lecture room of the church yesterday afternoon, elected officers and planned for the work of the coming season. Owing to the fact that Mrs. Richard V. Kinney, who was superintendent, is ill, she has been obliged to give up the position, and Rev. J. Y. Broek, the pastor of the church, announced yesterday that Miss Etta Raybert and Miss Margaret Leggett would be the new superintendents, the former having charge of the older members of the society and Miss Leggett will look after the younger members.

Miss Jennie Sears conducted the devotional exercises and Mr. Broek made a few interesting remarks. These officers were elected for the year: President, Elmer French; first vice-president, Miss Nellie McAfee; second vice-president, Alfred Willett; secretary, Miss Louise Seader; treasurer, Russell Sears. Miss Lucie M. Coriell and Mrs. William Kriney also assisted in yesterday's meeting.

MISS LAURA CONNETT NOW MRS. ROBINSON.

Miss Laura M. Connett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connett, and John Lee Robinson, formerly of North Carolina, but now of Atlantic City, were married Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, officiated.

Miss Lucy Vaughn was the bridesmaid and William Dempsey was the best man. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride's gown was of white satin under a tunic of white metallic embroidery trimmed with silver lace and she wore a wreath of lilies-of-the-valley and a veil and carried bride roses.

The wedding march was played by Miss Viola Jones. John Richard Gates was an usher. The guests were from Washington and this city. The bride received many gifts. The couple will reside at Atlantic City.

—Peaches, Bartlett pears, Sickle pears, Concord grapes, Fall Pippins, Northern Spies will be among the special offerings at Neuman Bros.' for tomorrow's trade.

MISS PERRINE WEDS W. S. ZIMMERMAN

Miss Elizabeth Lee Perrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Perrine, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Martinsville, and William S. Zimmerman, formerly of Martinsville, but now of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents at Martinsville. Rev. W. S. MacRorie, pastor of the M. E. church at Mt. Horeb, performed the ceremony. Only the members of the two families attended the wedding. The home was attractively decorated for the affair with autumn foliage.

The bride wore a travelling suit of stone blue broadcloth, with a large hat to match, and she carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by Miss Jessie Bartle, of Martinsville, as bridesmaid. The best man was Edward J. Zimmerman, a brother of the groom. A reception followed the ceremony, when congratulations were offered and supper was served.

The couple is now enjoying a two weeks' honeymoon and upon their return will reside at 28 Linden avenue, where the groom has completely furnished a home. The bride was formerly employed in the millinery department at M. & A. Tepper's store. Mr. Zimmerman holds a responsible position with the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Cmpany, and employes of that concern presented the bride with a solid silver service. She also received many other gifts, including cut-glass, linen, furniture, crockery, etc.

COMMUTERS' DAY AUTOMOBILE PARADE

The automobile parade, which was the feature of "Commuter's Day" of the Plainfield Industrial Exposition, was held yesterday afternoon. The threatening weather prevented a number of machines being in line and there was considerable delay in starting as it was desired to make as good a showing as possible and a shower seemed eminent at the time the parade was scheduled to start.

In the absence of Frank L. C. Martin, Hugh A. Todd was made grand marshal. He had as aides Alexander Milne, Allen B. Laign, A. L. Bellis, C. B. Brokaw and Harry Marshall. Mayor Moy with John Ulrich, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, led the parade and their handsome car was followed by the Royal Venetian band mounted on a flat body machine. The other cars, all neatly decorated, stretched for some distance in the rear.

The parade went up West Seventh street to Grant avenue and returned to Park avenue on West Eighth street. Passing through Park avenue to Front street it moved along that thoroughfare to Grove street and then traversed the principal streets of the borough going through Mountain avenue to Leland avenue, and thence making its way back to the exposition grounds at Richmond and East Fifth streets.

The feature of the procession was the appearance made by the Thompson Auto Co entries. Seven Chalmers 36 made their first trip under power and all handsomely decorated was this firm's display.

Today is New Jersey State day when it is expected that a number of out of town visitors and officials of neighboring municipalities and State officials will be present. The attendance last night at the grounds indicates that the exposition is taking a hold on the people who seem to realize that more than one visit can be made to the grounds without seeing all that there is to be seen.

"The Real Thing."

When Catherine Chisholm Cushing hit upon the story of "The Real Thing," she hit upon one of the biggest ideas that has been seen in the theatre in years. Henrietta Crosman's success in this play has been unequivocable. It has been sweeping, and she played for months in the comedy at the Maxine Elliott Theatre in New York. "The Real Thing" is the purest, cleanest, sweetest, brightest and loveliest play that it has been Henrietta Crosman's good fortune to present. Miss Crosman will appear in "The Real Thing" at the Plainfield theatre tonight.

POLITICAL PLIGHT

Democratic Nominees in Dunellen Ineligible Because of Corrupt Practice Act.

NONE FILED A STATEMENT.

Primary Winners' Names Can't Be Printed On General Election Ballot Neither Can They Be Written On It According to Law.

Under the provisions of the Corrupt Practises Act which definitely states that successful primary candidates must file a statement within five days after their nomination, the entire list of Democratic nominees in Dunellen will not be eligible for office at the General Election in November. Not one of them has placed the required document in the hands of the borough clerk as they are compelled to do. As a result new names will have to be written on the ballots by order of the county committee before the Democrats can have a ticket. Moreover, the names of those who have violated the provisions of the Act can not be written on the ballots.

The list of ineligibles includes Charles E. Richards, candidate for Mayor, who has been president of the Borough Council. He resigned this office Monday night because of his nomination at the primaries. The others who failed to file their statements are William Shively and John J. Bolard, candidates for the Council, and Willard Apgar and Thomas J. Reynolds, named for the county committee. Richards was an eleventh-hour candidate at the primaries, his name being written on the ballots after Adam Herlick, petitioned for, had declined to run.

The provisions of the Corrupt Practises Act, which is frequently confounded with the new Geran law, make it emphatic that within five days after the primaries and twenty days after the General Election the sucessful candidate must place a statement in the hands of the municipal clerk and also the county clerk, giving the expense incurred in the campaign, itemizing all amounts over $5, and detailing other important facts. It also provides that the candidate's treasurer must do likewise. This was done by all the Republican candidates, although none of them spent anything, but no respone was made by the Democrats. None of them as yet, have offered any explanation as to the cause of their neigligence.

The Republican candidate for Mayor is Wilson S. Frederick, while Albert Meyers and Thomas J. Hogan are running for Council.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MISS S. M. KOECHLEIN.

About twenty-five young people from this city, all friends of Miss S. M. Koechlein, of Martinsville, enjoyed a straw ride to her home Tuesday evening, where they tendered her a miscellaneous shower. At the house they were joined by about the same number of her friends from that section and the two parties made a merry gathering. Miss Koechlein was generously remember with gifts, which included cut-glass, silver, a check for a goodly sum, linen, and various other articles.

The evening was enjoyably passed with music, games and dancing, after which refreshments rounded out the evening's pleasure. The guests present were from this city and North Plainfield, Watchung, Dunellen, South Plainfield, Warrenville, Springdale, Martinsville and other nearby towns. My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use T I Z. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after T I Z than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this.

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. To-day there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Progress, N. C.

Just use T I Z. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. T I Z cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. T I Z is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill

The Black Hand had another busy day, sending a letter to a harmless plumber and "setting" a bomb in the doorway of a firm of importers.

The Fourth Ecumenical Methodist Conference met in Toronto, Canada, more than four hundred delegates from all over the world being present.

Indictments might be returned, it was said, as a result of the confession made by John Horay, a convicted thief, implicating several policemen.

The bombardment of Tripoli was continued and all resistance overcome; no Italian landing was reported; efforts to form a Turkish ministry were unavailing and the domination of the Committee of Union and Progress seemed threatened.

Wilson's Faith in Publicty.

At all times and places, says a writer in "Success Magazine," Woodrow Wilson has counselled opening our governmental processes to the light. Thus at Minneapolis: "Every community is vaguely aware that the political machine upon which it looks askance has certain very definite connections with men who are engaged in business on a large scale, and the suspicion which attaches to the machine itself has begun to attach also to business enterprises just because these connections are known to exist. If these connections were open and avowed, if everybody knew just what they involved and just what use was being made of the alliance there would be no difficulty in keeping an eye upon affairs and in controlling them by public opinion. But unfortunately the whole process of lawmaking in America is a very obscure one. There is no highway of legislation, but there are many by-ways."

Miss Bonnell, of Madison avenue, entertained eighteen friends at a card party on Tuesday evening. Guests were present from out of town as well as Plainfield.

DOG KILLS DOG AND THEN ATTACKS A MAN.

After attacking and killing a hound owned by Howard Davidson, of Broad street, Brookdale, and attacking Davidson himself, a large black and white dog, supposed to be mad, was shot by him yesterday. Davidson heard a commotion in the yard and rushing out found his dog dead near the barn and the strange canine nearby. His dog had been badly bitten.

When Davidson approached the strange dog he sprang at him. Davidson was carrying a pail of water, which he threw at the dog. This drove the dog off and enabled Mr. Davidson to reach the house, where he procured his gun. When he returned the dog had started toward the woodland nearby. Davidson followed until he got within range and then killed the animal.

BEATTIE'S GRAVE CHOSEN.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 5.—At a secret session of the committee on cemeteries, three weeks ago, application was made by Henry C. Beattie, and permission was granted, for the burial of his son, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., the wife murderer, sentenced to die in the electric chair November 24. His body will lie in the Maury cemetery, beside that of his mother, and not far distant is the grave of the wife he murdered on Midlothian turnpike.

The action indicates that the aged father has apparently abandoned all hope of intervention by the Supreme Court, or by the Governor. No record was made of the committee's action, each member being pledged to secrecy.

The young wife murderer has been quoted as saying he would never die in the electric chair, and a close watch is being kept over him to prevent self-destruction.

NEW FOOTBALL SEASON

I see and have some kick about it.

A football is not the only thing to kick around here.

Was away three days last week, when I returned I found I had been sued, had no notice of it.

But that is nothing, that is not a circumstance to the injustice played me while I was so sick I could hardly hold my head up.

Plainfield poor man, I intend to be your friend some day.

GRAND JURY TO HOLD SESSION IN AFTERNOON

The October Grand Jury made a radical change yesterday in the hours it will be in session. Heretofore the jury did its work between the hours of 9 and 12 in the morning. Hereafter the hours it will be in session will be from 2 to 5 in the afternoon. The reason for the change is because of so many men whose business is jeopardized by their absence in the morning. The change will permit them to arrange their business affairs so that they can be absent in the afternoon without inconvenience.

Justice Bergen cautioned the jurors that if they decided to probe into excise maters they must not allow their personal feelings on such questions to interfere with their action, but should confine themselves solely to the one feature, "Are the laws being observed?"

ELECTRICAL WORKERS DINE AT THE 'PLAINS.

A dinner was given in honor of Past Worthy Presidents A. C. Wagner, Thomas Harding, H. B. Clark and S. Walp, by the Electrical Workers of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, of Plainfield, at H. J. Frowery's Hotel, Scotch Plains, Monday evening. The dining room was decorated with fancy lights and flags.

Past Worthy President H. B. Clark was toastmaster. He called on the first president of the local, Past Worthy Wagner for a speech. Mr. Wagner was cheered as he talked on the growth of the local and its high standing and how well it treated the bosses and in return received the highest respects from them. President Reynolds made a few remarks. Past Worthy Presidents Harding and Walp also spoke. The committee comprised C. L. Ryder, Jr., F. Pope and A. J. Stryker.

Medical Society Elects.

The physicians decided favorably upon the subject of the employment of a resident nurse by the Woman's Club of the town. The doctors discussed the purchase of an automobile ambulance, but as the town has this subject in hand no action was taken.

RECOVERS DAMAGE FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

By direction of Judge Rellstab a jury in the United States Circuit court at Trenton yesterday returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Carrie DeGroff, of this city, against the Central Railroad of New Jersey for $30,000 for the death of her husband several years ago. The case has been in the courts since shortly after Mr. DeGroff's death and the railroad company has several times appealed it to higher courts.

Mr. DeGroff was an engineer and was killed in the cab of his engine near Bound Brook junction one Saturday night by the breaking of the driving rod on the right side of the engine, which was traveling at a high rate of speed at the time of the acident. Mr. DeGroff was terribly bruised and battered about the limbs and body by the flying flail like piece of iron and was taken from the cab in an unconscious condition. He died while being removed to a hospital.

School Head Banqueted.

Calvin N. Kendall, Commissioner of Schools of New Jersy, was tendered a dinner last evening at the Newark Bay Club, Bayonne by Superintendent of Schools John W. Garr. Mr. Kendall inspected the schools during the afternoon, and later spoke at the dedication of No. 12 School. Others at the dinner were Dr. Thomas M. Balliet, Dean of New York University; Dr. Charles S. Chapin, President of the Montclair State Normal School; Superintendent of Schools Addison B. Poland, of Newark; Henry Snyder, of Jersey City; J. R. Beachler, of Nutley, A. J. Demarest, of Hoboken; Dr. Charles H. Keyes, President of the National Council of Education; Mayor John J. Cain, of Bayonne, and the members of the Bayoone Board of Education.

Octogenarian Dies Suddenly.

Cranford, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Diana Morrison, aged 80 years, widow of the late John M. Morrison, formerly of Plainfield, died suddenly of apoplesy at her home, 103 Holly street, early yesterday morning. Mrs Morrison had been a resident of Cranford for over twenty years. She is survived by two children, George A. Morrison and Mrs. M. H. Armstrong, of Cranford. Funeral services of a private character were held this afternoon. Interment was at Fairview cemetery, in Westfield.

Holy Name Society's Parade.

It is expected that there will be fully six thousand Roman Catholics in line on Sunday, when the annual demonstration of the Holy Name societies of Passaic and Bergen counties is held in Paterson. The parade will be one of the largest ever seen in that vicinity. The parade will start with the ringing of the chimes on old St. John's church, and the line of march will be through the principal streets of Paterson.

TAFT TO REVIEW FLEET.

New York to Have Fall Naval Parade.

Washington, Oct. 5.—President Taft has been invited to review the most imposing naval demonstration ever held in American waters which will take place at New York early in November. Secretary of the Navy Meyer has written a letter to Mr. Taft asking him to terminate his trip in New York city on November 1 next instead of in Washington, as is contemplated in the present itinerary.

Whether the President will be able to change his itinerary and attend the review or not, Secretary Meyer will be on hand to inspect the assembled vessels.

The moblization of all the available vessels on the Atlantic coast in the vicinity of New York has been decided on in lieu of a fall cruise.

Recently there have been many protests from officers of the Atlantic fleet that they have been worked too hard by the protracted foreign cruises which have been held yearly for the last several years.

SUMMONS EXCISE BOARD.

Mayor Stein, of Elizabeth, Hopes to Better Conditions.

Elizabeth, Oct. 5.—Mayor Stein announced yesterday morning that he had called a meeting of the Excise Board in his office for Friday night, and that at that time he would go over the situation thoroughly and try and devise some means whereby the present condition of things could be bettered. While the Mayor admitted that he had no authority to call such a meeting he intimated that he thought the commissioners would attend.

If this plan fails the Mayor says he intends to see what a system of publicity would do. The meeting is looked on as the logical outcome of the presentment of the last Grand Jury and the action of the board in granting licenses over the protest of a majority of the residents of the section affected.

GARVEY IS HELD IN TAXICAB MYSTERY.

New York, Oct. 5.—Martin Garvey, who has been identified by three witnesses as the "taxicab slayer," was held yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court for examination Monday afternoon upon the charge of killing Adolph Stern, a clerk for Jeweler Jacob Jacoby, during the daring robbery of Jacob's store at Sixth avenue and Thirteenth street, on the night of July 22. William E. Demarest, a driver, of 49 Grove street, was also held as a material witness.

The arraignment came after three witnesses had positively identified Garvey as the man who had shot and killed the jeweler's clerk. All of them saw the actual shooting, and all of them picked Garvey both from his pictures and from a personal inspection as the man they saw commit the crime.

Ethel Barrymore Ill.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 5.—Ethel Barrymore, the actress, was taken suddenly ill yesterday and tonight is in a critical condition at the Oliver Hotel, being threatened with peritonitis. So serious is her condition that all engagements have been canceled for ten days. As soon as she can be moved she will be taken to a Chicago hospital.

The Junior Mission Band, of the First Baptist church, will hold its fall meeting in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. All the members are requested to attend and learn of the plans for the coming season.

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Oracle published a special freshman number yesterday. It is unique in its form and includes many "knocks" as well as advice to the freshmen. Another feature is the cartoons drawn by members of the school, showing their impressions of the freshmen class. Katherine Webster, Dorothy Smith, Arthur VanZandt and Janus Lindzey supplied the cartoons.

Miss Sophia Woodman has been added to the teaching force of the Plainfield High School. She will have classes in German and English. As the German class is overcrowded it will be divided. Before the change Miss Daisy Day had charge of the German classes.

The football team was given a set of signals yesterday. Manager Phillips has been unable to arrange a game for Saturday, but he will secure an opponent for next Wednesday if possible. In the meantime the players will put in the time in practice.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School met this morning to select a class pin. The members could not agree and another meeting will be held for that purpose.

Woman's Society Elects.

The Woman's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held its annual meeting in the church parlors, yesterday afternoon, when there was a discussion of plans for the coming year and these officers were elected: President, Mrs. William C. Hubbard; vice-president, Mrs. Sarah Wardner; secretary, Mrs. Frank Hubbard; treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Dunham; recording secretary, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph. The committees will be appointed later.

No Objection to Brodhead.

Despite reports to the contrary, President Ellis, of the Plainfield Democratic Club, today stated that there was no opposition of a personal nature to the appointment of Calvin E. Brodhead, of this city, as a member of the Democratic County Committee when that suggestion was made by him at a meeting of that body on Tuesday night. The sole objection, he asserts, was based on the ground that Brodhead was ineligible because he did not reside in the district where there was a vacancy.

N. P. H. S. Class Pins.

The N. P. H. S. junior class received the class pins today and they are being worn with pardonable pride by the boys and girls. The pin is made up in original design octagonal in shape with the initials of the school inlaid in gold on a red background, these being the class colors. At the bottom is the figure '12 and the effect is enriched with pearls.

Ordained to Ministry.

Rev. Conrad Blunk, of this city, was ordained to the ministry at a service in the German Lutheran church in Elizabeth, last night. Rev. Christian G. Fisher, president of the New York Synod, was in charge, and Rev. M. Tappert, of New York, preached the ordaination sermon. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of Plainfield friends.

Not a Parish School.

The kindergarten and primary day school to be organized under the direction of Rev. Elory G. Bowers on Monday will have its class rooms in the clergyman's apartments. The school will be in charge of Mr. Bowers personally and will not be connected with St. Stephen's parish, of which he is rector.

Arrest Suspicious Character.

Thomas J. Brennan, of New York, was arrested last night by Patrolman Kelley as a suspicious character. He was loitering on Prescott place in the vicinity of West Third street. When arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning he was allowed to go under a suspended sentence, providing he left town at once.

Governor Wilson's Visit.

When Governor Wilson visits Plainfield on October 19, while touring Union county, he will deliver an address at the Plainfield theatre. President L. J. Ellis, of the Plainfield Democratic committee, is now engaged in making arrangements for the Governor's reception here.

Bench Show October 21.

The annual bench show to be held by the Plainfield Kennel Club at the Riding and Driving Club park will take place on Saturday, October 21, and not on Saturday, October 7, as originally planned. The largest entry list in the history of local bench shows has been received.

BOY RUN DOWN BY AUTO; WOMAN DRIVER ESCAPES.

While riding a bicycle on Park avenue this morning, Christopher C. Christmas, janitor at The Plainfield Trust Company, was knocked down and run over by an automobile runabout driven by a woman, whose name he did not get because she did not stop. He says the license number on the car was 27,325 and the police are investigating.

The bicycle was badly wrecked, but the rider escaped with but a few bruises and contusions. The accident occurred at the intersection of Park avenue and Front street, the automobile turning into Park avenue from West Front street. Christmas was riding in the opposite direction.

MISS CLARICE ARCHER BRIDE OF C. K. GARRETSON.

Miss Clarice Archer, daughter of former Mayor and Mrs. James B. Archer, of New Brunswick, was married last night to Charles Knowles Garretson, of Somerville, at the home of the brides' parents, by Rev. T. Chalmers Easton, of East Orange, formerly pastor of the Highland Park Reformed church. Mrs. Arthur Bliss White, of Red Bank; Miss Molita Archer, the bride's sister, and Miss Jessie Morrison, were the bride's attendants and William Garretson, a brother of the groom, was the best man. The ushers were Robert T. Messler and Walter Barnes, of Somerville.

Raid Cock Fight.

All Teaneck is still laughing over the raid made by Walter Ely, J. A. Knickerbocker and Arthur Bratt, of the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals on a cockfight in the Firemen's Hall, Hackensack, on Tuesday night. The Athletic Committee of the Teaneck Volunteer Firemen's Association were giving a series of burlesque sports, and there was a large audience there. Swimming contests on the floor, as well as boxing and rowing events were on the program. The cockfight was between two boys, who were to stand on one foot and peck at each other. They were going through their act when the three S. P. C. A. men made their raid, dashing upstairs, only to be met by laughing faces.

An Unfortunate Chew.

Washington, Pa., Oct. 5.—A chew of tobacco taken while leading a ferocious bull at the Burgetstown fair, fifteen miles north of here, early yesterday morning will probably prove fatal to Elza Dowler, a farmer of northern Washington county. Dowler had the bovine on exhibition and was leading the animal to the prize ring by a rope attached to a ring in the bull's nose. He relaxed his watchfulness for a moment while he extracted a chew of tobacco from his pocket. The bull on the instant charged him, hurled him twenty-five feet and then trampled and gored him. Dowler had five ribs broken, both legs ripped open and sustained injuries.

Strike Bonanza in Baffin's Land.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 5.—The crew of a vessel charatered by B. Elmsley, of Ottawa, and Richard White, of St. John's have found rich and valuable gold eposits in Labrador. Their ship, the Kit, has brought back five tons of mineral samples, including gold quartz, copper, iron, mica and other metals. The placer gold was dug out of rivers and dry beds in the Baffin's Land valley, in some cases samples proving the richest since the California strike.

Hunt Club Chase.

A number of members of the Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed a short run yesterday afternoon as a preliminary to the run to be held Saturday. The hunters met the hounds at the kennels and covered the vicinity of South Plainfield. Saturday the hounds will be met at Mt. Pleasant at 3 o'clock.

FINGER PRINTS NOT EVIDENCE OF GUILT

Jersey City, Oct. 5.—Frank Miller, the alleged "Raffles" of the Bergen district, tried yesterday before Common Pleas Justice Robert Garey, in Hudson County Quarter Sessions Court, for burglary, was acquitted by a jury that was out about half an hour.

Miller was picked up on suspicion and held because his "finger prints" corresponded to those found on a piece of broken glass that fell from the door of the home of David Bender, 116 Fairview avenue. Bender's home was robbed on the night of May 10, 1911. About a month later Miller was arrested as a suspicious person in the Bergen district by Policeman John J. Hare.

Miller's finger prints, taken by Abraham Brown, the telegraph superintendent of the local police department, were carried to Manhattan police headquarters, there Joseph Faurote, who says he has figured in about 65,000 finger print cases, made comparisons and found those of Jacob Burman, arrested in New York for burglary ten years ago to be the same as those found on the piece of glass from Mr. Bender's door. Today in court Faurote identified Miller as the man Burman whose finger prints he took ten years ago.

Miller was not placed on the stand to defend himself yesterday. He said he was willing to leave with the jury whether finger prints ought to convict him.

Joseph A. Solovei, an East New York lawyer, defended Miller. Assistant Prosecutor James W. McCarthy handled the State's case.

"OFFICAL PRICE" FOR TURKEY, 28c POUND.

Bernardsville, Oct. 5.—Twenty-eight cents a pound for turkeys on the wing was the "official price" set by the Township Committee when two claims were presented for birds that had been killed by dogs. David Dilts asked $13 for three turkeys, one of which was killed by a dog and the other two had disappeared. He was allowed $7.84, which was at the rate of twenty-eight cents a pound for twenty-eight pounds.

Estella M. Doty also had a claim in for a turkey, which, she said, had been killed by a dog. She was given the same price as was Dilts. Her bird, she stated, weighed twelve pounds.

RIEP'S NOSE AS O'HARA TARGET.

Councilman Lands Twice On Police Marshal at North Arlington.

In a quarrel that followed the North Arlington Council meeting Tuesday night, Councilman Edward O'Hara struck Marshal Fred Riepe twice on the nose. The claret was drawn. Yesterday morning the marshal left on a car for Hackensack, where, he said, he would swear out a warrant for the arrest of the councilman.

The two men came together just as the council meeting adjourned. Since O'Hara was defeated as a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination no love has been lost between him and Riepe. The latter was an out-and-out supporter of Mayor Brandenburg, the councilman's opponent for the nomination.

O'Hara called Riepe aside and accused him of having said that O'Hara gave a certain resident of the borough, who is said to be a councilman, several loads of manure for his vote at the primary.

Riepe denied having made such a statement. O'Hara applied the shorter and uglier word to the marshal. Riepe still denied the accusation. O'Hara again gave the lie, prefixing an emphatic adjective. Riepe this time, it is alleged, retored with a like epithet. O'Hara hauled off and planted his fist against the windward side of Riepe's nose and followed up the blow with another, which landed on the same spot.

Riepe made no effort to strike back, but Vincent O'Hara, the councilman's brother, stepped between them and stopped all hostilities. Riepe went to the cloakroom of the schoolhouse and got a cloth with which to wipe the blood from his face.

GIRL'S MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

School Teacher Found Dead in Disordered Room.

New York, Oct. 5.—Miss Anita M. Ketcham, business manager of the Brearley School was found dead in bed Tuesday at the home of her cousin, Edwin Thorne, 558 Madison avenue. Mr. Thorne is secretary of the New York Dock Company. Mr. Thorne an his family are at their summer home, in Babylon, L. I., and Miss Ketcham had been with them until yesterday, when she came to New York. She went to the Madison avenue house, where the caretaker, Mrs. Petersen, had prepared rooms for her.

When Mrs. Petersen went down stairs this morning she found the inner vestibule door open. The street door was locked. Lying on the floor of the vestibule were two coats, the property of Mrs. Thorne, which had been locked in a cupboard upstairs. The caretaker then went to Miss Ketcham's room. This was in disorder, while Miss Ketcham was dead.

Riding a Giraffe.

General Wood of the English army was the hero of many adventures, but the one he called the strangest is the time he rode a giraffe in India. With a party of friends he was being entertained by the rajah of Jowra, who exhibited his rare collection of wild animals to his guests. General (then Major) Wood was a daring horseman and on a wager offered to ride the giraffe with no bridle save a rope. The rajah warned him of the danger, but he would not listen. So the giraffe was brought to a balcony, from which the major vaulted on its back. Instantly the great creature was off like the wind, and, once fairly started, it settled down into a curious gallop that soon made the rider so sick and dizzy that he fell off like a log, receiving a blow on the head from the animal's knee and then in the face from its foot. He was unconscious for an hour, and the first use he made of his voice was to resolve that he would never ride a giraffe again.

Morgan as a Mathematician.

J. P. Morgan was almost bred a mathematician. While at Gottingen Morgan specialized in mathematics, and with the professor of mathematics he would spend long hours at problems. Some years ago a number of New Yorkers who had been at the Gottingen university together held a dinner and invited their old professor of mathematics, who happened to be visiting this country, to be present. The German stood his ground—he gave them his own idea. Looking at Mr. Morgan, he said that he was indeed very glad his old pupil had succeeded so well as a banker. "But I regret," he went on, "that you did not remain at the university. Had you stayed with me you would have been my assistant as long as I lived, and unquestionably at my death you would have been appointed professor of mathematics in my place."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Dust Whirls.

Seaward flowing waters are not alone responsible for the denudation of soils. Those who have watched dark dust storms approaching will be interested to know that estimates of solid material suspended in the air run from 100 to 126,000 tons per cubic miles of air where such storms are prevalent. The aeolian geologist, Udden, taking conservative values and using fairly accurate data for the number, velocity and duration of the dust storms in the western states, concluded that "on the average about 850,000,000 tons of dust are carried 1,440 miles each year, thus doing in this region alone about 1,225,000,000,000 mile tons of transport." The dust whirls run each an average distance of 218 miles.

Millepedes.

The little creature which possesses the distinction of having more legs than any other animal is that which belongs to the family of insects known as millepedes or thousand footed. There are several different species of these, but they all possess the common characteristic of having segmented bodies, each segment of which is provided with its own pair of feet. These are set so closely along the body as to resemble hairs, and when they move one after another with perfect regularity the effect is precisely the same on a small scale as that of a field of oats undulating under the influence of the wind. Some species of millepedes have as many as 350 separate and distinct legs. They are all perfectly harmless.

Encouragement Enough.

"But why should you be so dreadfully surprised and disappointed when I decline your offer?" she asked recently. "I am certain that I never gave you the least encouragement to propose to me."

"You did!" he cried bitterly. "You gave me the greatest encouragement."

"When?"

"When you told me your income was $25,000 a year."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sarcastic Wills.

One eccentric Frenchman directed that a new cooking recipe should be pasted on his tomb every day, and another Frenchman, who was a lawyer, left $50,000 to a lunatic asylum, declaring that it was simply an act of restitution to the clients who were insane enough to employ his services.

Staging a Play.

"I can give you the part of a butler."

"I couldn't take a small part like that."

"You are evidently not used to society drama. The butler has his share of the epigrams."—Pittsburg Post.

His Intentions.

Mrs. Rasher—Has Mr. Goldcoin, with whom you have been dancing all the evening, at last declared his intentions, Mabel? Mabel—Yes, aunt. Mrs. Rasher—I am so glad! And what did he say? Mabel—He declared he would never marry.—Vogue.

Trinidad's Pitch Lake.

All efforts to ascertain the depth of the famous pitch lake of Trinidad has been unsuccessful. At the sides of the lake the pitch is hard and cold, but at the center it is almost constantly boiling.

Happiness.

Happiness is rather a negative than a postive term in this world and consists more in the absence of some things than in the presence of others. —Sam Slick.

Fine manners need the support of fine manners in others.—Emerson.

Paint that Stays Painted

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Good Money After Bad.

It is a curious fact that many men, level headed enough about other things, seem to lose their wits entirely when they become involved in lawsuits. In one case recently concluded in the German courts a Berlin merchant paid out over $900 to recover the value of a five cent postage stamp. He had written a letter asking for an address and inclosing postage for reply. Failing to get an answer, he sued for the stamp.

The famous Missouri watermelon case was just as trifling and even more disastrous. The seed was planted on one farm, but the vine crept through a crack in the rail fence, and the melon grew on the other side. Both farmers claimed it, and instead of perceiving the humor of the situation they went to law. To add to the puzzling features of the question of ownership there was the further complication in that the fence stood on a county line, whereupon a question of the jurisdiction of the courts came up. The farmers bankrupted themselves without obtaining a decision as to the ownership.—Green Bag.

Liquid Dynamite.

The Mexicans have a native brandy called aguardiente, which is a species of liquid dynamite, as palatable as corrosive sublimate and as full of potential deviltry as an egg is of meat. When you find a Mexican gentleman adorned with a belt full of deadly weapons decorating and deluging his interior with aguardiente it is the part of prudence to retire to a bombproof. There is another tipple, a white, innocent looking fluid called mescal, which is distilled from a cactus of the same name, which has in it all the combined energy, activity and homicidal possibilities of a volcano mixed up with the gable end of a mule. In former days the Apache Indians made a crude distillation of the same stimulant, which they called tis-win, and as a preliminary to a raid among ranches and settlements it was a great success from an Indian point of view.—Boston Herald.

The Crocodiles Dived.

The cunning of wild animals in concealing themselves in moments of danger is well known. A party, spending a week on the Nile, were watching eight or ten crocodiles sunning themselves on the surface of a small lagoon. It was determined to trap these monsters, if possible. The water was breast deep, including about two feet or more of heavy mud. Four nets were tied together, so as to make one long enough to reach across the lagoon, and this was weighted on the bottom. This net was drawn with long poles from each shore, and behind the net came a line of men a yard apart, prodding the mud with poles. The scheme looked like an admirable one, but the crocodiles sleepily dived, and that was the last seen of them. The water was dragged backward and forward, but they had burrowed so deeply in the mud that not one could be found.

A Political Genius.

Congressmen sometimes adopt queer expedients to gain the good will of their constituents. Years ago a member from a western state was afraid that his first term would be his last, as he had not managed to make himself a power in congress. While he was debating what he should do a friend said, "You live near the center of the United States, don't you?" "Yes." "Then why don't you introduce a bill to have the capital moved to the principal town in your district?" The congressman introduced the bill, and the people of his district at once concluded he was a great man and sent him back for another term. He reintroduced the bill in the next congress, and, although it was promptly pigeonholed in committee, his constituents gave him a third term as a reward for his genius.

The Blushing Octopus.

The octopus frequently changes in color like a marine chameleon. It would appear, from studies of this creature, that the colored pigment whereby this change in color is effected is contained in envelopes in its skin, in the tissue of which are muscular fibers actuated by nerves. Should these fibers become relaxed a dark pigment appears. The phenomenon is said to be analogous to blushing.—Harper's Weekly.

Corrected Him.

A reporter was once interviewing Thomas A. Edison.

"And you, sir," he said to the inventor, "made the first talking machine?"

"No," Mr. Edison replied, "the first one was made long before my time—out of a rib."

Three Not of a Kind.

Sir Henry Maine's famous political diagnosis is worth quoting. The king of England reigns, but does not govern. The president of the United States governs, but does not reign. The president of France neither reigns nor governs.—Boston Herald.

Usual Reason.

"He used to be a straight enough young chap. What made him get crooked?"

"Trying to make both ends meet, I believe."—Toledo Blade.

His Strong Face.

"Bilkein's is a strong face or I'm no judge of physiognomy."

"It ought to be. He and his whole family are living on it."—Buffalo Courier.

Obedience is not truly performed by the body of him whose heart is dissatisfied.—Saadi.

MOTHER KILLED IN EFFORT TO SAVE CHILD

Spring Lake, Oct. 5.—All fear of a swiftly approaching express train overcome by her mother-love, Mrs. Lloyd Thompson, 23 years old, of Allenwood, yesterday threw herself in front of the on-rushing engine and gave her life in an unsuccessful attempt to save that of her two-year-old son. The child, in its play, had toddled on the tracks and stood there laughingly watching his frantic mother rush toward him evidently believing it was some kind of a game she was playing.

Mrs. Thompson just managed to reach her child and grasp it to her breast when the engine struck her and hurled her and the child far aside from its path. Horrified onlookers rushed to the spot where Mrs. Thompson and her child had struck the earth and found her dead, with the child still alive and hugged tight to her inanimate form.

While the child had been severely injured it was believed the heroic mother's efforts had saved its life, and without the loss of a second it was tenderly carried on board the train that had caused its mother's death and rushed to Freehold, where it was taken on board another train for Long Branch. Shortly after it had been received in the Memorial Hospital at Long Branch it died.

Mrs. Thompson was the daughter-in-law of Freeholder Robert C. Thompson, of Monmouth county, and was at Allenwood superintending the placing of her household goods in the new home which her husband had built to replace her old home destroyed by fire last spring. The husband and father is grief stricken over his loss and it was a difficult matter to find one with strength of mind sufficient to break the news of his double bereavement to him.

AUTOS TAKE LEAD IN JERSEY ROAD MISHAPS.

Twelve killed and 120 injured is the toll exacted on New Jersey roads from August 28 to September 28, inclusive, as detailed in the report of Colonel Edward S. Cornell, of the National Highways Protective Association, made public yesterday. Five of the fatalities and 72 of the injuries were the result of automobile accidents.

Of 94 accidents, the report shows that 64, or sixty-eight per cent. of the total, were due to automobiles. On only one day of the month—September 10—was there no accident on the highways of the State.

Colonel Cornell has also completed a summary of grade crossing accident statistics from January 1 to October 1 of this year. Seventy accidents in all occurred, resulting in injuries to 43 and death to 27 persons. Five autos and 13 wagons were demolished.

A summary of the report on road accidents for September shows automobiles in the lead as death dealing agents. Besides death and injuries by automobiles, 2 deaths and 6 persons injured are accredited to trolley accidents; wagons claimed 2 killed and 7 injured. Autos in collisions injured 7; trolleys in collision injured 5. Automobiles and trolleys in collision injured 1. Autos and wagons in collision, injured 3. Trolleys and wagons colliding injured 13. Runaways resulted in the killing of 2 persons and 4 injured. Motorcycles injured 1 and bicycles killed 1 and injured 1.

NEWSPAPER PICTURE LED TO FUGITIVE'S CAPTURE.

Paterson, Oct. 5.—Accused of jumping his bail while awaiting trial in Hudson county on a charge of bigamy, Herman Fieber has been located here through the discovery, by his landlady, of a picture of Fieber and an account of his offenses in an old newspaper. Detectives have been hunting for Fieber since July, 1909. When he disappeared a suit of clothes and an overturned boat near Canarsie led to the belief that he had committed suicide. Later he was located in Berlin and traced to this country.

The trail was lost, however, until about two months ago, when Fieber and a girl companion came to Clifton and engaged rooms.

Fieber and his companion will be arraigned before Judge Scott here Friday. The charges against the man include bigamy, larceny, embezzlement, non-support and desertion, it is said.

FORMER SENATOR SUES MAN WHO ARRESTED HIM.

New Brunswick, Oct. 5.—Suit for $2,000 has been instituted by former Senator Theodore Strong against William A. Phillips, game warden of Franklin Township, who arrested Strong several days ago for gunning without a license and having a dove in his possession. Strong complains of illegal arrest and carrying concealed weapons.

The plaintiff alleges the arrest was the result of a grudge against the former Senator because he prosecuted a suit against Phillips and his father, brought by Mrs. Anna C. Fraley, for the breaking of her horse's leg with a rifle bullet, and secured a verdict for $200. He alleges the game warden also drew a revolver on him in making the arrest.

Chalmers "Thirty Six"

This monogram on the radiator stands for all you can ask in a motor car

It's Here!

The Wonderful New Self-Starting Chalmers "Thirty-Six"—$1800

OUR "Thirty-six" demonstrating car has arrived. You can now see the car you have heard so much about the past few weeks—the car that has set a new standard of automobile value.

The car with big, long stroke motor, Chalmers self-starter, four forward speed transmission, Continental demountable rims, 36-inch by 4-inch tires, and a dozen other features, for $1,800. We invite you to come and see the new car.

The Chalmers "Thirty-six" is a car at a medium price which leaves nothing to be desired. The splendid, long stroke motor will develop all the power you can use. This 4¼x5¼ inch motor is a great puller; a wonderful hill-climber; and gives you all the speed you want.

The four forward speed transmission—until now found only on the highest priced makes—gives a flexibility of control hitherto unknown on medium priced cars.

The new Chalmers compressed air self-starter and the Continental demountable rims do away with the last of the originial inconveniences of automobiling.

No car since the Chalmers "30" first appeared has made such an impression on the automobile trade and on the public as the new "Thirty-six." Everyone who has seen it—dealers, purchasers, and even competitors—all admit that it is a wonderful value at the price.

We again invite you to come in and see this new model.

This car made its first appearance on the street in the Automobile Parade yesterday, and needless to say attracted the most attention.

EASTERN LEAGUE CLUB PLAYS HERE SATURDAY

Manager Dorflinger, of the Plainfield Baseball Club, has arranged for his team to play the Baltimore team of the Eastern League club, at Crescent Oval on Saturday afternoon. The Baltimores have three strong pitchers, Vickers, Adkins and Frock and one of the trio will be in the box, with either Egan, Murray or Payne behind the rubber. The rest of the players are well known.

Plainfield will offer its regular lineup with Linderman and Nelson in the points and the rest of the positions taken by the regular players. This will be the first time that Baltimore has played here and the fans should give them a big reception. The lineup for the visitors will be as follows:

Rath, 3b; Corocoran, rf; Walsh, lf; Schmidt, 1b; Parent, 2b; Maesel, ss; Getman, cf; Egan, Murray, Payne, catchesrs; Vickers, Adkins and Frock, pitchers.

LEAGUE'S DIRECTORS GIVE 'PETS' PENNANT

The magnates of the Central New Jersey League met last night and formally declared the Plainfield team the winner of the pennant. All postponed games were called off as the results would not affect the standing of the winning team and the various managers were anxious to disband their nines for the season. The league was voted a success and it was the consensus of those present that the league should be continued next season. To this end another meeting will be held shortly after the holidays to formulate plans for next summer.

Those present last night were "Chet" Cawley, manager of the Somerville team who also acted as president in the absence of A. M. Beekman; Newhouse and Hoagland, of Bound Brook, Eller and Flannery of Scotch Plains, Steele and Dorflinger of Plainfield. Westfield and High Bridge were not represented, but sent communications and acting on the one from High Bridge, Westfield was instructed to pay the guarantee for last Saturday's game which was forfeited and also to pay the umpire's expenses. It was indicated that the Westfield team would be under a different management next year.

COMMUTERS WIN SUIT.

Railroads Must Make Rates to Jersey City.

Trenton, Oct. 5.—As the outcome of a fight started by the New Jersey State Commuters' Association the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners issued an order yesterday requiring all railroads running to Jersey City or Hoboken to issue commutation tickets to the points from other places within the State. The railroads will also be required to publish rates for such tickets and to file schedules with the commissioners. The order is to become effective on December 1.

Following the recent changes in the schedules of rates the railroad stopped issuing commutation tickets between Jersey City, Hoboken and Camden and other points in the State. The result was that commuters to these cities were compelled to buy their tickets to New York or Philadelphia. This made the traffic interstate and removed the jurisdiction of determining the reasonableness of the rates from the Public Utilities Commission.

The order issued by the board is preliminary to a subsequent inquiry designed to determine whether the new commutation rates when fixed are reasonable or otherwise. The board refused to make this question a part of the present inquiry.

A REGULAR BEAR.

'Frisco Man Can "Jowf" So Grizzlies Understand.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 5—Charles Kellogg, of San Francisco, who says he can talk to bears so they understand is in town. To some of the scientists at Harvard he will show, he says, what a man who has lived among birds and animals all his life in the wilds can do with his voice.

Mr. Kellogg just returned from Paris, where he is said to have astonished the scientists of the French capital with his wonderful voice.

A year ago he "talked bear" to a motherly grizzly and three cubs high in the California Sierras while he made their pictures on a long reel of film.

"I have no sense of fear," said Mr. Kellogg, "and for this reason the animals do fear me. I have no more fear of a full-grown grizzly than you have of a turtle dove. I can talk to the bear so that the bear will understand, just the same way, only in a different language, that I would talk to a rattlesnake or a humming bird."

Mr. Kellogg says his work is a gift, not an accomplishment, and can not tell how he produces the sounds like those made by birds and animals. His marvelous attainments, Mr. Kellog explains, are merely as "birthmarks." He has an incipient palate, no tonsils and the cord connecting the teeth with the lower lip is wholly missing, although he has been assured by noted specialists that there is nothing abnormal about his throat.

JACOBSON SEEKS PARDON.

Claimed Killing of Wife Was Accidental.

Elizabeth, Oct. 5.—A petition, which will be presented to the Board of Pardons when it meets early in March, is being circulated throughout the city today asking for clemency in the case of Walter Jacobson, who shot and killed his wife in 1909, and was sentenced to three years in State's Prison by Justice Bergen on February 7, 1910.

It is claimed that the shooting was accidental. Jacobson was a member of Company C. N. G. N. J., and had taken his rifle home with the permission of his captain. He was attempting to show her the action of the piece, it is said, when the weapon accidentally exploded and the bullet struck her in the heart causing instant death.

The members of his company did all in their power, but it was necessary for Jacobson to enter a plea of non vult and he received three years in State prison.

Martin Mantz, of Pearl street, who has been quite ill with pleurisy, is much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Drake, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, are parents of a girl born to them on Thursday. Mrs. Drake was Miss Lucy Jennings, of this city.

Mrs. Emma Steele Berrian, of Madison avenue, has returned from Sullivan county, N. Y., where she attended the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Ella Steele Steffens, of Chicago, who died September 30, while on a visit to their brother, Dr. W. G. Steele.

WILLIAM JEFFERY ANNOUNCES THAT HE IS NOT A CANDIDATE.

The People's Circles held a largely attended meeting at the Berkeley Lyceum, Berkeley Heights, last night, when William Jeffery announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election to membership on the township committee. He urged the members to vote at the coming election according to the dictates of their own conscience and that the Circles as a body take no part in the campaign.

The Circles decided to accede to the request of Mr. Jeffery and refrain from taking any part in politics, but to hold themselves ready for any emergency in township affairs. The members also promised their support in the proposition to build a new school at Berkeley Heights.

UNION REVIVAL SERVICES TO BEGIN MONDAY NIGHT.

The union revival services under the auspices of the local Methodist churches will begin Monday night at Grace M. E. church, continuing for a week. Monday night, Rev. Herbert Randolph, formerly pastor of Grace church, but now at Montclair, holding one of the best charges in the Newark Conference, will preach and the local pastors will alternate on the other nights.

Ed Washington Jailed.

Edward Washington, a local colored man who has a police record on both sides of the brook, was arrested in the borough by Marshal Keller at 1:30 this morning. He was gloriously drunk, putting up a stiff fight before he was landed in jail. Recorder Dolliver fined him $3 with the alternative of ten days in jail. Scouts have been out all morning trying to get the money for him.

The Middlesex Gun Club will hold its first shoot of the season tomorrow afternoon on the clubs' grounds at Clinton avenue and West Seventh street. Regular shoots will now be held every week as long as the weather permits.

GERMANS DESERT SHIP CAUGHT HERE BY POLICE

Four German youths giving their names as Hans Petras, sixteen years old; August Edens, eighteen years old; Christian Spehr, eighteen years old, and Clifford Lenaschke, seventeen years old, all of Holzberg, Germany, were arrested here this morning by Patrolman Dobson, who found them wandering about in an aimless manner. When questioned they said that they were working their way to Chicago having arrived in this country with very little money on the President Lincoln, of the Hamburg American line, on September 28.

Dobson took the quartet to police headquarters, where they were examined by Chief Kiely. Some of the answers to the chief's questions were conflicting, so he called up the Hamburf American steamship office in Hoboken and learned that the quartet were a part of the crew of the vessel on which they said they were passengers and had deserted after the ship arrived at Hoboken. An official of the company and an agent of the immigration department asked that the youths be detained until their arrival late this afternoon when some decision will be reached as to what disposition should be made of the runaways.

BORO MAN GETS UNEXPECTED DRENCHING

John Jackson, brother of Stonewall Jackson, thought it was a little too cool for comfort in his home on upper Somerset street, last evening, and went to the cellar to start the furnace. While he was at work firing up he thought he heard a tap on a window pane several times but could discern nothing by cursory glances in the direction from which they came. Finally there was a pronounced "bang" that threatened to smash the glass and he hurried to raise the window. As he did so, the contents of a pail, filled with pure cold water, caught him squarely in the face.

Drenched and dripping, though he was, Jackson was justifiably wrathy and started on the trail to find the perpetrators of the alleged joke. He learned enough to appear before Chief Weiss today and prefer charges of disorderly conduct against John Blumatti, Edward Jackson and Lyle Compton, all borough young men. They will be arraigned before Recorder Dolliver tomorrow morning. Edward Jackson is a nephew of the complainant but Uncle John told the police it didn't make a particle of difference in his quest for justice.

CIVIC STUDY CLASS BEGINS ON MONDAY

The Civic Study Class of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will meet Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the new headquarters of the league in the Babcock building. This will be the first of the series of eight lectures to be given by Miss Philbrook, counsellor-at-law. Many persons recall the interesting talk which Miss Philbrook gave in Plainfield last winter, and will be glad of an opportunity to learn of the machinery of the government under the guidance of such an able and interesting leader.

Miss Philbrook has the distinction of being the first woman admitted to the bar in New Jersey and is also privileged to practice in the Supreme Court of the United States. In preparation for this course, Miss Philbrook has recently devoted much time to the study of local conditions in Plainfield and North Plainfield and her lectures will not only treat of the theoretical forms of government, but of their actual operation, particularly in this State, county and town.

The first lecture will have for a general topic, "Government," under which heading Miss Philbrook will trace the history of New Jersey during Colonial times and the early settlement of the city and borough. Every member of the class will be furnished with a comprehensive outline of the lectures and a bibliography replete with valuable references for those who desire to supplement the lectures by a course of home reading. Couse tickets, costing $2 for the eight lectures, may be obtained from Mrs. Charles A. Selden, of Rahway road, or at the first meeting Monday. Single tickets at fifty cents will also be on sale.

—Ritz Saturday special, Chocolate Coated Almonds, 40c.

—Neuman Bros. will have for tomorrow's trade a fine assortment of peaches, Bartlett pears, Sickle pears, Concord grapes, Fall Pippins and Northern Spies.

EXCITING MATCHES IN P.H.S. TOURNEY

The tennis tournament in singles was continued at the Plainfield High School, yesterday, and the sets in doubles were started. Perhaps, the fastest sets yesterday were the doubles when Stanley Bellows and Phillip VanDeventer defeated Edson Woodhull and Arthur Briggs. The winners had a shade better of the play throughout the contest, but they were surprised in the second set when they were defeated by a score of 6-3.

The last set went to Bellows and VanDeventer by a score of 6-4. The results are as follows:

Boys' doubles—Stanley Bellows and Phillip VanDeventer defeated Edson Woodhull and Arthur Briggs, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. Girls' singles—Clara Neuman defeated Ruth Douglas, 6-0, 6-1; Pauline Gates defeated Gertrude Butler, 6-4, 6-3. Boys' singles—Curtis Dall defeated Arthur Briggs, 6-4, 6-2; Franklyn Newell defeated Lindsey Best, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3; Warren Butler defeated Seward Lyons, 9-7, 6-4; Seward Lyons defeated Harold Sharkey, 6-2, 6-2; Jack Zerega defeated Kenneth Platt, 6-4, 7-5.

BOY SCOUTS WILL BE EXPOSITION FEATURE

The feature for Women's and Children's Day tomorrow at the Plainfield Industrial Exposition will be the appearance of three companies of Boy Scouts from New Brunswick. They will parade through the city streets in the morning immediately after their arrival by special cars, and in the afternoon and evening will do setting up work with tents and give exhibition drills. There will be about a hundred boys in the troop, all in uniform.

As an added incentive, and to make is possible for every child in the city to attend, the admission price has been reduced to ten cents for the juveniles.

The invitation to all poultry raisers to enter their prize and blooded fowls in the poultry exhibit, met with ready response, and this department of the exposition is now in full swing. A number of splendid specimens of the feathered beauties are being shown and the judging will be watched with interest.

Today is Plainfield Day, and all who have not made a visit to the grounds should do so today, when they are sure to meet many acquaintances. A number of the exhibitors have received a fresh supply of samples and have assured the management that there is no chance of a shortage occurring.

ECHO MEETING HELD BY COUNTY C.E. UNION

The "echo meeting" held in the Third Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, last night, under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, was attended by a large number of Endeavorers, including about one hundred from this city. A feature of the rally was the award to the Junior C. E. Society of Trinity Reformed church, the State banner for the second time, in recognition of the fact that the society gave the highest percentage of money to missions.

The local Endeavor Union also received what is known as the "Worker's Library" for having the largest proportionate number of societies engaged in Bible study. These presentations were made by Miss Nellie K. Foote, of Elizabeth, on behalf of the State Endeavor Union. An interesting program was presented and the meeting was an enthusiastic one.

Penitent Prisoner Freed.

James Walsh, of Manson place, was arrested last night for being drunk and disorderly. When arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning Walsh was penitent for his acts and was allowed to go under a suspended sentence upon the usual promise made the morning after by this class of offenders.

Y.W.C.A. CLASSES

Details of the Winters Work Have Almost All Been Laid Out.

TO BEGIN ON OCTOBER 16.

Extensive Plans for the Physical Department—Class for Tots From 5 to 10 One Day a Week.

Plans for the winter work at the Young Women's Christian Association are about complete, and the prospectus for classes will be issued this week. Class work will be conducted as heretofore and will begin October 16. It is important that registration be made before that time. On October 12 the building will be open both afternoon and evening for a reception for all persons interested. Teachers in the various departments will be present and may be consulted in regard to work.

Miss Isabel Scarborough, a student at Columbia University, will have charge of the dressmaking courses. Advanced classes will be held Monday afternoon and evening, Tuesday morning and Wednesday evening. Beginners' classes for simple work will meet Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Miss Capron, of New York, will again conduct the popular courses in millinery. These will meet for classes on Wednesday afternoon and evening. Miss Mary Farrell, a graduate of Drexel Institute, will teach cooking and domestic science. Classes will meet Tuesday evening for beginners and Wednesday morning, afternoon and evening for advanced work.

Miss Amy Lough will teach both the beginners and advanced work in embroidery, the former meeting on Monday evenings, the latter Tuesday afternoons. New work will be added to this course.

English classes for foreigners, meeting on Wednesday nights, under Miss Harriet Goddard's direction, will afford many girls an opportunity to learn to speak, read and write the English language and to become familiar with American customs. The French class will meet on Friday evenings for advanced work. It is expected that this work will be under the direction of Miss Zoe Bateman, who successfully taught the class last year. The glee club will meet for organization on Monday evening, October 23. New and attractive features are planned for the year's work.

Miss Margaret Bradshaw, the physical director, is making extensive plans for classes in gymnastics. A glass for beginners will meet on Thursday evening and for advanced work on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Junior classes and game hours will be held Tuesday and Friday afternoons. A class for little folks between the ages of five and ten years will be started on Thursday afternoons and a special class for older women who wish the recreation and exercise afforded by the gymnasium is scheduled for Wednesday morning. Thursday morning a class in folk dancing will be started. Registration should be made early and all inquiries will be gladly answered at the office of the association.

H.K. CARROLL SPEAKS AT ECUMENICAL MEETING

Frank criticism of certain features and characteristics of present day Methodism was contained in the essay read at Toronto yesterday at the Ecummenical Conference by H. K. Carroll, LL. D., of this city. Dr. Carroll, however, was not pessimistic. He thought there was not enough true evangelism in the church; he gave statistics to show that the growth in certain lines was not altogether satisfactory, but yet he did not despair at all. He made a plea for the salvation of "adult sinners."

Borough Fire Engine Test.

The borough fire engine was taken out by the department members, last night, for a "wash." It was stationed on Brook avenue and a supply of water was secured from Green brook. The test was fully satisfactory according to Engineer Frank Schuck.

TOO MANY CIGARETTES COST HIM HIS REASON

Incessant cigarette smoking, so his friends say, caused Nicholas Tatourus, a young Greek, to become violently insane at his home on Somerset street opposite Harmony, last night. He has been more or less morose for several weeks and in his moodiest moments puffed furiously on cheap nicotine weeds, never being without one in his mouth. He had been addicted to the habit before coming to this country but in his native land used a better grade of the paper ones.

Late last night, Tatourus, leaped from a couch on which he had been reclining, smoking as usual, and began to pummel a fellow boarder. Other Greeks in the place sought to hold him and he sought to injure all of them. It was not until the borough police arrived in response to a call that the demented man calmed down. A guard was placed over him for the remainder of the night.

Tatourus will be examined by Dr. Dundon and another physician this afternoon with a view to having him committed to the Trenton hospital. He has been in the employ of a local fruit dealer.

MAYOR AT CHAMPION S.S. TEAM'S BANQUET

The Young Men's Class of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, gave a banquet last night to the victorious baseball team from the church which won the championship in the Sunday School Baseball League. There were about sixty guests, among them Mayor G. W. V. Moy, who made a short address in which he congratulated the team upon winning the championship, although he regretted the fact that it was necessary to defeat the team from his own church to accomplish this fact.

Harry Gilmour, president of the class, was the toastmaster, and introduced the various speakers. Among others who made a few remarks were Rev. C. S. Kemble, pastor of the church, as well as each member of the team. The silver trophy, presented to the champions, occupied a prominent place on the table.

During the evening there was an informal program including humorous recitations by Charles Lawson and selections by a male quartet, comprising J. W. Daub, Morris Warrick, William Fenton and William McAfee. During the social hour the team was showered with congratulations and Mansfield Smith, the manager came in for a generous share of praise for the way he had conducted the business for the club's aggregation of players.

LOOKS LIKE RECORD YEAR IN CITY COURT

The past three months in the city police court have been exceptionally busy ones according to the quarterly report of Judge William G. DeMeza, which was mailed today to City Clerk MacMurray. There were 328 cases tried which brings the total since the first of the year when Judge DeMeza assumed the office of city judge to more than 900 cases. If the same activity continues for the remaining three months, this gives promise of being a record year.

Of the 328 offenders tried 54 were fined; 16 sent to jail; 208 received suspended sentences and 17 held for the Grand Jury. $529 was collected in fines of which $10 was turned over to the Board of Health for a milk delivery ordinance violation. The expenses for the quarter was $56.75.

Odd Fellows to Celebrate.

The grand lodge officers will be invited to attend as well as members of other lodges in this part of the State. Queen City Lodge was instituted with forty charter members and it now has a membership of 200. Theodore Howes is the noble grand and chairman of the committee of arrangements for the celebration.

Antonio Colletti.

Antonio Colletti, the sixteen-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Colletti, of North avenue, died last night. The funeral was held at the parents' home this afternoon and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL MARKS BIRTHDAY

The twenty-fourth anniversary of the organization of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., was held in the lodge rooms on West Front street last night. The meeting was thrown open and a number of the wives, families and friends of the members availed themselves of the opportunity to see the lodgemen in environment of their lodge life.

Harvey R. Thorn, past councillor, reveiwed the close to a quarter of a centure that Franklin has been in existence and briefly touched on the different situations it has had to face, the accomplishments of the lodge as a body, and mentioned the gratifying growth it has enjoyed. There are over 350 members now enrolled and the financial condition has correspondingly kept pace with the increasing membership.

Refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed as a conclusion to the meeting. There were a number of visiting Juniors from other city councils and a number from out of town.

RECEPTION TO NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

Miss Bradshaw, the new physical director at the Y. W. C. A., was given a reception last night by the girls in the gymnasium classes. The girls gathered in the reception room, which was darkened and then Miss Bradshaw was escorted there. Just then the lights were turned on, giving the director a pleasant surprise. The company then sang to the tune of "The Orange and Black," these words:

We are here to greet Miss Bradshaw,
To welcome her to our gym;
And although the floor is tiny
We are glad to let her in.
We'll be faithful, true and loyal,
So that when the year is done
She will not regret her teaching
And will like us, everyone."

The junior girls then went to the gymnasium and played, while the older girls remained in the reception room and went through some of their dances taught them by former teachers. Miss Bradshaw also showed the girls some attractive steps in dancing, after which refreshments were served. The rooms were decorated in red and white and the cakes served with the lemonade were cut in the shapes of dumbbells and Indian clubs.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY PICNIC SOCIAL

Under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the First Baptist church a picnic social was held in the lecture room of the church last night. The room was elaborately decorated for the affair with autumn foliage, flags, etc., and everything so far as possible was arranged so as to present an appearance of outdoor life. As an admission fee each person was requested to give as many pennies as they were years old and later in the evening rolls and frankfurters were sold. In this way the society netted about $30.

There was an informal program including readings by Mrs. Robert Lowry and instrumental selections by Miss Ruth Martin, violin and Miss Lillian Teter, piano. Afterward games were enjoyed. During the serving of refreshments the young people sat about the floor in regular picnic fashion. Another attraction was the telling of the future by Miss Ethel King and Miss Helen Adams. The affair was patronized by more than one hundred young people. It was ararnged by a committee comprising Miss Carrie Demler, Miss Elizabeth Nash, Harold Robins and Harry Woodland.

PLAINFIELDERS WILL JOIN IN PARTY RALLY.

Among the speakers at a Republican rally to be held by the Downtown Republican Club of Elizabeth on the night of October 24, will be George L. Babcock, of this city, candidate for Assembly, and Frank H. Smith, of this city, chairman of the Republican County Committee. The meeting will be held Grand Army Hall.

A delegation from the Plainfield Republican Club is expected to attend the rally. Speakers other than those already mentioned will include Carlton B. Pierce, candidate for State Senator; George C. Otto, William F. Groves, candidates for Assembly; William H. Wright, candidate for the surrevalty; Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland, County Clerk James C. Calvert and many of the ward candidates.

LICENSE REFORMS

Court Lays Down New Rule in Refusing Fanwood and Plains Applications.

PUBLICITY BEFORE HEARING.

Frank Vosseller, of "The Maples," and Henry Illsley, Scotch Plains, the Ones Denied Sanction for Liquor Selling.

Judge E. S. Atwater in the Union County Court, this morning, refused to grant liquor licenses to Frank Vosseller for the Maples, at Fanwood, and Henry Illsley at his hotel in Scotch Plains, formerly conducted by Lynus Walpole, and in this connection he made an important announcement regarding the consideration of future applications for liquor licenses. Judge Atwater said:

"I have formulated a few rules regarding the granting of licenses. It is highly desirable that there shall be publicity regarding applications so that those who desire to be heard may have notice. The court has been informed more than once after a license has been granted that it would have been opposed if it had been known that the application was to be made.

"I have therefore adopted a rule regarding notices of applications to be published at least one week prior to presenting such application in court and also be given to the clerk of the municipality. I think that the public has a right to this information and this court is and has always been ready to give all parties an opportunity to be heard.

"In making these rules I have followed a precedent set by the Judge of the Somerset County Court and the rules are along the same line."

WARNED TO LEAVE ANOTHER WOMAN'S HUSBAND ALONE.

Miss Messila Wood, a young colored woman, living along the raceway of Watchung avenue, was arraigned before Justice Snape in the borough, last night, charged by Mrs. Robert E. Lee, of Westervelt avenue, with enticing her husband away from his marital fireside. The complainant also alleged that Miss Wood had threatened to do Lee bodily harm if he dared to ignore her endearments. The young woman indignantly denied the charges, but Justice Snape declared her guilty and ordered her to mend her ways under threat of a $25 fine.

Miss Wood was taken into custody by Marshal Keller who had to search her boarding house to get her. He was informed at the door that she was not at home, but he informed the tenant he didn't believe it. The young woman was finally found crouched under a bed.

MISS NELLIE MESSENGER WEDDED AT JERSEY CITY.

Announcement of the wedding of Miss Nellie Messenger, formerly of this city, and George H. Massey, of Flanders, were received here today. The wedding took place in Jersey City September 30, when the bride has been residing with her mother, Mrs. Anna M. Messenger. When they were residents of this city they lived on North avenue and for a number of years Miss Messenger was chief operator at the local telephone office. They will be at home at Valley Grove Farm, Flanders, N. J., after November 1.

Recount Continues the Tie.

Recounting the vote of the Republican candidates for township committeeman in Union township today, the Union County Board of Elections decided that the vote stood 81 to 81. The district board had made the count 80 to 80. As it is still a tie, unless that on an appeal to the court the county board's finding should be decreed incorrect, Republican county Chairman Smith will be vested with power according to law to name a man for the place.

FIRST LYNCHING TRIAL ENDS IN AN ACQUITTAL.

Westchester, Pa., Oct. 6—Joseph Schwartz, the first of the alleged leaders of the mob that removed Zack Walker, a negro, from the Coatesville hospital and burned him to death, was found not guilty after the jury had been out less than an hour Wednesday.

The defense introduced testimony to prove that Schwartz was not an active participant in the lynching and several young women testified that they had seen him elsewhere at the time the negro was burned.

Schwartz was released from prison and at once left for Coatesville.

FIRE IN ASTOR HOUSE.

Guests Frightened By Blaze Confined to Roof.

New York, Oct. 6.—A wicked fire in the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon, largely confined to the roof, filled the big building with smoke, frightened the women guests, stopped the elevator service and afforded an immense crowd in Longacre Square and the surrounding streets a spirited free show. The banquet halls of the hotel on the eighth floor were damanged, and when the fire was out there was two feet of water in the basement, which had cascaded down the elevator shafts.

But for the excellent training of the house servants there might have been a serious panic during the course of the blaze. Women ran from their rooms when the smell of smoke began to drift through the corridors and wildly inquired the cause.

LOST BABY GIRL FOUND IN MEADOWS

Somerville, Oct. 6—There was great rejoicing in the hamlet of Frankfort yesterday morning over the finding at sunrise of the 2-year-old daughter of John F. Gray, for which every man and woman in the settlement had been searching through the night. The searching party broke up before daylight yesterday morning and the villagers went to their homes with the intention of snatching a few hours of rest before continuing the hunt for the little one by daylight.

Mrs. Gray, the frenzied mother of the golden-haired tot was the only one who kept up the search after her neighbors had stopped to rest. With the first streaks of dawn she made her way across the fields to a point about a half mile from her home, where she was overjoyed to find her baby snugly nested behind a small mound in the meadows fast asleep.

"Oh, mamma," she said, "ain't I glad to see you. I've been losted mamma, and I thought I'd never never see you again."

"And how were you lost?" asked her mother.

"Well, mamma," replied Mary, "you 'member yesterday when you told me I could go out and play? Well, I went out and sawed some birds hopping along and I followed 'em. And then I thought I'd see if I could find any fairies hiding in the haystacks till it gets dark. But I couldn't see any, so I got awful tired and I had to lay down and I said my prayers, but almost before I got through I was asleep and then I dreamed there was fairies all around me. They said they'd watch out for me and that they bring you here, and they did, mamma, 'cause here you are."

The child's face was tearstained and there were evidences that it had sank down exhausted and cried itself to sleep, after its wanderings in the night, but it was unharmed by its exposure. The tot disappeared from the door yard of its parents' residence about 6 o'clock Wednesday night. The fact that a strange man in an automobile stopped near the Gray residence and had been seen by a woman of the village in the growing darkness to lift something from the road and place it in his car and then speed away, gave rise to the belief among the people of the village that the little one, who was a child of unusual beauty, had been kidnapped.

The last meeting of the Laurier Cabinet was held in Ottawa; resignations by the various members will be tendered today, and it was reported that Mr. Borden will announce the personnel of the new ministry at once.

WARREN CHAPEL WOMEN HOLD ALL-DAY MEETING.

The Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel held an all-day sewing meeting at the chapel yesterday, sewing beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. Thirty members were present and a great deal of work was accomplished through the day. Eight quilts were put through the frame and a number of sheets and pillow cases were made for a missionary school in Kentucky.

At noon all sat down to a delightful hot luncheon, which was prepared and served by a committee comprising Mrs. John Higgins, Mrs. F. C. Burner, Mrs. Francis C. Whitely, Mrs. John Hoagland, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Randall, assisted by Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz and Mrs. J. H. Snyder. The table was attractively decorated for the occasion. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, was a guest of honor. The sewing was in charge of Mrs. Henry Bishop, chairman of the sewing committee, assisted by a large committee.

The Perry Sisters offer a laughable skit, "The Morning After the Rehearsal;" the Five Muscovites are clever with musical instruments and singing folk songs, while Spiro and Levine present some witty songs and good stories, bright and crisp as October weather.

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

INTER-CITY SOCCER GAME TOMORROW

The Plainfield Association Football Club will meet the O'Keefe's, of Harrison, on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, in a contest in the Inter-City Soccer League. This will be the first visit of the O'Keefe's to this city. They were admitted to the league this year. They have a strong eleven and the locals will have to play their best game to win out.

The Plainfield lineup will be as follows: Goal, McNeice; backs, Somers, Craig; halfbacks, Kenny, Zacheiss, Buchland; forwards, Heneghan, Spalding, Heaume, Sutton, Keith.

TWO CLUBS SEEK PLACES IN LEAGUE

Applications from baseball teams in New Brunswick and Elizabeth were received at the meeting of the Central New Jersey league directors held Wednesday night. No action concerning them was taken and as there will not be another meeting of the magnates until after the holidays, the intervening time will give the managers of the teams now constituting the league an opportunity to decide on what action to take.

If the two teams are added to the league membership it will be an eight club league, and the circuit will be greatly increased. Both New Brunswick and Elizabeth are good baseball towns. They are able to put teams in the field that would prove strong contenders and add interest and popularity to a race for the 1912 pennant.

DIVORCE MARRIAGE BEST, SAYS PASTOR

Mrs. Bertha B. Ellsworth, of Brooklyn, and Harry C. Shimer were married Wednesday night at the home of the bridegroom, 205 Prospect street, South Orange, by the Rev. Dr. John L. Scudder, of Jersey City. Both Mrs. Ellsworth and Mr. Shimer recently secured divorces, Mrs. Ellsworth having secured her decree on Monday from Alfred E. Ellsworth, in Brooklyn, and Mr. Shimer having divorced his wife fourteen months ago. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles Cramer, and Henry Brill, of New York, was best man. The bride wore an imported gown of pink satin, veiled in white marquisette, trimmed with fringe. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Cramer wore a gown of black silk meteor, with pearl ornaments. A wedding dinner followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Shimer will sail today on the steamship Victoria Louise for an extended trip abroad. They will spend part of the time motoring through England, France and Germany.

Interviewed prior to the marriage on the question of wedding a couple for their second journey in the matrimonial sea, Dr. Scudder stated he merely asked if the law had been compiled with.

"I am not opposed to second marriages," said the noted divine, whose aggressive work in Jersey City for young people won him prominence. "I have married other couples, one of whom had been married previously, and in the majority of cases the second marriage proved far happier than the first.".

Mr. and Mrs. Shimer on their return home will reside in South Orange. Mr. Shimer having purchased the Prospect street residence.

WILDCAT SPRINGS AT RAILROAD MAN

Andover, Oct. 6—Attacked by a wildcat while throwing a switch for a Lackawanna train, of which he was one of the brakemen, Harry Johnson, of Newton, made a record sprint for the baggage-car door Thursday afternoon, gaining that haven of refuge barely in time to miss the claws of the infuriated beast. The Cranberry Lane Switch, where the attack occurred, is in a lonely mountainous section of the country about three miles from this place. Since the burning of the summer hotel and other buildings there about a year ago, the place has been practically deserted.

Johnson was riding in front of the engine and dropped off just west of the switch to throw it. While the train was pulling in he heard sounds as if some animal was moving in the adjoining underbrush. After the train pulled in, he shut and locked the switch and again hearing the sounds thought they were made possible by a wandering dog and threw a stone into the underbrush. The stone had no more than struck when an unearthly sound rent the air and a dark form flashed through the air. Letting out a yell for help the brakeman dashed after the slow moving train and by great effort made the rear steps.

Conductor George Zeek and Milk Agent John Armstrong, who heard the screams of the great cat, reached the car door just in time to admit Johnson. Having no weapons the crew of the train did not dare to go after the animal and were forced to see it spring off into the brush. Since the story of the wildcat's attack, trainmen are fearful to stay alone at the switch and talk is heard of organizing a hunt to exterminate the beast.

REFUSE WAGE DEMAND, SO BINDERS GO OUT.

Rahway, Oct. 6—The forty-five binders in Quinn & Boden's publishing house who went out on a strike Tuesday for an increase in wages from $21 to $24 per week are still out.

The union men in the strike represent branches 1, 11 and 22 of New York. The local bosses and representatives of the branches have held a conference and will, it is thought, send a delegation to present their claims to the firm.

Benjamin Boden, a member of the firm, declared it was the intention to fight the demands to the limit, since contracts for the fall work had been signed upon the basis of the present pay roll.

BECAME RICH HAULING AUTOS FROM MUD TRAP.

Lenox, Mass, Oct. 6—Deacon Daniel Camp, who made a fortune hauling the automobiles of the wealthy out of the mire of the old "Jacob Ladder road," the eastern goteway to the Berkshires, is dead at his home at the foot of the "Ladder."

It was the deacon's custom to keep two yoke of oxen hitched up day and night, ready for the instant call of automobilists who were stalled in the mire of the mountain road. He charged $20 to $30 for each machine he aided when called at night, with half rates for day calls.

ANOTHER FOR WILSON.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Oct. 6—Having been inclined formerly toward the nomination of Governor Judson Harmon, of Ohio, for the Democratic Presidential nomination, Judge Jas. G. Tucker, of the Michigan Circuit Court, has declared himself for Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey. He says the New Jersey man is the best candidae available.

"I believe he is the strongest man the Democrats can get for the office of President. I favored Governor Harmon for the nomination at one time, but I am now convinced that Governor Wilson will be a stronger man for the party. Governor Wilson has shown himself to be a man of keen insight into the political situation.

"He possesses all the aggressiveness that characterizes former President Roosevelt, but I regard him as a more valuable man than Mr. Roosevelt because he exercises more care in carrying out all his plans.

"All things considered, I regard him as the logical and best equiped man the Democrats can pick for the Presidentian nomination. With him, I am convinced, the Democrats can win, and I sincerely hope to see him nominated."

WAR SURVIVOR'S REUNION.

Elizabeth, Oct. 6—The survivors of the Twenty-eighth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry held their annual reunion here yesterday. The business meeting was called to order by Charles Bollen, of Newark, president of the association. He introduced Mayor Stein, of Elizabeth, who made an address of welcome. Dinner was served at the home of Edwin A. Bloomfield, a member of the regiment. Covers were laid for 100 persons.

Besides Mayor Stein, the other guests were Rev. Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, who served on the staff of Stonewall Jackson, and Rev. Dr. Kline, pastor of the Congregational church at Woodbridge. The Twenty-eighth was recruited principally from Ocean, Monmouth, Middlesex and Union counties, and served in the Second Corps, Army of the Potomac.

INDICTED UNDER GERAN LAW.

Camden, Oct. 6—Contrary to expectation the presentment made by the Camden County Grand Jury Tuesday give little or no evidence of political crookedness. In fact, there were just two true bills reported in connection with political matters, and they were considered comparatively trifling.

Alfred Matthews, Republican county committeeman from Haddon Township, and William B. Dorn, of the same ballwick, were the two indicted. They are specifically accused of electioneering within 100 feet of the polling place at Westmont.

BOB VEAL THROUGH JERSEY.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 6—The United States Grand Jury Wednesday handed down several indictments, among them one against William Riley, of Port Plain, alleging that he had shipped bob veal through New Jersey into New York, and one charging Ward Toland with smuggling Chinese into the United States from Canada.

Toland entered a plea of not guilty and was released in $5,000 bail trial in December. Riley pleaded guilty, but Judge Ray refused to impose sentence, saying he believed Riley was trying to shield other malefactors. The judge gave Riley several hours in which to think over his predicament and to make a clean breast concerning his partners in crime.

Riley apparently decided to follow the instructions of Judge Ray and went before the grand jury and testified. It is rumored that as a result of the tale he told, indictments of Albany shippers of bob veal will be returned. Judge Ray has deferred passing sentence on Riley until the grand jury reports.

Libel Action Dismissed.

Trenton, Oct. 6—The Supreme Court finding no defects in the proceedings, has dismissed a demurrer interposed on behalf of Daniel S. White in the libel action brought against him by Estol D. Rightmire, city engineer of Atlantic City. It was charged that White had given publicity to a statement that the city engineer had altered a public document and that he had been induced to do so by a bribe.

The Smartest, Most Distinctive and Most Fashionable Apparel

The critical women, the women with refined tastes, the women who seek individuality in their garb as well as style, are the ones to whom our present superb assemblage of the season's choicest products in apparel will appeal to. And while our stocks exemplify in their breadth and scope and richness the predominant idea of offering you something different and superior to what may be found elsewhere—their prices also prove that we never lose sight of the very important factor of value-giving.

OF THE FOREMOST FASHION DESIGNERS AND CREATORS.

And so we can truthfully assert with all the emphasis at our command, that quality for quality, style for style—you will find in no other contemporary house the equal to the value in women's garments we proffer.

A VERY SUPERIOR $25 SUIT—We are selling this exact model for manother maker at $30.00. Here it is now at $25.00 and you'll not be able to distinguish the difference. COATS OF STYLE'S MIXTURES—A very desirable coat that has just arrived is in a mixture, in gray and shades of tan, with a straight front and slightly fitted, back and awide shawl collr and squre cape back of broadcloth to match the mixture. Then there are many more in various styles at $16.50

DELIGHTFUL BROADCLOTH COATS—We want a fair comparision of this coat with any selling at $20.00 anywhere in Newark. A splendid broadcloth, excellent black and lined throughout with best Bildings yarn dyed satin, model has a wide shawl collar. The top part of which is faced with velvet and a wide braid, closing front with two large frogs and buttons; misses' and women's sizes..$16.50

FIRST WORLD SERIES GAME AT POLO GROUNDS

The Giants and Athletics will begin their battle for the world's baseball championship in New York on Saturday, October 14. This was decided upon at a meeting of the National Commission in Manhattan yesterday afternoon. The full schedule called for the teams to alternate daily after the opening game, but in case the opening game is postponed on account of bad weather the schedule will be set back one day, New York still having the privilege of starting the ball rolling at the Polo Grounds.

The National Commission met at the Hotel Imperial to settle upon the conditions for the big series. Besides deciding upon the dates, it was settled that the clubs would be allowed to take full charge of the selling of tickets. Formerly the National Commission has taken this under its management, but this fall the members of the commission will merely oversee things.

What the prices for the games will be has not yet been decided. The owners of the New York club desire to boost the rates in the grandstand and boxes. Formerly the rates have been one, two and three dollars. Now the Giants' management wants to make the tariff one, three and five dollars.

After the dates of the series had been chosen the owners of the champion clubs met to decide which city would be fortunate enough to open the series. Garry Herrmann, the Cincinnati magnate, tossed the coin and Owner Ben Shibe, of the Athletics, called "heads." The coin fell "tails" up, so President John T. Brush was the winner.

A busy day was put in by the National Commission arranging for the world's series. Most of the plans were decided on, though the announcement that the fans most want to know about is to come later. That has to do with the method of selling and disposing of tickets. That detail is in the hands of the New York club for New York and the Philadelphia club for Philadelphia, and will be furnished to the public in a day or two.

August Herrmann, Thomas Lynch and Ban Johnson of the National Commission were present yesterday, as well as John T. Brush, president of the New York club; John Heydler, the secretary of the National League; William Gray, secretary of the New York Club, and Ben Shibe, John Shibe, and Connie Mack of the Athletics. After the meeting the commission visited the Polo Grounds, and it was decided that no additional seats will be put in on the New York grounds.

The eligible players are:

New York—McGraw, Devore, Becker, Murray, Snodgrass, Merkle, Doyle, Fletcher, Devlin, Mathewson, Wiltse, Ames, Crandall, Marquard, Latham, Meyers, Wilson, Herzog, Drucke, Hartley, Paulette.

Philadelphia—Baker, Barry, Bender, Collins, Coombs, Davis, Danforth, Derrick, Hartsel, Krause, Lapp, Livingston, Lord, Martin, Morgan, McInnes, Murphy, Oldring, Plank, Strunk, Thomas.

Proceeds of the first four games only are divided among the players and the commission decided that this refers to the first four games only, regardless of whether or not one of them is a tie.

After 10 per cent. of the "gate" is taken out for the National Commission 60 per cent. of the balance (of the first four games) goes to the players. Of this 60 per cent. the winning team gets 60 per cent. and the losers 40 per cent. The balance is divided equally between the two clubs. After the first four games the commission takes 10 per cent. and the remainder is divided equally between the two clubs.

President Lynch was asked to settle a much-mooted point, whether the Giants were the National League champions of 1911 or 1912.

"1911," was the reply. "There's nothing else to it."

Asked who was going to win, Mr. Lynch replied: "New York." The latter opinion, however, is not official. Ban Johnson dissents.

REPORT OF STOLEN CASH FOLLOWS ARREST.

Elizabeth, Oct. 6—With $114 and several pawn tickets in his pockets, Paul Kruger was arrested early yesterday morning at the Elizabethport station by Policeman Conboy. The officer thought the man looked suspicious and locked him up.

A few hours later Hugo Baum, proprietor of Saenger Hall, at Fourth street and Elizabeth avenue, reported to the police that his cash register had been broken open and $114 taken.

New Providence's Tax Jump.

New Providence, Oct. 6—The borough tax rate of $2.28 is an increase of thirty-six points over last year's rate. If it had been based on last year's assessments the rate would be even higher, but the valuations also have raised over $54,000, bringing the total value up to $572,862, including the State railroad assessment. The school tax is blamed for the increase in rate, that item alone having a rate of $1.44, more than half of the entire rate, the balance, .84, being raised for county and borough expenses, roads, etc.

ECCENTRIC WAGNER.

A Glimpse of the Famous Composer In One of His Moods.

Richard Wagner, the composer, needed a good deal of managing, and Frau Cosima was always tactful, according to Judith Gautier's "Wagner at Home." When the author hesitated before accepting Wagner's invitation to an excursion she says Frau Cosima made signs to her and, coming nearer, said in a low voice: "Do not refuse, he would be angry. And let him manage it all; let him take the lead. If you do not wish to grieve him."

Later on she gives another curious scene: "Behind the house, in that court which formed a part of the garden, and from which the carriage drive started, there was a high swing, which the children were allowed to use very carefully, and with which the older people sometimes amused themselves. One day Mme. Cosima was sitting on the narrow board. Wagner offered to start the swing and give her a good flight through the air. All went well for a time, but, little by little, the motion became more rapid; higher and still higher went the swing. In vain Mme. Cosima begged for mercy. Carried away by a kind of frenzy, the master paid no attention and the incident began to have a terrifying effect.

"Cosima grew white; her hold relaxed, and she was about to fall. 'Do you not see that she is fainting?' I cried, throwing myself toward Wagner. He grew pale in his turn, and the danger was quickly averted. But, as the poor woman continued to be dizzy and trembling, the master concluded it would be wise to create a diversion. He ran rapidly toward the house, and by the aid of the shutters, the moldings and protections of the stones, he climbed nimbly up the side and, reaching the balcony of the floor above, leaped over it.

"He had obtained the desired effect, but in replacing one evil by another. Trembling with anxiety, Cosima turned to me, saying under her breath: 'Above all things, do not notice him; do not look surprised, or you can never tell where he will end.'"

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY.

The English Method of Dealing Out Supplies by the Week.

In the matter of small savings and watchfulness of expenditure the English housewife is ahead. For example, the English housekeeper deals out to her servants the week's allowance of sugar, rice, flour, coffee and all other household provisions that are kept in quantity, and requires an account of it all to be rendered, the thing having been brought to so fine a point that she knows the exact amount of each article requisite for her family, allowing so much to each individual and that quantity being sufficient, as she knows by experience, two ounces of tea, for instance, being regarded as a week's supply for each single individual, one-half pound of sugar, three and one-half pounds of meat for a woman and five and one-fourth for a man—facts which the housekeeper probably learned from her mother before her—knowing, moreover, the greater variety of the simpler kinds required.

All of these stores she sets down in her housekeeping book as she gives them out, and she does not fail on the next dispensing day to consult her dates and if anything be left over in the cook's hands not accounted for to subtract that from the amount to be newly issued. And in England servants expect this. So far from being indignant with it they would feel as if there were no guiding hand behind them if left undone and they given their head in an overflowing store-room, as servants are with us.

In fact, there is no saving which the housewife across the water considers too small to practice or as beneath her dignity.—Exchange.

Sir John Rose at Great Length.

An accomplished English barrister was Sir John Karslake. In height he was six feet four inches.

A provincial newspaper in reporting a case in which he was engaged on circuit laconically described the opening for the complainant as follows:

"Sir John Karslake, as soon as the defendant's case was concluded, rose at great length to reply."

Very Simple.

"I've been working two or three evenings making an umbrella stand," says the man who has taken up arts and crafts endeavor.

"Two or three evenings!" exclaims the other man. "Why waste all that time? Why don't you lean it in a corner or stick it in the ground?"—Judge.

The Trouble.

"What's the trouble?" inquired the judge.

"This lady lawyer wants to make a motion," explained the clerk, "but her gown is too tight."—Washington Herald.

A Lesson For George.

Betty—George intends to have his own way in everything when we are married. Grace—Why are you going to marry him, then? Betty—Just to relieve his mind of a false impression.

Can You Beat It?

"I'm afraid, Tom, dear, you will find me a mine of faults. He—Darling, it shall be the sweetest labor of my life to correct them. She (flaring up)—Indeed, you shan't!—Boston Transcript

Perseverance.

Perseverance is more prevailing than violence, and many things which cannot be overcome when they are together yield—themselves up when taken little by little.

PROMPTING AN AUDIENCE.

English Actors Give a Signal When It's Time to Laugh.

"Nothing illustrates the difference between English and American wit more, probably, than the manner in which playwrights write their lines," said Rupert Hughes. "There are few people who realize the intricacy of the science of writing a 'laugh'—that is, a line capable of producing a laugh from an audience.

"A man may write one of the funniest lines ever given to the American stage and see it ignored by an audience because of some act on the part of the producing company or one member of that company. I have seen the wittiest remarks wasted because of the move of a hand or of the head of the comedian or actor who enunciated it. Then, again, the laugh is taken out of a line by the moving of some person in the stage setting or by the moving of some part of the stage setting itself. It is funny how the slightest move on the part of an actor, after reciting certain lines, absolutely eliminates the wit from what he has just spoken, so far as the audience is concerned.

"This is so of American audiences, but not so of the English theater going public. They will not laugh unless the witticism is finished by a nod of the head or a certain movement of the body.

"It is on this account that certain comedies, great successes in this country, are absolute failures in Great Britain," he continues. "Something must be done when a 'laugh line' is spoken on the English stage to give the audience an inkling that the witticism has been completed. Then you get your laugh.

"Not so, on the contrary, with Americans. I remember of hearing of an incident involving one of Olga Nethersole's first appearances in this country. Several times during the performance the celebrated actress walked to the sides and exclaimed to the stage manager: 'What's the matter? Are they going to hiss me off? Why, they applaud before they hear the end of the lines.' In each instance she was told that the audience was quicker than the audiences to which she had been accustomed to playing. She was told the Americans grasped the meaning and the wit of her lines when she had spoken only half of them. The actress, although she received all kinds of applause during the performance, seemed disheartened."—Washington Post.

A Wig and a Tragedy.

It is just as well that our enthusiasm for oriental curiosities should be tempered by discretion. Eastern antiquities may be picturesque and with all the charm of mystery, but at the same time they may have a history that, if known, would consign them to the stove without benefit of clergy. Here is a story bearing upon the point and with its obvious moral. A young and extremely pretty girl went to a fancy dress ball in Chinese costume. The triumph of her makeup was a real oriental wig, and she wore it proudly. Some time after a strange mark appeared on her forehead, and this was treated as a trifling skin affection. But it refused to disappear; in fact, it grew larger, and then the specialist was consulted. It was leprosy.—Argonaut.

Color of Lightning.

The color of lightning is almost entirely due to the nature of the substance in its track that is made incandescent. The blue, red, purple or silver tints, which are ordinarily much more brilliantly marked in tropical countries than they ever are in this latitude, are due to the same circumstance as that which produces the color designedly communicated to the light of different kinds of fireworks. Each different foreign ingredient that floats in the air has its own proper hue, which it can communicate to the lightning. The vapor of iron has one kind of shine and the vapor of sulphur another.—Harper's Weekly.

Stolen Eloquence.

"It is better to be silent," said a prominent clergyman, "than to be eloquent by unfair means.

"There was once a divine whose good wife said to him:

"'James, dear, the Rev. Dr. Tenthly has made over $200 by the publication of a volume of sermons. You preach much better than Dr. Tenthly, dear. Why not print a few of your sermons?'

"'My love,' the man whispered hoarsely, 'they were all printed long ago.'"

A National Mistake.

"I wonder why the English people have taken the rose as their national flower?

"Why not?"

"Judging by the way their peerage hunt American fortunes, I should think a more appropriate floral emblem would be marygold."—Baltimore American.

Dad Was Horsey.

"Pa, what did Herodotus do?"

"Oh, I think he won a purse that was offered for three-year-olds once. Say, can't you quit bothering me when I'm trying to read what is going on in the world?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Too Great a Sacrifice.

She (weary of waiting)—If you sell t' dog, John, we could get married. He—An' wouldn't Oi look silly to sell a dog like that to be married!—London Opinion.

"It is not work that kills men—it is worry. The revolution is not what destroys machinery, but the friction."

M.O. TALK IN BORO

Council to Retain a Lawyer For Control of Public Water Supply Proceedings.

L. B. WOOLSTON'S WARNING.

North Plainfield Solon Cautioned to Go Slow in Their Plans for a Municipal Plant—Other Matters.

The determination of the Borough Council to give the municipal water plant proposition a full and careful investigation, was emphasized at the regular meeting, last night. A resolution was introduced and carried by a full vote to the effect that counsel be employed to advise the members of the legal steps necessary before public ownership of pumping station and pipes can be placed in concrete form. An informal but interesting discussion followed the passage of the resolution, during which considerable ground was gone over.

The matter of engaging counsel was brought before the meeting by Councilman Van Arsdale. Mayor Smalley and Mr. Milne indicated their approval without any hesitancy. Mr. Woolston, however, expressed the opinion that the borough should go slow in its investigation of municipal ownership and make no definite move unless it was certain that everything was thoroughly understood. Plants owned publicly, he said, seldom clear expenses and frequently run behind. North Plainfield is at a disadvantage in many ways in reference to the question and any expenditure of money means economy somewhere else. He was not opposed to the resolution, he concluded, but he wanted his colleagues to be cognizant of the fact that he believed in going slow. After the vote had been taken the merits and demerits of municipal water plants were talked over for fifteen minutes. Mr. Woolston furnishing numerous statistics to support his contention that they are not a good thing.

Mr. Van Arsdale introduced another matter to the Council, last night, an amendment to the ordinance covering the carrying of concealed weapons. As it stands now, there is no section of the law which prohibits a person from carrying a loaded gun through the brough streets and the amendment seeks to overcome this defect. Mayor Smalley took occasion to say that it is a very good thing as hunters frequently pass through principal thoroughfares with shot-guns loaded to the muzzle, a custom far more dangerous than that of having a pistol or knife concealed in a pocket. The amendment to the ordinance will make it unlawful to do so. It was placed on its second reading and will be passed at the next regular meeting.

Mr. Milne introduced a resolution to the effect that application be made to the Somerset County Board of Taxation to permit North Plainfield to advance its tax rate nineteen points above the legal maximum of $1.75. It was explained that increasing expenses make such an action imperative. Mr. Woolston stated that the borough is unfortunate in its geographical location inasmuch as it does not derive a cent from railroad main stem, as do other municipalities. Westfield, which has about the same population as North Plainfield, gets $7,000 a year from this source and other places get proportionate amounts. The resolution was passed.

LADIES' AUXILIARY TO HOLD AN IRISH FAIR.

What is announced as a real "Irish Fair" will open Monday night in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street and continue throughout the week. It is being conducted by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Divisions 1 and 4 of the A. O. H., and the receipts will go into the fund being raised to erect a Hibernian Hall.

Elaborate preparations have been made in making the booths attractive, all sorts of articles being arranged to attract buyers. Those who desire can dance every evening as a large portion of the floor will be left unobstructed for this purpose.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF NESTOR W. RAPPLEYE

The funeral services of Nestor W. Rappleye were held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, F. M. VanEmburgh, 1214 Putnam avenue. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, conducted the services. Miss Etta Raybert, soprano soloist ot Trinity Reformed church sang two favorite hymns of Mr. Rappleye, "Sometime We'll Understand," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

There was a beautiful display of floral set pieces from friends, neighbors and relatives. The deceased looked very life-like, dying as he did without suffering, and resembled Gen. Grant as he lay in his casket. Mr. Broek took for the text upon which he based his remarks, "My Times are in Thy Hands," Psalms 31-15. The interment was made today in the family plot at Hackensack, the New York cemetery, and Rev. J. Y. Broek accompanied the mourners to the place of interment.

HEBREWS BEGIN FEAST OF THE TABERNACLES

The supper of many local Jewish families last night was served in huts, built to commemorate the Feast of Tabernacles, "Succoth," which is observed in this manner as a reminder of the way in which the children of Israel dwelt when freed from bondage in Egypt. The booth, roofed with branches and leaves of trees and hung with fruit and products of the fields, suggests also the harvest season, and in the synagogues as well as in the huts, special services of thanksgiving are offered for God's bounty of the year. This is particularly symbolized by a palm branch held in one hand and shaken, while an "Esreg," a fruit resembling a lemon is held in the other, during one of the prayers.

The feast lasts seven days, during which the devout Jew is expected to live, eat and even sleep in the booth, when he is not attending the synagogue. Its conclusion marks the last of the series of early fall religious observations of the Hebrew race throughout the world and is celebrated with merrymaking in harmony with its name, "Simchas Torah," the Rejoicing in the Law.

ALL-DAY MISSIONARY MEETING OF BAPTISTS.

The Young Women's Society of the First Baptist church held a delightful all-day meeting yesterday at the home of Miss Elizabeth Nash, Valley road. The members of the society were met at the Scotch Plains trolley and conveyed by automobiles to the home of their hostess. The charms of the famous country place afforded pleasant entertainment to the guests during the time that followed luncheon until the regular meeting was opened at 3 o'clock with a devotional service led by Mrs. Frank W. Jones. Mrs. Albert Kennelly presented a paper full of instruction and intensely interesting on the subject "The Beginnings of Woman's Work in Foreign Missions." Mrs. Bach followed with another interesting paper on "The Beginnings of Woman's Work in Home Missions."

At the conclusion of the papers, Mrs. Albert Kennelly was elected president in place of Miss Helen Armstrong who recently resigned, and Miss Elizabeth Nash was elected secretary to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Miss Amy Conant, who will be out of town for the winter.

L. D. Albin President.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church, at its meeting in Vincent chapel, last night, elected Leland D. Albin president to succeed Arthur Humble, who resigned after several years' faithful service, and William D. Anderson was elected secretary to succeed Irving Stebbins, resigned. Mr. and Mrs. Leland D. Albin, who are new comers, were elected to membership.

Baseball Game Called Off.

Owing to the disagreeable weather conditions, Manager Dorflinger called off the game scheduled for this afternoon between Plainfield and the Baltimore Eastern League club. It is doubtful whether the locals will play another game this season because of uncertain weather.

Enters Soldiers' Home.

Edward P. Thorn, one of the Civil War veterans for many years a resident of Plainfield, but for several years past a resident of Westfield, has entered the hospital at the Soldiers' Home at Kearney for treatment. Mr. Thorn is a brother of Albert G. Thorn, of East Front street.

William Lunger will lead the W.C.T. U. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

WANT TO BE COPS

Mayor and Chief Receive Applications For Positions on Police Force.

BOARD TO ACT PROMPTLY.

School Janitors Who Failed to Become Special Policemen Because of Fee May Be Able to Qualify Without Deposit.

The Councilmanic police board met last night to discuss the question of putting on extra men for police duty and to ascertain how many had applied for such positions. It was learned that Chief Kiely had received a half-dozen applications and it was understood that Mayor Moy had also received several. Among the number are several who give promise of making first-class policemen, it is said, and it is the intention of the board to increase the force at once. The Common Council provided for twenty-five additional men.

The board also received a communication from Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, relative to the appointment of the school janitors as special policemen. For some reason or other the janitors were not appointed as specials this year, and in view of the fact that according to the law each man so appointed is obliged to make a deposit of $5 when he receives his badge, none of the janitors has been anxious for the appointment. Efforts will be made if possible to have these men made specials without depositing the fee. It is reported that this was done in the case of the Board of Health and the police board believes that it can be done in the case of the school janitors.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF BOROUGH'S COUNCIL

The greater part of last night's regular monthly meeting of the Borough council was devoted to routine business, owing to the fact that there was a bare quorum. Councilmen W. L. Smalley, Stahl and Waldron were unable to be present. It requires five votes to grant a building permit and for this reason a number that were received had to be laid over. They were as follows:

William Gandle, addition to house on Duer street near Greenbrook road; R. W. Barnes, erection of a garage in rear of residence on Mountain avenue; Thomas M. Egany, addition to house on Mountain avenue; George Ammon, erection of garage in rear of residence on Duer street, near Dupont.

These petitions were received: From James Hurley, for a hydrant at Belmont and Hurley avenues, granted; from residents near Mountain and Watchung avenues, for two lights, one on Mountain avenue and the other on Watchung avenue, the latter was granted.

The trustees of St. Joseph's church asked permission to connect its surface water pipes with the Jackson avenue storm sewer. Same was granted with the understanding that the work be under the supervision of Street Commissioner Barrett. On motion of Mr. VanArsdale, the proposed shade tree ordinance was referred to the borough counsel for legal inspection. On a resolution from Mr. Milne, $1,000 was ordered borrowed for current expenses. On another resolution by Mr. Milne, the borough was authorized to sell for not less than $100 a small strip of land left over at Watchung avenue and Harmony street, when the former thoroughfare was cut through. It is fifty feet long, five feet wide at one end and three at the other. It has been of no use to the municipality and an adjoining property owner has offered to buy it.

The report of the tax collector showed a balance on hand of $916.76. Recorder Dolliver reported nineteen arrests during September and $30 in fines collected.

MISS ALMA McCORMICK WEDS LIEUT. McLAUGHLIN.

Miss Alma Carlisle McCormick, daughter of Mrs. J. C. McCormick, of this city, and Lieut. Lawrence Albert McLaughlin, U. S. A., were married in Christ church, Elizabeth, N. C., on Monday last by Rev. Claudius F. Smith, rector of the church. The wedding was followed by a reception. The couple will reside at Fortress Monroe.

The bridegroom is attached to the Coast Artillery Corps, and the bride resided here with her mother prior to her marriage this week.

'MINISTERS' SONS'

At Last They Have a Defender in the Reverend Franklin K. Mathiews.

TALK AT Y. M. C. A. AUDITORIUM

First of a Series of Four Addresses on "The Soul of a Boy" Directed to the Mothers.

Yesterday afternoon in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews gave the first series of four lectures to mothers of boys on "The Soul of a Boy." Mr. Mathiews' topic was "What a Mother Should Do for Her Boy, or the Sphere and Atmosphere of the Home."

Mr. Mathiews said that of all the factors in the training of the boy religion has greatest worth. Religious training gives depth to manhood. Life is thin without it. Religious training is needed for two reasons. The first is that, in the words of Shailer Mathews, "there will be no more regard for authority in the nation than there is for authority in the nation's homes. Children who wheedle their parents into letting them act foolishly, are being educated to bribe legislators into letting them act foolishly are being educated to bribe legislators into letting them act lawlessly." A revival of parental authority is needed and such authority roots itself in religion. The other reason is that religion gives to morality its motive power. To the power of custom it adds desire.

It is the home that offers the best opportunity to influence the boy religiously. Common talk would have us believe that where there is the most religious training in the home there is the least result for right and noble living. The bad careers of good mens' sons are often cited but most frequently we are told of ministers' sons gone wrong. Within the last six years, two secular magazines, the one in England, the other in America, have had notable contributions that should lay forever this libel upon religious. Canon Wellidon, of Westminster Abbey, examined the sixty-nine volumes of the Dictionary of British National Biography and noted the names of men and women who had rendered special service to their nation and who were children respectively of either lawyers, physicians or clergymen.

The lawyers' children of note numbered 510; the physicians' children, 350; the clergymens', 1,270. Such a comparison of professional men always most anxious to give their children the best education shows that the child who has the advantage of a home where religious culture is as much sought after as intellectual and moral improvement goes out into the world much better equipped every way to make his mark as a man or woman. In America, D. O. S. Lowell's study of the census showed that one in every 221 of the male population was a minister's on. In "Who's Who in America" appear the names of 898 sons of ministers. This means that, while there is only one minister's son to every 221 of the male population, among the men who have achieved special distinction the proportion is one to twelve. To these facts may be added the statement that, of the names in the "Hall of Fame" at New York university, ministers' sons constitute almost one-fifth. These figures are not offered to laud the ministry but to emphasize the necessity and supreme worth of religious training in the home.

Characters are moulded and lives are shaped not by the occasional good influence but by the influences that are about us all the time. It is the home that offers an opportunity to provide such an environment for the developing soul of the child. It is the sphere of the home to match the training of the mind as provided for in the school with the same painstaking, conscientious, every-day training of the soul. Parents need to learn that, however effective the church, the Sunday school and the Young Men's Christian Association may be, they must never be permitted to become substitutes for the home as the funadmental agency in religious training. A movement for the religious training of boys in the home is needed. We already have literature for such a movement in such invaluable books for mothers of boys as Dean Hodges' "The Training of Children in Religion."

The atmosphere of the home should be conducive to religious

THEIR DREAMS END

Four German Youths Who Deserted Ship to Seek Fortunes Here Are Prisoners.

THEY WILL BE SENT BACK.

Ambitious Young Men Preferred the Land of the Free—They Must Go Back and "Hoch der Kaiser" Now.

The four German youths arrested yesterday by Patrolman Dobson, who found them wandering about in an aimless manner, and to whom they said that they had arrived in this country September 28, as members of the crew of the President Lincoln of the Hamburg-American line, deserting the vessel upon its arrival at New York, were arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. On request of an agent of the immigration Bureau, of New York, they were held until warrants can be secured from United States Commissioner Henkel, of that port, which will cause their removal to Ellis Island, where a board of investigation will consider their case.

The oldest of prisoners is but eighteen, and he acted as spokesman. He gave his name as Clifford Lenaschke and said that he has a brother living in Chicago. It was the boy's intention to walk to that city in hope of locating his brother and find employment. The quartet did not take kindly to the thought of being sent back to Holzberg, from whence they had sailed, giving as one reason that they would have to join the army next year.

They are all typical German boys of the middle class and speak English brokenly. During their stay at police headquarters they have become favorites with the men and are shown every courtesy. They sing nicely together the folk songs of their native land and when not busy discussing the golden dreams they have of American fortunes they yeodle selections of favorite composers.

FISK O'HARA TONIGHT AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Robert E. Irwin will present Fiske O'Hara in his latest and most successful play, "Love's Young Dream," at the Plainfield theatre, tonight. It is needless to state that this play like all of the others in which Mr. O'Hara has appeared, is of that clean refined order of dramas. Nothing suggestive or vulgar is to be found in the lines or situations and it is a story filled with heart interest and fascinating romance. The story revolves around Barry Carroll, a young physician, who like most young Irishmen, manages to fall desperately in love.

The young woman in question is one Clare Trelawney, an heiress with the distasteful incumbrance of a cranky guardian her uncle. This Ignatius Dwyer has picked out a husband for Clare, in the person of Colonel Richard Lovell, a British officer, who has promised to reward Dwyer in the event of the marriage being consummated. Barry and Clare finding the uncle obdurate, elope. They are overtaken at a wayside inn and Barry is forced to relinquish the girl, or cause the death of his father, who has confessed to aiding the smugglers. Learning that Lovell intends forcing Clare to marry him and that the confession of the elder Carroll is still in his possession, Barry turns highwayman for the once and meeting the party on the road recovers the paper and rescues the girl he loves. A highwayman whom he has once befriended, assists him to finally discomfit Lovell and all ends serene for the lovers.

HIS CAR WRECKED DAMAGES AWARDED

A jury in the Supreme Court at Newark, yesterday, rendered a verdict against the F. L. C. Martin Company, of this city, in favor of Albert G. Booker, of DeGraw avenue, Newark, for damages to his car which was wrecked in an alleged road test while in the company's possession undergoing repairs and for the time lost in the use of it. The verdict was that he was to be given the wrecked machine and $628 damages.

The accident which resulted in the suit occurred on Park avenue, this city, about a year and a half ago. William Mazzocco, now in Brazil, but at that time superintendent of the Martin garage in this city, was trying the car when it dashed into a tree near Evergreen avenue. Mr. Mazzocco was thrown out and severely injured. The car was badly damaged. All efforts on the part of the F. L. C. Martin Company to adjust the matter were refused by Mr. Booker and by the verdict, it is said, that he has not fared as well as he would, had he accepted one of the offers made him by the company.

MONTHLY REPORT ON PLAINFIELD'S HEALTH

The number of cases of communicable disease reported during September, as reported at the Board of Health's monthly meeting last night, comprised: Tuberculosis, 8; typhoid fever, 5; diphtheria, 1. In addition to the five Plainfield cases of typhoid, two were taken to Muhlenberg Hospital from out of town during the month. All cases of comunicable disease were carefully looked up with a view to ascertaining the source of infection. Two of the typhiod cases it was stated, were undoubtedly contracted out of town, and in the other three, the source of infection could not be definitely determined. This is the season when typhoid fever is apt to be prevalent. A circular on "Tuberculosis" has just been issued by this department.

It was reported that eleven rooms in seven houses were disinfected during the past month. Twenty-eight samples of milk were analyzed and ninety-nine inspections made in connection with the milk supply.

Sixty-nine inspections were made in connection with plumbing and one hundred and sixty-seven inspections were made in connection with general work.

A permit to collect garbage was granted to W. T. Hutchinson, and a plumber's bond, submitted by W. A. Bennett, of Metuchen, was ordered filed; also one submitted by Louis Goldstein. Michael Brocco, the little boy who was bitten by a rabid dog, has been undergoing the Pasteur treatment, given by this department, and is now apparently well.

During the month the Board has made investigations in connection with the public water supply, samples were taken on different dates and from different points, and sent to Trenton to the State Laboratory of Hygiene for analysis; the last eight samples showed no evidence of any pollution. The board will continue to make a thorough investigation of the entire water situation during this coming month.

The following returns were made this department during the month of September: Marriages, 16; births, 43; deaths, 28.

Carrier Pigeons Lost.

A. S. VanPelt, of Rahway, has suffered the loss of six carrier pigeons which were recently released at Gettysburg. They were freed Sunday, September 24, but not one of them has reached home. Six weeks ago Mr. VanPelt, who is a fancier, liberated several birds at the same place and all but one reached home in two days. The other came in three weeks later greatly fatigued and with its tail feathers missing.

Gave Her a Postal Shower.

Mrs. Raymond Guinn, of Leland avenue, who is now convalescing from a sever attack of typhoid fever, enjoyed a postal shower today, in honor of the anniversary of her birthday. Many of her friends remembered her with postal cards.

FRAUD IS ALLEGED

Local Authorities Investigate the Methods of a New York Concern.

CUSTOMERS AS COMPLAINANTS.

Patrons Aid Police In Preparing Case For Attention of Grand Jury—Mayor and Police Chief Active.

Asserting that they have been misled regarding the goods they were to receive from the Columbia Furniture Trading Co., of New York, by the concern's representatives, James McKeon and John King, of West Fourth street, brought the transactions of the firm in this city to the attention of Chief Kiely, who referred the complaining customers to Mayor Moy. After an investigation the Mayor ordered the firm's agent detained and brought to his office the next time he arrived in town to make the weekly collections.

The concern's method, according to the police, is to sell stamps at 10 cents each, one a week, to customers who paste them in a book. When the book is filled it represents an expenditure of $14.40 sixty cents worth of stamps being donated as a starter. This book is then to be taken to the store in New York and exchanged for articles of furniture which may be selected from a list, or the goods on display.

Mr. McKeon stated to the police that his wife was shown a catalogue in which the articles were pictured, but when she called at the store she did not see the goods as pictured and was told that it would be impossible to supply her with the article she had selected, others being offered in substitution, she asserted. When she declined to take any other article, she alleged, and demanded her money back it was refused.

Mr. King ordered a couch and it was sent to him by freight. In transit it was damaged and he refused to accept it. That was more than three months ago and although he has made repeated efforts to have the matter adjusted, he alleged, he has been unable to get any satisfaction, either in having his money refunded or the couch replaced.

After his investigation Mayor Moy wrote to the proprietor of the company, Osis Moskowitz, to come to Plainfield and explain his transactions. Instead he sent his lawyer, B. E. Siegelstein this morning, with two of the men who have been acting as agents. After a long conference with the Mayor, Judge William G. DeMeza, Chief Kiely and Mr. Siegelstein, the latter was told that the case would be taken under advisement and he would be given every opportunity to prepare a defence for his client in the event of proceedings being started in the courts on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. On the charge of violating the city ordinance, relative to peddling without a license, he was told that is a minor matter and would not require any time in disposition.

The books of several customers have been turned over to the police along with other data which will be valuable to the State in preparing its case and bringing it to the attention of the Grand Jury.

Men's Association Meeting.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains, addressed the Men's Association of Warren chapel, last night on the "Men and Religion Movement," and at the conclusion of the talk the association decided to appoint a committee of five to represent the chapel in this movement. There was a large attendance of men and during a social hour refreshments were served.

Disposes of Business.

T. A. Garthwaite has sold the business he has conducted at Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, for several years to H. Robinson and M. Deutsch who took charge yesterday. The business will be continued under the firm name of Deutsch and Robinson. Mr. Garthwaite said today that as yet he has not made any plans for the future.

Gashed His Hand.

Joseph Brown, of Grant avenue, a foreman at the Potter Press Works, sustained a serious gash in the hand yesterday by the breaking of a strong spring he was handling. The injury required the attention of Dr. Cregar, but he will be able to continue at work.

Entertained at Truell Inn.

INDIANAPOLIS MAYOR BUYS MORE POTATOES.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 7.—Mayor Shank has closed another deal for a carload of potatoes and these are being delivered to persons who placed orders with the Mayor recently when his second carload of "municipal potatoes" was sold in the city market at cost by the Mayor in his war on commission merchants, who are blamed for the high cost of living.

As there were only 420 bushels of potatoes in the second car bought, and the Mayor had orders for 615 bushels, the carload did not last long. The potatoes were bought from a Wisconsin firm which consigned the car to a local commission house only to have the shipment rejected on the ground that the potatoes were long instead of round in shape.

The Mayor looked at the potatoes, said they were excellent in quality and bought them at sixty-seven cents a bushel.

A DOLLAR WORTH $650 STOLEN.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Somewhere in Chicago a silver dollar valued by numismatists at $650 is waiting to be recognized. It was stolen recently from the collection of Charles E. Rogers by workman who, Rogers thinks, had no idea of its real value. The dollar is of the issue of 1804.

"I had some decorating done," said Rogers, "and there was a lot of men running in and out. The coin was in a small chest in the dining-room. I'm afraid some workman grabbed it, went out and bought a drink with it."

Iron for Grape Vine Manure.

Hundreds of tons of iron chips and filings from machine shops have been used as fertilizers in Speer's vineyards at Passaic, N. J., producing the deep color of the wine, the decided blood making properties that this wine contains and for which it is so highly recommended by physicians. If persons want to give color to their cheeks, the use of Speer's Port Grape Wine or Burgundy will bring it.

Miss Elizabeth Chadbourne has returned from her vacation and is ready to take up her work with her large class in the Congregational church Sunday school. The class will study "The First Three Christian Centuries." This will be a continuation of the work of last year when the class took up the life of Paul.

I see and have some kick about it.

A football is not the only thing to kick around here.

Was away three days last week, when I returned I found I had been sued, had no notice of it.

But that is nothing, that is not a circumstance to the injustice played me while I was so sick I could hardly hold my head up.

Plainfield poor man, I intend to be your friend some day.

Soda crackers are extremely sensitive to moisture.

Before the advent of Uneeda Biscuit the only persons who ever tasted fresh, crisp soda crackers were the people in the bakeries.

Imagine their trip from bakery to your table; exposed to air and moisture—kept in grocers' boxes and finally in a paper bag on the shelf in your pantry. Could they be the same as they were the day they were baked?

Now that we have Uneeda Biscuit—we have perfectly baked soda crackers—perfectly kept.

No moisture can reach them—no contaminating influences can affect their flavor—their goodness is imprisoned only to be liberated by you for you when you open the package.

Improvement Association Awaits Public Utilities Commission.

Elizabeth, Oct. 7.—The report of the committee on the removal of the overhead wires from First street was the principal business before the members of the First Street Improvement Association last night, but nothing could be done, as the Public Utilities Commission has not as yet answered the communication sent by the committee.

The committee stated that it expected to be in communication with the various telephone and electric light companies in a few days and that the latter would in all probability make them another offer of compromise. This will be refused, however, as the association feels that the only possible outcome of the fight they are making will be the removal of the wires underground

The New York Telephone Company and the Public Service Railway Company have conduits under the street already, and the association feels that the wires should be placed there. This the companies object to and say that the only thing they will do is to erect higher poles and place the wires all on one side of the street.

The annual church reception will be held at the First Presbyterian church, Thursday evening, October 26. The Pastor's Aid Society will be in charge.

Walk in the office of any daily newspaper in the United States and ask the first man you meet whether it is possible to run a newspaper without making concessions to advertisers in the news and editorial columns and he will say "No." Although he doesn't know it, that's the wrong answer. I was one of five men who ran a newsaper that made no concessions to anybody. Everything that went into that paper went in on the basis of what the reader was entitled to get for the one-cent piece that he paid for each day's issue. The paper lasted two years and ate up all of its receipts and sixty thousand dollars more. Then it suspended publication. We call it a successful failure. This is its story:

Fred Mell, the president of the Sunflower Publishing Company, conceived the idea. That was in the spring of 1905. The Sunflower at that time had five daily papers in the Missouri-Mississippi Valley. They were supposed to be "people's papers," operated from the editor's and not the business manager's desk. Instead they were commercial institutions, like most of the other daily newspapers of the country. They got the business first and looked out for the interests of the public afterward—provided the public's interests did not interfere too seriously with the advertiser. They were above the average in news independence, but none of them enjoyed absolute emancipation from the business office.

The other Sunflower men were Earl Butler and Larry Ashman. They were young and aggressive and they knew the newspaper game from the ink rollers to the editorial page. They had plenty of nerve and a little money. Originally, they had had decided convictions about the influence of advertising and established institutions on their news columns and editorial policies. They had started all their papers with a determination to print what the subscriber was entitled to know, regardless of whose ox was gored, but gradually in each city their papers had fallen more or less under the influence of the commercial interests. The Sunflower people were making money, but they had compromised with their convictions—as have many other publishers.

A Square Deal for the Reading Public

It was this situation that brought Mell, Butler, Ashman, Jim Austin and myself together in the cramped local room of The St. James Sun. on the evening of May 5, 1905. We sat around the city editor's broad, flat-top desk, while Mell unfolded the plan that two years later developed into the successful failure. Said Mell:

"We've bought this newspaper for twenty-five thousand dollars. It was on its last lap and we took it in for about the value of the plant. It's been running a year, but would have quit if we hadn't grabbed it. We're going to gamble on it to the extent of sixty thousand dollars. Larry, Earl and myself have agreed to chip in twenty thousand dollars apiece. We'll put the cash in the bank tomorrow and then we'll organize the Sun Publishing Company, with a capital stock of one hundred thousand dollars of stock, but yours and Austin's won't cost you a cent. If you make good the stock will be yours; if you don't you won't lose anything. Austin will be business manager and you'll be editor. You will each get thirty-five dollars a week salary till the first dividend is declared; after that you'll be boosted as the company can afford it. Here's the plant debt-free. There's the sixty thousand dollars. We want you to spend all your receipts and to draw on the sixty as you need it. There's only one condition: You are to settle every question pertaining to news strictly from the standpoint of the rights of the reader, who is buying information. When a story comes over your desk you are to decide whether to print it or not to print it according to your opinion of the reader's right to the facts it conveys. If you think the man who is going to pay a penny for your paper is entitled to the facts, print the story. If not, don't print it.

"We want you to consider only the public—the people who look to your newspaper to tell them what their own community and the world have been doing for the past twenty-four hours. We want you to ignore the particular people or interests directly affected by each thing you publish, whether they advertise with you or not, whether they are highbrow politicians or lowbrow burglars, whether they are highbrow citizens or convicted crooks. In fighting or defending institutions, customs, laws, politicians or whatever else may become an issue, we want you to be for the things that make for the good of humanity and against the things that make for harm. That will be your editorial policy; you must work it out and apply it in each specific case."

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

growth. Through appropriate pictures, books, mottoes, there should be carried on a continuous silent ministry to the child's spiritual welfare. Valuable suggestions for the providing of such an environment will be given in the exhibit to be given the first week in December in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Mr. Mathiews said that he had recently read biographies of three men, one a philanthropist, one a dramatic writer and one a humble mechanic. Varied as the lives of these three men were, all give thanks for a mother who inspired their success. So shall it continue to be, for oncoming generations of children will yet hear mother say:

"Do you know that your soul is of my soul a part
That you seem to be fibre and core of my heart?
None other can pain me as you, dear,
can do;
None other can please me or praise
me, as you.
Remember, the world will be quick quick with its blame
If shadow or stain ever darken your name.
'Like mother, like son,' is a saying so true,
The world will judge largely of mother by you.
Be yours then the task, if task it shall be,
To force the proud world to do homage to me;
Be sure it will say, when its verdict
you've won,
'She reap as she sowed; Lo! this is her son.'"

Miss Clyde Burnet will be the speaker at the gospel meeting at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tomorrow night at 7:45 o'clock. There will be special singing. The Bible class will meet at 2:30 and will be taught by S. T. Perrin, of this city.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I notice in a recent issue of The Daily Press that Mr. James H. Fuertes, has again been employed by the city, this time at $50 a day and his expenses, and the expenses of an unmentioned number of assistants. Mr. Fuertes was paid $5,000 nearly a year ago for a report upon the water problem in which he recommended (p. 58) that the city obtain a supply of surface water from the Lamington or Black river, near Hacklebarney, in Morris county, and emphatically advised against any attempt by the city to acquire the works of the water company by condemnation. Now it seems that he has been employed to assist Mr. Wail to make an effort to do that very thing.

Mr. Wail, a lawyer of Jersey City, was employed three months or more ago to condemn the water works. No price for his services was fixed, or at least made public, but it was reported that he was to render his bills every three months. Lawyers of his calibre commonly charge at least $100 a day and expenses. It would seem, therefore, that the tax payers of Plainfield are being run in debt to these gentlemen to the amount of at least $150 a day, and expenses to an unknown amount. The expenses of the water report were said to be about $7,000 in excess of the $5,000 paid to Mr. Fuertes.

I have nothing to say against Mr. Wail or Mr. Fuertes. They are not to blame for accepting employment to attempt to do what Mr. Fuertes has advised the city not to undertake. Their employment, however, seems more remarkable still when it is understood that many of our wisest citizens and those most deeply interested in the welfare of the city have given to the Common Council the same advice that Mr. Fuertes did a year ago.

But this is not all. If the Common Council persists in going on against the advice of Mr. Fuertes and of our leading citizens, and their proceeding ends, as they have been advised that it will end, $150 a day will be but a fraction of the bill that the taxpayers must pay at last. I understand that if the effort to condemn should fail, as it probably will, the city must pay not only its lawyers and experts, and their assistants, and expenses, but the city must also pay the lawyers and experts employed by the water company, and their assistants and expenses. The company no doubt will employ the ablest lawyers and experts they can find, and they are not limited in number. It is not at all improbable that the cost of this reckless enterprise will range from $500 to $1,000 a day, and how many years the litigation will continue no one can tell.

As a citizen and taxpayer of Plainfield I protest against this extravagance while our tax rate is mounting higher and higher on largely increased valuations, and every day or so we hear of another burglary for want of policemen to protect our homes. No city can prosper unless its government is safe and sane.

C. Van HERWERDEN.

THIRD OF FAMILY TO BE DROWNED

Elizabeth, Oct. 7—An employe of the Bowker Feitilizer Company yesterday morning found the body of Michael Gannon floating in Staten Island Sound. The Third Pricinct police station was notified and the police in turn summoned Morguekeeper John J. Engel, who removed the remains to the morgue at Smith and East Jersey streets.

Gannon, who was well known at William Laurie's cafe at Front and Marshall streets, had been missing for the past week. Upon the advices of Mr. Engel two men acquainted with Gannon came to the morgue and viewed the remains, pronouncing the body to be that of the missing man. The features had been rendered almost unrecognizable by the crabs which infest the sound, but the two men determined the identity of the victim by two scars on one of his arms.

Gannon is the third member of his family to meet death by drowning. A nephew, Frank Gannon, of 227 Marshall street, was drowned on July 4 last while bathing at South Beach. The young man, who had accompanied a number of friends to the popular summer resort, lost his life in practically shallow water in sight of hundreds of bathers. After sinking once he failed to rise to the surface again, and although life still remained in his body when he was brought ashore he died on the beach. Thomas Andrews, grandfather of the youth, was drowned at the Pipe Dock at the foot of Elizabeth avenue several years ago. Rumors of foul play were prevalent at the time, but an investigation failed to prove any of the suspicions of relatives.

Gannon was about 40 years old. He weighed about 200 pounds. The body was water-logged and so heavy that several ropes were broken in an effort to lift it from the water.

The dead man is survived by a brother and one sister, Miss Eliza Gannon, who for the past thirty years has been a sister in the Order of St. Francis, being stationed in Jersey City.

ST. JOSEPH AUXILIARY GIVES ENTERTAINMENT.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Joseph's church conducted a successful card party and dance last evening in Saengerbund Hall, realizing a goodly amount for the building fund. The affair was arranged by Miss Kate Keogh, Mrs. Bimble, Mrs. Prindle and Miss Hepner. The early hours of the night were spent at cards, which was followed by dancing.

Prof. Fitzpatrick was present with his bagpipe and furnished music for the old time reels and jigs, dear to the hearts of the native Celt, many of whom beat time to the strains of the familiar comeolias. James McCann acted as floor manager.

Mrs. John Rowland, of East Fifth street, is seriously ill at her home.

N Y. AMUSEMENTS.

It was a lucky day for Manager Brady and the Playhouse when "The Rack" fell down with such a crash, for it cleared the way for the immediate production of George Broadhurst's "Bought and Paid For," one of the best comedies of New York life that any American playwright has shown in many a long day. Not only is this play immeasurably superior to anything that Mr. Broadhurst has done before, but in one of its characters at least, James Gilley, he has drawn a picture of a parasite which is a creation. This role of Gilley s played by Frank Craven, and the almost equally droll and human character of his adoring wife as played by Marie Nordstrom, keep the audience in such fits of laughter that the serious story of the play becomes almost of secondary interest.

The most successful musical comedy in the last decade of the theatre is Klawk & Erlanger's "The Pin Lady," now in its seventh month at the New Amsterdam theatre, New York cit, but a production of which will be seen in other cities later in the season. "The Pink Lady" has upset the ideas of managers who are proclaiming that long runs are no longer possible on Broadway, an defied the heat in attracting large audiences. Klaw & Erlanger will also make a London production of this Caryll-McLellan comedy on Janury 3, 1912. The end of the New York run is not yet in sight. One of the most effective results of the "Pink Lady" vogue is the public demand for musical entertainments following the lines of "The Pink Lady."

The big show at the N. Y. Hippodrome continues its prosperous course. "Around the World" is doubtless the most popular spectacular offering ever presented at New York's largest playhouse. The week ensuing will offer in Columbus Day a holiday opportunity to those who have not been able hitherto to take advantage of the daily matinee. Glimpses of Italy and Turkey which are shown, respectively in the Grand Canal of Venice and the Harem Garden scene in Constantinople have a timely interest, while other countries represented scenically are Ireland, England, Spain, India, Egypt, Honolulu, Switzerland, etc. More than 200 animals are seen in the many pageants. There is a gorgeous Ballet of Butterflies, a water finale containing many brilliant mechanical surprises, including the golden barge. A tribe of genuine Berber Arabs add to the realism of the desert scene. 1200 people take part in the gigantic production.

Communion services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow morning, with reception of members.

THE FORTUNES OF THE SUN

Mell then turned to Austin—and the difference between the instructions he gave Jim and those he gave me shows pretty clearly what kind of a paper we were expected to make.

"Jim," he said, "we want you to understand that the editor is to be the supreme boss in his department. We want you to agree to the plan cordially, without any reservations, and then we want you to go out and get advertising for that kind of a newspaper—if you can."

Jim agreed, and I want to set it down right here at the beginning that he stuck to his word and did it cheerfully. When the Smith Transfer and Storage Company took out their ad because I printed an editorial demanding a jail sentence for one of their reckless drivers who had run over and killed a little girl, Jim smiled and went out and tried to convince the Smiths that the driver really ought to go to prison and that they should help send him there, and not protect him in the fear of being held for damages by the little girl's parents. And all through the long list of cases where truth and honesty cost us advertising old Jim stood right under the guns. He never flinched from the denunciation of irate merchants, but legged it up one street and down the other, standing up for the paper, making converts where he could, and struggling desperately to get new business to take the place of that which we lost. He was as sincerely committed to the policy of honest, independent journalism as though he had been an editorial department man himself. Any newspaper man in either department will tell you that I couldn't give him a more thorough indorsement.

An Editorship Without a String to It

Of course I agreed enthusiastically to Mell's proposition. Heaven itself could hold no greater joy than an editorship without a string to it. At last I was free to serve the public with single purpose, unhampered by consideration of those from whom we derived our revenues. I held a broad, noble theory of journalism. I believed that the primary business of the newspaper was to print the news, accurately, intelligently and fearlessly. I believed the secondary business was to help the masses of the people to a better and happier condition of life, by working for or toward better laws, customs and institutions. I believed that the newspaper that did these things would be sought out by the public, and that the public would buy its issues and thereby become an audience that might be addressed by advertisers who had an honest product to sell.

Brought down to practical operation, my theory was to get circulation first, and for my paper's permanent support to trust to the advertiser's desire to use that circulation to his own advantage. I was convinced that was the right way to make a newspaper succeed, and I had the newspaper and sixty thousand dollars to spend on my theory.

The next day Austin and I took charge of The St. James Sun. I found I had a staff of three reporters, a society editor, a stockyards and South St. James editor—who covered the markets and the news of South St. James and sent his copy up to the office by a street-car conductor every noon—and an office boy. I became editor, city editor, telegraph editor, editorial writer and superintendent of make-up. I want to state parenthetically that that is the kind of an organization for a young man to tie up with if he really wants to learn all there is to know about the newspaper business. Everybody learns all about every branch of the work, because sooner or later everybody is called upon to do each variety of work that stands behind the finished product.

I held a staff meeting the first afternoon and was delighted to find my four men, one girl and office boy filled with enthusiasm. When I told them what kind of a newspaper we were going to make of The Sun their eyes sparkled and I knew I could depend on them. I told them to go after news without fear that their efforts would be wasted. When they brought a story into the office they could be certain it would go into the paper if it was news; no amount of protest or pressure from people who wanted the story suppressed would influence me if it was something I believed should be given to the public. That sort of backing puts more ginger into a reporter than many dollars in salary. What he works for is not money but the personal satisfaction and pleasure of running the fact to earth, seizing it, carrying it to the office, writing it and seeing it in print.

I promised them that was what they could expect, and they soon discovered that I meant it. In no other newspaper office have I ever found so loyal, so hard-working, so efficient an organization. The reason is that in no other office have I ever found an editor endowed with the authority and possessed of the determination to run the kind of newspaper I ran.

The New Policy Put to Test.

At noon on the second day my court reporter, an energetic, experienced young man named George Kite, came into the office with a sensational story.

"I've got a red-hot yarn," he said. "Afraid maybe it's too hot to handle."

"What is it?" I asked. "Nothing's too hot for this paper it it's straight news."

"Suit was filed this morning against young Charlie Longman by a woman who claims to be his common-law wife. She demands maintenance for herself and child; says she lived with him five years and that now he's abandoned her and she's starving. Story's true, too."

"What is there about it that's too hot to handle?"

"Longman. You know who he is, dont you?"

"No, and I don't care."

"Hes the son of old man Longman, who owns the chain of Longman installment furniture houses. 'You find the bride—we furnish the home.' You know 'em. Big advertisers."

I saw Kite was putting me to the test. He thought to himself: "Here's where I find out whether the talk this fellow gave us yesterday was on the square."

I didn't look up from the copy I was editing, but said sharply:

"Write it."

What we did to that story is told in St. James yet. I didn't mention it to Austin. I didn't even ask the foremen if the Longmans advertised with us. That was no concern of mine. Here was a legitimate piece of news that had come into the office through regular channels. A man—a wealthy, prominent young man, the assistant manager of a big store—had been called to account for conduct that stamped him as unfit for the society of decent people. I believed that the people who paid a penny for their Suns that day were entitled to these facts. If the accused man had been an ordinary citizen, any person without the advertising leverage, there could have been no question about printing the story, so I printed it.

We slapped a three-colmun head on the Longman story and set the first two or three paragraphs two columns wide, with a picture of young Longman alongside. It made a beautiful typographical display and was read with avidity that evening. I was not surprised to discover, at three-thirty when my office boy brough me a copy of The Star, the other afternoon paper, that it had not published a line about the case.

Austin had not returned to the office when I went home that night, but at seven o'clock when I was at dinner he called me on the telephone.

"Will you meet me at the office at eight o'clock?" he asked. "Mr. Samuels, manager of the Longman Furniture Company, is coming to see me, and I think you ought to be there."

"I'll be glad to come if you feel you'd like to have me help you handle him," I told Austin, "but I don't propose to establish the precedent of going downtown evenings to receive complaints from people about things we've printed in The Sun. If Mr. Samuels has any kick coming about our methods he can see me at my office any day between eight and five."

"This is a little different. He hasn't made any complaint and I rather think he won't, but I anticipate that he'll make a request you'll have to answer, and I'd like to have you come on that account. There are peculiar circumstances connected with this."

I agreed to go.

I may be wrong about this, but it has always seemed to me that the irony of fate is more ironical in the newspaper business than in any other. The Sun's advertising manager had been negotiating with Samuels for ten days about renewing his advertising contract for another year. The Longmans had been advertising regularly; their bills with The Sun had amounted to about four thousand dollars for the year just closing. Their contract was to expire June first, and they had been the first people Austin had gone to see as the new manager of the paper. That very morning Samuels had turned Austin down, saying that the company had decided not to use The Sun the coming year, and at three o'clock that afternoon The Sun had appeared with the Charlie Longman story in it. Of course the Longmans saw right away that it was a plain, straight case of big stick.

Could you imagine a more ironical example of fate's irony?

Advertising With a String to It.

Samuels was a smooth, oily gentleman with puffy cheeks, beady eyes a confidential smile, a pudgy, moist palm, a fancy vest and four-carat scarfpin. He was delighted to see Austin. He was charmed to know me. He was glad two such fine young men had come to manage The Sun. He knew we would be friends. He was a practical business man; always got along well with the papers; liked the boys. Business was good with his firm; it was a beautiful spring; the crop outlook was excellent. After about ten minutes of that kind of talk he seemed to have an inspiration.

"By-the-way, Austin," he remarked, as if the thought had just occurred to him, "about that contract for another year. I've been thinking it over since you were in to see me this morning; in fact, I wired Mr. Longman in Chicago this afternoon, suggesting that we reconsider. You know I've always wanted to renew. Well, I had a telegram from him just before we closed, telling me to use my own judgment. You see I'm for you; I'm a good friend of all the newspaper men. I'd like to use The Sun another year on the same terms we used it last year—same space, same rate and everything. How about it?"

"We'll be very glad to have your business, Mr. Samuels," said Austin, "and I'm sure you'll find it a good investment. We're going to make The Sun a good paper and our circulation is bound to increase. The rate you're paying now will be dirt cheap by the end of the year. Shall I come down in the morning and make out a new contract and take up the old one?"

"Why not do it now? I'm ready to sign."

"All right. That's agreeable to me."

The man had me puzzled. I couldn't believe he was going to sign up for a year without mentioning the Charlie Longman case, merely assuming that we would understand that we were to suppress the story in the future. I made up my mind he shouldn't leave with any such impression and awaited developments.

Austin filled in the blank spaces in the contract specifying when the advertising was to run, how much was to be used each week, what the rate was to be, when bills were to be paid, and so forth. Then he signed the document and pushed it across the table to Samuels. Samuels dipped the pin in the ink, stretched his arm to draw his cuff back, touched the pen to the paper and paused.

"Of course, Mr. Austin," he said—and this time there was no pleasantry in his voice—"we want it understood that if we sign this contract The Sun will drop this Charlie Longman story."

There it was at last! That was the basis upon which he proposed to do business, and he was confident that he would make the deal as he was confident that he was sitting in our office. It was the first time I had ever had a man tell me I was a blackmailer. It sickened me and then it made me mad, but before I could speak Austin said:

"That rests entirely with the editor. I have nothing whatever to say about what the paper prints and what it doesn't print."

"I'm sure you'll agree to that, won't you?" said Samuels, turning to me with a hard, cold gleam in his eye.

The Education of Mr. Samuels.

The break had given me time to get hold of myself. I didn't want to quarrel. I wanted this advertising, but I wanted it on an honest foundation. I could afford to overlook the insult, the misinterpretation of our motives. There was no reason in my code of honest journalism why we shouldn't have the Longmau business and print the Charlie Longman story. I determined to try to convert Samuels.

"No, I can't agree to that, Mr. Samuels," I replied. "The Sun is going to print all the news. The Charlie Longman case is news, and it is going into the paper, whether you advertise with us or not."

His face gradually became the incarnation of blank astonishment. Here was something brand-new in his experience.

"Why—why—" he stammered; "I don't understand. I supposed of course you printed that story today for—that if we'd make a new contract you'd be glad to do us the favor of suppressing the Charlie Longman case. I—I—why—newspapers always protect their advertisers. It's a give-and-take proposition. I never had anybody refuse before. What's the matter? Ain't the contract big enough? Do you want more space? Is the rate too low? If so, don't hesitate to say so. We'll agree to anything reasonable."

"Look here, Mr. Samuels," I said, leaning over the table toward him and speaking earnestly, "space, rates and contract have nothing to do with it. We are going to print things about the Charlie Longman case whenever there's news in it because our subscribers are entitled to the information. When a man walks into our office and shoves a dollar across the counter and orders the paper for four months, he has our pledge—unwritten and unspoken but a pledge nevertheless—to tell him what happens in St. James every day. If we leave the Charlie Longman story or any other story out of the paper we cheat that man. We propose to keep our pledge, our obligation, to him."

"But that's absurd. You don't make any money on your circulation. Your money comes out of advertising. We're the people who are entitled to consideration, not the people who buy your paper. You'd starve if you had to depend on them. Don't talk to me about the subscriber. It's the advertiser who makes the paper."

"No, you're all wrong," I said. "It's the reader who makes the paper; not by the money he pays into the office but by the fact that he is a reader, that he sees your advertisement and goes to your store to trade. If it wasn't for the reader you couldn't afford to advertise and you wouldn't advertise. Ordinarily you place your advertising in the papers that reach the most people. Your advertising rates are fixed by the number of subscribers to the papers you use. Last year you paid us a lower rate than you paid The Star, solely because we had eight thousand readers and The Star had thirty thousand. This morning you refused to renew your contract with us because you believed we didn't have enough readers to make it worth while to pay our rate. Now you are willing to renew, not to get business for your firm but to buy our silence. We don't want your advertising on any such basis. We should be cheating you to take it on any such basis. We want your business, but we want it because we believe the trade that you will get through our paper will make your advertising a good investment. We don't want it and won't have it for any other reason."

Samuels exploded.

"You have the most peculiar newspaper ideas I ever heard of," he said; "and I want to tell you you'll never succeed if you stick to them. I never heard such nonsense. Look at The Star and The Leader; they are reasonable about things like this and they are getting the business and making money."

"What do you mean when you say they are reasonable?"

"Why, they look at these things just as I do. The Star didn't print anything about Charlie Longman's suit this afternoon and The Leader won't have in anything about it tomorrow morning. They never print anything that we wouldn't like and The Sun never did before. I've had an agreement with the papers here for years. Usually they don't even ask me about little unpleasant things that come up from time to time, but just leave them out, knowing we wouldn't like it if they were printed. Sometimes they come and ask me, but they always do just as I say. Our people frequently have trouble when we have to seize furniture on which purchasers have failed to make payment. Occasionally somebody gets ugly and our men have to use force or get the police, but the papers never print anything about it. Naturally we appreciate it and give them our business. There's no reason why you boys shouldn't be friendly with us too."

Mr. Samuels, you can readily see, was pretty hopeless, but I didn't give up.

"Look at it this way," I said; "try to understand our side of this case. Now you will admit that if we're to succeed we've got to build up a healthy circulation for The Sun. There's no getting around that. We have determined to get that circulation by convincing the people of St. James and the vicinity that they will always find all the news in our paper. We are convinced that we cannot get people to read our paper by leaving news out of it, and we are starting out to build up circulation for your benefit. We should like to have your advertising while we're getting readers and we offer you a fair rate, based on the number of readers we already have; but we're going to get those readers just the same. Once we have them you will fight to get your copy into The Sun, because down at the bottom what you want is results, and eventually you will discover that The Sun will give them to you. That's the way we're going to establish this newspaper, Mr. Samuels. It's the right way and the honest way. Are you with us or against us?"

Lost Business.

"I'm against you, if you think you can go around this town printing scandals about respectable people and respectable firms and get away with it; and I'm going to see that all my friends are against you. You'll last about six months, and nobody will be sorry when you quit. The people here won't stand for a sensational yellow newspaper, I can tell you that."

"The stuff this newspaper prints won't be sensational and yellow unless the facts are sensational and yellow. And the facts will be printed, whatever their color and whoever they hit. Incidentally the 'people' will read those facts, our circulation will increase, and ultimately you'll come here and ask us to print your advertising."

Samuels went away angry through and through. I had failed to convey to him the faintest glimmer of understanding of our newspaper principles, and our advertising revenues that year were just four thousand dollars less than they might have been. But without realizing why, he knew that we couldn't be purhcased. I felt that was something. I turned to see how Austin took the loss.

"Old man," he said, gripping my hand hard, "I'm willing to lose that business. We can stand it. I agree to every word you said and I am with you."

Within a few days an examiner appointed by the court began taking testimony in the Longman case, and I had Kite attend the sessions and report them fully for The Sun. We printed pictures of the girl and her little boy and carried the story on the first page for two weeks. Neither The Star nor The Leader ever printed a word about the case. The public became intensely interested and our circulation jumped to ten thousand. Practically everybody in town discovered that The Sun was the only paper printing anything about the suit and everybody guessed why.

The case was still pending when our contract with the Longman Furniture Comapny expired on June first On that day I blocked off the half page that the Longmans had been using and in the center of it, in large type, printed the following declaration:

NO APPEAL FROM THE COUNTY BOARD

Appealing to Justice Bergen, of the Supreme court at Elizabeth this morning, for a reconsideration of the recount made yesterday by the Union County Board of Elections on the Union Township Republican vote for township committee, Raymond Parrott, counsel for one of the contestants, was informed that the county board's decision was final. Justice Bergen summoned the county board and when Mr. Parrott had finished his argument stated that the election machinery was controlled by law in such cases by the county board. He had ordered, he said, that the board make a recount and as the latter body's findings were unanimous there was nothing for him to do but receive its report.

As the finding of the county board was that each of the two candidates received 81 votes and not each 80 votes as the district board had reported, Justice Bergen stated that it was the province of "the proper committee" to make a nomination for Republican party before the election. He didn't say which was "the proper committee" but it is well settled that in this particular instance it is the Republican county committee which is vested with the power of choice. Neither of the primary candidates will be selected.

Robert H. McAdams, chairman of the County Board of Elections, absented himself from the meeting today as he did yesterday and on motion of Ralph L. Morrow, Fred Zior was appointed as temporary chairman. Mr. McAdams' action is due to the fact that he is a candidate for office. He asserts that he has no intention of resigning from the board at the present time.

EXPOSITION TO CLOSE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Boy Scouts of New Brunswick who came here today as the feature of the Plainfield Industrial Exposition for Children's Day, paraded through the business section shortly after noon and made a good appearance. The Chamber of Commerce has decided to continue the exposition for three days more, feeling that on account of the inclement weather many people have not attended for this reason but would do so if the weather conditions were more favorable.

The same exhibits will continue during the three days of next week and the awarding of the ribbons for the prize winning fowls will not be announced until Wednesday night, the closing night. Owing to the storm last night the attendance was the smallest of the week, but those who attended were impressed with the systematic manner in which the shows are now being conducted and gave assurance that they would make another visit during next week in order to satisfy themselves that they have received the full benefit of the attractions.

BASEBALL.

"It don't cost much to win pennants! Oh! No! Plainfield had a team on the field Saturday that must have cost Dorflinger a cool three hundred bucks. Note the lineup: Fisher, who caught for the "Pets," is the regular Toronto receiver. McConnell, pitcher, is the leading twirler of the Eastern League. "Lanky George" has signed with the Highlanders for next year. Bailey, of Montreal, first base. Crist, of Altoona Tri-State League, second base. Martin, Richmond, Virginia League, short-stop, and "Whitey" Hartman, Scranton, New York State League, third base. The outfield was composed of Harter, Cosgrove and Stallings. With Lindeman, Nelson, Driscoll, "Britt" Martin and Emery, on the bench, all of whom were paid their regular weekly stipend, the winning of the bunting cost Plainfield a bunch of money. What chance would Westfield have against the team Plainfield had on the field Saturday?"—Westfield Standard.

Note—The youthful and enthusiastic baseball writer for The Standard is reminded that no matter what it cost Plainfield for its team in the game against Somerville, the management had the money to pay for it, and besides, Plainfield finished the season with a balance, which is more than Wetfield can say for its aggregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, Texas, who have been visiting Mrs. Potter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street, leave tomorrow for Atlantic City, where they will remain for a few days. Mr. Potter will attend some of the sessions of the annual convention of the American Electric Railway Association to be held at Atlantic City, October 9-13. Upwards of 4,000 electric railway officials and employees from all parts of the country will attend the convention.

WALSH POSTS WIFE; WON'T STAY HOME

John Walsh, of Metuchen, who is well known in this city, gave public notice yesterday that he will not be responsible for any debts contracted by his wife. He says in his notice that his wife would rather make straw hats in New York than keep house for him. He declares that she has left him eight or nine times to go to New York to engage in this work, under pretense that she wants to be near her fourteen-year-old boy, the son of her first husband.

"She is no use to me when she won't stay home, as I have to engage a housekeeper while she is away," says the notice. "She goes and comes when she feels like it. In case she might raise a bill on me, I want to prevent it by this notice."

P.H.S. TENNIS TOURNEY SINGLES AND DOUBLES

The Plainfield High School tennis tournament was continued yesterday in the boys' singles and doubles and girls' singles. The girls' doubles and mixed doubles will begin next week. The first round in girls' singles was completed yesterday after Clara Neuman had defeated Esther Phillips in one of the best matches of the tournament. This leaves Pauline Gates to play Clara Neuman in the finals.

The first set went to Miss Neuman only after a long struggle by a score of 9 to 7. The second set was short, ending with score of 6-4. Miss Phillips took the lead in the early part of this set and worked up to 4-2, but Miss Neuman won the next four games by her accurate playing and strong stroke. Another set which aroused much interest was in the boys' doubles when Fred Allen and Roy Titsworth played Allen Daggett and Inis White. The match could not be finished on account of darkness. Yesterday's results follow:

Boys' singles—Stanley Bellows defeated Egbert Fountain, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Girls' singles—Clara Neuman defeated Esther Phillips, 9-7, 6-4. Boys' doubles—John Cottrell and Raymond Manley defeated Erickson VanNorden and C. Edward Glenn, 6-3, 6-4; Warren Butler and Dixon Phillips defeated Percy Wilmerding and Corlis Costales, 6-3, 6-2.

COURT O. K'D BILL, J. L. FAY VOTED 'NO'

J. Logan Fay, Democartic candidate for sheriff, yesterday afternoon, at a meeting of the Board of Freeholders, went on record as opposing the payment of two bills authorized by the Grand Jury, presented by Prosecutor C. Addison Swift and endorsed by Judge Atwater, of the Court of Common Pleas, for the services and expenses of Pinkerton detectives employed by the Grand Jury during the recent probe of excise conditions in Elizabeth. Freeholders Fay and Thomas J. Pierson were the only members of the county body to vote against the payment of the bills. The vouchers amounted to $448.54.

It was rumored before the meeting that strong objections would be raised to the payment of the vouchers, but if this was the intention it was quashed during the meeting by Director Cady, who declared that as the bills had been endorsed by Judge Atwater and the prosecutor and authorized by the Grand Jury, there remained no alternative for the freeholders but to approve them. There were two separate bills, one for $344.82 and the other for $103.72.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE AFTER 21 HOURS OUT.

Somerville, Oct. 7.—After it had deliberated for twenty-one hours and failed to agree on a verdict, the jury in the Johnson ejectment case was discharged by Judge Vail in the Somerset Court yesterday. Only one of the jurymen, it is said, favored a verdict for the plaintiffs.

The case revolved around the will of Mrs. David M. Todd, of Bedminster Township, who was the widow of David M. Todd, for many years justice of the peace. It bequeathed a farm, a house and lot and all the personal property of Mrs. Todd to her son-in-law, John Johnson. Since the probate of the will Johnson has sold the farm.

Catherine Collyer and two other sisters of Mrs. Todd brought the action to eject Johnson from the house and lot left him by his mother-in-law on the ground that the will was obtained through undue influence and conspiracy.

The evidence showed that Johnson entered the Todd family at the age of six years. He was reared by the Todds. After his first wife's death Johnson married again and Mrs. Todd continued to live with her son-in-law and his econd wife until her death.

WAR ON PROFANITY

Holy Name Societies of Union County Hold Demonstration at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD IS REPRESENTED.

VanBaar's Band Heads Local Division—Fathers Bogan and Hogan Take Part in the Ceremonies Following the Parade.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's parish participated in the parade in Elizabeth yesterday in which nearly 2,000 men of the Holy Name societies in Union county marched. The parade was one of the most successful ever held, delegations from all parts of the county being in line. The Plainfield society was led by Van Baar's band, of New York. St. Mary's church was represented at the services following the parade by Rev. B. M. Bogan, who is spiritual director of the county organization, and Rev. D. F. Hogan. Rev. William H. Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, was also present, representing his parish.

It was 2:30 o'clock when Grand Marshal Hugh J. McLaughlin formed his men in line at Trumbull and Second streets, and the command to march came shortly afterward. The line of march was to Court street, to Third street, to Third avenue, to First avenue, to Union Square, to Broad street, to East Broad street, to Magnolia avenue and to Spring street, where the addresses were given.

The speakers were the Rev. John F. Fitzpatrick, S. J., of Fordham University, New York, and Congressman James Hamill, of Hudson county.

Father Fitzpatrick, in his address, attacked the Socialistic movement as an enemy of citizenship of the country. The public school system, he declared, in twenty years would be recognized as not turning out citizens in conformity with the ideas laid down by the Constitution. The lack of religious teaching in the public schools was the fault, he said.

At the close of the address, benediction of the blessed sacrament was pronounced by the Very Rev. Dean Gessner.

COLLEGE STUDENTS IN DUKE OF KILLICRANKIE.

"Cap and Bells," the Williams College Dramatic Club, will give a performance of "The Duke of Killicrankie," by Robert Marshall, at the Hartridge Auditorium on Wednesday, November 29, the night before Thanksgiving. This bill will be the club's first appearance in Plainfield, but for the past two years it has had great success with its performance in other cities. "The Duke of Killicrankie," is a farcical romance which takes place in Scotland at the present day.

A dance will be given in the auditorium after the performance. Donald L. Greenleaf, of this city, is the business manager for "Cap and Bells."

Will Continue Revival.

Revival services will be continued at the Ebenezer Baptist church this week. Wednesday evening, Rev. A. O. Smith, of Perth Amboy, will preach. Rev. J. A. Carter, of this city, will speak Thursday night and on Friday night the pastor, Rev. Mr. Scruggs, will preach.

PLAINFIELD ACTOR IN BIG PRODUCTION

Walter M. Sherwin, Plainfield's well known and versatile young actor, closed a successful vaudeville tour, last week, to begin rehearsals for one of the largest productions ever placed on the stage. It will be a revival of Klaw and Erlanger's dramatization of General Lew Wallace's book "Ben Hur," first seen in New York twelve years ago. It will be put on in a most elaborate manner, requiring the services of 200 people, twenty horses and five carloads of scenery. Mr. Sherwin has appeared in the play before, but this season will assume a new role, that of "Belshazzar," the Egyptian.

The production will open at the Boston Theatre, Boston on November 7, and will be transferred to the New Amsterdam, New York, just before the holidays. It is expected to remain there until next summer. After that it will be seen in all the principal cities of the country. It is claimed by Klaw and Erlanger that the forthcoming revival is the largest undertaking ever attempted by a threatrical firm.

MRS. JOHN H. ROWLAND AGED 53 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Emma Retta Rowland, wife of John H. Rowland, aged fifty-three years, died last night at her home, 303 East Fifth street, following an illness which began about seven years ago. The lad's parents want him to go to school but he plays truant two and three days a week. Judge DeMeza told Burton that unless he went to school as his parents desire, steps will be taken to have him committed to an institution where he will not only be compelled to attend school, but will be detained a prisoner.

President, Kalman Rothberg; vice-president, Adolph Brandt; recording secretary, Morris Cohn; financial secretary, Emil Seckendorf; inner guard, Nathan Bernstein; treasurer, Kaspar Sacher.

Judge Newcorn presided and afterward made an address, being introduced by Samuel Rothberg as "Our Judge." The speaker emphasized the importance and need of such an organization here where there are so many Jewish citizens. Dr. Joseph Lipman, of New York, medical examiner for the order, also spoke. A banquet followed, when short speeches were made by the different members.

HEAR NEW CURATE

Rev. John G. Currier Preaches First Sermon at Grace Episcopal Church.

URGES PEOPLE TO WORSHIP.

Clergyman's Pleasing Personality Makes a Good Impression On Parishioners—Visits the Sunday-school.

Rev. John G. Currier, formerly rector of Trinity church, Milton, Vt., now assistant to Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the rector of Grace church, preached his first sermon there yesterday. There was a large congregation, and the new curate made a favorable impression. He has a pleasing personality and a faculty for making friends.

In his sermon, Mr. Currier emphasized the importance of people devoting Sunday to God's work and not wasting the time in a less profitable way. He said that too many find themselves too busy to attend divine service or even think of God and His great goodness to them. He believed that everyone should make it a point to at least set aside a portion of that day for worship.

The clergyman illustrated the importance of what he said by relating an incident which occurred last Friday as he was preparing to leave Milton for Plainfield. An urgent call had come to him to go to a hospital and baptize a patient. Responding to the summons, he found that the man, who was well along in years, had always been too busy to attend to church matters or worship God in divine service, but now that he was very ill he felt the importance of being baptized. This incident was a basis for the lesson he drew for no man to wait until the last few years of their life to worship God.

In the afternoon Mr. Currier visited the Sunday-school, where he met the teachers and members of the school. He was given a cordial greeting there as well as following the morning service. At present Mr. Currier is stopping at the home of Mrs. H. P. Taggart on East Ninth street.

MISS HAZEL MC VOY HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Hazel Margaret McVoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McVoy, of West Fourth street, was six years old Saturday and in honor of the event entertained twenty-five of her little friends at a birthday party. The affair was arranged by her parents, assisted by Mrs. McVoy's sister, Mrs. David F. Shea, and they aided the hostess in receiving. The children had a delightful time playing games and enjoying themselves in various ways, a feature of the fun was a large Jack Horner pie, wound with ribbons. Each of the juvenile guests was given an end to follow and it led to a pretty favor in the shape of a toy. A birthday supper was served in conclusion, the table being graced with a large cake bearing six lighted candles. Little Miss McVoy received many appropriate gifts in remembrance of the occasion.

Beside the parents who were in attenance, the guests present were the following:

Clawson Lynn, Jonh Cregar, Elizabeth Cruickshank, James Pope, Jr., Percy Overland, Katherine Brennan, Regina Brennan, Brose Brennan, Jennie Roberson, Elsie Hunter, Adria Squier, Walter Hetfield, 3rd, George Hetfield, Marie Glaentzer, Stephen Woodward, Ruth Stoeckle, Olive Lindberry, Florence Squires, Robert Squires, Hazel and Arthur McVoy.

TO DEPORT YOUTHS

German Sailors Who Deserted Ship Are Taken Back to New York.

TOLD CONFLICTING STORIES.

Identified This Afternoon as Runaways From the Victoria Luise And Will Be Sent Back on President Grant.

Complications arising from conflicting stories the four ship-deserting German youths tell, arrested here last week, have prevented their removal from the city police station to Ellis Island and have given several agents of the Immigration Bureau in New York a lot of work. The boys were taken in custody by Patrolman Dobson last Friday and have since been held prisoners at the request of the immigration authorities. Through an interpreter the quartet stated to the police today that they had arrived in this country from Hamburg, Germany, on the President Lincoln of the Hamburg-American line on September 29. As a matter of fact that vessel arrived at Hoboken September 19 and left on Oct. 3. When this was explained to them they began telling conflicting tales and could not be induced to admit that they had arrived on any other vessel or to tell of the lapse of ten days between the time they say they landed in New York and the time the President Lincoln arrived, according to the records at Quarantine.

The runaways slept two days on the Lincoln after she had docked, and then passed two nights on the President Grant, a sister ship of the Lincoln, with some friends they have in the Grant's crew, they assert, and then spent two nights in Elizabeth before reaching Plainfield. That is all they seem able to account for. According to that version the time they give of the arrival of the President Lincoln and the present time agree, but does not conform with the records of the bureau as to the arrival of the boat on which they claim to have come to America.

It is necessary, the police say, that this point be cleared before the case is laid before the Commissioner of Immigration for without it he would be unable to place the blame for the boys having landed without complying with the immigration laws. The steamship company is liable to a fine of $3,000 for each boy, the police assert, if it can be shown that there has been negligence in not properly detaining them on shipboard after the vessel's arrival in Hoboken.

It developed at 3 o'clock this afternoon that the youths had deserted from the Victoria Luise, of the Hamburg-American line. She arrived at Hoboken October 3 and the boys escaped in the hustle of unloading and disembarking. They were not missed until the crew was mustered Saturday morning, when the vessel started on its return voyage to Hamburg.

As soon as it was learned that they were missing the matter was placed in the hands of one of the company's special officers. When the immigration official began his investigation this afternoon the boys were easily placed. The Commissioner of Labor happened to be in New York and he waived the formality of a warrant to bring the boys back. Agent Scarlett, of the Immigration Bureau, and a special officer of the steamship company came here and took the boys back to New York, where they were arraigned before a board of special inquiry.

They will be deported on the President Grant, which sails Wednesday.

INHUMAN HUSBAND GETS 90 DAYS IN JAIL

Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court again had occasion this morning to impress upon a man arraigned for wife beating, that such acts would not be tolerated in Plainfield while he presides in the city court. The man was James Lyons, of South Second street, and the complainant was Mrs. Lyons. He was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail, after being scathingly lectured by the court.

Lyons has been in the hands of the police and has served time for the same offence in the past. After sentence was pronounced today he turned on his wife and cursed and theratened her until led back to a cell.

Judge DeMeza directed Mrs. Lyons to apply to him for aid while her husband is in jail and if he mistreated her after getting out.

Miss Luella Harris, of Elizabeth, was the guest over Sunday of Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Grove street.

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Thomas MacDonald, one of North Plainfield's oldest and best known residents, died yesterday noon in Muhlenberg Hospital, following a short illness from pneumonia and general debility due to the infirmities of age. He was removed to the institution last Wednesday but at the time his condition was considered almost hopeless. He continued to sink steadily until the end came.

Mr. MacDonald was born at Bayonne eighty-seven years ago, removing to Plainfield in 1859. He was a painter by trade and followed it until the beginning of the Civil War. At the first call for volunteers he enlisted in Company I, Third New Jersey Regiment. This company was recruited in Plainfield and the first to leave the town for the front. Mr. MacDonald served throughout the conflict, receiving an honorable discharge after Lee's surrender. He took part in many of the most important engagements, being wounded several times and suffering the privations that accompany had fighting. His record was one of the best of any Plainfield private.

At the close of the war, Mr. MacDonald returned to this city and located in the borough, remaining until his fatal illness began. He worked as a contract painter until a few years ago, his general health and faculties remaining good despite his age.

The deceased is survived by four brothers, John and William MacDonald, of this city, and Albert and Richard MacDonald, of Bayonne; also one son, Richard MacDonald, janitor of the Somerset street school.

The funeral service will be held at his late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

ARREST W. F. FORD

Wanted For Desertion and Non-Support is Taken into Custody in New York.

HE FORMERLY LIVED HERE.

His Father-in-Law Alleges That Erstwhile Newspaper Man Offered to Return Child On Payment of $80.

William F. Ford, an erstwhile newspaperman who at one time resided here, was arrested in New York Saturday night, and lodged in the Tombs on a charge of desertion and non-support preferred by his wife, a resident of New Brunswick. Extradition papers are now being prepared to have the defendant taken to Middlesex county for trial.

Back of the non-support charge is an attempt on the part of the wife and her father, D. B. Van Horne, a retired New Brunswick liveryman, to regain possession of the Fords eight-year-old daughter, Amy. The father is alleged to have stolen Amy from Plainfield three months ago while she was visiting her grandparents. Van Horne got in communication with Ford through a third party and declares that the father offered to return the child to her mother if he was given $80. This incensed Van Horne and the desertion charge was made by Mrs. Ford. The Middlesex county Grand Jury returned an indictment and Detective John L. Ferguson located the man Saturday.

The child was not located when Ford was arrested and he protests that he does not know of her whereabouts. He claims that he was in Florida at the time she disappeared from Plainfield. Van Horne, on the other hand, insists that he has the letters and other proof to show that the father offered to return his daughter if the sum mentioned was forwarded him.

The Fords have been separated a number of years, the conduct of the husband being the cause. Mrs. Ford has been residing with her parents, and has practically always cared for her daughter. It is declared if they can get the child back, they would drop the desertion charge, otherwise Ford will have to stand trial.

SCRAPPER FINED $5 IN THE BOROUGH COURT.

Joseph Stevens, a painter, was fined $5 in the borough court, this morning, on a charge of disorderly conduct and fighting. He was arrested Saturday night on Chatham street by Chief Weiss and Marshal Keller together with three Italians. All gave bail for appearance today but the others did not show up in time and will be arraigned tomorrow.

Stevens told Recorder Dolliver that the Italians set upon him as he was going home. He admitted, however, that they had been in an altercation earlier in the evening and the fight was the result of it. The police were near at hand when the scrap commenced and quickly ended it.

The performance of "Love's Young Dream," which was presented here on Saturday night by Fiske O'Hara and a superb company under the direction of Robert E. FIVE INCHES OF SNOW.

Saranac Lake Has Heaviest Fall In Decade at This Season of Year.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The heaviest fall of snow in a decade at this time of year occurred Thursday throughout the northern Adirondacks. Nearly five inches had fallen at 9 o'clock and the precipitation was still rapid. A heavy rain turned to snow at 4 o'clock and last night the entire north country was blanketed in white. At Tupper Lake, Lake Clear, Paul Smith's and Leon Lake the same conditions as here prevail. Points on the Chateauguay Railroad report heavy snow since 3 o'clock.

The mercury stands at 42 degrees and in the valleys half of the precipitation has melted. On the ranges however, the snov covered trees, giving the appearance of midwinter.

Woodsmen fear that this is the beginning of real winter, basing their opinions on the general coldness of the past two weeks. Scarcely a night has passed but that water in pails or puddles has frozen some times to the thickness of an inch.

The company has had a large force of men engaged since early summer changing the hand lever system in their interlocking plant to an electric system. Formerly it required two men to throw the levers. When the new system is completed this will be done by simply pressing an electric button.

There is a general complaint against the practice of the Lehigh Valley towerman in keeping the gates at the principal crossing down all the time at night. Anyone wishing to cross the tracks in a carriage or automobile has to get word up to the tower before the gates are raised and as soon as the vehicle passes they are lowered again. FEDERATION GOING AFTER GOMPERS.

Denver, Oct. 9.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is to be asked at the national convention next month to give up his membership in the National Civic Federation or quit his job with the biggest labor organization in the world.

The Colorado delegates feel that President Gompers is no better than John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, who was forced to give up a $6,000-a-year job as secretary of the National Civic Federation by action of the convention of his own organization, and the same men who were instrumental in forcing Mitchell out will go after Gompers.

The determination of the Colorado delegation to start something at the convention is expected to result in one of the biggest rows ever seen among the delegates. They will act under instructions of the State Federation of Labor.

Bishop Greer officiated at the ceremonies which made the Rev. Dr. Grovenor the first dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

WIRELESS 6,000 MILES.

Operator at San Francisco Holds "Conversation" with Station In Japan.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—Wireless messages were flashed from San Francisco to Japan spanning 6,000 miles of ocean at 2:15 o'clock Thursday morning. Greetings were exchanged between the San Francisco operator in the United Wireless station at Hull Crest and the Japanese operator in the Joi station on the Island of Hokushu, the most northern wireless station in Japan.

The San Francisco operator had been given instructions to "listen" for calls from Japan as new equipment has recently been installed in the local station.

At 2:15 o'clock the operator heard a faint call which he could not at first locate. He finally read it as a call sent for the Chiyo Maura, which is due at Honolulu today, by the Japanese station. He at once called the Japanese station, and the Jap operator responded and congratulations were exchanged. After fifteen minutes' "talk" sound ceased and it was impossible to get into communication again.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE AT EAST END CHURCH

An interesting children's service was held at the Netherwood Reformed church, last night, which was in the nature of a rally. The church was filled with children and their parents. There was special music by the vested boy choir, while the members of the primary department also sang and gave recitations under the direction of Mrs. P. H. Wood, the superintendent.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, the pastor, delivered a short sermon on the subject, "Little Foxes that Spoil the Vines." Six members of the school received buttons for thirteen weeks' perfect attendance. The church was attractively decorated for the occasion and altogether it was a happy event. The offering was for the use of the general committee in charge of the arrangements for entertaining the Sunday-school convention here in November.

BALLONISTS PASSED OVER CITY YESTERDAY

Early morning risers in this city yesterday morning were treated to the sight of a large balloon sailing over this vicinity several thousand feet above the ground. It carried two passengers, Jay B. Benton, editor of the Boston Transcript, and William H. VanSleet, of Pittsfield, Mass. They started at midnight Saturday from the Aero Park at Pittsfield and landed yesterday morning in a belt of pine woods near Freehold.

The balloon was first sighted by a farm hand in Scotch Plains, who was engaged at morning chores. It looked like a peculiar bird at first and by the time the other occupants of the farm house had reached the barnyard in response to his calls, the shape of the gas bag could be easily defined. As it drew nearer the men could be seen signalling and they were shouted to, but if they heard their replies were not audible. From the time of starting until they alighted the men had been in the air seven and a half hours. They declared that it was the most delightful trip they had ever experienced.

Both men are baloon pilots and are members of the Aero Club of New England. It was Mr. VanSleet's eightieth trip, twenty-nine of which have been made at night. Mr. Benton has made twenty-six trips, nine of them having been made in the dark.

Finding themselves over Long Island Sound and fearing that they would be carried out to sea they threw out ballast and arose to a higher altitude, finding a breeze that carried them in a westerly direction. They crossed the Hudson River at Yonkers at 4:30 yesterday morning, where a flashlight was thrown on them from a passing steamer, the pilot of which signalled them to land.

While not certain of the points passed they believe that they crossed over Paterson, Newark, Elizabeth and this city, from which point they traveled south, passing over Trenton and nearing Philadelphia before a change of wind carried them east. They alighted when they reached the pine belt above Freehold, as there was no cleared space that they could see beyond the pine woods, which stretched for miles south of their landing point.

HERE AND THERE

Henry Baldwin Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Newton Drake, who is now located at Paoni, Delta county, Colorado, on the west slope of the Rocky Mountains, 6,000 feet high, has written to his father. He says, among other things, that during the summer months it was extremely warm during the day, but cool at night. In his sleeping out porch he had to use blankets and quilts to keep warm.

Mr. Drake says that this past summer was far more comfortable than the previous one. He says that he noticed a story in the newspaper that President Taft was to catch his own fish to be served at a banquet in Colorado, which he says reminded him that a few days ago his man, a half Indian, caught seventy-five trout.

Mr. Drake is about 8,000 or 9,000 feet up among the timber in a beautiful country, all green woods and wild flowers, and thinks Plainfielders have missed something in not seeing the columbine as it grows in the mountains of Colorado. Yet with all the ebauties of nature, Mr. Drake says that he still longs to see the home folks.

NORTH BRANCH NOTES.

An enjoyable time was spent in games and music, after which a dainty repast was served. Among those present were the Misses Helen Jeliffe, Ethel Waldron, Grace Hamilton, Elsie Decker, Florence McCullough, Irma Vanderbeek, Mary Weiduettes, Edna Bell and Joanna Little.

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.
Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.
You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

DAUGHTER PREFERS AUNT TO FATHER

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 9.—Miss Ethel Osborn, of Manasquan, Monmouth county, was the central figure in an interesting hearing at the chambers of Supreme Court Justice Willard P. Voorhees, Saturday. She is eighteen years, old, well educated and pretty. Her father, Addison F. Osborn, of Wall township, Monmouth county wants possession of her and charges that she is being forcibly detained at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Edward Barkalow, of Manasquan. The girl was produced on a writ of habeas corpus.

It developed that Miss Osborn is the daughter of Mr. Osborn by his first wife. There are two other children. Mr. Osborn had married again taking a widow with four children as his wife, making seven children to support. He is a stationery engineer. Miss Osborn was placed with her aunt, Mrs. Remsen, of Manasquan, and sent to the Manasquan high school. She became dissatisfied there and went to the home of another aunt, Mrs. Barkalow, with whom she is now living.

Her father has tried to induce her to return to his home or to the home of his sister, Mrs. Remsen, but she has persistently declined. The last time he went to the Barkalow place after her, he was ordered away from the premises and when he refused to go, he was arrested for disorderly conduct. It was then that he sought habeas corpus proceedings.

Justice Voorhees, upon learning that the taking of testimony promised to be long, referred the case, by consent of counsel, to Ruliff Y. Lawrence, a Supreme Court Commissioner, of Asbury Park. He will submit the evidence to Justice Voorhees, and the case will then be argued before the justice. The girl wants to remain with Mrs. Barkalow, and charges, among other things, that her father is unable to care for her properly. Her father denied all of her allegations.

The question arises whether a girl of eighteen has the right to choose her own home or whether her father has absolute control over her, and can make her leave a comfortable home and share his home with six other children. Lloyd C. Riddle, of Manasquan, appeared for the father and Johnston & Conover, of Asbury Park, for the girl and Mrs. Barkalow Pending the taking of testimony, Justice Voorhees returned the girl to the custody of Mrs. Barkalow.

CLAIMS CHAMPIONSHIP FOR HARVESTING CORN.

Lafayette, N. J., Oct. 9.—James N. Green, of this place, lays claim to the belt of champion corn-cutter of the county. In fifteen days Green cut, bound and shocked 2,205 shocks of corn, averaging 147 per day. Ordinarily 100 shocks a day is considered good work.

Substitutes Gas for Electricity.

Perth Amboy, N. J., October 9.—Acting upon the recommendation of Mayor Joseph A. Herrmann, the borough of Roosevelt, known to some as "divorced Woodbridge," will abandon electric lights, and install gas lights for illuminating the streets. In an address to the Council the mayor stated that the Public Service Electric Company, which at present has the street lighting contract, never gave the lighting power necessary, and asked that certain lights be removed by the corporation, and gas lamps will be placed by the Perth Amboy Gas Light Company.

Delay Westfield Park Development.

Westfield, N. J., Oct. 9.—With a tax rate of $2.30, the Westfield Town Council has decided to abandon any project to develop parks here for some time to come. At the meeting of the Council held during the last week the ordinance to bond the town in the sum of $10,000 for the improvement of parks was laid upon the table indefinitely. The Council instructed the clerk to notify the Park Commissioners that the Council did not think the time was ripe for the issuance of bonds for this purpose.

Governor Wilson in Westfield.

Governor Wilson will be the guest of Representative W. E. Tuttle, Jr., on October 18, and will take lunch with Mr. Tuttle at his home, in Stoneleigh Park. Mr. Tuttle is planning to have Governor Wilson address a Westfield audience at the Casino shortly after the luncheon. Women will be invited to attend the meeting. Arrangements for the reception to Governor Wilson at the Casino will be in charge of the Westfield Democratic Club, of which Representative Tuttle is an officer.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Netherwood Reformed church will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. P. H. Wood, 1223 George street.

The sewing meeting will be held in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All the women are urged to be present as plans for the year will be discussed.

The mid-week prayer meeting of the Netherwood Reformed church will be held at the parsonage Wednesday night and on Thursday night the Ladies' Aid Society of the church will meet at the parsonage.

The visitors of the Home department of Trinity Reformed church will meet at the church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Refreshments will be served by the classes of Mrs. Harry MacDonald and Miss Minnie Williams.

You are kindly requested to bring these articles to the church on Monday, November 6, the day on which these barrels will be packed.

The new board of deacons at the Calvary Baptist church is composed of the following: Scipio Whindleton, Mansfield Robinson, Peter P. Robinson, Affire Cabbell, Hampton Probasco. Communion services were held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the right hand of fellowship was given to two members. At the evening service two members were received by experience and two young men were converted.

The out-of-town guests and members will be escorted to the hall by No. 1 truck of Mulberry street, and President Thomas P. Plunkett, of Hoboken, will call the meeting to order at 11 o'clock. Following the convention a banquet will be given in the large hall of the Colosseum. Alderman John H. Donnelly will act as toastmaster and speeches will be made by James L. Clifford, of New York, the father of the organiaztion; Mayor Haussling, the Rev. Dr. E. A. Wasson and others.

MYSTERY CHAMBERS.

Famous Locked Rooms in Some of the Old British Castles.

Perhaps the most famous locked room in the world is at Glamis castle, the old home of the earls of Strathmore. In this rambling pile there is supposed to be a secret chamber, access to which is known only to the Earl of Strathmore, the heir apparent and the factor. The mysterious chamber is supposed to have been, centuries ago, the repository of a grim family scandal, the nature of which could only whispered even in those wild days.

There is in Poulton Old Hall a mysterious locked room which has never been opened except by a representative of the Green family. The hall and its lands have sometimes been let, but the Green family have always retained possession of this mysterious room, which is supposed to contain several relics and other family treasures. It is said that the last tenant, a prominent Mersey shipowner, would have given them an increased rent for it if he could have had access to it or could have cleared away the mysterious contents, but the owners refused to give up possession, and so the tenant left.

There is a very similar tradition at Nether Hall, the Cumberland seat of the Senhouse family. Here, as at Glamis castle, the position of the secret chamber is known only to the heir-at-law and the family solicitor. The room, it is understood, has no window and up till now has not been located by any one not in possession of the key to the mystery.

A tragic interest attaches to the ruins of Minster Lovel house, in Oxfordshire. While it was tenanted by a farmer a concealed vault was discovered, and in it was the perfect skeleton of Lord Lovel, seated at a table on which was lying an open prayer book. There were some jars and barrels which had contained food, sufficient, no doubt, to last some weeks; but, the mansion having fallen into the hands of King Henry VII., the prisoner was unable to regain his liberty. The discovery cleared up a mystery which had surrounded his fate for nearly two centuries.—Pearson's Weekly.

JUST TO MAKE SURE.

The Scheme Looked Good, but the Old Man Lacked Confidence.

Living on a plantation fifty or sixty miles out of New Orleans is an old poker playing, chicken fighting, horse racing sportsman, who is always willing to gamble on anything and who isn't averse to gamble even when he has a shade the better of it. Not long ago a professional gambler came to him and said, "Squire, you know that Phillips man who used to play cards on the river?"

"I do."

"Well, he's showed up here with a lot of money. Now, I've got a scheme to get that money."

"Go on; you interest me."

"Well, I'll get him down here, and we'll pot him into a game of poker—just the two of us and him. Then I'll cold deck him, you'll get the money, and we'll divide."

"How do you propose to do that, son?"

"Why, I'll deal him four queens, and I'll deal you four kings, and he'll bet all the money he has. All you've got to do is to bet against him, show your four kings when he's through, and we'll split the pile."

"You mean you'll deal him four queens and deal me four kings out of a cold deck?"

"That's it."

"All right, son, all right. But when you are dealin' them four kings to me just deal me one ace also for a sort of confidence card."—Saturday Evening Post.

Big Noses in Japan.

The nose plays a very important part in Japan, owing, probably, that a difference in noses constitutes about the only distinction between one Japanese and another. The nose is the only feature which attracts attention. As there are very few large noses to be found in Japan, a lady with a large nose is regarded as one specially gifted by nature. She is invariably a reigning beauty and the envy of her less favored sisters. In all Japanese pictures in which ladies are portrayed the artists are particularly careful to make the nose of liberal dimensions.—London Telegraph.

Sweet Child.

"Yes," said little Elsie, "mamma says she is always glad to let me come to parties at your house."

"It is very nice of your mamma to say that."

"'Cause she says you're so savin' that there's never any danger you'll give me anything that will be rich enough to hurt me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Her Undeveloped Sense of Humor.

"The trouble with you women," he said, "is that you have no sense of humor."

"I know it," his better half admitted. "I suppose I ought to think being married to you is a lovely joke, but I can't seem to see it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Foolishness.

"I fine you $5."

"Judge, I only sassed a policeman."

"I fine you for foolishness. When there are so many things you could have done, why did you select this?"—Washington Herald.

Making love is easier than making a fortune, but it involves greater chances.—Ring.

The Sense of Smell.

"It is the upper part of the nose that smells," said a perfumer. "The lining there is very sensitive and brown in color, not red, as in the lower nose. Men are more sensitive to odors than women. Scientific tests have shown, I believe, that, while many men can detect the smell of prussic acid even when there is only one part of the acid to two million parts of water, the average woman fails to detect the smell if there are less than ten parts of the acid. Though the white man is much less sensitive to odors than the savage, a prolonged stay in a part of the world where smells are few puts a very fine edge on the sense of smell. Dr. Nansen has declared that when returning from the ice world to Franz Josef Land he knew when he was approaching the assistant he had left there by smelling his scented soap long before he saw him. He could, too, when approaching the hut have given an inventory of the stores there, as he smelled everything it contained separately and distinctly."

Ruled His Servants by Fines.

Sir Richard Newdigate, a seventeenth century Warwickshire squire, whose papers were published some years ago by one of his descendants, ruled his servants by a system of fines. The value at which he rated domestic crimes is shown by such entries in his diary as: "Nan Newton, for breaking a teapot, 2s. 6d.; Richard Knight, for pride and slighting, 2s. 6d.; William Hetherington, for not being ready to go to church three Sundays, 18 pence; Thomas Birdall, for being at Nuneaton from morning till night, 5 shillings; cook, dead drunk, 10 shillings." As his cook's wages were only £8 a year she paid pretty dearly for her lapse from sobriety. Sir Richard had a system of rewards as well as penalties. "To my three daughters," he writes, "because they came to prayers, 3 shillings," and "to Tom Cooper, who worked hard after he broke his head, 2s. 6d."

Origin of Foxe's "Book of Martyrs."

Foxe's "Book of Martyrs" was published in March, 1652, as the "Actes and Monuments" of the martyrs, a title borrowed from an earlier book, says the London Chronicle. The famous volume might never have appeared at all but for the association of Foxe with the printer Day of Aldersgate street, in whose business Foxe took an active part. On the tombstone of Day in the church of Little Bradley, Suffolk, the partnership is thus immortalized:

He et a Fox to wright how martyrs runne
By death to lyfe; Fox ventured paynes and health
To give them light; Daye spent in print his wealth.

Even in those days the alien problem troubled industry, for we find Foxe appealing to Cecil to relax the law and permit his friend Day to engage more than four foreign printers.

Iron in Plants.

Iron is the substance which gives the green appearance to foliage. It forms a constituent part of chlorophyll and is the green coloring matter which stains the bodies inside the cells of leaves, called plastids. When the first organized food is being formed in the leaves from water and carbonic acid gas a certain amount of energy is required. This is obtained from the sun's rays, but the work of absorbing it is carried out by the chlorophyll. It requires very little iron for the production of all the choirophyll found in a crop, and nearly all soils contain an abundant supply.

The Human Clock.

The Spanish painter Ribera, Mr. Haldane Macfall recalls in his "History of Painting," worked with such fervor that all count of time was lost to him. "He made a living clock to check the passing hours. His servant came every hour to the studio to say in a loud and stately voice, 'Another hour has gone, Signor Cavaliere!'"

He Won.

"Before you kiss me, Horace, let me tell you that Fred has given Kitty a diamond ring. You have never given me one."

"Dearest, it is only girls who are not precious in themselves who require the aid of precious stones."

"Oh, you may kiss me twice, Horace."

Pen and Sword.

"Do you believe the pen is mightier than the sword?"

"Of course it is. Who ever had to pay $25,000 damages in a breach of promise case on account of the sword he carried?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Rule of Life.

We should meet each morning as from foreign countries and, spending the day together, should depart at night as into foreign countries. In all things I would have the island of a man inviolate.—Emerson.

The Irony of Fate.

"Speaking of the irony of fate"—

"Well?"

"I know an artist who earns money to pay his divorced wife alimony by drawing Cupids."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

One Was Enough.

Milton was one day asked by a friend whether he would instruct his daughters in the different languages.

"No, sir," he said; "one tongue is sufficient for any woman."

She Knew.

"But do you think I could deceive my own little wife?"

"No, I know you could not, but I believe you are silly enough to try."

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting, using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Extremes of Temperature.

Science reasons that the lowest temperatures at the earth's surface are not found directly at the poles, but at some distance to the south of the north pole and to the north of the south pole. Likewise the greatest degree of heat is not, as might be supposed, to be found at the equator, but prevails at some distance to the north and to the south of that imaginary line. The coldest place on the earth's surface of which there is authentic record is in Siberia. The lowest temperature ever recorded in the open air was 90 degrees below zero F. at Werchajansk, central Siberia, on Jan. 15, 1885. The highest temperature of which there is an authentic record is 124 degrees above zero F. in Algeria, northern Africa, on July 17, 1879. These places of extreme heat and extreme cold give a range of temperature covering the whole inhabited world of 214 degrees, or two degrees more than from zero to the boiling point.

Don't Breathe Lazily.

"If you are consumptive, if you think you are drifting into consumption, sing!" said a medical man.

"Of course singing alone will not save you from consumption or cure you. Besides singing you must have plenty of fresh air and good food. And, speaking of fresh air, I must say that not one person in a hundred knows how to inhale it. People seldom breathe deeply enough. They seldom properly ventilate their lung cavities, which resemble stuffy, insanitary apartments, where all germs thrive undisturbed. Acquire the habit of taking the big, deep breath which is a primary requisite for any kind of singing, bad or good, and the physical joy derived from it will never allow you to relapse into lazy breathing. Furthermore, the mere effort of singing compels the singer to stand straight and to throw out the chest, a good corrective for the bad physical habits of weak chested people."

Killed by a Shout.

A joyful shout thoughtlessly given by an Italian smuggler on having eluded the customs guards on the Swiss frontier was the cause of his six companions being killed by an avalanche. The party, coming from the Grisons, had, with a thousand precautions, successfully negotiated the Forcola pass on the Swiss-Italian border. Five of the men were loaded with valuable contraband goods, and two acted as guides and scouts. When they were all safely on Italian soil one of the guides named Maretoli gave vent to a joyful yodel. In the still air the least sound causes a vibration which may set enormous masses of snow moving. This is what occurred here. A quarter of a million tons of snow detached itself from the mountain side and came thundering down upon the party, who were swept in an instant into an abyss. Maretoli alone was able to extricate himself.

Checkmate!

In these days, when various schemes are being suggested by which the loser of personal property may recover it without offering an extreme reward, it is interesting to note two advertisements which appeared last summer in a German paper. In these advertisements nothing so bald as a suggestion of reward appeared. They seem merely to present two wits fencing, and the reader forgets the matter at stake:

Berlin, Aug. 5.—The gentleman who found a purse, valuable beyond explanation, in the Blumenstrasse, is requested graciously to forward it to the address of the loser, as he is recognized.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The recognized gentleman who found a purse, valuable beyond explanation, begs that the loser will call at his house at the earliest convenient hour.

The Green Kind.

A naval officer who has seen considerable service in South American waters once brought home two parrots, one of which he gave to the housemaid and the other to the cook.

For a long time there ensued animated discussions as to the merits of their respective birds. Finally the housemaid said:

"Your parrot may be a better talker than mine, though I don't believe it." Then, with an air of presenting the final clinching argument in her favor, she added, "Besides, you'll have to admit that mine has the most beautiful foliage."—Lippincott's.

Honored the Old Men.

A unique festival occurred in Paris in 1797 in honor of the old men. The idea was the encouragement of the family circle, and the old man who was a happy grandfather was held up to the younger generations to follow in his footsteps. "A gracious Hebe crowned their white locks with garlands of roses, while the soldiers of France presented arms in their honor."

Legislatively Expressed.

"No one can go wrong if he follows the Ten Commandments," said the sincere citizen.

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "the only trouble about the Ten Commandments arises from the amendments people try to tack to them."—Washington Star.

ATTEMPTED BRIBERY!

For a year this space has been used every other day by the Longman Furniture Company.

Yesterday that company's contract with the St. James Sun expired.

The manager of the company offered to renew it three weeks ago provided The Sun would publish nothing about the suit against Charlie Longman.

The Sun refused and as a consequence has lost the Longman business.

The Sun wishes to announce here and now that its silence cannot be purchased.

If I had thrown a dynamite bomb into the center of the retail district of St. James I could hardly have produced a bigger explosion than I produced with this announcement. The Retail Merchants' Association held a hurried meeting and sent a committee to see Austin. Jim referred the gentlemen to me and I made them the same speech I had made Samuels. Not being personally concerned in what they termed my attack on the Longmans they were able to gather a faint impression of my newspaper theory, but they pleaded with me to change my ways, join hands with them, be a "good fellow," and reap the benefits of their friendship. They seriously believed that I would never, never, never succeed by abusing the people from whom the paper must derive the bulk of its revenues, and they left in a very dubious frame of mind, somewhat mystified and a little resentful that their good office had been declined.

The announcement had a most stimulating effect in our circulation department. I received from subscribers scores of letters commending us for our courage, and these I promptly printed, using the old Longman space for their publication and for further explanation of our reasons for refusing the Longman advertising. In another week another two thousand readers had been added to our subscription list, making a net gain of four thousand as a direct result of our stand in the Longman case. I felt satisfied, and my conviction that the way to establish a newspaper was to print the truth became stronger than ever.

Four miles south of St. James and two miles below South St. James and the stockyards district was Riverside Park, a pleasure resort that I had frequently seen mentioned in stories turned in by my reporters.

Uptown at Fifth and Phillip Streets—the busiest corner in the city—was the store of the Street Brothers Clothing Company, the biggest establishment of its kind in twon.

You wouldn't expect to find a pipeline running between these two institutions, would you? I didn't either; but there was one, and I stumbled over it one day and thereby kicked some more advertising out of The Sun.

The first Sunday on which I found time for a little recreation I visited Riverside Park with my wife. It was a beautiful spot. The resort was located in a big grove of elms alongside a pretty little lake, which was separated from the river by a strip of land only about fifty feet wide. The usual summer park attractions were there, and probably ten thousand people were strolling through the grounds, rowing on the lake, sitting under the trees, or enjoying the roller coaster, the mill, the circular swing, the shooting galleries and the other amusements offered for public patronage.

Toward evening I noticed a good many intoxicated men and women. Half a dozen drunken men got into a fight on the rear of the car in which we rode home and the car was stopped while the motorman and conductor put them off. They swore loudly and used vile language toward each other and toward the street-car men. My wife and the twenty or thirty other women in the car were shocked. One woman became hysterical, and the journey to the city was about as unpleasant as could be imagined.

"Well," said my wife with emphasis, when we at last reached the city and changed to another line, "I'm through with Riverside Park. I'll never go there again so long as I live in St. James."

"Yes, you will," I replied, "but you'll go without being insulted. I'm going to make that place respectable."

Both at the park and on the street car I had been impressed by the character of the people I saw. Most of them were respectable men and women, wage-earners from the factories, wholesale houses and retail stores, mechanics and clerks. They had gone to Riverside Park in search of wholesome recreation. They were not vicious or vulgar; they were merely hard-working human beings who couldn't afford to pay more than twenty-five or fifty cents for a Sunday afternoon outing. I determined that they should have a place to go where they would not be subjected to rowdyism.

The next afternoon I sent for my South St. James editor.

"Do they sell booze at Riverside Park on Sunday?" I asked.

"They swim in it," replied Warner. "Why?"

I told him.

"You should have stayed until nine or ten o'clock," he said. "It doesn't get lively till then. They have fights every Sunday night and the cars coming back late in the evening are loaded with drunks. The traction company hires bouncers for the park line and pays its conductors and motormen a bonus because they have so much scrapping to do. It's been that way for two or three years."

"Haven't the papers ever done anything about it?"

"No, only once in a while, when somebody gets killed; then they advocate more policemen and deplore the spirit that prompts men to slay their brothers."

"Never tried to close the saloons?"

"I should say not, nor the gambling houses either."

"Do they have gambling there too?"

Wide open—four houses."

"How many saloons?"

"Five."

Here was a fine condition. The state law prohibited the sale of liquor on Sunday and was enforced in the city; but at Riverside Park, in the county, it was openly ignored. Gambling, of course, was forbidden but the gaming statutes were cracked wide open. That week I mapped out a campaign against saloons and gambling houses at the resort. I told Warner to go to the park the next Sunday, to stay there all day and until the last revelers left at night, and to come up to the office on Monday nad write exactly what he saw, giving the names of the men who ran the saloons and gambling houses, telling who got into fights, what the police did about it, how the street-car company's bouncers threw drunks off the cars, and how the women and children liked it all and what they said about it.

Warner breezed into the office at eight o'clock Monday morning, after having been up until two o'clock to watch the last gang of roisterers fall aboard the last car for town, and he sat down at a typewriter and pounded away steadily until eleven. When he had finished I was in shape to present to the people of St. James, in all its revolting ugliness a true portrait of Riverside Park.

I printed the story Monday afternoon, under a seven-column head than ran clear across the first page, like this:

CARVINAL OF DEBAUCHERY AT RIVERSIDE PARK.

These Men Are Responsible.

Below that, in three-column measure, I printed the oath these officials had taken when they entered office, showing that they had solemnly sworn to enforce the law. Warner's story ran around the pictures, with a two-column head over it on each side under the seven-column head. The layout just filled the first page.

The next monring Austin told me that Street Brothers had ordered their advertising discontinued. They had been using forty inches a day, without a contract.

I followed up the campaign on Tuesday with a demand upon the court, the prosecuting attorney and the sheriff for the arrest of the men who had violated the liquor and gambling laws. I reprinted their names, told where they could be found published the pictures of four of them and offered to furnish the testimony on which they could be convicted. Then, when the paper was out of the way, I went out to see if I could discover what was the matter with Street Brothers. I went straight to Harry Street, the head of the firm, and asked him whey he had quit advertising with us. He was very frank. He told me plainly and emphatically.

Riverside Park was owned by the street railway company. The company had been having an awfully hard time. It had been reorganized a few years before and had absorbed two smaller lines. It had issued a million dollars of new stock and was just beginning to pay dividends on it. One of the saloons at the park—the big one—was operated by the company. From the others and from the gambling houses the company collected a neat sum; in fact, it sold the saloon and gaming "privileges" on a percentage basis, and it really couldn't you know, get along and pay dividends on this new stock unless the park arrangement was continued.

"I'm interested in that new stock you sepak of," I said. "I suppose the company sold it for cash and that it represent money actually spent in extending lines, buying cars and machinery and building up the system?"

"No, not exactly," replied Street. "Of course the company has spent a lot of money since the reorganization, but it sold bonds for that. The stock was just issued."

"Oh, it was just issued."

"Yes. You see the old company was a foreign corporation and had been criticised a good deal, so the new management thought it would be a good idea to get in some influential local people. They thought the local influence was worth the value of the stock."

"I understand. They just passed a million dollars of stock around among prominent citizens, and you got a chunk of it."

"Yes, that's it."

"And you're so dead anxious to get your little dividend that you're willing to take the blood money the company collects by debauching the public at Riverside Park every Sunday, and you won't advertise in any newspaper that tries to stop it. That's your program, is it?"

"I don't consider it blood money. Riverside Park is a good thing. Of course you can stop drinking and gambling for a while if you make enough fuss about it, but if you do you needn't expect any business from Street Brothers."

I told him that that was exactly what I was going to do, and that I guessed we'd be able to struggle along without his business. The next day I printed the whole story of his stock interest in the traction company, the withdrawal of his advertising from The Sun and his conversation with me. I sent to the capital for copies of the reports of the traction company showing the list of stockholders, and filed them away for use in case other advertisers who held street-railway stock objected to our Riverside Park fight. Every day for the rest of the week I demanded action by the criminal judge, the prosecuting attorney and the sheriff. I sent Kite to interview them, and he found them furiously mad but badly frightened. I served notice on them, through the paper, that my men would be on hand at Riverside Park the next Sunday, and that every infraction of the law would again be faithfully reported. Saturday afternoon I printed a first-page editorial, calling upon the governor to remove the prosecutor and the sheriff if they failed to enforce the law, and on Saturday evening they got busy.

The Sun's campaign had aroused widespread interest. We were getting from a dozen to fifty letters a day, applauding us and urging us to clean up the park. Sunday afternoon and evening it seemed to us that everybody in St. James who could do so had gone to Riverside. There must have been fifteen thousand or twenty thousand people at the park. I sent my whole staff down and went myself. But our vigil was in vain, although our week's work had not been. Not a glass of beer was sold; not a card was turned. The saloons and gambling houses were shut tight. Twenty deputy sheriffs patrolled the grounds until midnight, and for the first time in years the day failed to end in a drunken carousal. We had made Riverside Park respectable, and we kept it respectable all that summer and the next. Several times attempts were made to reopen the saloons and gambling houses, but each time Warner discovered it and promptly stopped it by printing a story about it.

The public appreciated our efforts and we gained more circulation, but we never got the Street advertising back into the paper. Our loss on that business was two thousand dollars a year.

This campaign also cost us the street railway advertising. Besides operating the traction system the company sold electric light and power. This department of the corporation did considerable advertising, but after we stopped drinking and gambling at Riverside Park it never gave us another inch. This we also duly chronicled for the benefit of our readers.

The great bulk of our energies was devoted to the daily routine work that carried no dynamite. This had its effect and, coupled with our aggressiveness and independence in big things, was rapidly gaining us public confidence and readers. Austin got in a great deal of new business for that which we lost, and most of our old customers renewed their contracts as they expired. Our circulation kept climbing steadily, and on the first of October we sat down and took stock. Mell, Butler and Ashman approved everything that I'd done in the editorial department, even though it had cost us a lot of business. They were as confident as I that we would get circulation if we continued to make the kind of newspaper we had been making, and that, once we had the circulation, we would get the advertising whether the advertisers themselves liked or disliked our paper.

St. James was a city of about one hundred thousand population, but it suffered from a superabundance of contentment. It was a quiet, easy-going, conservative town, the chief industries of which were the stockyards, the shirt, overall, she and hardware factories, the jobbing houses and the wholesale drygoods establishments. It was a thrifty, wealthy city, but it had practically no transient population. Most of the people who lived there had been born and reared there, and everybody knew everybody else; in fact, St. James was a large country town which had not been touched by the wave of civic progress that was sweeping through the Middle West at the time. Every factory and wholesale house allowed the employees of other factories and wholesale houses to buy goods for personal use at wholesalers' rates, and this made the retail market narrow. Business generally was conducted as it had always been conducted. Bill Smith bought his neckties—fifty-centers, four times a year—from Jim Brown, because his father had bought from Jim's father, and because Jim always bought his shoes from Bill. The personal element entered materially into all transactions.

I was not surprised to find that in a city of such character a few politicians were running things at the court house and the city hall, just a few of the more clever business men were running things in the commercial circles. Neither was I surprised to find that the business and political circles overlapped. I discovered, for instance, that nearly all the banks were directly or indirectly controlled by the Tuttle Corporation, which held properties and interests worth from twenty million to thirty million dollars. Tuttle money was in the banks and trust companies, the shirt and overall factories, the wholesale drygoods houses, the principal hotel, and pretty much everything else in town, except the stockyards and the street car company. Much of the downtown business property was held by the corporation, as were whole blocks of residence property. The Tuttles and their retainers were in politics up to their eyes, and harmonized very nicely with Tommy Van Dyke, the general manager of the street railway, electric light and power monopoly. These two interests controlled the retailers, largely because they were in position to extend or withhold banking accommodations.

The Tuttles and the Van Dyke people operated a very nice little political game. The former were Republicans; the latter were Democrats. Tuttle men had controlled Republican county and city conventions for years and street railway men had controlled Democratic conventions. They took no chances in the elections. Where they did their business was in the nominations. They put upon both tickets candidates who could be relied upon to protect their interests, and then they sat back and let the little fry scrap it out. The self-satisfied spirit of the people of the city and their belief that all prominent, wealthy citizens were noble, honest, public-spirited, superior beings had made it easy for the business interests and the politicians to get away with this sort of buncombe without serious opposition. It had been made doubly easy by the fact that the newspapers were party to the scheme. Mr. Wage-Earner paid the bills and never suspected he was being cheated. He had no way of knowing. In this respect St. James was no different from hundreds of cities in the country, some of which have by this time got their eyes open and some not.

I studied the civic, commercial and political conditions of St. James carefully with Austin, and he agreed with me that they were bad. I couldn't see how the city could grow and prosper if they continued, for I knew they placed unnecessary, unjust burdens upon the masses of the people. Taxes were high because the city's money was extravagantly spent and because the owners of the valuable properties—the public utilities, the banks, the real estate in the business section, the factories and the wholesale houses—were favored by the assessor and therefore did not contribute their just share toward the upbuilding and maintenance of the municipality. The quality of municipal service was poor, the streets were dirty, the city was badly lighted in spite of its big light bills, the public schools were of low standard and the police and fire departments were inadequate and inefficient.

I worked with Frank Lane, my keen, aggressive city hall reporter, two hours every afternoon after the paper was out and until eleven or twelve o'clock nearly every night for a month, collecting information about the city government and the relations between business and politics; and then I launched a campaign for "A Bigger, Broader, Better St. James." My fight was a positive, not a negative fight. I sought to tear down and demolish only for the purpose of making it possible to build up. Through it all I emphasized the building-up idea, striving to arouse sentiment for better things and against bad things and to prevent the public from getting the idea that we were merely attacking people and institutions for the purpose of creating a sensation and selling papers. I described the ideal and pleaded for it as I disclosed the evil. I wanted the people to realize that St. James was their town, which they could run for their own benefit if they wanted to. I urged them to take the machinery of government away from those who had been using it to their own advantage and to operate it in the interest of the whole community.

There was to be a city election in the spring, and I made up my mind would try to bring about the nomination of honest ,progressive men on the tickets of both parties—St. James stuck to the archais practice of maintaining a Republican and a Democratic party in municipal politics. So throughout the winter I made the editorial page of The Sun a primer on municipal government and frequently ran editorials on the first page. I told, plainly and boldly, how the various business interests and professional politicians had been benefiting themselves and robbing the public for years. And I mentioned names.

KAUFMAN DEFEATED THE CLUB CHAMPION

The continuation of play for the golf championship, as well as for the second and third sixteens at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, resulted in some surprise, as well as some exceptional golf. Perhaps, one of the best machines every witnessed on the local course, and which it is believed establishes a record was that between E. T. Willson and Frank O. Reinhart in the second sixteen.

Mr. Willson won the match, defeating Mr. Reinhart, but it was necessary for the players to go twelve extra holes, and then Mr. Willson only won by 1 up. The players were all even at the eighteenth hole and remained so until thirty were played.

One of the surprises of the day was the defeat of C. B. Morgan, last year's champion, by William T. Kaufman, 3 up and 2 to play. The latter caught the champion off his game and won out handily. Another interesting match was between W. G. Cooke and J. V. W. DuBois, the former winning 1 up in 20 holes. The result of the day's play follows:

First sixteen, championship—William T. Kaufman defeated C. B. Morgan, 3 up and 2 to play; Morris J. Dumont defeated George F. Schoonmaker, 5 up and 4 to play; J. Whitney Baker defeated R. G. Morse, 3 up and 1 to play; William T. Glenney defeated E. B. Shoemaker, 7 up and 5 to play.

Second sixteen—E. T. Willson defeated Frank O. Reinhart, 1 up, (39 holes); Arthur Murphy won from C. C. Riggs by default; L. G. Carman defeated C. C. Burke, 1 up; J. E. Rowland defeated W. B. Tyler, 4 up and 3 to play.

Third sixteen—L. H. Gates defeated F. F. Merrill, 3 up and 2 to play; Duncan W. Taylor defeated A. W. Kleinecke, 3 up and 1 to play; W. G. Cooke defeated J. V. W. Dubois, 1 up, (20 holes); R. C. Brown defeated H. S. Rogers, 2 up.

These matches were played among the defeated eights in the three sixteens:

First sixteen—R. S. Rowland defeated W. H. Rogers, 5 up and 4 to play; H. R. Stockton defeated W. Lester Glenney, 3 up and 2 to play; W. A. Engerman defeated O. W. Gott, 5 up and 4 to play; Dudley H. Barrows defeated J. E. Erickson, 1 up (19 holes).

Second sixteen—Owen H. Fleming won from J. A. Lane by default; Howard Huntington won from N. L. Snow by default; Hugh F. Fox defeated J. P. Stevens, 2 up and 1 to play.

Third sixteen—R. C. Blancke, Jr., defeated T. E. H. Curtis, 2 up and 1 to play.

LOW SCORES ARE POSTED AT P. G. C.

Although there was a large field out at the Park Golf Club Saturday, only a few players returned their scores in the weekly competition for the President's, club and Oakmont cups. R. V. Carpenter took first honors for the day, with a score of 106, 14-92, while P. C. Sweeny finished second with a score of 108, 15-93. These scores were returned for the three trophies:

R. V. Carpenter, 106, 14-92; Peter C. Sweeny, 108, 15-93; H. H. Woodland, 118, 24-94; A. M. Morrel, 108, 13-95; H. L. Moodey, 118, 23-95; Oliver B. Hill, 124, 26-98.

Cake Sale a Success.

The cake and candy sale held at the First Baptist church Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Lend-a-Hand Circle, comprising the young girls in Mrs. Alfred Kenelley's Sunday-school class, was a success. About $12 was realized for the mission work carried on by the class. Those in charge were Constance Harris, Ruth Dunwell, Dorothy Hall, Dorothy Lunger, Ethel Runyon and Edna White. The class colors, old rose and silver, were used in the decorations.

HUNT CLUB RIDERS FOLLOW THE HOUNDS

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday afternoon was enjoyed by a number of members. The going was very bad on account of the rain on Friday night, leaving the ground in a soft and soggy condition. The hounds were met at Mt. Pleasant and then circled around back of Westfield to Oak Tree, finishing at the Plainfield Country Club. There were no mishaps. The club will hold another chose on Thursday, Columbus Day, meeting the hounds at New Market. The following rode on Saturday:

Rufus S. Finch, M. F. H., Lewis E. Waring, C. W. Holland, Edward Finch, Harry A. Bourne, Schuyler Casey, Col. C. E. S. Bellows, Beverly Brown and Huntsman Henry Watkins.

DEWITT CLINTON H.S., 8 HOLY CROSS ELEVEN, 0

In a hard uphill fight the Holy Cross eleven was defeated by the DeWitt Clinton High School, New York, team at VanCortlandt Park Saturday. The score was 8 to 0. The New Yorks made all their points in the second period by scoring a touchdown and a neatly kicked field goal from the 25 yard line. In the same period the Holy Cross eleven by a succession of end runs and bullish plunges rushed their opponents down the field for a touchdown only to be penalized by the referee for being off side on the last down. That official asserted that the whole team was off side. This necessitated the ball being carried in and a penalty of five yards was imposed in addition to loosing the ball. The touch down was accordingly not counted. The lineups were as follows:

Holy Cross.		DeWitt Clinton.
Harrigan	center	Greenberg
Blazier	right guard	Geller
Sinclair	right tackle	McKay
Rutledge	right end	Lippman
Becker	fullback	Davis
Tillotson	quarterback	Newman
Wilson	right halfback	Moore

SINGLE MEN DEFEAT THE MONROE BENEDICTS.

Baseball teams representing the married and single men of the Monroe Avenue church, played a five-inning game on the Monroe avenue grounds Saturday afternoon. The single men, who have been active in diamond contests all summer, won out by a score of 5 to 4, but it took them ten innings to do it. Rev. C. S. Kemble, who held down second for the benedicts, proved to be a valuable man for his side. He scored two of the four runs, caught two high flies, made two hits and assisted in a double play. The game was witnessed by a large number of spectators.

The lineup of the teams was as follows: Single men—S. Dorman, c; A. Warrick, p; Archie Thompson, 1b; Edward Gunzelman, 2b; L. Brown, 3b; L. Mulford, ss; George Lee, rf; H. Lude, cf; M. Warrick, lf. PLAINFIELD SOCCERS DEFEAT HARRISON TEAM

The Plainfield Association Football Club defeated the O'Keefe's, of Harrison, in the Inter-City Amateur Soccer League series, Saturday, by a score of 6 to 0. The game was played on the Clinton avenue grounds and despite the cold weather was witnessed by a large crowd of football enthusiasts. The O'Keefe's took the field with nine men, two of their players having failed to show up. The visitors kicked off, but the ball was intercepted by Zacheiss, who placed down field to Spalding, who with his parting kick sent past.

The locals, keeping to the visitors' end, forced a corner, but the wind blew the ball just over the bar. Keeping the visitors to their own end, Spalding shot hard but Fields made a fine save. The visitors were handicapped with their weakened team and Plainfield was always dangerous near goal. Heneghan put in a hard shot which just missed the goal. Another corner came Plainfield's way, but Sutton placed too fine and the ball went past.

From the kick-off O'Keefe's got going and McKee came near scoring, just putting the ball past by inches. McNiece with his back from goal sent well downfield and Heneghan fastening on, crossed finely right in front of goal. Sutton picked up and banged the ball through Fields, having no chance to save. Half time was called with the score 1 to 0 in favor of Plainfield.

Right from the start of the second half, the locals got busy and putting more dash into their play, Heaume scored three goals inside of ten minutes. The Plainfielders were giving a fine display of combined work, the whole team working to perfection. From a break-away by the O'Keefe's a doubtful penalty was awarded them and Fields taking the kick shot right into the goal-keeper's hands and the danger was all over. After this point they were never dangerous and Heaume scored another goal for the locals, as also did Sutton a few minutes later. When time was called the score was 6 to 0 in favor of Plainfield. The lineup:

Plainfield—Goal, McNiece; backs, Somers, Lambertson; half-backs, Kenny, Zacheiss, Buchland; forwards, Heneghan, Spalding, Heaume, Crawford, Sutton.

O'Keefe's—Goal, Fields; backs, L. Donald; half-backs, S. Gardiner, J. Gardiner; forwards, Yoman, Thomas, Coburn, Conners, McKee.

Linesmen, Cowley, Hennessey; referee, J. Ramsey.

McCutchen's Picadilly Sweetheart was second and on Class 3, for single roadsters, Mr. McCutchen's Willie Direct won the red ribbon.

COMMERCE CHAMBER ISSUES STATEMENT

At ameetng of the Board of Directors and the Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce held in the secreary's office this morning it was deemed advisable that a statement be issued through the press to the public as follows:

The Plainfield Exposition of New Jersey's Industries was a project hurriedly conceived and furthered. It was mainly intended under the plan in the interests of the local merchants with a belief that it would stimulate the mercantile interests of the city and the intention to secure more local exhibitors at the Exposition but owing to the very limited time at hand it was found quite impossible to do this and when the public comes to consider that the entire affair was arranged in less than a month it must be patent that local interest could not be so well represented as if further time had been allowed. While many believe that even under the circumstances the local merchants should have manifested greater interest in the Exposition there are those upon the other hand, however, who appreciate the fact of the shortness of the time for them to make proper exhibits at the Exposition. Upon the whole for a first undertaking, however, they were of a very creditable and of a representative and clean character and the result has been that several of the exhibitors of the Exposition have been secured new customers and found the plan a very beneficial one so that one object at least was obtained through the efforts which were put forth. The public, too, last week generally were well pleased with Plainfield's first industrial enterprise and many of them were surprised at the returns they received for their admission ticket. The admission was twenty-five cents and they carried out a dollar's worth or more of samples in products so long as they lasted so that the visitors at the Exposition grounds were satisfied and duly rewarded.

Quintanto's band, which has a wide reputation and which is to play at Madison Square Garden, was an attraction in itself and some believe was worth the price of admission, and while disappointments occurred by reason of promises made with reference to amusements and entertainment features the board feels as though there was sufficient attractions in the exhibits themselves to please the public for the time being.

There has been one deplorable circumstance in the entire affair which has been beyond the control of those interested and that is the inclement weather and it has been demonstrated that such expositions should be held earlier in the year. Because of the inclement weather the Board of Directors in order to give others an opportunity to attend the Exposition has deemed it advisable to continue the Exposition for this afternoon and evening, tomorrow afternoon and evening and also Wednesday afternoon and evening and the judgment of the Board is that the price of admission for these three days be reduced to ten cents because of the fact that samples are now about exhausted and cannot be given out. So far as possible the Board will hold together the exhibitors and perhaps make arrangements for having a band of music to liven up the occasion. Upon the whole the Exposition might be pronounced a success to Plainfield barring the inclement weather and the loss which may be sustained by reason thereof but in other respects the experiment has proved so successful that several business men of Plainfield have been persuaded that it would be wise to make a permanent feature of the Exposition.

MANY FRIENDS MOURN FOR EDWIN L. MEYER

The funeral of Edwin L. Meyer, whose sudden death from tetanus cast a gloom over the community, was held Saturday afternoon at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains. The home was barely able to accommodate the throng of relatives and friends that attended, many being compelled to stand. The mourners included scores of adults, the boy being popular with old and young alike.

The service was in charge of Rev. C. E. Rockey, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of the local Baptist church. The former took no text for his address, but likened the life of the boy to that of a flower, which springs up in the summer and gives promise of attaining full and beautiful growth, only to be cut down by a blighting frost. With this thought in mind he drew a lesson of God's all-wise will and declared that though the great Father had taken the young man from his earthly home, he had gone to one beyond the grave where he would meet all his friends at some future day. Mr. Mathiews read the scripture and offered prayer. During the service Miss S. Etta Ravbert sang two of Edwin's favorite hymns, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Not Now But in the Coming Years."

At the close of the service, the casket was borne to the graveside in the Scotch Plains cemetery. The pall bearers were six of the young man's Sunday-school classmates, Keith Saunder, George Clark, Frederick Coombs, Harry Paff, Edwin Hatfield and Robert Anson. The remainder of the class acted as an escort, M. A. Korff, the teacher, and Captain H. B. Saunders, a former teacher, in charge.

The floral tributes were banked all about the open casket and completely filled a coach when removed to the cemetery. They included many large and besutiful set pieces, minute evidences of the esteem in which the young man was held.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE TO BE STARTED TONIGHT

The union evangelistic services of the First, Monroe Avenue and Grace Methodist churches will start tonight in Grace M. E. church with a sermon by Rev. Herbert Randolph, of Montclair, and will continue during the week in that edifice. Next week the meetings will be held in the First M. E. church and the following week they will be conducted in the Monroe Avenue church. The pastors of each of these three congregations will alternate in conducting the services after tonight.

There should be a large and representative audience to greet Rev. Mr. Randolph this evening as he is well known to many here, having been at one time pastor of Grace M. E. church soon after his ordination. He has since developed into one of the most eloquent and successful ministers in the Newark conference and his church has been selected as the place of the conference meeting this year. In addition to the regular pastors, from time to time some other preachers will be engaged to speak at the services while they continue.

This evangelistic movement got its incentive from the three weeks of meetings held last year. At that time an evangelistic preacher was secured and conducted all the meetings in co-operation with the regular pastors. This year they have undertaken to conduct the meetings themselves with the aid of special preachers on occasions.

The first regular sewing meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held in the church parlors Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Work will be begun on the box to be sent away in November.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Consistory of the Netherwood Feformed church will meet at the parsonage this evening.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, has formed a boys' class for the study of the catechism.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church will hold its first fall meeting in the church parlors this afternoon.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Society of Trinity Reformed church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. The topic will be "His Unseen Helpers," and Alfred Willett will be the leader.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The change from the regular day is made so that Miss Hodge, president of the Woman's Board of Philadelphia, might be present and speak. Tea will be served at the close of the meeting.

LECTURE ON CIVICS

Miss Mary Philbrook Traces the History of New Jersey's Government.

HELD FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGISTS.

Mrs. Champlain L. Riley Presides at Meeting Held In Club's New Quarters In the Babcock Building.

The Civic Study Class formed by the members of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield held its first fall meeting in its room at the Babcock building, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Champlin L. Riley as president of the Equal Suffrage League, was in the chair and explained the purpose of the civic class and introduced the lecturer, Miss Mary Philbrook.

Miss Philbrook gave a short sketch of the origin, early history and early forms of government and English government in America. She read to the class the United States Constitution, explaining its provisions and giving frequent opportunity for questions, after which she gave a talk on New Jersey, which she reminded the women was not originally an English colony, but was settled by the Dutch and by the Swedes.

New Jersey was one of the first States to draw up a constitution, which existed in fact two days before the constitution of the United States and was unique in that it practically gave to women the right to vote. The speaker said that this may have been due partly to the influence of the Quakers who were many and the women of that religious sect as well as the men being active workers and speakers in all their institutions.

The main counties of New Jersey were Bergen, Somerset, Sussex, Camden, Salem, Cape May, Hunterdon and Essex. Union county did not come into existence until 1857. The counties were very different from the counties of England. There were no cities here, but at the time of the drafting of the Constitution there were townships, each township being governed by a justice of the peace.

The judiciary at that time, the speaker went on to say, shifted from place to place, but after the formation of the constitution, New Jersey established permanent courts of law. As townships grew cities were inaugurated by the Legislature. This was done in the case of Plainfield in 1869. Cities, Miss Philbrook explained, are of the first, second and third class.

"It will go hard with some of us," said Miss Philbrook, "who were born in this beautiful city to admit that she could be anything but first-class in every respect, but it is a city of the second class having indeed been advanced some time ago from the third to the second. This is where North Plainfield holds up her head. She makes no pretensions at being a city, but as a borough she belongs to the first-class and she's proud of it.

"A general borough act passed about twelve years ago legislated for the control of the first, second, third and fourth class boroughs. Before this act was enforced the Legislature issued charters.'

Miss Philbrook told of her interesting experience in trying to locate the charter of North Plainfield. None of the officials to whom she applied being able to give her an information upon the subject. She finally found that North Plainfield has no charter. The first ordinance of the borough of North Plainfield passed in 1885.

In speaking of State Senators and the powers of the Legislature, Miss Philbrook said that in the recent election of United States Senator James E. Martine, although he was elected by the will of the people the Legislature wanted James Smith. Governor Wilson finally had to take the stump in behalf of Mr. Martine, with the result as is now known that the Legislature did finally submit to the will of the people and send Mr. Martine to the United States Senate.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS.

Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, met last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sanders, Jr., 206 East Fourth street, for the purpose of installing its officers and holding a social and entertainment. There was a large attendance of members and friends to the number of thirty-five, including representatives from Elizabeth and Metuchen.

During the evening there were short speeches and vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. The committee of arrangements comprised Mrs. H. L. Gibbons, chairman; Mrs. S. A. Mattox, Mrs. Annie Angleman, Mrs. M. Terry and Mrs. E. L. Sanders, Jr.

RABBI SILLMAN WILL SETTLE THEIR DISPUTES

Rabbi L. Sillman, who has been engaged by the congregation of the Children of Israel, of this city, to work here with Rabbi Davidson, was given a reception at the synagogue last night. In addition to his religious activties here he will act as a judge to settle such differences as may arise from time to time among the Jewish people.

According to the rules of the faith, the members of the congregation pledge themselves to submit their differences to Rabbi Sillman and he likewise pledges himself to act in a fair and impartial manner in the settlement of these disputes. The object of the plan is to prevent just so far as possible any litigation in the civil courts.

There was a large attendance of members at the reception last night and after all had had an opportunity to meet the rabbi, refreshments were served. The committee in charge comprised Kalman Rothberg, B. Buttinsky, L. Shift, and G. Meyerovitz.

LEGACIES TO FRIENDS IN EDMUND PACK WILL

The will of the late Edmund Pack has been probated in Surrogate Parrott's office, Elizabeth, and according to its provisions there are a number of legacies, including money and personal articles to friends. The estate is estimated to be worth about $30,000. The will was drawn in April last by V. W. Nash, Jr., and the latter and Thomas S. Armstrong were the witnesses.

Bequests of $1,500 each were made to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rowland and their daughter, Miss Grace Rowland, with whom Mr. Pack had lived since the death of his wife. Mrs. Rowland died on Sunday night, and her share will go to her husband and daughter. The sum of $500 was given to woman servant who had lived in the Pack family for many years. Distant relatives receive bequests of watches, rings, etc.

The residue of the estate is left to John H. VanWinkle, Jr., a nephew, and Loren Loree, a cousin, both of whom are named as executors of the will. Mr. Loree is the present head of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company.

Mr. Pack, who was the only son of the late Gerome Pack, resided on Park avenue practically all his life. For a time he was employed as a clerk by R. W. Barnes, when the latter conducted a grocery business theire. On August 2, he went to the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery and took his life near the grave of his wife, the cause being ascribed to despondency with which Mr. Pack had been afflicted.

RESCUES DAUGHTER FROM WATERY GRAVE

While playing with a number of other children yesterday afternoon, Anna Costic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Costic, fell from a bridge which spans a brook near the home of her parents at South Plainfield, and would have been drowned had it not been for the cries of her playmates, which attracted the little one's mother. Rushing to the scene, Mrs. Costic missed her daughter in the frightened party of children and ran to the bridge.

Glancing into the stream below Mrs. Costic saw her offspring struggling in the water. Without hesitating Mrs. Costic leaped over the guard rail of the structure and soon was wading ashore with her child in her arms. The youngster was almost unconscious from fright and shock, but was soon revived after being carried home where her wet clothing was removed. A physician was hastily summoned by neighbors who had witnessed the rescue, but his services were not needed.

MISS RICKETTS NOW MRS. JACK HALLARD.

Miss Carrie Edythe Ricketts became the bride of Jack Hallard, of Clinton avenue at noon today at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Ricketts, of East Fifth street. The ceremony was performed by Judge William G. DeMeza in the presence of a limited number of relatives and friends. Mrs. H. J. Reuse was matron of honor and Thomas H. Ricketts, Jr., was man.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon and informal reception were held at the home of the bride before the couple departed on a wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

WILSON CAMPAIGN

Governor Praises Geran Act and Corrupt Practice Law in Initial Speech.

STARTS ON STATE-WIDE TOUR.

Reviews Work of Legislature and Gives His Endorsement to Bills Made Into Law at the Last Session.

That the Corrupt Practices' Act, enacted during last winter's session of the Legislature, was the most persuasive piece of legislation he knew of, was the assertion of Governor Woodrow Wilson when he spoke before a large audience in Taylor Opera House at Trenton as part of his campaign throughout the State to have elected a Democratic Legislature. By the provisions of this act, he said, the law of trade had been reversed. In business a man gets what he pays for; in politics a man no longer gets what he buys. He said that office seekers who were elected through the illegal use of money would find themselves in jail with plenty of time for reflection.

Taking up the achievements of the last Legislature, Governor Wilson dwelt particularly upon the Geran Election law, the Corrupt Practices act and public utility legislation. He said the Geran bill does not establish free government, but gives the people the chance to have it.

"Legislation does not make you free," the Governor said; "you make yourself free; nobody can give you control of your government. The object of the Geran act was to give you the right to select those who are going to be elected to office."

Speaking of the corrupt practices act, the Governor said:

"We read with astonishment and with vociferous condemnation what went on in Adams county, Ohio, where practically everybody came into court and admitted that they had bribed or given a bribe. But have you read of the investigations in Atlantic county? Have you read of some of the things that took place in Hudson county? Have you ever heard of what took place at every election in Camden county? Do you suppose that Adams county, Ohio, has no parallel in New Jersey? I have to admit with a blush of shame that there have been communities not so far removed as Ohio where this acceptance and giving of money in elections had become a habit."

The public utility legislation, the Governor said, made it so that the State now regulated public service corporations, whereas heretofore the corporations had regulated themselves.

Concerning the doings in the Legislature last winter the Governor said there had been a change in weather, the lobbyists were put out of business and the rejection of some men was the best symbol of the people's liberty.

He declared that an objection lesson of the change in government was seen in last Tuesday's State convention of the Democratic party. He said the trouble with the previous one had been that the delegates had only to issue the platform and then name some one to carry it out. Under the new plan he said nothing was done behind closed doors.

"But, if I am correctly informed it was not so with the Republican convention," he added, "I am told that the same old crowd drew the platform and told them what to do. I have been reading literature for years and the style in which the platform was written was the same as that of previous years, the same boastfulness, vagueness and claiming of everything in sight."

He said the preamble of the Republican platform declared that the party had made the American people moral. "I didn't know the party had lost its mind," he asserted.

On Installation Committee.

George A. Strong, of Central avenue, is a member of the committee in charge of the ceremonies attending the installation of Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, as chancellor of the New York University. The installation will take place Thursday, November 9, in the auditorium of the library building at 11 o'clock and will be followed by a reception and luncheon by Chancellor and Mrs. Brown, the presentation of delegates at 3 p. m. and the alumni dinner at the Hotel Astor in the evening. On Friday a convention similar to that held by the founders of the university in 1830, will be held at the university for the discussion of the problems of an urban university.

FINDS THIEF IN ROOM; GOVERNESS COLLAPSES

Miss Leila M. Leek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Leek, of Chatham street, is at the home of her parents, suffering from a severe nervous shock, the result of a fright she received a few days ago. The young woman is employed as nursery governess in the family of A. B. Tichenor, of East Orange, and was left alone in the house during the afternoon. She went to her room about 2 o'clock and had barely entered when she noticed a man's feet protruding from under the bed.

Miss Leek was almost thrown into hysterics through fear when she realized a sneak thief had been caught at work. She ran screaming from the house and neighbors summoned the police. An Italian youth was arrested later as a suspect and a number of articles taken from the Tichenor residence were recovered. They included a gold watch, a chain, a ring and $7 in money taken from the room of Mr. Tichenor's son.

Miss Leek almost collapsed after the ordeal was over and later suffered a nervous relapse. Her condition became such that she was compelled to return to her home in the borough, where she has since been under the care of a physician.

BAND AS A FEATURE OF THE EXPOSITION

The attendance at the Plainfield Exposition last night was gratifying to the management. The absence of music was noted, but as the Royal Venetian Band had been engaged for one week only and had made other contracts for this week, it could not be retained. Another band will dispense concert music for the remaining days.

Two new displays were opened yesterday. One by A. E. Force & Co., consisting of two booths with a showing of rugs, trunks, bags, etc. The other is a demonstration being made by the New York Telephone Company. This also requires two booths, and from the showing made a good idea of the system of the company may be obtained.

The reduced admission fee will obtain throughout the remaining days and should be what the management intends it to be—an extra inducement to the public to become acquainted with the real purpose of the exposition and to let them secure the many samples that are to be given freely at every booth.

HEBREWS TO DANCE COLUMBUS DAY EVE.

NOMINEES' RIGHTS

Gaskill Rules Not Filing Expenses Does Not Prevent Right to Run.

AN OPINION ON TIME LIMIT.

Nomination Does Not Constitute An Office Within the Meaning of the Act, He Declares.

Although failure to file a statement of expenses after the primary election would subject a candidate to the criminal penalty provided by the corrupt practises act, it would not justify the county clerk in refusing to print the name of the candidate upon the official ballots for the regular election.

This is the substance of an opinion handed down by Assistant Attorney-General Nelson B. Gaskill, in response to an inquiry propounded by County Clerk G. Howell Mutchler, of Warren county. The reasoning upon which the decision was based was that a nomination does not constitute an office within the meaning of the act.

In the same opinion it was held by Mr. Gaskill that candidates had until last Monday to file their statements of campaign expenses. The question in that case hinged upon whether Sunday should be counted or excluded as one of the five days after election within which the statements must be filed.

The views expressed by Mr. Gaskill on the first question were as follows:

"You ask whether the failure to file a statement of expenses entailing under the statute the forfeiture of an office 'to which he may have been elected at the election with reference to which the statement is required to be made,' covers nomination as well as election. The word 'office' used in this connection has been interpreted many times, and, in my judgment, a nomination is not an office within the meaning of the statute.

"An office conotes duties, privileges, powers and any incidental emolument, and, while a candidate at the primary election may receive a nomination, he does not, in my judgment, receive an office so as to come within the meaning of this section of the statute.

"Failure to file a statement of expenses after the primary election, therefore, while it would subject such candidate to the criminal penalty provided by the statute, would not entitle the county clerk to refuse to print the name of such candidate upon the official ballot."

In deciding that the five days within which expense statements must be filed would include the Monday following election, Mr. Gaskill said:

"A strict count of the five days prescribed by the statute, excluding the election day and including the last day of the five thereafter, would result in fixing the expiration of the five days on Sunday, October 1. The question, therefore, is whether, under such circumstances, candidates should have the privilege of filing their statements on Monday, October 2.

"You will observe that this is not a question as to whether Sunday should be included in a running computation of time; but whether, since the last day of the period falls on Sunday the required act may be performed on the following day.

"In the case of Von de Place vs. Weller (64 N. J. L., 155) it was held that in the computation of the time within which the requirement of a statute is to be complied with, where the last day falls upon a Sunday or a legal holiday, and the act is to be done by the court and not by the party, it may be done upon the earliest succeeding day on which the court can perform the duty imposed upon it.

"In that case an appeal bond was presented for approval and acceptance by the court six days after the rendition of judgment, the last of the five days prescribed by the statute as the period within which such bonds should be presented, having fallen upon Sunday, and the tender of the bond being made on the Monday following.

"The court held that the presentation on Monday was proper, because, since the action of the court was required, and the last day of the period fixed by the statute fell upon a day in which it was not possible for the court to act, it was the intendment of the law that the parties should have until the earliest succeeding day upon which the court could perform the duty imposed upon it.

"Similarly, it seems to me that the filing of a statement of expenses by a candidate requires an act on the part of the county clerk, a public officer, who must receive the statement and file it. This he cannot do on Sunday, and my conclusion, is,

SOMERSET'S NOMINEES START CAMPAIGNING

W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, and William de La.R. Anderson, of Watchung, candidates for State Senator and Assembly, respectively, on the Republican ticket will fire the opening gun of their campaign at Mt. Bethel tonight when they will attend a meeting of Circles-on-the-Square. They will address the meeting on request of the members who desire to know for what these candidates stand. At stated intervals from now until election these candidates will swing round Somerset county addressing meetings and meeting those whose votes they are canvassing.

Assemblyman LaMonte, of Bound Brook, who is a candidate on the Democratic ticket for State Senator, and A. M. Beekman, of Somerville, who is a candidate on the Democratic ticket for member of the lower house, were visitors in town today. They made a trip to the borough on a hand-shaking expedition and met many whose votes they want and will need.

TWENTY-SEVEN ATTEND RE-UNION OF FAMILY

Among the pleasant celebrations of the fall season was the family reunion of the Squier family on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Squier on Astor place. Prior to the gathering at the Squier home, the family met at the studio of F. C. Langhorne and had a photograph taken. There were twenty-seven members of the family present, only one being absent and that was Matthew D. Sweeny, who was called away.

After the picture was taken all adjourned to the Squier home and enjoyed a fine dinner, and other features incident to a family reunion. On February 22 next Mr. and Mrs. Squier will celebrate the forty-second anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Squier was born in 1847 and Mrs. Squier was born in 1850. Those present at the reunion on Sunday representing four generations, were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Squier, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Wheeler and their children, the Misses Ida, Edith and Ruth Wheeler; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Squier and daughters, the Misses Adria and Clair Squier; Mrs. Matthew D. Sweeny and daughters, Evelyn and Dorothy Sweeny; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Brouwer and son, Aaron S. Brouwer, Jr.; Munroe B. Squier, Miss Nellie Squier, Miss Grace Squier; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Squier and daughter, Miss Mary Squier, and son, Mason G. Squier; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lyon and their sons, Irving and Grenville Squier.

DIVISION NO. 4 A.O.H. BEGINS A WEEK'S FAIR

A fair for the benefit of the A. O H. building fund was commenced in T. A. B. Hall, last night. It is under the joint auspices of Division No. 4, and the Ladies' Auxiliary and is to continue all this week. The initial attendance was very gratifying to the committee.

While dancing is the chief attraction of the enterprise, considerable interest is manifested in two large fancy booths which grace the center of the hall. They are replete with handsome articles of varying values to be contested for or on sale. The leading contest, and one that is certain to cause keen expectancy until the finish, has a first class return passage to Ireland as a prize. In the event of the winner not wishing to take the trip the equivalent in money will be given. Music for the entire week will be provided by Suhr's Imperial orchestra and informal programs of vocal and instrumental solos will be a feature.

The committee in charge of the affair is composed of the following:

Misses Sarah Kenney, Katherine Powers, Elizabeth Cooney, Jennie Grady, Mrs. Francis Connolly, Mrs. Patrick Harrington, Mrs. John Casey, Mrs. Frank Linke and Mrs. Frank Cullen, and Messrs. Frank Cullen, Patrick Griffin, Hugh Cunningham, Thomas Farrell, John Hurley, John Rone and Samuel Flatley.

In the Borough Court.

Lorella Orolsteri and Pretro Farria, two of the three Italians in the altercation on Chatham street, Saturday night, appeared before Recorder Dolliver, this morning, and were fined $3 each. Ebro Cebrarro, the third man, failed to show up and his bail bond of $5 was declared forfeited.

SENTENCE NEGRO

Diamond, Highwayanm, Given Fifteen Years at Hard Labor by Judge Case.

FOR ROBBING AUTOMOBILIST.

Philadelphia Pawnbroker to Get $1,000 Reward Offered For Capture and Conviction of Desperado.

William Diamond, a negro desperado, was convicted in the Somerset county court at Somerville of shooting and robbing Charles M. Dumas, a merchant of that borough, as he was riding on the public highway in company with his wife in an automobile on the night of August 24. He was sentenced by Judge Case to serve a term of fifteen years at hard labor in the State prison.

The trial attracted widespread attention among automobilists. Motor cars from New Jersey and other States were lined up while their owners were inside taking a live interest in the fate of the young desperado, who had made a speciality of holding up automobiles.

The National Auto Association of America had offered a reward of $1,000 for the conviction of any person robbing an automobilist on any public highway. It is stated that the reward offered by the association will go to William Cohn, a pawnbroker, of Seventeenth and Bainbridge streets, Philadelphia, who, according to the evidence adduced at the trial, was responsible for the detection and arrest of Diamond as he was about to pawn a gold watch which he had taken from Dumas at the point of a revolver.

Special Officer Harrington, of the Philadelphia force, testified as to the attempt Diamond had made on his life in the pawnbroker's. He said that before he had time to lay hands on Diamond the latter turned with catlike agility and pressed the muzzle of the revolver against his lips, and at the same time Pawnbroker Cohn leaned over his showcase and brought a policeman's night stick down on the negro's head with a force that felled him senseless to the floor.

Diamond, who claims that he is only twenty-one years of age, is an educated negro, and speaks both French and English fluently and is a Catholic.

He refuses to divulge anything of his past. He has told the authorities that Diamond is not his right name, and he will not reveal his true identity, as his family are well to do and highly educated colored people whom he does not want to disgrace.

HOMECOMING TENDERED TO EDWARD HARDING, JR.

Edward Harding, Jr., of John street, was given a "homecoming" by a dozen friends at his home, last night, in honor of his return from a western pleasure trip. An informal program of vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed during the evening, features of which were numbers by the Knickerbocker Four, appearing at Proctor's theatre this week; Fred Van Eps on the banjo and Joseph Denny, piano. There were also individual solos by Mr. Harding, a monologue by Lester Wallack Hamilton and shadowgraphs by Vincent Meany. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Mr. Harding concluded his trip yesterday morning. While away he visited in Denver, Col., Cheyenne, Wyo., and other cities in the west. He also stopped over for a few days with relatives in Chicago.

Those in attendance last night were Messrs. Cooper, Granville, Edwards and Tully, of the Knickerbocker Four; Fred Van Eps, Joseph Denny, Edward Harding, Gus Meissner, Lewis Harding, Vincent Meany, Lester Wallack Hamilton and Frank Emmons.

B. & L. Series.

The seventy-third series of the Union Building and Loan Association was opened last night and several hundred shares were subscribed for. The thirteenth series was declared closed and will be paid off at the next meeting. This will total nearly $40,000 paid to stockholders since the first of the year. Four applications for loans was received and granted.

Entertained Bible Class.

Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire's Bible class of women was entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. B. F. Hadley on Leland avenue. The whole evening was given up to sociability, during which there was a musical program and refreshments were served. The class has arranged for several similar gatherings during the winter to promote good fellowship.

WILSON AT FLEMINGTON LAUDS INDEPENDENTS.

Flemington, Oct. 10.—Governor Wilson addressed an overflow meeting at the opera house here Saturday night. Prior to the meeting he met a number of prominent Democrats of the county at a dinner given at the Union Hotel.

At the opera house meeting the Governor was introduced by A. O. Robbins. After expressing his pleasure in visiting such a consistently Democratic county as Hunterdon, the Governor said he came in fulfilment of his promise to report to the people as to what had been done by their representatives.

Governor Wilson said, in his opinion, that party is going to rule the nation that can command the independent vote.

"The whole future of the Democratic party depends on its remaining under the control and guidance of its independent section," he continued. "I am not imagining these things; I am not saying that it is a vague idea of what I hope to see. These are the things that are known to everybody who analyzes the situation in this State or in the United States. Supposing that there is a reactionary element in our party in this State, do you suppose this State would put the unprogressive element in power if it got control again?

"That element of the party had control for sixteen years, and during those sixteen years we enjoyed the distinction of being a minority party, and just as soon as the progressive wave that is sweeping through this nation puts the progressive element in control, just so soon will the party that puts the progressive element in control be in charge of its affairs. The Democratic party holds its lease of power on those terms, and only upon those terms. The moral of my lesson, therefore, and the point of my forecast for the future, is this: That the Democratic party is progressive."

OUR HEALTH WORTH $540,000,000,000

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Chief of the Chemistry Bureau of the Department of Agriculture, told the National Conservation Congress that the health of the nation was worth $540,000,000,000. He made this estimate on the basis of $600 per capita average annual earnings of 45,000,000 wage-earning persons, each representing a capital of $12,000 invested at 5 per cent.

Dr. Wiley advocated limitation of marriage to normal and healthy individuals, segregation of tuberculosis and typhoid fever patients, as in small-pox, yellow fever patients and leper cases, establishment of a national department of health and rigid enforcement of the pure food and drug laws.

Dr. Wiley said "if in the remote future coal, iron, gold and silver should become extinct, science would provide substitutes," and that science would "secure the maintenance and increase of the wealth of the forest, field and stream.

"Congress should take early steps toward securing in the councils of the nation an advisor to the President charged with the protection of the health of the people and the proper education of the people in matters relating to their well being, both moral and physical."

Vigorously did Dr. Wiley attack as a "thief and a corrupter of public morals" the manufacturer who sells adulterated food and drugs. The human animal, he said, is entitled to a pure and wholesome diet. "The drug store and the grocery store should be distinct concerns and not sell each other's wares."

FAIL TO COVER THEFT BY FIRE.

Mt. Holly, Oct. 10.—Discovering his barn on fire at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, Pearson Taylor, of Wrightstown, arose to find that his six horses had been stolen. The place evidently had been set on fire to cover up the crime. Detectives and representatives of the Farmers Pursuing and Detective Association in automobiles are scouring the county for the incendiary thieves.

All the outbuildings, stored grain, hay, wagons and implements belonging to Mr. Taylor were destroyed by the flames, at a loss of $14,000, partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Taylor's suspicions were aroused when he made an effort to save his stock and was unable to discern any of his horses in the blaze. After the fire was out no bodies were to be seen in the ruins.

Mr. Taylor is a director of the Holly National bank and of the Burlington County Fair Association.

JERSEY'S DEMOCRATS ENDORSE GOV. WILSON

The Federation of Democratic Clubs of New Jersey in a convocation at Masonic hall, Saturday, endorsed Governor Wilson for the Democratic nomination for president in 1912. Considerable enthusiasm was let loose by that throng of Democratic workers when the resolution pushing forward the candidacy of the Governor was read. There was the sturdiest approval when the resolution was offered for adoption. There was nothing to the convention but Wilson, and when the conventionists were not discussing Wilson policies they were listening to the Governor define "progressive" and his dictionary.

The convention was composed of two delegates from each of the Democratic clubs of the State and the general public was also admitted.

Mayor Donnelly, of Trenton, made an impassioned appeal in defense of commission government during his address of welcome to the delegates.

The convention was opened by Ray E. Mayham, president of the federation. He named former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton, as temporary chairman.

The resolution endorsing Governor Wilson for the presidency was offered by William C. French, Democratic candidate for senator from Atlantic county. It was seconded by John J. Gifford, of Essex county. The resolution, besides endorsing Governor Wilson, called attention to the numerous reforms that had been enacted by the Democrats in the legislature during the past year.

The platform adopted at the state convention was endorsed and the Democratic candidates were assured of the support of the federation. The course pursued by the Democratic members of the house of representatives was also lauded.

Governor Wilson's talk was characteristic and he said among other things that people need not worry about the Democratic party ruining business if government is intrusted to it.

Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, addressed the convention, as did Chairman of the State Democratic Committee Edward E. Grosscup, former Senator Robert S. Hudspeth and United States Senator James E. Martine.

BOB VEAL MEN GET SUMMONS.

State Board Cites Maybaums to Show Cause Why License Shouldn't be Revoked.

Besides the prosecutions which will be brought by the State as a result of the finding of six tubercular carcasses and two bob veals in the slaughter house of A. Maybaum & Sons, in the Vailsburgh section of Newark, the proprietors of the establishment will be cited to appear before the State Board of Health a week from today to show cause why their license should not be revoked. Should the board determine to revoke the license, as it has authority to do, the continuance of the slaughter house would be punishable by a fine of $200.

The seizures made in the Maybaum establishment have served to emphasize the marked differences between the federal laws and regulations affecting the sale of diseased meat or bob veal and those of the State bearing upon the same subject. As compared with the federal statutes, the State law seems to impose almost no penalty at all for traffic in unwholesome meat.

Gatti Cassaza, on his return from Europe, discussed plans for the season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

NEW JERSEY GAME WILL BE PROTECTED

New Jersey is revolutionizing its system of game protection after a century of backwardness. The principal reforms have been in the enactment of stringent laws for the protection of game and the establishment of a forestry patrol system to protect the game from forest fires. The patrol will receive its first tryout with the opening of the New Jersey hunting season on October 15.

Between forty and fifty rangers will be turned loose in the forest lands of North Jersey with the opening of the season to be on the lookout for fires, which are always more or less in evidence when huntsmen are in the woods. The new patrol system, which is being organized under the general supervision of the New Jersey State Forestry Commission and State Forester Alfred Gaskill has been made possible by the cooperative agreement entered into by the State commission and the United States forestry service. Under that agreement the United States government will contribute $1,500 annually toward the maintenance of the rangers, whose services will only be required during certain periods of the year.

Watchers will be posted on elevated points where they can detect fires in any of the surrounding woodlands. As soon as the smoke is seen signals will be given, for the appearance of which other rangers will be constantly on the lookout. Besides the men on watch others will be roaming through the woods keeping tabs on gunners and preventing possible violations of the law.

The law passed at the last session of the legislature increasing the salaries of game wardens and prohibiting them from being engaged in any other business has worked out well. During the past season the fines collected from violators of the game and fish laws have amounted in the aggregate to $1,550, against the small sum of $100 for the same period lastyear.

Three men were fined $200 each for illegal fishing within the three-mile limit for food fish and with nets. Up in Sussex county there were two arrests made for violation of the law which prohibits the use of dynamite in any waters of the State. In each case the culprits were aliens and paid a fine of $200 and costs. The game and fish commissioners met in Trenton last week and appointed a committee consisting of Ernest Napier, of Essex county, and Percival Chrystie, of Hunterdon county, to visit the southern section of the State, with a view to selecting a suitable site for a game farm. An appropriation of $25,000 has been made for this purpose, and out of this sum a fish hatchery will also be established.

"Never in the history of New Jersey," declared Benedict C. Kuser, president of the State Fish and Game commission, this week, have better results been shown by our game wardens than during the summer just passed. By this I mean the destruction of the natural enemies of our game birds and animals, as well as keeping down violations of the laws and arresting and convicting violators.

"At Titusville, only a short distance from Trenton, I had one of our wardens set three traps of the Newhouse variety, and in one week he caught sixey-seven weasels, thirty-five common cats and seventeen hawks. Besides these six dogs have been shot which were found in the act of running rabbits. I also have a report from James Taylor, postmaster at Cape May, in which he told me that during the month of August he had killed 147 hawks of different varieties.

"Regarding the probable success of our game farm a great deal depends upon the extermination of prowling cats, foxes, hawks and such other pests. On a small scale places near Trenton where we had several hundred young English pheasants this spring, all over six weeks old, we lost forty of them one night. And again the place must be in a section wher snow will quickly disappear after falling, and where there will be good soil and plenty of grass, both of which are essential to the propagation of wild birds."

NEAR DEATH FROM CUTS, HE SHIELDS ASSAILANT.

Perth Amboy, Oct. 10.—Stabbed in the abdomen and possibly fatally injured, Martin Bartoschiewicz refused to tell who stabbed him. John Dombroski, arrested as the assailant, was committed to jail yesterday by Recorder Henry W. Kehoe to await the outcome of the man's injuries. The victim was taken to a hospital.

The assault occurred during a saloon brawl Saturday night. Ptrolman Joseph Gutowski discovered Bartoschiewicz bleeding, but he refused to tell who slashed him. The policeman later found Dombroski, who bore cuts on his face, and arrested him on suspicion. The prisoner refused to talk.

Plainfield, N. J., October 10, 1911.

Governor Wilson criticizes "The Beautiful Island of Somewhere" as a nonsensical hymn. And yet that island is not located on Salt River.

Those who have watched the opinions of Assistant Attorney Genecal Gaskill on the Geran law and the Corrupt Practice Act must be impressed with the fact that in many instances his legal conclusions are far-fetched from the legal premises he bases them on. It will be recalled that just before the primaries he handed out two opinions, neither of which appeared to be justified by the plain letter of the Geran law. Within a day or two thereafter, Judge Martin decreed that the law was exactly the opposite to the interpretation placed upon it by Mr. Gaskill. These are but samples. Now comes the Assistant Attorney General with his opinion that although failure to file a statement of expenses after the primary election would subject a candidate to the criminal penalty provided by the Corrupt Practice Act, it would not justify the county clerk in refusing to print the name of the candidate upon the official ballots for the general election. In justice to himself, in justice to those who might be led to accept his opinions as sound law, Mr. Gaskill should close down his election law opinion factory.

ANDERSON RESIGNS AS TWP. CLUB HEAD.

When the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society met last night in the town hall at Watchung there was a large attendance and after the reports were read President Anderson said he had resigned as president because he had entered politics. The fall work on roads, he said, would be begun as soon as the leaves had fallen so that the ditches could be properly cleaned for the winter and the gutter in front of Wilson Memorial chapel would be cobbled, he stated as chairman of the committee. He also reported the purchase of a safe for the use of the township.

Reports of the committees were received and progress was generally noted. A committee was appointed to take up the matter of the extension of Watchung avenue through to Watchung. The question of equalization of taxes was discussed.

HORSE GIVES WARNING OF FIRE IN ITS BARN.

A delivery horse belonging to John Voehl, the Somerset street baker, narrowly escaped serious injury or death in a fire which occurred in the owner's stable in the rear of his shop on Somerset and Harmony streets, late last night. Someone evidently dropped a match near the animal's hind feet and it stepped upon it causing a blaze. The horse was jumping and kicking with pain when the noise attracted the attention of Marshal Herrmann as he was passing down Race street. The officer invesigated, discovering flames shooting through the sides of the barn.

Herrmann turned in an alarm from box 142 and with Marshal Keller began the work of rescuing the horses. The one nearest the blaze was badly blistered, but will be all right in a few days. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals before it had reached any great headway. The loss will be about $50, covered by insurance.

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

—While a driver was throwing a light blanket over one of Fred Ivamy's horses at the store this morning, the animal took fright and ran away. The scared beast dashed diagonally across the road and collided with a telephone pole, breaking loose the shafts and wrecking the wagon. Too Much Papa.

This bit of humor and pathos is from the Hawaiian Star: "An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her two-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distant father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

"One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then four years old, was summoned. 'Come dear,' said her mother in glee, 'papa has come home at last!' The child surveyed the officer in perplexity and finally shook her head.

"'What is the matter, dear?' asked her mother. 'Well,' replied the child, 'he looks something like my papa, but my papa hasn't any legs!'"

Humor of the Barometer.

It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness. Its rich framework clearly advertised the large price that had been paid for it. Its owner was justly proud. But it possessed one drawback—it wouldn't work. Ever since it had been purchased it had remained at "set fair" whatever the weather had happened to be. And the weather had happened to be particularly wet. At last its owner grew weary of its external beauty and exasperated over its internal stupidity. One day when the rain was pouring extra hard he tore the weather indicator from the wall and took it out into the road.

For a moment the needle hesitated. Then as the raindrops began to dim the glass it made up its mind and moved slowly round to "very dry."—London Answers.

An Innocent Victim.

General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington.

"Washington," he said, "gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White.

"Tom White failed in business owing to the mistake of one single letter made by his stenographer. Tom's patron in business was a deaf millionaire who was very touchy about his deafness. This millionaire turned from a good friend to a bitter enemy—he foreclosed on Tom—because the unhappy fellow's stenographer accidentally began a letter to him 'Deaf Sir.'"

A Gilded Gown.

During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:

"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree than ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

Grown Cautious.

Chatty Lodger (to landlord) — You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord—Well, sir, I were a lion-tamer, and I'd be there now if I 'adn't a-married; but, you see, my wife were a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and become a steeplejack.—London Punch.

A Word to Be Avoided.

Wife—Well, did you find out what it was I said that offended Mrs. Youngbride? Hub—Yes, her husband told me. It seems that you remarked, "I see you're installed in your new home," and as they've furnished on the installment plan she thought you were trying to be funny at their expense.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Help.

"Is your boy Josh much of a help to you?"

"Yes," replied Farmer Corntossel. "He is making a collection of insects. Of course he don't catch as many as he could if he wouldn't stop to label 'em, but, then, you know, every little helps."—Washington Star.

Anecdotes.

"What is an anecdote, pa?"

"An anecdote, my son, is a short and funny tale which at once reminds the other fellow of a tale which is neither short nor funny."—Puck.

A Choice of Words.

"You sold me that horse as free from faults. Why, it's blind."

"Blind? Well, that's not a fault; that's a cruel misfortune."

He Heard Her.

"My daughter's piano lessons have been a great expense to me."

"That so? Did some neighbor sue you?"

If you live by nature you will never be poor; if by opinion, never rich.—Epicurus.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

Waking the Sleepers.

In a diary kept in 1646 it is asserted that "Allen Brydges has been chose to wake the sleepers in meeting and, being much proud of his place, must needs have a fox taile fixed to the end of a long staffe, wherewith he may brush the faces of them that will have naps in time of discourse." This energetic individual was likewise armed with "a sharpe thorne" for the benefit of those who "be most sounde." There is a record of the use of this implement upon Mr. Tomkins, who was sleeping comfortably in the corner of his pew when Allen "thrust his staff behind Dame Ballard to give him a grievous prick upon the hand, whereupon Mr. Tomkins did spring much above the floor and with terrible force did strike his head against the wall and also to the great wonder of all 'prophanelie' exclaim in a loud voice, 'Buss the woodchuck!' he dreaming, as it seemed, that a woodchuck had seized him and bit his hand."

Packed at Home.

As the new district visitor looked at Mr. Leahy and noted his determined chin she had a momentary sensation of reluctance to question him, but she overcame it and began her appointed task.

"Where do you deposit your wages, Mr. Leahy, if you've no objection to telling me?" she asked. "I am trying to interest the neighborhood in the excellent People's bank, lately started."

"Sure, I'd as soon tell you as not," said Mr. Leahy cheerfully. "'Tis tin dollars a week I earn. Whin I've paid the rint, the provision and grocery bills an' the milkman an' bought what's needed for Celia an' me an' the five children I deposit the rist o' the money in barr'ls, ma'am. I uses sugar barr'ls mostly. They're a bit larger and so holds more. But whin I can't get thim I make shift wid plain flour barr'ls."—Youth's Companion.

Curious Forgetfulness.

It is difficult to combine the attributes of the beau and the business man, and the famous Lord Alvanley did not attempt the task. Largely as the result of that philosophy which led him to cavil at a friend's weakness in "muddling away his fortune in paying tradesmen's bills," he one day found himself in financial difficulties and asked Charles Greville, the author of the "Journals," to put his affairs in order. The two men—Mr. Lewis Melville describes the incident in "Some Eccentrics and a Woman"—spent a day over accounts, and Greville found that the task he had undertaken would not be so difficult as he had been given to understand. His relief was not long lived, however, for on the following morning he received a note from Alvanley saying he had quite forgotten a debt of £50,000.

Her Early Resolutions.

This story was told by an Englishman who lived a century ago. He was dining out in London and sat by a lady whom he did not know. Their conversation turned upon early resolutions and how very seldom they were kept, and the lady said: "Well, when I was a girl I made three resolutions—first, I determined that I would never marry a soldier; second, that I would never marry an Irishman, and, third, that I would not be long engaged. And all those three resolutions I broke. Whom do you think I did marry? The Duke of Wellington! He was a soldier and an Irishman, and I was engaged to him for twelve years." This was Lady Katherine Pakenham. It was an unhappy marriage, and the couple mostly lived apart.

Between Them.

"Yes," said Mrs. Catchem, "those are my daughters over there on the sofa. They have half a million between them."

It was not until they were married to those daughters that the young men who overheard the remark found out that Mrs. Catchem referred to the rich old gentleman who sat on the sofa between the girls. Mrs. Catchem could not tell a lie, but she knew how to speak the truth to the best advantage.

Here is a typical example, and here again is the pipe line between a vicious influence and a heavy advertiser.

On a certain residence street were two large apartment houses exactly alike, which had been built five years before by the same man. One was still owned by him; the other had been sold. The builder's name was Cushman. The name of the other owner was Carpenter. Both buildings had been kept in good repair and had been constantly occupied. The lots upon which they stood were of the same size. Any real estate agent in the city would have said there was no difference in the value of the two properties, yet on the assessor's books we found Cushman's property valued at $80,000 and Carpenter's property valued at $25,000. We sought the reason and found it. Carpenter was the boss of the third ward. Cushman had no political connections; he was merely a citizen.

Opening the Eyes of the People.

I printed the story of these two assessments in short, snappy sentences in a two-column box on the first page. I made it a communication to the rank and file of the Republican and Democratic parties of St. James, and wound up as follows:

"Do you Mr. Republican, propose to nominate for assessor the kind of man who does this sort of a thing?"

"Do you, Mr. Democrat, propose to nominate for assessor the kind of man who does this sort of thing?"

The next day I printed an editorial on the subject of the two apartment houses, showing that Cushman had the year before contributed in taxes $1680 toward the public expense of the community, while Carpenter had contributed but $525. Then I showed what could have been done with $1155 that the city had been cheated out of by the third ward boss. I reduced it to schoolbooks, to fire hose, to street lights, to park benches, to square yards of street cleaning, to band concerts and to ash cans.

The apartment house articles drew the attention of the public sharply to assessments and taxation, and thousands of people began asking themselves and each other whether that sort of thing was right and whether they should tolerate it. I thought I detected an awakening civic conscience and I immediately followed the comparison of the apartment house assessments with comparisons of assessments of other properties. Almost invariably where I found a piece of property assessed at a low figure I found its owner more or less closely connected with some city official, or with the circle of business men and politicians that dominated the city hall. I printed the names of these people and made a wholesome lot of enemies, but I had the satisfaction of watching the circulation of the paper climb up, and up, until by the first of January it had reached eighteen thousand.

On the first of January Mills Brothers informed us that they had decided not to renew their contract, which expired on February first. Mills Brothers operated one of the three big department stores and had used about six thousand dollars' worth of space in The Sun during the year. Ralph Mills, one of the partners, was a brother-in-law of Carpenter, the third ward boss who cheated the poor people of the city by getting a low assessment on his apartment house. Carpenter had reached Mills, and the Mills Brothers' business went out of our paper for good. Mills didn't hesitate to tell Austin why he wouldn't renew his contract, so we were equally candid. On February second we used the old Mills space to tell the people of St. James the whole story.

A loss of five hundred dollars a month in the revenue of newspaper with a circulation of eighteen thousand in a city of one hundred thousand population hurts, but Austin took the blow with another grin. I guess he was gettig used to it by this time. We redoubled our efforts to bring about the election of honest city officials who would yank the graft out of assessments by which the public funds were provided, and the extravagance through which the public funds were expended.

I found that the street railway company was assessed at $225,000, although it was capitalized at $6,000,000 and was paying five per cent on its securities, and I pointed out the necessity of increasing its value on the assessor's books. I found the factories and wholesale houses assessed at ridiculouly low figures, and I presented the assessments of little homes of wage earners in contrast, giving names and addresses so that the reader would identify the property.

It was right in the middle of our assessment and taxation fight that Lane turned up a story that was destined to exert a far-reaching influence on the future of The Sun, although it looked innocent enough on its surface the day he walked over and laid it on my desk. He had got the story in the police court. It merely recited the fact that an old woman, a Mrs. Mary Wilson, had been sent to the workhouse for sixty days for violation of the plumbing regulations. A water pipe on her premises leaked and she had failed to have it repaired, although she had twice been warned to do so by the plumbing inspector.

"This case had been tried when I got to court," said Lane as he turned in the story, "but I've a hunch there's something behind it, and I'm going out this afternoon to run it down."

Lane discovered that the hovel in which the old woman lived was owned by the Tuttle Corporation. He obtained permission to talk to Mrs. Wilson at the workhouse, and she told him she had asked the agent who collected her rent to have the pipe fixed, but that he had not had it done. Lane looked up the plumbing law and the woman's lease, and found that the owner of the property and not the tenant was responsible for the violation of the regulations.

The next afternoon The Sun pictured the Tuttle Corporation and its general manager, Fulton Tuttle, rich, powerful, independent, flagrantly violating the plumbing ordinance, and then pictured Mrs. Wilson, bent and crippled by the infirmities of age, serving her sentence in the workhouse. Lane wrote a vivid story, calculated to arouse the indignation of every person who read it, and I published a first-page editorial demanding the instant release of Mrs. Wilson and the arrest of Tuttle. On the editorial page I republished the assessment of some of the largest Tuttle properties, all of which were lightly touched by the assessor, and told the citizens of St. James that this wasn't the corporation's only offense against society, that it also sent old women to jail to pay its penalty for the violation of laws intended to protect the public health.

Every day for a week we demanded that a warrant be issued for Fulton Tuttle and that Mrs. Wilson be released. We even printed a cartoon, showing Tuttle in his automobile and Mrs. Wilson peering through the bars of her cell. At the end of a week the pressure became more than the plumbing inspector, city attorney and police judge could stand. Mrs. Wilson was pardoned and a warrant for Tuttle was sworn out. The news "broke" at two-thirty, and Lane telephoned it to me from the police station. I asked him if it would be safe to say Tuttle had been arrested.

"Not by a long sight!" he replied. "I don't believe there's a man down here who's got nerve enough to arrest Fulton Tuttle. The warrant's out all right, you can say that; but don't go any stronger. I'd bet a thousand they never pinch him."

Lane was a good prophet. They never did actually arrest Fulton Tuttle. They never would have issued the warrant if we hadn't hammered them into it by getting the whole town talking about the case. But the process of actually putting Fulton Tuttle under arrest and making him stand trial was a very different thing. The warrant merely slumbered in the pigeonhole of the desk of the chief plumbing inspector. The next day and every day for ten days I published a short two-column Tuttle-warrant editorial on the first page. At first I addressed it to the city attorney, chief plumbing inspector, police judge and chief of police. Then I addressed it to the public and asked if anybody had heard whether the warrant had been served. Then I changed it into the form of a reward, offering to pay one hundred dollars to any person who could prove that Tuttle had been arrested.

More Wheels Within Wheels.

On the afternoon of the tenth day the chief plumbing inspector came to see me. His face was drawn and pale, his hands trembled. He looked and acted like a man on the verge of nervous prostration.

"Look here," he pleaded, "won't you let up? I don't dare serve that warrant. I'm helpless. I'm appointed by the mayor, and if I arrested Fulton Tuttle I wouldn't have my job three minutes. Tuttle absolutely owns Bill Lank—put up the money for his last two campaigns and has promised to send him to Congress. Bill don't dare make the Tuttles mad, and if I make 'em mad it's all off with me and Bill. Won't you quit?"

I was sincerely sorry for the man, more because of the mental and moral limitations which prevented his seeing in municipal government anything but an organization for personal profit than because of his embarrassment over the Tuttle warrant.

"Why don't you go right to Tuttle with your troubles?" I asked him. "If he's anything like decent he'll submit to arrest, pay a fine, fix the pipe and forget it."

He took my advice, and the following day we printed a story of Tuttle's arrest and his payment of a fine of fifty dollars. We did not neglect, however, to call attention to the difference in the treatment accorded Tuttle and the treatment accorded Mrs. Wilson. She was taken to court in a patrol wagon and was sent to the workhouse. Tuttle's lawyer appeared for him, pleaded guilty for him and paid his fine for him. Tuttle was not compelled to endure the unpleasantness of contact with the vulgar atmosphere of the police court. He sat in his luxuriously furnished office and let his hired man attend to the sordid details of his prosecution.

The first advertising echo of our stand in the plumbing case came a few days later, when the Comptroller of the Currency made one of his periodical calls for national bank statements. The Tuttle National Bank and the Second National Bank coldly informed Austin, when he called for their statements, which the newspapers had always printed as advertising, that their boards had decided not to use The Sun any more. The Tuttle Corporation controlled both institutions. In St. James it was the practice of the savings banks and trust companies to publish statements whenever the national banks did, but Austin was turned down at the Valley Trust Company and the Provident Savings Bank. They were also controlled by Tuttle.

The Gem Mills, a big flour company that did an enormous business in the city and throughout the Middle West, had been figuring with Austin on a year's contract to cover, advertising to run daily. Shortly after the loss of the bank statements the manager of the Gem Mills told Austin that he didn't care to advertise in The Sun. This was another company owned and operated by the Tuttle Corporation. The Valley Trust Company and the Provident Savings Bank had been advertising with us regularly on contract. When their contracts expired, a month later, they declined to renew.

About the same time we began preparations for issuing our annual edition, which is quite an event in the life of the Middle West newspaper in the smaller cities. Not a factory or whole sale house in which there was a cent of Tuttle money gave us an inch of advertising.

Cheers From the Plain People.

I was still free from misgivings as to the final success of the paper, for our circulation was growing steadily, but I appreciated the immediate seriousness of losing the advertising of all firms in which the Tuttles were interested. So I put on my hat and went out on a tour of investigation. I called on the managers of all the Tuttle enterprises and asked them why they had stopped advertising in The Sun. Each manager explained it on one pretext or another at first, attributing his action to the size of our circulation, to our rates, to the fact that, being a penny paper, The Sun was read chiefly by the poorer classes, or to any one of the many other excuses of the man who has some hidden, personal reason. When I pinned them down and demanded their reasons, on the ground that we had money invested in the paper and had the right to know what we could expect from advertisers, they told me the truth. As the manager of the Gem Mills said, they "had orders." I found that Fulton Tuttle had passed the word down to every executive in his organization, and that word was: "Not a line of advertising goes in The Sun."

I spent the afternoons of the succeeding week among a very different class of people. Every day, as soon as the paper was off the press, I went into the poorer sections of the city, among the factory employees, down to the stockyards district, to the homes of the wage earners. I wanted to find ou what the masses thought of The Sun—and I found out.

I would walk into a grocery store in the factory section and get into conversation with the proprietor and any one else who happened to be there.

"Have you got a copy of today's Sun?" I would ask, without intimating that I was interested in The Sun.

Usually somebody would have a copy. I would glance over the paper and comment on some story, which I had handled in copy and seen put into type hours before.

"What do you think of this paper?" I would ask the proprietor or some one standing by. Nine times out of ten the face of the person addressed would light up.

"It's all right; up and coming all the time and ain't afraid o' nothing. It's showing things up proper in this town."

After my excursion into the highways and byways of St. James I made up my mind that the time had come to make, through the paper, a direct appeal for subscribers, and to tell the people plainly why their subscriptions were necessary to our success. I outlined the plan to Austin.

"I've been thinking a good deal about that Tuttle business," he said, "and I've wondered if you were going to print the real story of why all the Tuttle concerns have quit advertising with us."

"Yes, I intend to," I replied. "Why?"

"I've been wondering whether it would be wise."

It was the first hint of opposition to our theory of an absolutely honest paper that Austin had uttered. I looked at him closely and he flushed.

"I don't want you to think I'm getting cold feet," he said, "but don't you believe the public will think we're persecuting prominent men purely for the purpose of creating a sensation and getting circulation? Everybody you've ever taken a rap at has been spreading that kind of dope."

Here was something I had never thought of, and I saw at once that it was serious.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

The matches in mixed doubles were started yesterday afternoon in the Plainfield High School tennis tournament and the boys' and girls' doubles continued. The mixed doubles were played at the Cedarcroft courts and were witnessed by a large number of spectators. All of the matches proved interesting and exciting. Miss Daisy Day and Henry Hubbard were easily defeated by Esther Philips and Allen Doggett. Although the winners had a slight up-hill course in the first set, winning with a score of 7 to 5, they quickly captured the second set when their opponents had the disadvantage of the sunny court, with a score of 6 to 1. Pauline Gates and Warren Butler also managed two short sets when they defeated Mabel Bogardus and Robert Gavett by their superior strokes and accurate placing, with a score of 6-2 and 6-1. The fastest match of the afternoon, in mixed doubles, came when Jessie Stewart and Jack Zerega beat Gertrude Butler and Dixon Philips. They had to play three sets, the first and last going to the winners. Long rallies and slashing serves were a feature.. The first set was claimed by the winners with a score of 6-3. The second set, however, Miss Butler and Dixon Philips took with a score of 7-5, taking a strong lead in the opening games. The real contest came in the third set, which was won only by better team work on the part of the winners with a score of 8 to 6. The results of yesterday's matches follow: Allen Doggett and Inon White beat Fred Allen and Roy Titsworth, 6-2, 6-3; Esther Philips and Allen Doggett beat Daisy Day and Henry Hubbard, 7-5, 6-1; Pauline Gates and Warren Butler beat Mabel Bogardus and Robert Gavett, 6-2, 6-1; Jessie Stewart and Jack Zerega beat Gertrude Butler and Dixon Philips, 6-3, 5-7, 8-6. Boys' doubles—Esty Foster and Seward Lyons beat Jack Zerega and Felix Janke, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3. Boys' singles—Philip VanDeventer beat Stanley Bellows, 6-1, 6-3.

FABER'S BIRDS SECOND IN THE PIGEON RACE.

The last carrier pigeon race for local birds this season was held on Saturday, the flight being from Manassas, Vt., a distance of 200 miles. Robert S. Parsons won both first and second with his birds, his first one arriving at the home loft about 3:10, having been liberated between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning. The second bird came in soon afterward. The first bird made 741.36 yards per minute and the second 741.13 yards per minute.

Charles E. Faber's birds were second, his first bird made 738.34 yards per minute and the second 735.35 yards per minute. There will be no more flights now until next spring. Altogether the past season has been a successful one for the owners of local birds.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF SHERRARD DEPUE HELD

Funeral service for Sherrard Depue, of the law firm of Lindabury, Depue and Faulks, of Newark, and special counsel to the North Plainfield Sewage Commission, whose death occurred at his summer home in Stirling Sunday night, was held privately this afternoon at the residence where his death occurred. Mr. Depue was taken with acute diabetes Saturday afternoon and after consulting his physician was advised to take a long rest. He had planned to occupy his winter home on Mt. Prospect, Newark, yesterday, but his illness caused a change in his plans and he went to his Stirling house on the doctor's advice.

Early last week Mr. Depue complained of feeling indisposed, but gave no serious thought to his condition and on Friday attended court as counsel in a case, the trial of which is still on. He became unconscious Saturday and did not recover from the coma.

Mr. Depue was born August 1, 1864, at Belvidere, Warren county. He received his education at private schools and was later a student in the Newark Acadaemy, from which he graduated in 1881.

Entering Princeton University, Mr. Depue received his academic degree in 1885, after which he was enrolled in the Columbia Law School, graduating in 1887. He then followed the study of law in the office of Vice-Chancellor Frederick W. Stevens, and was admitted to the bar in June, 1888, as attorney, and as councilor three years later.

Mr. Depue began the law practise in Newark in 1891, forming a partnership with Chauncey G. Parker, under the firm name of Depue & Parker. The partnership was dissolved in 1898, when Mr. Depue became identified with Mr. Lindabury, preliminary to the foramtion of the firm as at present.

During the year 1895 Mr. Depue was city attorney of Newark, and at one time was an assistant United States district attorney.

In politics Mr. Depue was a Republican. He early attained prominence in the practise of law. His ability was of a high order, and he was the possessor of a personality that made him many friends in private life.

On October 10, 1892, Mr. Depue married Miss Mabel Terry Norris, daughter of the late Thomas B. and Mary M. Norris, the latter now the wife of Charles Borcherling. The widow and four children survive him. The children are David Ayres Sherrerd, Robert Norris and Mabel Norris. Three sisters, Mrs. Sidney N. Ogden, of Sterling; Miss Eliza Depue and Miss Frances A. Depue, the latter two of Newark, also survive.

NEW RULES GOVERNING TEACHERS CERTIFICATES

Deputy State Commissioner of Education J. Brognard Betts, of North Plainfield, yesterday gave out the new rules as adopted at the meeting of the State Board of Education affecting teachers' certificates.

The new law abolished the authority of the county or the city examiners to issue provisional certificates, and made all certificates of teachers issued by the State Board of Examiners. This threw a lot of work on the State department at Trenton, and the board has lightened it by naming the county and city superintendents agents of the examiners of the State to issue these provisional certificates. A provisional certificate is issued to a teacher to teach when she has been engaged by a school board to teach at a time between the dates of examinations for teachers. It is only good until the examination date is reached. The county and the city examiners, as they existed before the last winter amendment to the law became effective, did this work, but the new law swept them out of existence and the State department was flooded with so much business that the board had to take this method to get the work done. The members of the board thought that the county and the city superintendents were better informed with local conditions and therefore could work well as agents of the State examiners, hence the rule.

Other amendments to the rules omit minerology as necessary for an elementary certificate, and the school law is omitted in the future from all examinations for certificates. Certificates can be issued for stenography or typewriting teaching or other vocational work, and the new agents can issue such provisional certificates.

There was some doubt on what certificate should be required of a vocational superintendent, but the board cleared that up by naming the certificate as one having to do with this special class of teaching.

The board also laid down the rule that an elementary certificate was all that was necessary for a school superintendent having but five teachers under him or her.

AUTUMN WEDDING

Miss Marjorie Irene Wilson Has Become Mrs. Lesley William Hallock

TWO CLERGYMEN OFFICIATE.

Ceremony at Crescent Avenue Presbyterian—Bride the Charming Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wilson.

Miss Marjorie Irene Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wilson, of Park Lane, and Lesley William Hallock, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Hallock, of Willow avenue, the borough, were married at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock last evening. There were nearly one thousand invitations issued to the affair, and the edifice was thronged with guests from New York, Brooklyn and other distant points as well as Plainfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, pastor of the Central Congregational church, Brooklyn, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church.

While the guests were arriving, Herbert Gulick, organist of the church, rendered a program of classical and popular selections, and he also played the wedding marches as the bridal party entered and left the church.

The bride was gowned in white satin with pearl trimmings and princess lace and she wore a tulle veil with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley, with sprays of orchids. The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Arthur W. Rinke, of Brooklyn, wore a gown of white satin with pearl trimmings and duchess lace and carried Killarney roses with a panel of lilies-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaids were Miss Caroline S. Martin, of this city, and Miss Anita Latson, of Brooklyn. Their gowns were of peach messaline, veiled with chiffon of the same color, with pearl trimmings and they carried Killarney roses with panels of violets.

The best man was Ralph E. Hallock, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Reginald Cauchois, of New York; William P. Cooke, Jr., of Brooklyn; DeWitt Brokaw and John Valiant, of North Plainfield.

As the bridal party entered the church, the ushers led the way followed by the bridesmaids, matron-of-honor and the bride, accompanied by her father, who gave her in marriage. They met the bridegroom and best man at the altar. The Episcopal ceremony was used. In leaving the edifice, Mr. and Mrs. Hallock led the way, followed by the other members of the bridal party.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Park Club, which was attended by about five hundred guests. Here Mr. and Mrs. Hallock received the congratulations of their relatives and friends. Muller's orchestra, of Brooklyn, furnished music for the reception, and the supper was served by Swain, of Brooklyn.

The decorations at both the church and reception were unusually attractive and were arranged by Wadley, the florist. At the church there was used palms, oak boughs and chrysanthemums, arranged about the pulpit and platform. The same style of decoration was used at the Park Club, the orchestra being seated on the stage behind the flowers.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome gifts. She formerly resided in Brooklyn with her parents, where she was a favorite in the younger society set and since coming to this city she has been popular here in society. The bridegroom is a graduate of Swarthmore College, class '07, and now holds an excellent position in the civil engineering department of the New Jersey Central. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in this city.

IN THE CITY COURT.

Victor Roach, of South Second street, was arrested yesterday for drunkenness and throwing stones at trains on the Central Railroad. He was allowed to go under a suspended sentence.

William Meyers, of South Plainfield, was arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct at West Front street and Madison avenue, last night. He said that he had colic and drank some whiskey, which while curing his ailment went to his head. Upon his promise to engage the service of a doctor the next time, sentence was suspended.

Edward Farley, of Tompkinsville, came to this city last night to visit some friends. They treated him so good that he was unable to find his way home and was locked up. He said that it would take him but a few minutes to get out of town if allowed to go and the chance was given him to make good.

MISS HILDA PFEISTER MR. UTZINGER'S BRIDE

Miss Hilda Pfeister, of New Brunswick, sister of William Pfeister, proprietor of the Somerset Hotel on Somerset street, and Herbert Utzinger, brother of Arthur J. Utzinger, of West End avenue, were quietly married in New Brunswick, today, and immediately left for Bermuda, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in New Brunswick, where the groom is employed in a large manufacturing plant.

The groom formerly resided at Clinton avenue and West Front street, and when his brother, Arthur J. Utzinger, was married, he removed to New Brunswick, where he has continued to live. Both the bride and groom are well-known here, where they have many friends.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. JOHN H. ROWLAND

The funeral services of Mrs. John H. Rowland were held at the late home on East Fifth street at 8 o'clock, last night, and were largely attended by relatives, friends and neighbors. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. He delivered an impressive funeral address on the subject, "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling," referring to Mrs. Rowland's expression of her belief in God and her acceptance of Jesus as her Saviour before her death. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

During the service William Holmes, baritone soloist of the First Baptist church choir, sang two selections in an impressive manner. This morning the remains were taken to Washington, Warren county, for burial in the family plot in Mansfield cemetery. A short service will be held at the grave as a number of relatives residing in or near Washington were unable to attend the service here last night.

AXE BLOW MANGLES A CHILD'S FINGERS.

Helen DeCamp, the two-year-old daughter of James DeCamp, of Linden avenue, barely escaped the loss of two fingers in an accident at her home Monday. The child was playing about a chopping block with her sister, Frances, aged four, and the latter began swinging an axe with the blade down. The younger child, inadvertently placed her hand on the block. A blow from the axe descended upon the digits, all but severing two of them. One hung by a shred of flesh, while the other was cut three-fourths through.

Dr. Carman was summoned and grafted the fingers together. They seemed to be knitting today with excellent chances of recovering unless complications develop.

Planning Thanksgiving Service.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association will hold its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon to plan for the Thanksgiving Day service. It is expected that there will be a service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church as usual on that day, but there will also be a similar service in one of the city churches on the north side of the railroad, to be decided tomorrow. The preacher will also be announced at that time.

RECOVER THE CHILD; TO EXTRADITE FORD

Little Amy Ford, the child who was taken away by her father, William F. Ford, three weeks ago, and hidden from her mother at New Brunswick, was located Monday in Fredericksburg, Maryland, and brought back to Mrs. Ford, who is living with her father, D. J. Van Horn, in Highland Park.

Ford, who once lived here, as stated in this paper Monday, was arrested in New York Saturday on a charge of desertion made by his wife. Mrs. Ford has not lived with her husband for years, and made this charge only after Ford took Amy away when she was on a visit to his mother in Plainfield. When arrested Ford told Ferguson that the child was in Fredericksburg and gave him authority to go and get her.

Notwithstanding that the child has been found, the case against Ford will be pressed. Detective Ferguson went to New York yesterday with the papers necessary to perfect an extradition, and the outlook is that Ford will have to return to New Brunswick for trial.

HOME-COMING SOCIAL AT PARK AVE. CHURCH.

There was a large attendance of members and friends at the "Home Coming Social" at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night, when activities were resumed for the winter months. Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor, was in charge of the program. There were several short addresses by ministers, and Mayor G. W. V. Moy gave a short talk on "The Eeforcement of the Law." He said that contrary to belief he had nothing to do with the making of city ordinances, his sole duty being to enforce them after they are adopted. This he had been trying to do since he went into office.

Rev. Dr. W. W. Pratt, who recently removed here from Philadelphia, spoke on his impressions of Plainfield and told of his pleasure in coming to this city. Rev. Dr. John F. Watts, of Lynn, Mass., who preached at the First Baptist church Sunday, also made a short address and George E. Hall made a few remarks.

Miss Edith Bechtle sang tow solos in an acceptable manner and a male quartet from the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, sang several selections. The program closed with prayer by Rev. Frank Fletcher.

FINE THEIR AGENT

Columbia Furniture Trading Co., of New York, Again Figures in Police Court.

THE MAYOR TAKES A HAND.

City Executive Says He Considers Their Business Unlawful—DeMeza to Protect Local Merchants.

Regardless of the fact that his firm had been warned last Saturday to discontinue doing business here, Isadore Winetrob, agent for the Columbia Furniture Trading Co., of New York, was arrested this morning by Patrolman McGinley for making several sales in the same manner that had brought his firm to the attention of the police last week. He was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve 20 days in the county jail.

Weintrob said that he had been told by B. E. Siegelstein, counsel for Osis Moskowitz, proprietor of the Columbia Furniture Trading Co., that it would be all right to continue the firm's operations, but when arrested he denied having made any sale of the stamps which is a part of the plan the concern has for collecting money in advance for furniture. In court he denied having told the officer anything of the kind, but the question had been asked in the presence of Chief Kiely, who heard the man's answer, and this hurt the credibility of the story about Mr. Siegelstein having said that everything was all right.

Judge DeMeza explained to Wientrob, that at the conference Mr. Siegelstein had been instructed to notify Mr. Moskowitz that the manner he has been doing business here was a violation of the city ordinance, inasmuch as the firm's agents were peddling without a license and this is the offence for which the fine was imposed. Judge DeMeza further declared that he proposed to protect the merchants of this city who pay taxes here and are doing a legitimate business without misrepresentation or overcharging their customers.

Weintrob was unable to pay his fine and was allowed to telephone to New York to his firm to send out a man with the money. The operations of the firm was called to the attention of Mayor Moy last week by a number of dissatisfied customers, who alleged that they had been unfairly treated. After investigating the different cases he wrote to the firm and in response to his letter Mr. Siegelstein was sent here last Saturday. After being in conference with the chief executive and Judge DeMeza, Mr. Siegelstein gave out a statement. Mayor Moy said that he thought the operations of the firm in this city were unlawful and that he proposed to bring the matter to the attention of the Grand Jury.

Y.M.C.A. SCHEDULES COLUMBUS DAY EVENTS

Providing the weather conditions are favorable tomorrow, the plans arranged for the celebration of the Columbus Day holiday at the Y. M. C. A. will be carried out and should prove to be as beneficial as pleasant.

Each boy will carry his own lunch. The regular class work for the day will be suspended and all the boys who go on the hike will have the regular time for a swim on their return. C. William Bingeman will accompany a group of older boys and high school boys on an over-night camping party. They will leave Wednesday evening and camp out all night and return to the building after preparing their breakfast where they stop.

STORK ON TRAIN ADDS 1 TO OUR POPULATION

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Fraker, of Spray, N. C., who have leased William A. Pinto's residence on West Eighth street, for the winter months, are parents of a fine boy who was born to them a few days ago while Mrs. Fraker was coming from her southern home to Plainfield. The arrival of the youngster necessitated the stopping of the train at one of the southern cities and Dr. M. L. Rea, of the University of Virginia, and a trained nurse were summoned. Dr. Rea accompanied the mother and child as far as Washington and the trained nurse came on through to this city.

Mrs. Fraker and her son were met at the Pennsylvania station at Metuchen by the ambulance from this city and taken to their new home, where they were reported today as doing well. Mr. Fraker is the president of the Carolina Cotton and Woollens' Company, and is well known throughout the south. Mrs. Fraker is the daughter of Judge William Warren, formerly of Illinois, who was a personal friend of President Lincoln.

MENTALLY UNBALANCED HE SCARES A FAMILY

The police were called to Otto Arens' home on Rahway road yesterday to arrest a stranger whose antics had attracted the attention of the family. He appeared to be demented and had partly disrobed and plunged into a pond on the Arens' place. When Patrolman Dobson arrived he could find no trace of the man but a few hours later the stranger again made his appearance and again went through much the same performance.

The second time Mr. Arens happened to be at home and with several of his men made the man captive until the arrival of Chief Kiely, who took him to headquarters. The prisoner seemed to be suffering from the hallucination that fifteen men, as he gave the number, were seeking him with designs on his life. In frustrating them the prisoner said that he had slain seven and then took to the pond knowing that they would not follow him into the water. He was identified as John Coon, of West Second street.

After arriving at police headquarters, Chief Kiely was called away and during his absence Dr. Pittis called on Coon saying that he had been a patient of his in Muhlenberg Hospital. Mayor Moy was notified and ordered Coon's release in custody of the physician.

The authorities at the institution said today that Coon had been a patient but had refused to remain and had not been brought back. Dr. Pittis stated that the unfortunate man had been placed by him in charge of his brother, who resides on Watchung avenue.

Several months ago when Charles Clifford, colored, of Manning avenue, was struck and killed on Park avenue by an automobile driven by Charles Wilson, of Camden, he was in company with Mr. Coon, who was also hit by the machine and slightly injured in addition to being thrown into a highly nervous condition bordering on collapse. His family is of the opinion that that shock and his recent illness have unbalanced his mind.

Surprised Joseph Green.

A surprise party was tendered to Joseph Green, at his home on East Seventh street, last evening in honor of his seventeenth birthday. The affair was arranged by the Misses Alacia O'Loughlin and Josephine Quinn. There was about thirty-five guests present from New York, Elizabeth, Scotch Plains and this city. The host was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents. The evening was passed in playing games, and at a late hour refreshments were served. The guests departed after having assured the host that they had enjoyed a most delightful evening and wishing him many happy returns of the day.

United States Senator James E. Martine, together with Congressman W. E. Tuttle, Jr., and Assemblyman Lloyd Thompson, were among the speakers at the dedication of the handsome new borough hall at Roselle yesterday afternoon. The program was arranged by Mayor Charles W. MISS HELEN R. HOOLEY TO WED E. P. SHARRETS

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of the borough, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen R. Hooley, to Edward P. Sharrets, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad. S. Sharrets, of West Seventh street. No date has been set for the wedding, but it will probably take place in a year.

Miss Hooley, like her sister, Mrs. Brown Rolston, whose marriage occurred several months ago, is a favorite in the younger society circles and although she has never taken any active part in horse shows, she has always been an interested spectator. She is very fond of all outdoor sports. Mr. Sharrets is also well known here and is fond of athletics.

NOTED JERSEYMEN TO SPEAK AT DINNER

Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, will celebrate Columbus Day, Thursday, with a banquet at the Hotel Waldorf on East Front street. Elaborate preparations have been made to make the affair one well worthy to commemorate the memory of him for whom the order is named. The list of speakers includes United States Senator James E. Martine, Hon. Vivian M. Lewis, State Banking Commissioner; Hon. James Baker, of Jersey City; Hon. C. L. McGlennon, of Bayonne; Andrew E. Kenney, of the borough; former City Judge William N. Runyon, and Edward J. Sweeney, of Bayonne. George J. Tobin will preside as toastmaster.

It is expected that there will be nearly two hundred diners. The decorations will be one of the features, consisting of a generous display of things for which the Emerald Isle is noted, and Erin's flags, with the golden harp emblazoned thereon, entwined with the Stars and Stripes. The diners will be seated at 7:30 o'clock.

ASSESSMENTS MUST BE AT HIGHEST VALUE

Upholding the view of the local assessors of Rahway as against that of the Union County Tax Board, the State Board of Equalization of Taxes has set aside the action of the county board in reducing an assessment on property of the Middlesex Water Company from $14,450 to $8,475. The State Board, however, ordered that $2,000 be stricken from the original assessment of the city because it did not appear that a portion of the property represented by that amount belonged to the water company.

The essential principle upon which the State Board based its conclusion was that property must be assessed at the highest value it possesses whether it is actually used for the purpose that would give it the greatest value or not. The property involved is a tract of land covered by water within the corporate limits of Rahway and comprising what was formerly a mill site. The water company acquired the right of flowage through a head and tail race. It abandoned its use as a mill site and because of this abandonment contended that the value of the property had been depreciated.

Two Women and a Cow.

Mrs. John Schweitzer, of West Sixth street, caused her neighbor, Mrs. Johanna Woods, to be arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning. The cause was an argument the women had over a cow. It belongs to Mrs. Schweitzer and Mrs. Wood said that it was roaming about her yard. This the former denied and asserted that the animal could not enter her neighbor's yard because it was tied. Judge DeMeza gave both some good advice, calculated to make it possible for them to reside peacefully in the same locality and gently warned them to follow it and avoid trouble.

Parker Field Open on Holidays.

Charles R. Bostwick, manager of Parker Field, wishes to announce that the playground will be open for the use of children from 3 to 4 o'clock tomorrow, Columbus Day and on Election Day, as well as other days. The apparatus is ready for use every afternoon. The Plainfield High School football team will use the gridiron tomorrow afternoon when it will play Bound Brook High.

Dental Society to Meet.

The Plainfield Dental Society will hold its quarterly meeting and banquet at The Homestead, tonight, at which time Dr. Wheeler, of New York, will make an address.

TO RESTORE LAKE

H. L. Pierce Buys New Market Mill Property and Will Build New Dam.

OLD ONE WAS WASHED OUT.

Village's Main Attraction Lost By the Rushing Out of Water—Afforded Amusement for Many Plainfielders.

Residents of New Market and vicinity, as well as many from this city, will receive with much appreciation the news that the lake at the village will soon be restored to its former beauty. The change is to be brought about through the purchase of the Middlesex Water Company mill property by Herbert L. Pierce, a well known former local business man, who purposes to resume operations in grist grinding and general milling. The deal was put through several days ago and the work of reconstruction and overhauling is to commence at once.

The New Market lake was one of the prettiest water sheets in the vicinity of Plainfield and hundreds of local people enjoyed the boating, fishing and bathing it afforded. The larger part of the pond, or the lake proper, covered about fifty acres, fed by a winding stream, overhung with trees and making a picturesque row as far as Samptown, a distance of three miles. In warm weather the upper part of the brook, as it was called, was a rendezvous for Plainfield boys who wanted an afternoon plunge. "Fiddler's elbow" and the "Iron bridge," where the Lehigh Valley Railroad crosses over, were the favorite swimming holes.

All these attractions were swept away when the dam at the lower end of the lake was demolished last winter by an unusually heavy rush of water and ice. Since then, what was once New Market's chief attraction has been an unsightly mud flat, relieved on one side by a limpid creek, barely deep enough to afford a home for the few surviving fish. There were spasmodic attempts on the part of the citizens to have the dam rebuilt but they resulted only in talk. It was estimated then that it would cost $1,000 to put up a proper barrier to hold back the water.

The problem was solved by Mr. Pierce's purchase of the property. His title conveys the water right covering the lake area. The new owner formerly conducted a grocery store in the village, disposing of it a short time ago. He closed a contract for the rebuilding of the dam yesterday, and the work is to begin this week.

Loses Another Horse.

John Voehl, the Somerset street baker, who has been having hard luck with horses, lost another animal last night. It was stricken with colic on Watchung avenue, between Pearl and Chatham streets, and a veterinarian declared its case hopeless. The horse was shot by Marshal Schenck. Mr. Voehl lost a horse three weeks ago and another was badly burned by the fire in his barn Monday night.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were dull and generally higher yesterday in New York.

Mrs. Ida Von Claussen was committed to Bellevue for observation as to her sanity.

Two more bodies were taken from the flood ruins at Austin, Penn., making the total death list sixty-six.

The Senate committee investigating the election of United States Senator Lorimer resumed its hearings in Chicago.

A Barton Hepburn, the banker, returned from a five week's bear hunting trip to Canada and reported that he failed to get even a shot.

C. P. Rodgers made the world's distance record for aviators, landing in Marshall, Mo., covering 1,338 miles in his flight from coast to coast.

An industrial council for the conciliation of labor disputes was appointed by the British government with Sir George Askwith as chairman.

The Federal Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction of C. R. Heike and Ernest Gerbracht for defrauding the government of customs duties on sugar.

Eugene A. Philbin said a citizens' committee would be formed, if necessary, to prevent the naval militia from building an armory in Riverside Park.

Men interested in Argentine affairs held a conference at which speakers urged the merchants of this country to make greater efforts to sell goods in Argentina.

The Massachusetts Superior Court held that Mrs. Eddy, was a non-resident, so no inheritance tax could be collected from the Christian Scientist's estate.

President Taft addressed great crowds in Washington, speaking in Seattle on the arbitration treaties and in Tacoma on the government and business.

The city of Berlin met a wave of high prices by going into business as a wholesale food merchant; the retailers bound themselves to sell at a fixed price commodities purchased from the city.

After witnessing the decapitation of four bomb makers in WuChang, several Chinese soldiers went over to the revolutionaries; communication with Wu-Chang is cut off.

Argument on the so-called hard coal cases, in which the government alleges conspiracy to monopolize trade in anthracite, was begun in the United States Supreme Court.

The Portuguese royalists defeated the government troops in a fight near the Galician frontier; peasant women, led by priests, endeavored to arouse zeal for the monarchist cause.

The Court of Appeals held that the Levy election law's provisions relating to personal registration in small towns and limiting the printing of a name only once on a ballot, thereby preventing fusion, were unconstitutional.

A force of three thousand Turks attempted to recapture Tripoli, but was repelled, the guns from the battleships aiding the Italian defenders; an Italian squadron surprised a Turkish destroyer flotilla near Mitylene and sank four of the vessels.

DEMOCRACY IS PLEADED FOR BY GOVERNOR.

Trenton, Oct. 11.—Governor Woodrow Wilson declared in a powerful peroation here Monday night that the spirit of the American people has now awakened from a long sleep and that a new age has come.

"This spirit has simply allowed itself to be lulled to sleep by all sorts of narcotics, chiefly the opium of successful business," he said; "but now it has shaken itself free from sleep, and woe unto the man that withstands it; woe unto the party that withstands it; woe unto the man that does not understand it and take into his lungs the fine afflatus that it will supply him with for the purification and elevation of his life."

The Governor found himself in a trying situation. In the first place, probably partly because Governors are no novelty in Trenton and partly because the campaign has gathered no impetus whatever yet in Trenton, there were not more than 1,200 people at the meeting. Taylor's opera house is a big structure that can seat 1,900, and the empty seats were by no means inspiring after the Governor's triumphal tour through South Jersey.

WARNS NEW JERSEY OF SOME UNRIPE FRUIT

Warnings regarding large consignments of green fruit about to be shipped into New Jersey from Florida in alleged violation of the pure food laws, were received at Trenton Monday. The matter was referred to the State Board of Health and will be taken up today.

The warning was received in a telegram reading as follows:

"Notwithstanding over two years of strenuous efforts for the prevention of shipments of green oranges, which efforts included securing a special Florida law forbidding it, many shortsighted, unscrupulous shippers are arranging to soon flood the country with poisonous green oranges, masquerading as food, to Florida's shame. We want your assistance in annihilating this infamous traffic in health and lives of children and invalids. Can we secure your cooperation by your warning all health officers in cities in your State to maintain vigilant, rigid inspection, with seizures, condemnation and destruction, of all unripe Florida oranges arriving within the next thirty days, contrary to pure food laws? As premium to faithful ones we will pay reward of $100 to inspector discovering first car destroyed in your State for such violation of pure food laws. Please wire answer collect."

Dr. R. B. FitzRandolph, chief of the division of food and drugs of the State Board of Health, said the Federal decision regarding artificially ripened fruit seemed to pave the way for action by the State. He said it was hardly probable that the government would permit shipments such as described in the telegrams to be made from Florida.

SISTERS AT WAR OVER REMOVAL OF A FENCE.

Rockaway, Oct. 11.—The removal of a line fence about 500 feet long has caused a bitter feeling between two sisters, Mrs. John Ryan and Mrs. John Martin, and the former threatens to go to law to find out, she says, what are her rights.

The fence was torn down a few days ago by Mrs. Martin's son, Bernard, who, it is declared, acted on the advice of John H. Neighbor, of Dover, a surveyor and lawyer. Mrs Martin says that the fence was on her property, while Mrs. Ryan is equally certain that it did not encroach on her sister's land.

Eighteen years ago, when the mother of the two sisters died, she left her property, consisting of about twenty-five acres of land and a dwelling house to be divided share and share alike. Mr. Neighbor was called in as a surveyor, and he set off each sister's portion of land. He placed stakes along the line to show where the division should be.

About two weeks ago Mrs. Ryan decided that she would have a fence put up on what she considered her property, and accordingly it was built. Mrs. Martin claims that Mrs. Ryan did not follow the lines of the original survey, but instead set the fence on her (Mrs. Martin's) property, thereby taking in about two acres of land which did not belong to her.

The first thing Mrs. Martin did when she saw the fence up was to consult counsel, and on the advice of Mr. Neighbor, she declares, she instructed her son to tear down the fence. This he did, placing the posts and rails over on Mrs. Ryan's side.

"Mr. Neighbor told me," said Mrs. Martin, "that Mrs. Ryan had set her fence on my land. He advised me to have Bernard take it down, and that if any arrests were made it would be easy to secure bail for my son.'"

"BLACK HAND" FOR OFFICIAL.

The Westfield police and private detectives are endeavoring to ascertain the source of a letter, thought to be of "Black Hand" origin, which was sent to Building Inspector Frank Moffett, of Westfield, a few days ago. The missive was found on the front porch step at the inspector's home.

It is the general belief that the letter is the result of Mr. Moffett's activity in enforcing the local building code. Recently he held up the construction of several dwellings in which foreigners were interested and in that way may have incurred their enmity.

The letter was written on a sheet of paper of poor quality, evidently torn from a book, is filled with threats of vengeance on Mr. Moffett and members of his family.

NOW IT'S THE WILSON APPLE.

Harmony, Oct. 11.—Fruit men in Warren county are interested in the experiments Darius Easterday has been making in the fruit line at his farm in Harmony Township. He has an orchard of more than four hundred trees of various kinds of fruit.

Two trees have attracted unusual interest. One is a pear tree, only three feet high. It bore fifteen large-sized pears of fine quality this season. Another is on apple tree, only four feet high. It contains four apples, the largest being thirteen inches in circumference. Mr. Easterday calls it the Woodrow Wilson apple, because, as he says, it is a wonder.

BASEBALL IN '42

George Stevens, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who is visiting his brother, John L. Stevens, of Clinton avenue, wrote the following verses which show that the only George Orlando Stevens of West Sixth street, is not the sole member of the family who is a cracker-jack rhymster:

I took the Polo in today an' saw the Giant's nine
A-strugglin' with a game o' ball in regermentals fine,
An' gosh! I hankered awfully, afore the game was through,
To let them fellers know just how we played in forty-two.

We didn't wear no cages then, nor nothin' o' the sort
To keep the bugs away, nor nary mittens when we caught;
We pared ourselves an' scooped 'em in, no matter how they flew,
With hands that warn't afeard o' bein' hurt in forty-two.

We didn't take a baluster an' sorter hover near
An' split the climate when the ball was two feet in the rear;
Well scarcely! We'd jist gage the thing an' let her go kerflop
With that thar press-board that we gleaned from Wes'cott's tailor shop.

They talk about thar pitchers, too; they haint got nary one;
They slam 'em overhand, the same as shootin' from a gun,
Afeard, I vum, to let the hitter have a chance to do
His part an' hit the ball jist like we did in forty-two.

We didn't then curtail the sphear our gladiators fit in,
An' chalk off half the arth an' say it warn't for them to hit in,
No sir! When some old cat came out to give the ball a whack
We let him thump her anywhere within the zodyack.

We didn't. nuther, have to have an empire to shout
An' tell us when we had or hadn't put some feller out,
We knowed it, an' he knowed it, too, for when we burned him hot
He'd hover round, an' then an' thar he'd stop an' scratch the spot.

An' how it makes me cackle when I stop an' draw the line
'Twix tallies that we made an' them o' that thar Polo nine,
They struggled all the arternoon, a-sweatin' through an' through,
An' one side nary tally made, an' tother only two.

Euripedes! I'd like to had 'em see that game we played
With that ar Gallynipper Club from Huckleberry Glade;
We fit from 9 A. M. till just about the set o' sun
An' they made ninety-six an' we a hundred'n eighty-one.

O shucks! That was jimnastics with a double-headed J;
It warn't no dress-parade like these here Giants has today,
No contrack job, but all day's work that we war puttin' through,
An' settin up a record they ain't beat since forty-two.

Plainfield, N. J., October 11, 1911.

In the death of Sherrard Depue, of Newark, North Plainfield suffers a distinct loss for it was that brilliant lawyer who so thoroughly and satisfactorily made each successive legal move in the borough's effort to obtain a sanitary sewage disposal system. The first set-back in that direction came when Governor Wilson, much to the surprise of North Plainfield's citizens, vetoed legislation which would have permitted the municipality to have that sorely needed improvement and now that Mr. Depue who had entire charge of the legal end of the proposition for which $100,000 was long since voted, has passed away the borough's plight is a sad one indeed.

It seems hardly possible that the public in general realizes the importance to them of the petition filed with the Common Council to permit a concern to install a huge gasolene storage tank above ground. Aside from the fact that such a structure would be almost as much a disfigurement to surrounding property as is the unsightly gas tank at Fourth street and the railroad tracks, the fire risk in the vicinity would be increased. The petitioners propose to erect a tank having a capacity of some forty or fifty thousand gallons of gasolene and it appears strange that there are some members of the Common Council who would allow this to be done. Those members insisting if the petition is to be granted at all that the tank be placed underground and properly protected have taken the right course and it is hoped that they will continue to oppose the petition in its present form.

Quartet Makes a Hit.

The bill at Proctor's theatre the first half of the week includes a singing act that has made a big hit locally. It is the number by the Knickerbocker quartet, recently completing an engagement at the Folies Bergeri, and now touring the Proctor circuit. It is composed of Ted Westhus, Ernest Collins, Wallace Nudringhaus and Glenn Eastman, each of whom possesses a splendid voice. When the four are combined, the harmony is perfect and the act never fails to get a big hand.

Suit for Wages.

In the action brought by Mrs. Anna Leighton against John R. Truell to recover $75 alleged to be due as wages, Judge Newcorn in the District court today awarded the plaintiff $12.42, which amount Mr. Truell had offered her at the time he dismissed her from his employ.

NEW JERSEY SYNOD BEGINS ON TUESDAY

The eighty-ninth annual meeting of the Synod of New Jersey will be held in the First Presbyterian church of Atlantic City, beginning Tuesday, October 17, at 4 o'clock.

Popular conferences on missions are to begin the previous evening and continue through Tuesday until the time of the opening of Synod. Home and foreign missions are to be included in each of the three sessions. Among those who are to take part are: The Rev. Dr. A. W. Halsey, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions; the Rev. Samuel McLanahan, Synodical superintendent of Home Missions for New Jersey; the Rev. Dr. Hugh B. MacCauley, secretary of the Eastern Division of the Inter-Church Federation; the Rev. John T. Kerr, Elizabeth; the Rev. W. I. Swallen, Korea, and others.

The retiring moderator is the Rev. Dr. W. W. Knox, of New Brunswick. It is probable that the incoming moderator will be from the Presbytery of West Jersey.

On the docket are the appointment of eight standing committees. The report of the committee on Synodical home missions will occupy the attention of Synod Wednesday morning, the Rev. Samuel McLanahan, chairman, and William P. Stevenson, Roselle, treasurer. There are ten permanent committees to present reports, among them being that on temperance, by the Rev. Joseph Howell.

There are these special committees upon the docket: Evangelistic Work, by the Rev. Linius L. Strock; Inter-Church Federation, the Rev. Dr. Henry Collin Minton.

Wednesday afternoon resolutions upon the centennial of Princeton Theological Seminary are to be presented, in connection with these an address will probably be made by the Rev. Dr. Francis Landey Patton, president of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

The alumnia of the seminary are to hold a banquet Wednesday evening, when addresses will be made by President Patton and others.

The docket will require Synod to remain in session through Thursday afternoon, at least. The Rev. Dr. W. A. Brooks, of Trenton, is stated clerk, the Rev. Dr. John T. Kerr, of Elizabeth, is recording clerk, the Rev. Julius H. Wolff, of Newark, is permanent clerk, and the Rev. Dr. Eben B. Cobb is treasurer.

TIE CANDIDATES MAY RUN INDEPENDENTLY

That it is possible for both John W. Doremus and Charles Clark, who are tied for Republican Township Committeeman of Union Township, the recount showing the tie to remain to run independently was stated Monday. Or it would be perfectly possible for the men involved to settle the matter between themselves, if they so willed, it is claimed. The case is paralleled in Essex county, where Frank L. Driver and August L. LaCombe are tied for the candidacy for the new small board of freeholders.

Saturday morning Justice James J. Bergen, of the Supreme Court, refused to give a ruling on the report presented to him by the Union county Board of Elections, saying that it was not within the power of the court to change the decision of the election board. Therefore the ruling of the board that the vote is a tie is final.

The candidates have not stated what their intentions are, but according to the statement made yesterday morning by Robert H. McAdams, of the Union County Board of Elections, in connection with the Essex county matter, it is allowable for the men to run independently or to decide the question between themselves. Just what action they will take has not been learned, but it is expected that they will reach a compromise before long.

FOURTH MAN ACQUITTED.

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 11.—The fourth acquittal of persons indicted for the burning of Zach Walker, the negro murderer, at Coatesville, on August 13, took place in court here Monday.

"Not guilty," was the verdict in the case of Joseph Schofield, of Parkersburg, who had been charged with participation in the burning of Walker. Norman Price, who turned State's evidence, testified that he saw Schofield carrying wood for the fire in which the negro was burned after being dragged from the hospital fastened to his cot. There was no corroboration, however. The trial occupied the entire day, and at 5:20 p. m. Judge Butler directed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty and the prisoner was discharged.

Mrs. Winfred C. Cram, of East Second street, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. B. Lynch, of Washington, N. J.

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

BERKELEY HEIGHTS.

Frank C. Shaffer, one of the Township Committeemen of New Providence township, was appointed by that body at its meeting held in the Berkeley Lyceum last evening, as collector of taxes to succeed Augustus M. Layat, who resigned on October 6, on account of ill health. Shaffer's appointment is good until the first of January, 1912, he has filed a petition with the municipal clerk to have his name placed on the election ballot as a regular Republican candidate to succeed himself as collector. It was necessary for Shaffer to resign from the township committee, however, before accepting the collectorship.

William Jeffery, the chairman of the committee, pointed out the desirability of increasing the collector's bonds from $3,000 to $5,000 and that none but surety company bonds would be approved by the committee. He said that the receipts from taxes had increased commensurately with the development of the township and that in his opinion, the people would require a bond for at least $5,000. It was so ordered.

Jeffery, who was appointed to succeed Henry S. Fullerton, entered upon his duties on the committee last July, and was immediately chosen chaiman by his fellow members, E. B. Oechsner and Frank C. Shaffer. Fullerton was elected to serve until January 1, 1914, and Jeffery's appointment is good only untill January 1, 1912, but he was willing to step aside for someone else to be elected to succeed him. However, owing to the vacancy caused by Mr. Shaffer's appointment to the collectorship, Jeffery has been asked by the people of the township to stand for election to fill out the unexpired term of Frank C. Shaffer, so he has filed a petition requesting the regular Republican designation for the candidacy.

The proposed ordinances to cover dobs and cattle, were rescinded and it was resolved to take up the matter after January first with the new committee.

The next meeting of the committee will be held on the second Friday instead of the first Friday of November at which meeting the successful candidates for the committeeship will be appointed to fill out the balance of the year.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT IN THE P.H.S. SERIES

Several brilliant matches were played in the P. H. S. tennis tournament which was continued yesterday. Perhaps the best match was that between Phillip VanDeventer and Stanley Bellows and Esty Foster and Seward Lyons, the first named pair winning. Victory did not come, however, until after a long uphill struggle of three sets.

The winning pair took the first set by their strong stroke and accurate placing by a score of 6-2. Lyons and Foster won the next set by their snappy playing and good team work by a score of 9-7. The deciding set went to VanDeventer and Bellows by a score of 6-4, after a series of long rallies.

Jack Zerega beat Franklyn Newell in singles in an exciting match by a score of 8-6, 6-0, and Warren Butler won from Curtis Dall in two evenly played sets by scores of 6-4, 6-4. Inon White and Allen Daggett easily defeated Raymond Manley and John Cottrell by a score of 6-2, 6-1.

The mixed doubles match between Esther Phillips and Allen Daggett vs. Pauline Gates and Warren Butler was postponed until tomorrow. Each have won a set. The summary of yesterday's matches:

Boys' singles—Jack Zerega beat Franklyn Newell, 8-6, 6-0; Warren Butler beat Curtis Dall, 6-4, 6-4. Boys' doubles—Phillip VanDeventer and Stanley Bellows beat Esty Foster and Seward Lyons, 6-2, 7-9, 6-4; Allen Daggett and Inon White beat Raymond Manley and John Cottrell, 6-2, 6-1.

GOVERNOR SUGGESTS TAX SYSTEM CHANGES

Several radical recommendations affecting tax matters in this State are contained in a report which was submitted to Governor Wilson Monday by the New Jersey delegates to the annual conference on State and Municpal Taxation, held at Richmond, Va. The Jersey delegates were Frank B. Jess and Edward E. Grosscup, of the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes, and O. C. Bogardus, of the State Board of Taxation. Delegates were present from all parts of the country.

As the result of what they learned at the conference the Jersey delegates make these recommendations:

"First—That so far as practicable local assessment districts should be consolidated so that assessment work could be conducted thoroughly and systematically in all districts, as is now done in a few cities.

"Second—That a uniform rate of taxation and fixed basis of assessment on bank shares be adopted.

"Third—That the question of substituting some forms of specific taxes for the unequal and ineffective personal property assessment be considered.

"Fourth—That the Legislature consider the advisability of exempting household furniture from assessment."

BETHLEHEM SHEPHERDS FLOCKING AT SEASHORE.

Asbury Park, Oct. 11.—About 300 delegates to the national convention of the Shepherds of Bethlehem, a secret benevolent order, which has 32,000 members, assembled in this city yesterday. Mayor Appleby welcomed them at the opening session, which was held in the Coleman House, where most of the delegates are registered for their four days' visit.

While the business of the convention relates purely to the interests of the order, the sessions being secret, it is stated that the main object of the gathering is to devise a plan placing an $8,000 mortgage on the society's home at Haddonfield. The election of officers is another important feature of the assembly. Mrs. Anna Griffiths and Edward Morrisbr, both of Philadelphia, are conducting an active battle for supreme treasurer. A supreme commander and vice commander will also be elected.

The Shepherds were founded at Trenton twenty years ago.

GUARD OFFICER CHATS WITH CAPTIVE BURGLAR.

Rahway, Oct. 11.—Hiding behind the furnace, a burglar was found and held Sunday night in the home of Captain F. I. Perry, in Rahway avenue, Woodbridge. A member of the household discovered the intruder on going to bank the furnace for the night.

Captain Perry went to the cellar while a telephone call was sent to the police station. Armed with a revolver the captain commanded the burglar to be seated. The two sat and conversed in the cellar until a policeman arrived.

Numerous robberies have been reported in the neighborhood lately. The police believe the apprehension of the burglar, who is said to be an ex-convict, will stop complaints. Captain Perry, a New York National Guard officer, is a Manhattan salesman.

PLAYMATES' THREATS DROVE BABE TO DEATH.

Passaic, Oct. 11.—Afraid to follow her companions in jumping over a pile of burning rubbish Monday, Grace Walsh, four years old, hung back. "Jump or we'll throw you in," an older child is said to have threatened. Grace tried the jump, stumbled and fell into the fire. Her mother, hearing the other children shriek as they fled, pulled the baby away from the flames. The child was fatally burned and died four hours later. Mrs. Walsh was terribly burned in the futile effort to save the child and may die.

The little girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh. She was playing in the street near her home, her mother watching her from the house.

AFTER UNLICENSED DOCTORS.

Paterson, Oct. 11.—Three physicians, Dr. Walter B. Johnson, Dr. John S. Yates and Dr. Benjamin H. Rogers, appeared before the grand jury Monday afternoon to submit testimony regarding the so-called physicians of this city, who, it is claimed, practise medicine without being registered, as the law provides.

The doctors were not the only witnesses. They brought with them a number of women, who had been treated by the unlicensed doctors, to testify that medicine had been prescribed for them by the men against whom complaint is being made before the jury.

Last spring detectives were engaged by the prosecutor to make an investigation, and one of these was a woman, who went under treatment of several doctors, it is said, and then demanded receipted bills for money she paid them. These bills are now being used as evidence against the practitioners.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

Plainfield People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakoble that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy or Bright's disease. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Plainfield:

Miss Lena Wahl, 335 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills highly. They did me so much god when I was suffering from pains in my back caused by disordered kidneys that I think there is nothing like them. The promptness with which Doan's Kidney Pills disposed of my trouble was surprising and gratifying. They not only removed the pain and lameness but strengthened my kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

The Square Pot Furnace concentrates the heat
Concentrates it on the inside of the house—nothing but the smoke escapes up the chimney.
The patented square bottom fire pot makes a slight twist of the shaker all that is necessary to remove the ashes from the grate—they fall at the sides as perfectly as in the center.

The square fire pot in the Square Pot increases the fire surface 10% to 15% over other furnaces of the same size. This makes it the most economical furnace in existence.

He Was Cured.

A chap once consulted a famous physician about his dyspepsia. The patient was very deaf. The dialogue between the physician and he ran like this:

"What do you usually breakfast on?"

"Oh, no! At least two miles in the morning and a motor ride after lunch."

"How many hours do you sleep?"

"Well, doctor, I was fifty-nine my last birthday."

"Are you married?"

"Thirst."

With a gesture of impatience, the physician turned and wrote out a simple remedy for dyspepsia. The patient, as he departed, shouted in the loud, harsh tones of the very deaf:

"Doctor, can you cure deafness?"

The other shook his head in the negative.

"Well," said the patient, "you've been very kind, and therefore I'm going to make you a present of this prescription." He took a folded paper from his pocket. "It cured me."—New York Tribune.

Selling Papers on the Roof.

Not all enterprising newsboys are in the United States. The small street merchants of Paris, when forbidden to enter tramcars and omnibuses, got over the difficulty in real Yankee fashion. It was easy, of course, to sell papers through the windows to passengers seated in the vehicles, but how was it possible to reach would-be customers perched on the seats provided on the roof? A youth promptly solved the problem. He procured a stick seven or eight feet long, with wire clamps fastened to the sides. Papers were put in the clamps. On top of the stick there was a small cup with a hole in the bottom. The hole was an important part of the apparatus, for it reached all the way down, and through it came the copper coins of one or two sous, according to the price of the paper the patron selected when the boy held up the stick.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Louis' Compliment to Conde.

One need not overlook the enormous shortcomings of Louis XIV. as a man and as a king to admit that in some important respects he "tried to do his duty." He was a hardworking sovereign both in the sphere of administration and in that social sphere which was, to his mind, no less important. So courteous that he never passed the poorest woman about the palace without lifting his hat, he carried polite consideration to the level of a fine art. In the way of courteous speech there are few things nobler than his remark to the great Conde as the old hero was slowly ascending the great marble staircase at Versailles. Conde apologized for being so long in mounting the steps, at the top of which the king stood waiting. "Ah, cousin," Louis replied, "one moves slowly when one is laden with laurels."

Objected to the Publicity.

Man's instinctive and perfectly reasonable preference for reprimand delivered in private is illustrated by a story told by Lieutenant General Sir William Butler, G. C. B., in his "Autobiography."

A general commanding at Aldershot had been forcibly reprimanded by a royal commander in chief. He openly rebelled.

"I don't mind being called a fool," he said, "if it pleases your royal highness to call me so, but I do mind being called a fool before your royal highness' other fools," sweeping his hand toward the commander in chief's large and brilliant staff.

Sympathetic.

"By ginger!" roared Blithers wrathfully when his son informed him that he had flunked at college. "I'm blest if I know what to say. I"—

"I sympathize with you, dad," said Blithers, Jr., feelingly. "That's just the way it was with me when they asked me those blasted questions at examination!"—Harper's Weekly.

Wanted His Money's Worth.

Customer—I say, Mr. Barber, I don't hear your scissors at work on my hair. Barber (apologetically)—There is very little hair on your head, sir. Customer—That makes no difference. I pay my money and I want you to rattle the scissors on the bald place just the same as if I had hair on it.

Never Again.

"Only once have I spoken crossly to my wife," said a man to an intimate friend.

"Indeed!" remarked the latter in some surprise.

"Yes," said the first speaker, rather ambiguously; "once was quite enough for me."—Exchange.

He Did.

One day Andrew Lang, the author, asked Israel Zangwill, the author, to give his services for a charity benefit.

Zangwill replied in a note:

"If A. Lang will I. Zangwill."

A Sport For the Old.

Made It Warm.

"I got a cold supper when I went home tonight, and you bet I kicked about it."

"Did that do any good?"

"Well, my wife made it warm for me."

Do not take upon yourself a load of hatred. It is a heavier load than you think.—Mme. de Sevigne.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," I said, "I'll print a first page editorial, two columns wide and the length of the paper. When the people read that I don't think they'll question our motives."

"Good!" said Austin. "I think we ought to explain again just what we're trying to do, and spike this gossip for keeps."

As I look back on it now I can see that there was danger of creating the impression that Austin feared. I can also understand that any one reading this story as I have set it down might gather the same impression: Yet up to the day Austin talked to me about it I had never published an article that indicated that there was any spirit of vindictiveness behind it. I had always emphasized the fact that we were presenting the truth about the loss of advertising solely for the purpose of showing that we were determined to print the news that the reader was entitled to know, and to induce the reader to stick with us in order that we might ultimately get the advertising back again on a solid basis—that we might sell advertising as a merchant sells a sack of flour, because it is a good product, worth the price asked for it.

I worked from three o'clock in the afternoon until midnight on the two-column, page-length editorial, and when I had finally rewritten it for the last time I was satisfied that it would clear up any false idea as to our purpose in life. I began by quoting the declaration of the Constitution of the United States, guaranteeing the freedom of the press. I explained again that we were determined to print a newspaper in which nobody should have any privileges except the reader. I told why we had lost the Longman advertising, the Mills Brothers advertising, the Tuttle advertising and others. I frankly admitted that it remained for the people to say whether we should succeed or fail. I thanked the public for its support and cited our circulation, now grown to twenty thousand, as evidence of the public's appreciation of our efforts. My final sentences were these:

Do you, Mr. St. James Citizen, and you, Mrs. St. James Housewife want this newspaper to succeed, in order that you may know the truth about your city, or do you want it to fail?

If you want it to succeed and are not already a regular subscriber you will have to become one. Otherwise the influences that want to put us out of business will put us out of business.

If you want it to succeed and are already a regular subscriber, you will have to do more than keep on taking the paper. You will have to tell your friends what we have been telling you in this editorial, and you will have to see that they become subscribers too.

Otherwise the influences that want to put us out of business will put us out of business.

What is your verdict?

We printed the editorial, and received 1423 volunteer subscriptions as a direct result of it within four days. I never heard, and neither did Austin, another intimation that we were doing anything but what we claimed to be doing and what a careful reading of our paper showed we were doing—printing an honest, independent newspaper. From the time that big editorial was published our motives were not questioned, so far as I ever was able to discover. A great many people disagreed with us and some hated us, but our honesty and independence were universally conceded.

I felt the good effects of the editorial, which came as a sort of climax to our year's work, and I felt that the "why" of our efforts was beginning to be appreciated. I therefore approached the city election with considerable confidence. While I had been working on the case of the Tuttle business, Lane had been following up the municipal campaign with only suggestions of general character from me. He had done a good job, and the question of equable assessment and taxation had become the principal issue, with the fight directly sharply against the street-railway company. It was the practice of the city council to fix the assessments of the public service corporations, and for the assessor, who was actually charged with the duty of fixing the values, to accept the council's figures. Our fight, therefore, was directed toward the nomination by both parties of aldermanic candidates who would, if lected, increase the assessments of the street railway, light and power company. We did not select individual men and advocate their nomination, because there were half a dozen candidates for every place and it was impossible to ascertain which were best qualified. We urged the voters to turn out at the primaries and vote for the men they believed would do the things they wanted done.

We did not make a positive campaign even in the mayoralty and assessorship contests, as there were several candidates for the nominations in each party, and as nominations for mayor, assessor and other executive officers were made in conventions, composed of delegates elected at the primaries. We simply urged the election of honest, independent men as delegates.

The primaries were held from four to eight p. m. on April sixteenth, and the conventions were held at ten a. m. the next day. At about five minutes after eight on the sixteenth we discovered that we were hopelessly beaten, and if I had known then what I know now about municipal politics I never would have dreamed that we had the shadow of a chance to nominate and elect an honest city council, mayor and assessor.

Farcical Primaries.

The trouble was that the primaries were a farce. They were not regulated by law, but were conducted by the city central committees which, of course, were dominated by the street railway and Tuttle interests. Voting was by ballot, and the polling booths were in charge of judges and clerks selected because of their friendliness to the political business combination that was running the town. The actual voters—the mere citizens—might as well have stayed at home. As a matter of fact more of them participated in the primaries than had ever participated before, and if their ballots had found their way into the returns results would have been different.

At the Republican city convention the following day the platform was written by Fulton Tuttle—or rather, the resolutions committee received it already written from Tuttle's private secretary—and it was reported to the convention and adopted without the change of a comma. It did not contain one word about assessments and taxation. In just about the same manner the Democratic city convention received its platform from Tommy Van Dyke, and it also was silent where it should have been loudest.

None of the men who had been mentioned as candidates for mayor or assessor was nominated by either convention. Instead, the Republican convention named a dignified, eloquent and perfectly harmless retired lawyer, and the Democratic convention nominated a big, jolly, popular clothing merchant.

What happened that day to The Sun and to the few thousand voters of St. James who were struggling for political emancipation, who I had believed were numerous enough and strong enough to overthrow the old machine, was described in The Sun that afternoon in the following manner:

HEADS I WIN, TAILS YOU LOSE.

For Mayor

Republican candidate — Joseph Stillwell, retired lawyer, father-in-law of James Buchana, assistant general manager of the Tuttle Corporation. Harmless.

Democratic candidate — Fred Schneider, clothing merchant, first cousin of Gustavus Mueller, treasurer of the St. James Electric Railway, Light and Power Company. Dangerous.

For Assessor.

Republican candidate — Wilson Randall, real estate dealer, agent of the Tuttle properties in South St. James.

Democratic candidate — Bryan Parker, building contractor, former auditor of the St. James Electric Railway, Light and Power Company.

(Editor's Note—Be sure to shut your eyes when you vote).

The conventions ran so far into the afternoon that we were unable to present much more than the bare facts as to what had been done that day; but the following day I used the whole editorial page to tell the people of St. James just how they had been cheated. The title of the editorial was "A People Betrayed." In it I explained how the delegates had been elected and the conventions of both parties controlled by the Tuttle-Street Railway interests, how the candidates for aldermen had been nominated, and the will of the individual citizen had been set aside in the platforms adopted.

Hunting for a Brave Man.

Following my policy of tearing down only for the purpose of building up, I did not stop at denunciation of the methods by which the primaries and conventions had been controlled. I told the people how to free themselves. I explained that as long as municipal primaries and conventions were operated on a go-as-you-please plan by the city committees, free from the restrain of law, the Tuttles and Van Dykes of the community, seeking special privileges and personal gain—now immunity from taxation and at some other time something else—would get what they wanted. The remedy was the enactment of a state law that should throw all the legal protection provided at a general election about the voter who went to cast his ballot for the nomination of candidates for city offices. I declared that the voters should have the right to vote directly on candidates for all nominations, and that no selections should be made by conventions, even though the delegates to such conventions were elected at legalized primaries.

The way to get these facilities by which the actual voters of each party could nominate their own candidates by direct ballot, I pointed out, was to send to the State legislature men who would work for the passage of a bill containing these provisions.

In the same editorial I launched a campaign for a new city charter.

The afternoon of the day following the conventions I assumed the role of Mr. Diogenes, took my lantern in hand and went in quest of independent candidates. I found plenty of men who were honest and raved over the outrages of the twin forces of evil in St. James, but when I suggested the object of my visit they threw up their hands. I interviewed forty-two influential business and professional men. I found thirty-eight who agreed with every utterance of The Sun and myself, and declared it was imperative that independent candidates be brought out for mayor and for assessor; but not one of them had the courage of his convictions.

"I should be ruined and run out of this town if I attempted any such thing," said one man, a retail clothing merchant, the principal competitor of Fred Schneider. "I bank at the Second National, and if I became a candidate for mayor my line of credit would go glimmering."

"But you could change your account to another bank," I told him. "The Tuttles don't control all the banks in town, do they?"

"Not directly, no; but you can bet your last nickel that if I went to fighting Tuttle in politics I'd have a mighty hard time to get money when I needed it. And that wouldn't be all either. The whole police force, the building inspectors, the fire marshal and everybody else connected with the city government would swoop down on me and harass me with prosecution—or persecution—for alleged violations of petty ordinances and regulations, whether I was guilty or not. My assessment would be whooped, I'd have labor troubles and strikes called on me, and I'd just about have to quit business."

"But what are we going to do about these conditions?" I demanded. "Is this whole town going to keep on letting a little bunch of grafters run it forever? What's the answer? Isn't there any chance for a revolution? I've talked to forty men about this and they all give me the same story you do—that they don't dare offend Tuttle and Van Dyke. We're doing all we can with The Sun, but we can't win single-handed. Aren't there two live men in town with enough red blood to get into the open and scrap?"

On the Way to Freedom.

"I don't believe there are—honestly I don't. I've seen lots of good men go up against this combination, lose out and get hammered into the ground too. We've stuck by you because we believe you're making a game fight and deserve to win, and because your space is a good buy at your rate, and we're going to keep on sticking; but you'll never get away with your kind of newspaper in St. James. It can't be done. You were beaten before you got into the game. You'll get circulation—I guess you are getting it rapidly—but you'll never get enough arvertising to pay your bills, let alone give you a profit."

On May fifth Mell, Butler and Ashman came over and spent two days with Austin and me to study the affairs of The Sun, listen to our account of what we had done and what had happened to us during our first year in St. James and make plans for the future. Set down on paper, our record was as follows:

May 5, 1905, to May 5, 1906.

Advertising receipts	$67,229.18
Circulation receipts	12,422.01
Total receipts	$79,651.19
Operating expenses	$104,975.28
Net loss	$ 25,324.09
Cash in bank, May 5, 1905	$60,000.00
Less net loss	25,324.00
Cash in bank May 5, 1906	$34,675.91

Circulation, May 5, 1905— 8,148
Circulation, May 5, 1906—22,232
Average daily receipts from circulation, May, 1905—$31.39.
Average daily receipts from circulation, May, 5, 1906—$89.21.

It was in the circulation figures that we found our consolation and builded our hope for the future. Once more Mell, Butler and Ashman approved everything Austin and I had done, expressed confidence in our ultimate success, told us to keep on making and left us to work out our destiny with $34,675.91 of their money still left.

Though my effort to find men to run for mayor and assessor had failed, so far as the immediate reception of the city was concerned, my journey among the thirty-eight whom I found in sympathy with us proved a big help that summer and fall, when I conducted a campaign for a legislative delegation that would work for new charter and a municipal primary law. Using my thirty-eight as a nucleus I organized the "Greater St. James Committee."

Of course I did not personally form the organization, but I induced a dozen of my thirty-eight to issue a call for a mass meeting to consider the new charter and municipal primary questions. Something less than two hundred citizens attended, but from that number we culled out a hundred who gave promise of standing hitched. I furnished the newspapers backing and the committee employed a secretary, opened permanent headquarters, and set to work to place in the hands of every person in St. James the reasons for a new charter and for legal protection for voters in the nomination of candidates for city offices.

It was while the Greater St. James Committee was busily engaged in a campaign for "A Bigger, Broader, Better St. James"—a campaign, by-the-way, that the other papers eventually had to take cognizance of, because their readers became interested in it—that I had my most serious conflict with the big advertisers. One Sunday afternoon, about the middle of summer, I again took a trip to Riverside Park. This time there were no drunkards on the car coming home, but I was impressed by another condition. Going down, the conductor collected one fare for the ride from the city to South St. James and another fare for the ride from South St. James to the park. Coming back he collected but one fare. I had known for some time that the street railway company charged ten cents to go to the park and five cents to come back, but the absurdity of the arrangement had never before struck me. The next day I got out the reports of the company and studied them carefully. It was in a highly prosperous condition. It paid taxes on a ridiculously low assessment. It kept up the pavement between its tracks, but it paid nothing whatever for the use of the streets—no franchise tax, no car tax, no license of any charaacter. It had been granted an exclusive, perpetual franchise free of cost, and it was making big returns on a vast amount of excess capital. Therefore I began a campaign for five-cent fares to Riverside Park.

The Monkey, the Cat and the Chestnuts.

I had been publishing editorials every day for a week, explaining the capitalization, assessment, taxes and earnings of the railway company when I was waited upon by a committe from the Retail Merchants' Association. My old friend, Harry Street, was chairman of the delegation, and his Honor, the mayor, was one of the party.

"We want to know what's the matter with you fellows up here anyway," said the mayor, by way of introduction.

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Why are you always raising sand with something or somebody?"

"Though I don't accept that as a definition of what we are doing," I replied, "if you want to call it that I don't mind saying it's because we think something and somebody needs it."

"Well, we came up to tell you it's got to stop."

"That sounds interesting," I said. "Have seats, gentlemen; let's talk it over."

I managed to find chairs for most of them and the rest sat on my reporters' desks.

"Now," I said, "what have you on your minds?"

"It's like this," said Mayor Schneider, hitching his chair forward and taking command of the affirmative side of the debate. "We represent the Retail Merchants' Association, which is composed of the fifty leading retail establishments in town. We've been watching The Sun ever since you've been here and we don't like the kind of newspaper you're running. St. James hasn't ever had that kind of a newspaper——"

"That's one thing that's the matter with St. James," I put in.

"—and St. James ain't going to stand for it now." He ignored my truism. "Things have always run along smooth and quiet here, in business and in politcs. The people have never bothered much about commercial and political affairs, but have sort of let the better classes look after their interests. They were never dissatisfied until you fellows came along with The Sun and started finding fault with everything. Now you've got the people all stirred up until they begin to think they ought to have a hand in running the town. Take this initiative, referendum and recall you're advocating. If you ever let the people loose with any such thing they'd take the city and go straight to the dogs with it."

"Maybe they would," I again interpolated, "but they'd have a return ticket."

"No they wouldn't. You can't trust the people with settling business and government questions—they ain't intelligent enough."

"You didn't say anything like that in your campaign speeches."

"Of course I didn't. You have to jolly 'em in politics, but at the same time the better element has to do the real work."

"Surely you gentlemen didn't come up here to discuss political economy, did you?" I asked.

"No, we didn't said Schneider. "We came up here to serve notice on you that you've got to let up on this talk about five-cent fares to the park."

"So the rest of you gentlemen, as well as Mr. Street here, have some of that million dollars of common stock, have you?" I demanded.

"Some of them have,' replied Street, "but that hasn't anything to do with what we came to see you about. You know the street-car company has agreed to build an interurban line to Mitchelville. Well, Van Dyke says they won't do it if they are forced to make a five-cent fare to the park. We want that line, because it means thousands of dollars a year to us from the people between here and Mitchelville."

BRIGGS WILL WORK ON PARCELS POST

United States Senator Frank O. Briggs has planned to return to Washington the latter part of this month where he will be kept busy most of the time until Congress convenes as a member of the Senate subcommittee delegated to consider the parcels post question.

"Our committee will give very thorough and detailed consideration to the parcels post question," said Mr. Briggs today. "The idea of a parcels post covers a very wide field of propositions. There are innumerable plans suggested to be operated by the Government. Many of them are absolutely antagonistic to each other. However, from the talks I have had with other members of the committee I am confident that by the end of the next regular session of Congress we will be able to present a bill providing for a satisfactory parcels post system."

The Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel will hold a rally supper tomorrow evening. A number of excellent speakers have been secured for the occasion.

Y.W.C.A. PROGRAM OF GYMNASIUM CLASSES

Gymnasium classes at the Y. W. C. A. will resume Monday, October 16, and the new physical director, Miss Bradshaw, has made elaborate plans during the summer vacation for an active and beneficial season. The classes arranged are as follows:

Evening clsses 8:00 p. m.—Monday evening, advanced class; Tuesday evening, advanced class; Thursday evening, beginners class. Basketball 8:00 p. m.—Wednesday evening, beginners; Friday evening, advanced.

Afternoon classes 3:30 p. m.—Games 4:30 p. m.—Tuesday afternoon, juniors (age 9-11); Thursday afternoon, children, both boys and girls (ages 5-8); Friday afternoon, juniors (11-15). Morning classes (hours to be arranged)—Wednesday morning, women's class; Thursday morning, special class in folk dances and gymnastic dancing.

Work for the advanced classes will aim to be based on previous work, more advanced drill work with clubs, wands and dumb-bells will be undertaken, and fancy figure marching with some gymnastic dancing to give added alertness and afford recreation. Baseball teams will be formed in both advanced classes, and a set of games run off between the two. At the end of these there will be a joint party in which the classes participate.

The beginning class will start in with regulation military tactics, some lessons to insure proper positions and poise, drills and some folk dances and games. This class work will form the broad basis for continued classes.

Social surprises will endeavor to keep the classes guessing, and rivalry is going to run high in the new stunts of the "Health and Honor League."

This feature is to be enjoyed by the junior classes as well, and also the "Health Talks," which are to be given to all the gymnasium classes under Dr. Krans' direction.

The junior and children's classes are to receive special attention this year, and work will be given to aid in the growth and development of the young folks, including proper ways to walk, stand and sit, work in rhythm, and games, marching and easy folk dances.

A special class in dancing, both folk dancing and gymnastic or aesthetic dancing is to be formed, for Thursday mornings. This work combines all the elements of exercise, poise, grace and pleasure and should be popular, as should also the so-called "women's class" for married women and housekeepers who want the recreation and exercise of a care free hour in the gymnasium.

All the work will be conducted with good music and suggestions of any special work desired will be welcome to Miss Bradshaw, the new director, who will be in the office every afternoon from 4:00-6:00, and evenings from 7:30-9:00, and every one is welcome.

POPE SENDS BLESSING TO MEN OF HOLY NAME.

Pope Pius has extended the papal benediction to the men who participated in the various Holy Name demonstrations in the diocese Sunday. The blessing also includes the men's families. In answer to the cablegram sent to the holy father by Bishop O'Connor Sunday afternoon, the following message was reecived at the episcopal residence in South Orange Monday night from the papal secretary, Cardinal Mery Del Val:

"The holy father blesses Holy Name men and their families."

A year ago a cablegram was sent to the pontiff on the day of the Holy Name demonstration expressing devotion to the holy see, and protesting against the utterances of Mayor Nathan, of Rome, against the Pope. The holy father was deeply touched by the message, and thanked the people of the diocese for their devotion.

Defeated at Golf.

Women golfers furnished some fine exhibitions of the game at Baltusrol, yesterday. Only one of the sixteen matches was carried to an extra hole, and this, oddly enough was the first away, having Miss Florence McNeeley, of Merion Cricket Club, and Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of the Plainfield Country Club, as the contestants. Miss McNeeley won at the nineteenth hole. Mrs. N. P. Rogers was defeated by Miss Phipps, one of the best players in the country.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the West End Tabernacle gave an entertainment at the place of worship, last night, marking the first anniversary. There was a program of recitatons, songs, etc., which was followed by a social hour, during which refreshments were served.

Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men Celebrates Its Anniversary at Wigwam.

BIG CHIEFS AT THE POW-WOW.

Men Prominent In the Order In New Jersey Speak and Then Corn and Venison Are Passed Around.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order of Red Men, completed its twenty-second year as an organization last night, and in honor of the event a big gathering of chiefs and braves was held in the tribal wigwam on East Front street. Many of the Great Chiefs were present and trails from Elizabeth, Bayonne, Cranford, Westfield and New Brunswick brought bands of friendly warriors to smoke the pipe of peace.

Previous to the anniversary council, four pale faces were adopted, the visitors aiding in the work. Past Great Sachem William Newcorn presided over the pow-wow which followed, introducing the following great chiefs, who spoke to the gathering: Great Sachem John B. Wright, of Camden; Great Senior Sagamore Charles Curry, of Camden; Great Michenewa Charles Grace, of South Amboy; Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens, of Camden; Great Keeper of Wampum William J. Smythe; chairman of finance committee of Great Council Mason B. Spofford, of Bayonne, who was leader of the crack State initiatory team. When all had been heard, chiefs and braves moved to the refreshment tent where corn and venison were passed. During its disposal several songs were rendered.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Thomas Parsons, Charles Holliwell, Peter J. Sheridan, Charles E. Holstein and Jerry Griffin.

Great Keeper of Records Stevens was proud of the fact that last night's anniversary was the twenty-first he had attended in Plainfield. It was impossible for him to be present at the one missed and he declared last night it was greatly to his regret as he always enjoyed Miantonomo's hospitality.

MISS HODGE TALKS ON THE WORK IN SYRIA.

Miss Margaret Hodge, of Philadelphia, president of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, Philadelphia branch, addressed the members of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. She confined her remarks chiefly to a trip which she took through Syria about four years ago, and she gave the women an excellent idea of the work being accomplished there by the Presbyterian missionaries. The talk was filled with interest and served to arouse the women to greater effort.

At the close of the discussion there was a social hour, during which tea was served by a committee of women from the society. There were about forty women present.

Plan Cottage Prayer Meetings.

The mid-week prayer meeting of the Netherwood Reformed church was held at the parsonage last night, and was incharge of the pastor, Rev. Royal A. Stout. This was the first of a series of cottage prayer meetings to be held during the winter for the purpose of awakening more interest among the members to attend services who have heretofore been unable to go to the church.

Gets Milk Free.

Otto Guenther, residing at the upper end of Watchung avenue, informed the police this morning that a strange cow had wandered to his place several days ago. He has been taking care of it thinking that the owner would appear. The cow is a brown no-horn animal and a good milker. The owner can get same by proving property.

FINED FOR CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPON

Six prisoners were arraigned before Judge Edward S. Atwater in Elizabeth yesterday. Charles Nichols, fifteen years old, pleaded guilty to larceny on a complaint sworn out by Jacob Trautman. His case was continued until next week. He has served a term at the State Home for Boys, Jamesburg, and was released from there two years ago.

Frank Marone, of New York city, was fined $50 and costs for carrying concealed weapons. He paid his fine. Marone was arrested here while flourishing the weapon on the streets.

Paul Krueger, alias Paul Brown, pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny made by Hugo Baum, a saloon-keeper. He will be sentenced next Wednesday.

Arrested in Rahway a month ago for larceny Frank J. Allen was released on a suspended sentence.

To a charge of stealing a gold watch and overcoat valued at $25 Alden Summers, of this city, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced next week. Andrew Schonie pleaded guilty of larceny and will be sentenced next Wednesday.

TEMPERANCE LEGION HEARS MRS. STAATS

The Loyal Temperance Legion met in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue, yesterday and enjoyed a special program, arranged by the superintendent, Mrs. Henry Thomas. There was a large attendance of boys and girls and all were enthusiastic. The program opened with singing and a prayer by Mrs. Henry Thomas. Mrs. John Manley and Howard Richardson sang several selections, after which Mrs. George Staats gave a talk on her trip abroad, during which she visited Scotland, England and France. While in London, Mrs. Staats said she visited many places of interest, including the London tower and she exhibited cards showing the places she visited.

Afterwards the boys and girls played a game, entitled "Apple Conundrums," and sang several songs, including "Temperance Boys and Girls will Turn their Glasses Down," and "America." During a social hour refreshments were served.

TIE VOTE SITUATION IS SOLVED BY SMITH

Acting under the authority invested in him under the new election law, Republican County Chairman Frank H. Smith has notified Charles Clark, through his attorney, Donald H. McLean, that he is the choice of the County Committee for the nomination for Republican Township Committeeman of Union Township.

Mr. Clark, on the first count of the ballots, was tied with John H. Doremus, and the recount showed eighty-one votes for each. The matter was then brought before Justice James J. Bergen, of the Supreme Court, who decided that he had no jurisdiction over the matter, and that he could not change the decision of the election board, which had declared the vote a tie.

The law on the matter was investigated, and, as a result, County Chairman Smith has notified Clark that he is the choice of the committee and that he is to run on the Republican ticket for the office.

The election law specifies that in case of a tie vote at the primaries for the office of Governor, the decision may be made by the State chairman, and the same power is given to the county chairman to decide ties in the county elections.

The choice of Clark was most satisfactory to the county committee, and, from all that can be learned, is perfectly in accordance with the election law. One prominent attorney of the city said this morning that while the law did not specifically cover the case in question, it was the inference of the measure and that the choice by the county chairman was legal.

Another phase of the matter is also settled. It is that Doremus, the now defeated candidate for the office, may run independently provided he secures a petition signed by two per cent. of the voters of his township.

This is the first time under the new election law that a case of this sort has been settled in this way, and it will probably establish a precedent on which other cases will be settled. There is one other case of a tie in the primaries this year in Essex county, but how this will be settled is not known, although it has been hinted that it would result in a compromise between the two candidates.

WILSON HITS TAFT

Governor Thinks Country Has Too Much Guessing to do About Trust Prosecutions.

EXPLAINS PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

Blames President For His Alleged Disturbance of Business—Steady Rulers Needed, He Gives As His Opinion.

Governor Woodrow Wilson, speaking at the Red Bank Lyceum, took issue with President Taft's execution of the anti-trust law. He said:

"You have heard the President speak about the execution of the anti-trust law. You have heard the Attorney General quoted with regard to that. Do you know what either of them is going to do? Does anybody know? Do they themselves know what they are going to do? What evidence have you of what they are going to do? They have everybody guessing, their friends included, and you cannot conduct sound business upon a test of guessing. You have got to know what the morrow is going to bring forth.

"A friend of mine was quoting to me today a remark he had heard in New York. He heard an impatient business man say, 'If they are going to send somebody to jail why don't they get to work and send them to jail and let us get through with it? We are not objecting to sending them to jail; we are objecting to not knowing whether they are going to jail or not.' And this country is backing and filling, backing and filling, under an Administration that never defines what it is going to do. I say, therefore, that the only thing that this country should insist upon is that affairs should be taken charge of by some persons with definite opinions and absolutely unconquerable resolution, and then saying what they are going to do, and then do it.

"You want them first to say what they are going to do because you want to know whether they are wise and sound men or not, and after you determine that they are trustworthy and their object is to cure and set aright the ills that we are suffering from, that they are not vindictive, that they are not revolutionary, that they intend to apply the principles of justice to the affairs of business and of politics, then you are going to get behind them with the irresistible might of the American people, and you are going to say: 'In God's name, do this sublime work of justice and we will follow you and support you.'

"You know what the programs of justice are. Why, gentlemen, upon what does business subsist? Do you know what a panic is? I mean a panic in the money market. It is merely a state of mind. Today, let us say, there is confidence. Tomorrow there is a panic. Is there any less wealth in the country tomorrow than there is today? Is there any less money tomorrow than there was today? What has changed? Nothing, except the state of mind of the persons involved.

"Today they were willing to lend money, and tomorrow they are not willing to lend it. They call in their notes. They won't renew notes. They get their hands on every bit of cash they can lay them on, and the difference is that they have lost confidence in the processes of business for the time being. That is a panic.

"Now that illustrates the whole situation in business with regard to public opinion. Unless business is sustained by the confidence of the public that is just, that it rests upon fair dealing, that there is fair competition, that everybody has an equal show, you know what is going to happen. There is going to be universal restlessness, suspicion, envy, malice, a gathering force of passion, which sooner or later will tear at the very roots of the whole structure and destroy it."

COUNCILMEN TO CONSIDER STREETS AND OTHER MATTERS.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, when Chairman W. L. Gloak, of the street committee, will present several matters. It is possible that there may be some report at that time regarding the appointment of additional members of the police force. It is also expected that the ordinance establishing a pension fund for the police department will be passed on third reading. It was overlooked at the regular October meeting and the members forgot to move it to a final reading.

COURT ORDERS YOUTH AWAY FROM HIS HOME

Jacob Sacher, of West Third street, had his son Meyer hailed before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning for causing a disturbance at home yesterday at dinner time. The young man was not satisfied with the meal his mother had prepared and threw the victuals on the floor, and out of the window, breaking the dishes and glass. When his father remonstrated with him, Meyer turned on his parent and would have administered a severe beating had not the latter's brother interfered.

After hearing the family troubles aired, Judge DeMeza told Meyer to leave home and find a boarding house. This the youth agreed to do. Sentence was suspended.

AUTO CO. EMPLOYEE ACCUSED OF THEFT

Edward Gescheidt, of West Front street, was arrested on complaint of the Laing Machine and Auto Co., last night charged with the theft of an automobile shoe on September 28. He was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning and on request of his counsel, J. Henry Crane, the hearing was set down for Saturday morning. Bail was fixed at $200 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Gescheidt has been in the employ of the Laing Machine and Auto Co. for some time and while the charge was brought for the theft of the shoe, several other articles which were missed were recovered from the young man. Among these was a woman's silver mesh chatelaine bag and a testing instrument used in automobile machinery. The bag was in a car left at the garage for repairs.

ONE CONVERSION AT METHODIST REVIVAL

The revival services being held under the auspices of the local Methodist churches were continued at Grace M. E. church, last night, when Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, delivered the sermon. He was assisted in the service by Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church, and Rev. C. S. Kemble, of Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

Dr. Anderson did not take a regular text, but based his remarks on the revival of Pentecost. He declared that if the combined membership of the local Methodist churches should unite in prayer as the small company of worshippers did on the Day of Pentecost, people would be flocking to the churches intent upon knowing what was going on. Dr. Anderson made a strong plea for more prayer in the home, as well as in church.

The altar service which followed was a stirring one and there was one conversion. Then followed a testimony meeting during which at least fifty people bore testimony. This was one of the most helpful features of the service.

Rev. C. C. Cain will preach at tonight's service and the meeting tomorrow night will likely be general in character. On Sunday seperate services will be held in the three churches. Commencing Monday night the revival meetings will be held for one week at the First M. E. church, when it is expected that either Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea or Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, former pastors, will preach the opening sermon. The third week of the revival will be continued at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

Congregationalists Confer.

The third quarterly business meeting of the Congregational church was held last night when there was a lengthy discussion on a proposed change in the plans for the new addition to the edifice which in the end resulted in the new plans being rejected as they did not find favor with the majority of the members present and it was decided to adhere to the original plans. The committee on hymn books made its final report and asked to be excused. The request was complied with. The new books were purchased some months ago and have since been in use, giving general satisfaction.

LISTS OF VOTERS

County Clerk James C. Calvert Sends Out the Forms to District Boards.

ARE RETURNABLE BY OCT. 25.

Police Departments Must Make Investigation and Report Their Findings to the Union Co. Board of Elections.

In order to facilitate the work of the office County Clerk Calvert in sending out the printed list of registered voters at the coming election, as required by the new election law, that office has sent out to the election boards of the county municipalities printed forms asking that they be filled out with the names and addresses of the probable voters as far as possible.

These lists which have been sent to the various election boards are supposed to be filled out as soon as possible and returned in order that as many names as possible may be placed in the hands of the printers. It is thought that if the election boards comply with this request, the rush at the last minute will be lessened to a great degree and the work completed more easily. It is understood that there is no compulsion connected with the filling out of these forms, but the county clerk hopes that the boards will aid his office in this matter.

When the lists are completed and printed the office of the county clerk sends five copies to the chief of police of each of the municipalities and to the election boards and keeps other copies on hand for sale to those who want them. The law requires that the sale price shall be cost, but as it is impossible for any one to tell just how many copies shall be ordered for sale at the county clerk's office, it will be hard to tell just how many to order from the printers and the cost will be determined somewhat by the number ordered.

"We do not know how many people will want copies, and how on earth are we going to know how many to order?" was said at the office this morning.

It is expected, however, that many of the election boards will comply with the request of the County Clerk and return the blanks filled out with as many names as possible in order that the work may be facilitated.

The office of the county clerk will be kept open all night October 24, receiving the final registration lists which must be sent in according to the new leection law not later than October 25. Then the office has three additional days to get the lists in form and printed, after which five copies must be sent to each chief of police in the municipalities and others to the election boards.

The law requires that immediately after the close of the last day of registration every district board in a municipality of more than 5,000 population shall complete and forward to the county clerk a copy of the list of registered voters. The police department is obliged to learn if the voters as registered are residents at the address given. The reports of the police are then made to the County Board of Elections.

OILING WEST FRONT STREET TO RELIEVE DUST NUISANCE.

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett has just completed the work of spreading oil on West Front street between Grant avenue and Liberty street, and thus alleviating the dust nuisance. It was believed that the new macadam of bituminous binder would acomplish the result, but the street was just as dusty afterward as before. The work of macadamizing this street progresses slowly, but it is hoped to complete it as far as Madison avenue within a short time.

AUTHOR'S WIFE GIVEN INTERLOCUTORY DEGREE

Supreme Court Justice Delaney in New York yesterday signed an interlocutory decree of divorce for Mrs. Elizabeth M. Chester, of 230 East Seventh street, this city, from George Randolph Chester, writer of the "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" stories. Mrs. Chester accused her husband of misconduct with a woman in the Gainsborough studios in West Fifty-ninth street, New York, and said that she left him last January because she "could not stand him any longer."

Mrs. Chester said that after she left her husband he assigned to her all the royalties from his play. Under a stipulation in the divorce proceedings Chester pays his wife $1,600 a year for her own support and $2,400 a year for their two children, George R., Jr., fourteen years, and Robert F. Chester, seven. The Chesters were married in Davenport, Iowa, in 1895.

Mrs. Chester named as corespondent Miss Lillian Deremo and a maid testified that Chester lived in the Gainsborough studios February 21 to June 17.

OFFERED TO SELL HAIR; POLICE MAKE ARREST

What may prove to be an important arrest was made last night by Detective Sergeant Flynn on information furnished to Chief Kiely by the proprietors of a hair factory on North avenue. Yesterday, the police say, Michael Colucci, of Richmond street, offered for sale at the factory a quantity of Chinese hair, such as is used in the manufacture of puffs and switches. The price he asked was reasonable, it is alleged, but the factory agent, it is said, remembered a warning that had been sent out through the "American Hairdresser" to hair dealers as to buying certain kinds of imported hair, as several large hauls of the commodity had been made in New York and Brooklyn.

When Colucci was examined at police headquarters he said that he hed been given the hair by his brother, an alleged sailor on a vessel plying between New York and Chinese ports. On his last trip to this country he had brought a lot of this hair and as he had to leave with his ship before finding a market, he turned it over to his brother to sell, Colucci alleged.

Chief Kiely asked Judge William G. DeMeza in court this morning to set the hearing over for one week in order that the dealers who had lost through the alleged burglaries could be given a chance to be present.

The first mentioned in the warning were those of E. Jeantet, who failed as a result of the theft; Nicholas Heesters, Mrs. Coyle, C. Feder and Louis Hartung. Hartung places his loss at $10,000. The total of the losses totals more than $30,000. Colucci was released in $100 bail for his appearance tomorrow.

CONDITION ABROAD

Senate President Ackerman on Return From Europe Discusses Living Cost on Continent.

FOOD PRICES ARE ALARMING.

Experienced Traveler Expects No Clash Between France and Germany to Result From War Between Turkey and Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman returned home yesterday on the White Star steamship "Oceanic," their arrival home earlier than was anticipated being due to the fact that their party was unable to obtain transportation over the Trans-Siberian Railroad before the first of November, thereby preventing their going farther east as planned.

In addition to revisiting the great capitols of continental Europe the party visited many interesting points in Switzerland and also included in their itinerary a number of Alpine passes, the Italian lakes and a visit to Bohemia.

A reporter for The Daily Press sought out the President of the New Jersey Senate on his arrival and asked him a few questions concerning the topics of the day.

"In your opinion, Mr. Ackerman, is it likely that the great Powers will become involved in a general war?"

"As far as a clash between Germany and France is concerned, I do not," said Senator Ackerman. "I consider, however, the present situation as one of extreme delicacy as regards Turkey. Whenever Turkey is at variance with another country the powers must of necessity take notice. The action by Turkey deeming it necessary for the successful prosecution of her cause, in extinguishing the lights on the coasts in the Black Sea, the Mediterranean and on the Red Sea, has thoroughly aroused the shipping interests all over Europe and they have unitedly protested against any action rendering navigation more difficult in that region of immense traffic, and if the lights are not soon re-lighted the great Powers like England, Germany, France and Austria, whose shipping interests are enormous will of necessity be compelled to recognize the gravity of the situation. Already war risks have risen considerably at Lloyds and much trepidation is manifest in shipping circles trading with India, China, Ceylon, Japan and Australia."

"The newspapers here, Mr. Ackerman, state that there is a great deal of unrest among the masses and that high prices for the necessities of life prevail all over Europe. How do you account for it?"

"In my opinion the immediate cause of the unrest in Europe this summer was due to the heat and the absence of a normal rainfall. My acquaintance with England extends over a period of thirty years during which time I have made a score of visits at all seasons of the year. In all that time I have never before experienced the physical discomfort that existed in London this year. The air seemed devoid of life and surcharged with an oppressiveness which reminded me of the dead heat of India. For nearly two months not a drop of rain fell and the grass in the London Parks was all dried up.

"In the country the heat, of course, stunted the growth of vegetation, a shortage of fodder occurred making it very expensive to feed the cattle; beef on the hoof has risen in price and the price of milk has nearly doubled, being now five pence or ten cents a quart, and a shortage exists even at that figure. All products of the farm have enormously increased and at one time this summer ham was sold at the equivalent of seventy cents per pound. The beet crop being curtailed the price of sugar has been seriously affected and the price has risen not only in free trade England and Holland, but in the countries having protective tariffs on the Continent. The potato crop is also a poor one and in fact generally the rise in prices of the necessities of life for the bulk of the population is rising to unheard of figures. In Paris, owing to the drought the normal supply of milk is short 350,000 quarts daily and the milkmen have had to draw their supply from new sources, some of them being 150 miles away. Those competent to express an opinion state that while the Parisian conditions are alarming yet the French Capital is much better off than those existing in Vienna, Berlin or St. Petersburg.

"The only people that I heard of as being satisfied with the condition produced by the drought were the makers of champagne. The small crop of grapes will make the vintage of 1911 much sought after and the price will be correspondingly higher. If we had here in America a great surplus of grain the farmers undoubtedly would profit largely

CENTRAL RAILROAD BRIEF CALLED FALSE IN COURT.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The dignity of the Supreme Court of the United States was ruffled Tuesday afternoon when Attorney J. C. McReynolds, for the Government, charged that statements made in a brief filed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey were "maliciously false."

It was at the opening of the argument of the Government's appeal in the suit against the Anthracite Coal Trust in which the railroads and coal companies were alleged to have combined in restraint of trade.

"I wish to call the attention of the court to the language in the brief filed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey," said McReynolds, "and to state to the court that these statements are maliciously false."

"Of course, the court will take into consideration the language employed in the briefs," said Chief Justice White.

McReynolds cited quotations from the railroad briefs in which it was asserted that the Government had "deliberately quoted parts of the record condemned by the lower court," and through an "artificial juxtaposition of unrelated facts" had created a false atmosphere. The railroad brief alleged that the Government had gone back thirty years, collected disconnected incidents and put them together "artifically" in such a way as to give an impression of violation of law where really none existed.

The attorney for the Government was greatly angered and was launching into a vigorous reply when the chief justice cut him short by announcing that the court would pass on the language.

Under orders from the chief justice, McReynolds then proceeded with his arguments in which he reviewed the history of the anthracite coal combination.

PRUDENTIAL TO START CLASSES FOR CLERKS.

To help its clerks to help themselves and also to increase the general efficiency of its clerical force, which now numbers more than 2,000, the Prudential Insurance Company will soon inaugurate a new welfare plan.

In its present tentative form the plan provides for classes for instruction in mathematics and English, with particular reference to the application of those studies to the business of the company.

It is proposed by the company to engage competent instructors in in thes branches of learning and to arrange in each study a course of thirty lessons. As the plan now stands these lessons will be given after the business hours in one of the rooms in the company's buildings. One lesson will be given each week, probably from 4:30 o'clock to 5:30.

It is intended to open the classes to all the men and women clerks in the company's employ and to make it optional with them as to whether or not they will take either or both of the coures. As evidence of good faith and seriousness of purpose the clerks who decide to join a class will be expected to pay a registration fee of $2 each.

That money will go toward paying the expenses of the instruction, but the bulk of the cost will be borne by the company. Separate classes will be formed for the men and women clerks. The course in English, is to embrace instruction in grammar, punctuation, dictation and general correspondence and the study of mathematics will be made to include algebra.

While the instructors have not yet been selected, it is understood that they will be appointed from the local High school force and that their work will in no way interfere with their public duties.

CAN'T SECURE ESTATE WITHOUT MISSING HEIR.

Elizabeth, Oct. 12—Unless Frederick Saxer, a former resident of this place, who disappeared seven years ago, can be found or proof of his death established, an estate in Switzerland bequeathed to American heirs cannot be divided. All the other heirs are accounted for.

It is said that Saxer was last seen in Newark. The family has sought through this State and New York for some trace of him, but without success.

An aunt of the missing man died in Switzerland about three months ago. By her will she left her property to her sisters, Mrs. Barbara Saxer, a widow, who lives at 51 Delaware street, Elizabethport; a Mrs. Gray, of Cleveland, O., and to their children. There was no difficulty in locating the sisters and nephews of the decedent, with the one exception.

A possible solution of the difficulty, advanced by Surrogate Parrot, of Union county, is the application by the Saxer family for the appointment of an administrator for the missing heir on the ground that his absense for so long a time would admit of the presumption that the man is dead. It is questioned, however, whether the Swiss authoritites will recognize an administrator named under New Jersey laws in the present circumstances.

Among the other heirs to the estate are John and Paul Saxer, brothers of Frederick, and a half-brother, Julius Weber, of Elizabeth.

DECLARES THAT WILSON IS NOT A PENSIONER.

Since his retirement as president of Princeton University to enter the field of politics, and especially since there has been much talk about him in connection with a Presidential nomination, the story has been quietly but persistently circulated in various parts of the country that Governor Wilson has availed himself of the charity of Andrew Carnegie and became a pensioner under the fund established for benefit of college professors.

At the State House Tuesday a prominent Jerseyman who is a close friend of the Governor stated that there is not a word of truth in the report, branding the story as "a lie made out of whole cloth."

STAE HEALTH BAN ON BAD TOMATOES.

Trenton, Oct. 12—The State Board of Health Tuesday directed the canning factories of the State to separate good and bad tomatoes before putting them in the scalders. According to the health board, the separation heretofore has been made after the tomatoes had been scalded.

The State Board also determined to hold a conference with representatives of all canning factories on November 18 for the promulgation of better regulations for operating their factories.

ASK SECURITY OF ELECTION 'ADS.'

Trenton, Oct. 12—When Supreme Court Justice Trenchard Tuesday charged the October Mercer county grand jury, he directed attention to the corrupt practices act, which forbids any campaign advertisements which do not contain the name of the publisher.

Justice Trenchard also declared that pawnbrokers here charge excessive rates of interest, and spoke of the selling of liquor by unlicensed clubs. There are two clergymen on the jury.

SAID LEHIGH VALLEY IS TO DIVORCE COAL LANDS.

New York, Oct. 12—Since the return of President Thomas, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, from Europe, active work has been begun to formulate a plan for the segregation of the railroad company's coal lands. It is learned that the management has definitely decided to divorce the coal lands from the railroad company.

Officials of the corporation have not yet reached a final conclusion as to the exact method of procedure, but it is understood some interests are not entirely favorable to the plan put into effect by the Lackawanna Company, a selling agency, to purchase the coal at the mines, and the distribution of stock of this company among railroad shareholders. Another plan suggested is the distribution of the stock of the coal company now in the Lehigh Valley treasurer to the stockholders of the road. It is said that such a readjustment is only a question of time.

LITERARY.

Scribner's Magazine for October has a brilliant colored cover by Franklin Booth, and a frontispiece in color—"October Hunting"—by Philip R. Goodwin. A real contribution to our knowledge of a great man is furnished by "General Grant's Letters to General Beale." These letters are the living memorial of a friendship which began in California in the early '50s, and lasted to the end of General Grant's life. The letters begin with General Grant's travels in Scotland, in 1877, and they follow the course of his tour around the world and back to his old home at Galena, and then to New York and Long Branch. The picture presented by these letters is of a kindly, direct, simple, and forceful man whose opinions were founded on the clear insight of his nature.

REGARD WHALE NOW AS AN UNWELCOME VISITOR.

Ocean City, Oct. 12—Residents of this city don't like the odor coming from the whale that landed on this beach Sunday morning. The Board of Health has been asked to burn the mammal, and the members are considering the question.

William B. Davis, a member of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, said Tuesday night that the people smelle only the whale oil, which is not harmful, and there is no reason to be alarmed.

The officials of the Academy are anxious to get the whale removed as quickly as possible, but so far have been unable to secure sufficient help. David McCadden, taxidermist, went to Philadelphia to consult with the Academy officials. He will try to bring a gang of workmen down with him today. One-half of the outside skin of the whale has been removed.

Not only is the whale a treasure for the Academy of Natural Sciences, but the Daniel Baugh Institute of Anatomy, according to announcement made Tuesday, is to be a beneficiary of the estate of the deceased sea wanderer.

Dr. Edward A. Spitzka, of the Institute, said Tuesday that Dr. B. Gregg Metheny and Wesley Smith, as an "expedition" sent out by the Baugh foundation, which is at Eleventh and Clinton streets, Philadelphia, have gone to Cape May, and will be given what organs of the whale they may desire.

MERCER WILL VOTE ON COUNTY CIVIL SERVICE.

Trenton, Oct. 12—Civil service for county employes is to be submitted to referendum in November. This is assured by the action of the county freeholders Tuesday in directing County Clerk Robbins to place the necessary statement of the question upon the official ballot. The action was taken following the presentation of a petition signed by 662 voters. At a previous meeting action on the petition was prevented by the withdrawal of a freeholder, destroying a quorum.

Edmund C. Hill, who presented the petition, stated that ther was some question as to whether or no the legal time for acting on the petition had expired. County Solicitor Kulp expressed the opinion that Tuesday was the last day on which advertisement of the referendum election could be made. He declared, however, that as the State commission was willing to take the risk the board should act favorably on the petition.

FORMER SURROGATE DIES.

James H. O'Neil Passes Away in Jersey City.

Jersey City, Oct. 12.—James H. O'Neil, former surrogate of Hudson county and one of the best known men in Northern New Jersey, died shortly after noon yesterday in St. Francis' Hospital, following a brief illness from Bright's disease.

He served two terms as surrogate and filled out the unexpired term of Surrogate William McAvoy, who died in March, 1886. Mr. O'Neil was appointed to fill this unexpired term by Governor Leon Abbett. In November, 1886, he was elected surrogate and was re-elected again November 27, 1891. He was succeeded by James T. Lillis, who was his deputy.

Mr. O'Neil was born in the downtown section of New York city about fifty-eight years ago. From New York his parents moved to Hoboken and later to the old Hudson City district. He was educated in the public schools, attending old No. 1 School of Hudson City, now No. 6 School, on Central avenue, and attended the old Hudson City High School.

Mr. O'Neil was a widower. His wife, who was Agnes Fitzgerald, a school teacher, died about three years ago. He is survived by a son, Allan O'Neil, now a student of Columbia College, New York city, and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret McDermott, the widow of the late Congressman Allan L. McDermott, and Miss Mary O'Neil, of Magnolia avenue. He resided at 533 Summit avenue. He was a member of the Robert Davis Association.

OCTOBER 24.

A final opportunity to register in Plainfield for the general election on November 7, will be given on October 24. Remember that date—Tuesday, October 24—for it is most important for the voter to do so if he has due regard for his duties as a citizen and has not already registered. It should be borne in mind that the new election law forbids the name of a voter being "sworn on," that is by affidavit—by a a friend. That practise is now entirely done away with, the right being rescinded by the provision of the Geran law, which provides that the registration must be personal and that the voter must answer each and every one of the fourteen questions as well as sign his name. The purpose of these fourteen questions is to prevent other than the right man voting or in short to prevent fraud at the polls. So don't hestitate to politely respond when the questions are put by the district election officer when registering on the final date—October 24.

"I know what's the matter with me, I talk too much," muttered the poll parrot after the bull dog demonstrated his objection to some of the bird's chatter. Some Presidential aspirants have said the same thing when it was too late.

Among the curiosities exhibited at the Plainfield Exposition, which came to a close last night, were the old Gazelle hand engine and old Alert hose wagon. Somehow, the committee overlooked the Netherwood trolley cars.

We may expect Oscar Hammerstein to sign contracts with those Italian and Turkish fighters to reproduce that war spectacle at the Manhattan opera house at an early date.

A taxpayer claims that nothing is being done to get a municipal water plant. Heavens, isn't money being spent? What more do you want?

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Work is progressing installing the new organ at the Church of the Holy Cross. It is hoped to have the instrument ready for use within a short time.

The Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will enjoy an outing Sunday night on the mountains. The trip from this city will be made in a large auto truck.

The Daughters of the Cross Circle of The King's Daughters held a meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Nelson A. Miller on Washington avenue, to plan for the winter work. There was a large attendance of members and the work was taken up with much enthusiasm.

FINDS HER SON AFTER A QUEST LASTING 35 YEARS.

Stoneham, Mass., Oct. 12.—After a country-wide search lasting thirty-five years, Mrs. Nellie Freeman, 80 years old, has at last succeeded in her quest of her son, John Corey, now a prosperous citizen of Boise, Idaho. Early yesterday she left to join him there. Through correspondence with friends in the West, Mrs. Freeman learned that "John E. Rogers," principal of the Longfellow School in Boise, had been making a search for his mother, who was taken away from him when he was four years old. Correspondence followed, proving Rogers was undoubtedly the missing son of Mrs. Freeman, born when she was Mrs. Joseph E. Corey and lived in Jaheka, Mo. In 1876 she was taken ill and sent to a hospital for a long convalescence. When she recovered her son had disappeared.

WILSON DEFENDS PARTY ACTS.

Asserts Pledges Have Been Kept in Red Bank Address.

Governor Wilson addressed 3,000 persons in the Lyceum theatre in Red Bank last night. He praised the Corrupt Practices act and the Geran Election law, and said the people now can vote as they please without dictation from any one. He added the evil of bribery practically has been abolished, and if a man elected to office is found to have used money unlawfully to obtain his election he can be unseated.

Wilson asserted all the promises made by the Democrats before the last election have been carried out. He advised voters to cast their ballots for the men who started the reform movement last year.

"For twenty years I had dealt with young men being trained for active participation in large affairs," the Governor said, "and almost without exception they were inclined to shake their shoulders and say: 'What is the use of this party or that, for all comes to the same thing. You are invariably taken in.' All this now is changed.

"Do you suppose Abraham Lincoln," he added, "would have anything to do with the Republican party either in this State or in this Nation during the last two decades? Do you suppose the great men who were associated with him would recognize the party that sought to effect liberation from the bondage of ownership when the indsutrious effort in recent decades has been to establish another kind of ownership? Do not let those men prate to us about the immortal example of Lincoln until they show they are ready to follow it. Then we will admit they are of the lineage; otherwise we must proclaim that they are not."

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

"This summer I came across an interesting bit of information showing that our protective tariff does not prevent our manufacturers competing in the markets of the world and even in London the centre of free trade. An American living and doing business in New Jersey and who possesses both pluck and push told me that he bought his raw materials for making jewelry on the Continent, took them to America and manufacturing them into attractive shapes, solicited and obtained large orders for the same from one of the largest department stores in London and undersold the goods made in Germany and Austria. This was not an exceptional case for repeated orders were solicited and obtained."

ASBURY PARK TO GET SUNDAY TRAINS

Trenton, Oct. 12.—Sunday train service at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will become a reality three weeks from today. This is the substance of an order issued by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners under which the Pennsylvania, New York and Long Branch and Central railroads are required to stop their passenger trains at the main station used by the two resorts in the same manner as at other stations of similar importance on the line of the road.

The order directs that no discrimination shall be shown as to the number of trains which are to be stopped for that purpose. It requires specifically that all trains which now stop at the North Asbury Park Station for the purpose of taking on or letting off passengers shall also be stopped at the main station. The rule is to be observed by the railroads in making up subsequent schedules for their train service.

Unless the ruling of the board should find its way into the courts it probably marks the end of the long fight which has been waged between Asbury Park residents and the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association over the stopping of trains. The people of Asbury Park generally wanted a Sunday train service. The association opposed it upon the grounds that it would interfere with the purposes for which Ocean Grove was established.

The association succeded in preventing the railroads from giving Sunday service through an agreement entered into many years ago by which the railroads were prohibited from stopping Sunday trains at the main station under penalty of a foreiture of lands ceded to them for railroad purposes by the association.

At the hearing upon the petition filed by Asbury Park asking for train service the railroads expressed their willingness to comply with the request of Asbury Park, except for the fact that they felt morally bound not to violate their agreement with the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association. The Board of Public Utility Commissioners took the view that the stopping of trains was a public necessity.

After discussing the various points involved in the controversy the board disposed of the case with the following comment:

"The station facilities at North Asbury are fully adequate to properly serve the contiguous territory, but it is totally inadequate on Sundays when hundreds of people from Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, who would naturally have taken the main station at Asbury Park if the trains stopped there, are forced to go to the North Asbury Station.

"In stormy weather there is not sufficient shelter for the large crowds and the baggage. The baggae room is eight by nine feet and sometimes 250 to 300 trunks are on the platform to be checked. More than seventy-five per cent. of these people would naturally have taken trains at the main station, which is large and commodious, and well adapted to take care of such Sunday crowds.

"The contention of the railroad company that it is in honor bound to carry out the terms of a contract by which it profited in obtaining valuable real estate at a nominal price is not sufficient to absolve it from its duty to the public in furnishing proper and adequate service. It is not the province of the board to enter into the question whether the stoppage of trains on Sunday would, under these agreements, result in a forfeiture of the land granted to the railroad company under these agreements.

"These companies are created by the State for serving the people; they are subject to the order of the State; they are subject to orders intended to secure proper and adequate service. The railroad company is not a private corporation, it is a quasi-public corporation created by the State for the purpose of carrying on certain State functions, and it is subject to the power of the State. One of the powers of the State is the power to secure proper and adequate transportation facilities, and no condition in an agreement that would limit the power of a railroad company to provide such facilities would be valid.

"The board is therefore of the opinion that it has power to order the stoppage of trains at the main station as Asbury Park notwithstanding the aforesaid agreements, and that such stoppage of trains is necessary to provide proper and adequate transportation facilities. The board also finds that the city of Asbury Park has been discriminated against in that all the defendent railroad companies caused their trains to be stopped at all other stations on the line on Sundays for the purpose of taking on and letting off passengers, although the station at the city of Asbury Park is the most important on the line."

RARITAN CLASSES SESSION.

MERCHANTS' LIGHT SCHEME DELAYED

Elizabeth, Oct. 12.—Because only three of the members of the Broad Street Improvement Association responded to the call for a meeting last night the contracts for the erection of additional lights on Broad street were not closed. In addition President G. C. Stein announced that it would be necessary to collect $400 more before it would be possible to close the contracts. It was decided that the active members will be asked to canvass among the subscribers to collect the outstanding subscriptions.

There is considerable satisfaction on the part of the merchants in regard to the decision of council to allow only single lights instead of double ones, as had been planned by the merchants. As the number of lights to be put up is not stipulated in the signed subscriptions the merchants will be held strictly to their agreement.

Efforts are to be made to collect outstanding subscriptions this week. The following members were appointed a committee to chase the tardy subscribers: F. Ernest Wallace, W. E. Squire, Louis Newberger, John M. Clark, I. N. Heller, Leo H. Schwed and George Heitzel, Jr. Mr. Stein stated that while a majority of the business men had responded immediately to the call of the association the lighting scheme had been delayed by a few. He believes that these will fall in line before the end of next month.

STAE W. C. T. U. MEETING SHOWS ROSTER OF 10,101.

Woodstown, Oct. 12—The roster of the State Women's Christian Temperance Union of this State shows a total membership of 10,101, according to reports of officers given yesterday at the thirty-eigth annual convention of the organization. The financial strength of the association was not made public for reasons of policy. The convention began Tuesday in the opera house and will conclude Friday.

Of the total membership it was shown that 572 comprise members of the Young People's branch. Miss Ida Lillian Page, of 311 DeMott street, Hoboken, the treasurer, reported that the Union had given $403.95 to the National Willard Memorial fund; $115.47 to the world's work of the organization, and $27 to the Young People's Branch Missionary fund. By the payment of $100, Mrs. Mary Gordon Hill has been made a memorial member of the world's W. C. T. U. Mrs. Hill was the mother of Mrs. Emma Bourne, who was State president of the Union for nineteen years.

Mrs. E. H. Elfreth, of Haddonfield, is president; Dr. Eva M. Lake, of Arlington, recording secretary, and Mrs. I. H. Demarest, of Closter, is corresponding secretary.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE BEATEN.

San Francisco Defeats Amendment—Recall Passed.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Woman suffrage has been defeated in California. The majority in San Francisco against granting suffrage to women is 13,705, while in the State at large the majority in favor of granting suffrage to women will not exceed 8,000.

Outside of the counties around San Francisco Bay the State apparently voted strongly in favor of granting the ballot to women.

Suffrage leaders here declare that they are in no way discouraged over the apparent defeat of the proposed amendment granting suffrage to the women of California, and that plans already are undreway to put the issue to another test under the initiative and referendum amendment, which carried in Tuesday's election by a heavy majority.

The voters expressed emphatic approval of the so-called progressive legislation advocated by the present State administration. The amendment providing for the recall of all elective officers, including the judiciary, was carried by a big majority, and the amendment providing for the initiative and referendum rolled up a vote but little less than that for the recall proposition. The amendments providing for the extension of the powers of the State Railroad Commission over all public utilities and concieding its rate-making powers also were approved.

RICH MEN SHOVEL MUCH COAL.

Try to Rescue Driver Who Isn't Under Two Tons of Upset Fuel.

Residents of Highland avenue, a fashionable thoroughfare of Montclair, yesterday became coal heavers. Last night they were wondering what became of John Flitch, who drove to a house in the avenue with a load of coal. He backed the cart to the curb. A few moments afterward persons in the neighborhood saw the two horses suspended in the air while the wagon and its contents were upset in the street. The horses were lowered and then the rescuers looked around for the driver.

He was nowhere in sight. The residents, believing he was buried under the two tons of coal began digging. When they finished Flitch still was missing. He did not return to the office of his employers, nor did he go to his home.

Death From Imagination.

How faith may kill as well as cure is shown by one of the cases mentioned by Dr. Charles Reinhardt in "Faith, Medicine and the Mind." A convicted murderer had been handed over to the physiologists for the purpose of an experiment. He was told that his hour had come and that it had been decided that he should be bled to death. His eyes were bandaged, and he was pinioned, opportunity first having been given him to see the formidable array of surgical instruments, the vessels to catch the blood and the other terror inspiring paraphernalia of the vivisector's liboratory. A blunt instrument was now drawn sharply across his throat and a stream of warm water was made to trickle from his neck into a vessel below the operating table upon which he lay. After awhile the sounds, which had previously been continuous and near at hand, were gradually reduced until the patient, doubtless supposing that he was bleeding to death, gradually lost consciousness, fainted and expired.

The Panama Hat.

A popular comedian at a Lambs club gambol in New York told a panama hat story.

"A young clerk out my way," he said, "gave his girl a present of a panama last year. Then the day before the Fourth he got a couple of complimentaries for a picnic, clambake and corn roast down the river, and he wired the girl:

"'Meet me at pier 13 tomorrow morning at 7. Picnic. Bring panama.'

"The next morning as he stood on pier 13 dreaming dreams of love, imagining a long, sweet day of billing and cooing, he saw his girl advancing with her father and mother. He was terribly annoyed, and on the boat, as soon as he could get her alone, he hissed:

"'What did you want to bring the old folks for?'

"'Why, Will, you told me to,' she said, and she showed him the telegram, which the operator had made to read:

"'Bring pa and ma.'"

Whistler Defore Whistler.

Mortimer Menpes told the following story of Whistler, who was to deliver an address one day to the Society of British Artists: "The master at length entered, faultlessly dressed, walking with a swinging, jaunty step, evidently quite delighted with himself and the world in general. He passed down the gallery, ignoring the assembled members, and walked up to his own picture. And there he stayed for quite fifteen minutes, regarding it with a satisfied expression, stepping now backward, now forward, canting his head and dusting the surface of the glass with a silk pocket handkerchief. We watched him open mouthed. Suddenly he turned round, beamed upon us and uttered but two words—'Bravo, Jimmy!'—then took my arm and hurried me out of the gallery, talking volubly the while."

King's Queer Present For a Queen.

In all probability the king of Dahomey's present of pipes and loin cloths never reached Buckingham palace. On one occasion, however, Queen Victoria had publicly to accept a gift of quite as embarrassing a nature. This was in 1856, when the king of Siam sent a mission to England. On being presented to the queen, who received them seated on her throne and wearing her crown, the envoys crawled from the doors to her majesty's feet on their hands and knees and then each drew a present from the folds of his robes. The first object placed in the queen's hands was a silver spittoon.—London Chronicle.

Stagecoach of the Twenties.

Brooks Bowman commenced running an hourly stagecoach between Boston and Roxbury on March 1, 1826. He left the town house on Roxbury hill every day in the week except the Sabbath at 8, 10, 12, 2, 4 and 6 o'clock and, returning, started from the Old South church at 9, 11, 3, 5 and 7 o'clock. The fare was 12½ cents each way.

Her Good Advice.

They had been courting for only four years when Si as spoke as follows:

"I think you oughter give me jest one kiss, Sary, you know; it's far better to give than receive."

"You don't say?" said Sary coyly. "Then it seems to me some folk ought'er practice what they preach!"

Descriptive.

One little girl was telling her mother how another little girl was dressed at a party. "And would you believe it, mamma," she concluded, "her slippers were so tight I could see all the knuckles on her toes."—Chicago News.

He Was Playing.

First Actress—You say you are hard up. Isn't your husband playing this season, then? Second Actress—Yes, he is. That's just the trouble. First A.—Why, what's he playing—Hamlet? Second A.—No; cards!

The Other Extreme.

Parke—Poor Pilter! His wife is a spendthrift. Is there anything worse, I wonder, than a wife that's too extravagant? Tame—Oh, yes; one that's too economical.—Brooklyn Life.

Thin as a Rail.

"Is he as thin as I have heard?"

"He's thinner. Say, when he tried on a double breasted coat one row of buttons was up his back."—Exchange.

There is nothing so easy but that it becomes difficult when you do it with reluctance.—Terence.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 15, 1911.

Topic.—Why I believe the Bible.—Rom. x, 17; xv, 4. (A memory meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Personal belief in the Bible as the divinely inspired word of God is an absolute essential to faith in the Christian religion. He who doubts or denies that the Bible is the infallible word of God has no sure foundation upon which to rest his faith. It is therefore a matter of profound satisfaction and worthy the deepest gratitude to God that the proofs of the inspiration of the scriptures are so comprehensive and so convincing. In no heart need there be any doubt. "The testimonies of the Lord are sure."

The Bible claims to be the divinely inspired word of God. This claim is made for both the Old and New Testament scriptures. "Thus saith the Lord" is a very common preface to the words of the Old Testament by the writers themselves. New Testament writers also ascribe inspiration to the Old Testament. Of these writings it is said, "Holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." Paul speaks of "all scriptures" (the Old Testament) "given by the inspiration of God," and the author of the book of Hebrews refers to God as "having of old time spoken unto the fathers in the prophets." Christ, being divine as well as human, spoke as God, and the Holy Spirit revealed unto the apostles what they have written in their epistles. To deny this claim is to cast reflection upon the truthfulness of the Biblical writers themselves. Moreover, this claim to inspiration has been conclusively proved by every test of faith and of reason. Because God spoke to men through men it is no less the voice of God that speaks in His word, and it should be accepted and obeyed, because it is the infallible word of God.

1. The fulfillment of prophecy sustains the Biblical claim to inspiration. The New Testament repeatedly calls attention to the fulfillment of Old Testament prophecy, and in the history of the Christian centuries we see the prophecies of the New Testament fulfilled. But God only could know what would transpire hundreds of years before the event, and He alone could reveal these events to man.

2. The unity of the Bible substantiates its claim to inspiration. The Bible consists of sixty-six books, written by men of various professions and positions, extending over a period of 2,500 years. Yet it is essentially one book. The directing influence of one mind is apparent from Genesis to Revelation. But that one mind could not have been human. It must have been divine, and it was the mind of God.

3. The Bible has stood the test of centuries of criticism. No other book has had so many powerful enemies. No other book has ever been so seriously attacked. Emperors, kings, atheists, philosophers, skeptics, have assailed it with the desire of destroying it, but every attack upon it has only increased its popularity. No merely human book could ever have withstood the assaults that have been made upon the Bible, and hence the fact that the Bible has withstood these attacks is proof that it is more than human—in other words, divine.

4. The Bible meets all the needs of the human heart. It is universal in its application. It finds a response in every land and under every clime. It is reasonable to suppose that a divine revelation would be suitable to all men, and since the Bible is of such a character and is the one book in the world that is we may accept it, as it claims to be, the inspired word of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. vi, 4-7; Ps. i, 1, 2; xix, 7-14; cxix, 97-104, 105-112; Matt. ii, 7-23; xxiv, 35; John v, 39; vi, 66-69; xvii, 17; Acts xvii, 10, 11; II Tim. iii, 14-17; Heb. iv, 12; Pet. i, 19-21; iii, 9-12.

Saviour, Thou Alone Canst Keep.

This hymn was written on the spur of a moment on Young's million dollar pier, at Atlantic City, during the international Christian Endeavor convention, held there in July.

H. H. Rottmann, the field secretary for the great northwest, asked John R. Clements, the Christian Endeavor song writer, to send him some day some verses that he might sing in his work to the old tune of "Silver Threads Among the Gold." The two men chatted a moment and parted. Within half an hour the hymn had been written. It was sung by Mr. Rottmann the same night, just preceding a masterful address on "Missions" by the former vice president of the United States, Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks.

These Thy frail and erring sheep
Sheltered in Thy fold of grace.
Make for each a helpful place.

CHORUS.

Jesus, precious Friend of mine,
Keep me in this fold of Thine
Till life's latest sunset ray
Points me to the Land of Day.

Saviour, make my life to be
Of some lasting worth to Thee.
Never let my footsteps roam
From the path that leadeth home.

Saviour, hear my heartfelt prayer.
Guard my life with jealous care.
Keep me from enticing sin.
Make me pure without, within.

—John R. Clements.

"Will you please tell me," I asked, "what earthly or unearthly connection there is between a five-cent fare to the park and an interurban line to Mitchellville, which is in exactly the opposite direction?"

"Van Dyke says that if the legislature passes a bill regulating the fare to the park it will establish a precedent of state regulation of rates on interurban lines, and that if that's done the company won't be able to raise capital to build the Mitchellville line."

"Van Dyke told you that, did he?"

"Yes, and it's true too. Capital won't be harassed. It's too timid."

"And Van Dyke ordered you to come up here and call The Sun off its fight for five-cent fares?"

"No, he didn't order us; he couldn't order us to do anything; but Mr. Van Dyke is interested in the prosperity of St. James and he asked our co-operation to get The Sun to quit this senseless agitation about park fares. It's worth fifteen cents to go to the park and back on a Sunday afternoon, and nobody would kick about it if you didn't encourage them. Nobody ever kicked before you started all this row."

"Doesn't it strike you gentlemen as peculiar that Van Dyke should get you to do this for him?" I asked. "Why didn't he come up here himself and put the case squarely to me? If his argument is as legitimate as you gentlemen seem to think, why didn't he present it personally?"

"Why," explained Street in surprise, "he knew we were advertisers and would have more influence."

"In other words, Van Dyke comes and gives you a cock-and-bull story about the interurban to Mitchellville, and then proposes that you attack us in the pocketbook for the purpose of forcing us to let him continue to extort excessive profits from the working people of St. James; and you fall for it. That's the situation, as clear as if Van Dyke himself told it."

"That's just your sensational way of looking at it—impugning men's motives, as The Sun always does. I tell you Van Dyke is a fine man. He was raised here and we've all known him since he was a boy. He wants to see St. James grow, just as we do, and we agree with him in everything. He's one of us, and we're all working together. I don't know what it is you fellows want, but it must be something awful big, the way you're raising Cain. What are you after?"

"Readers."

"Humph! it's a fine way to get 'em—to attack honest men."

"Now look here, gentlemen," I said, "you are all wrong about us, just as we are all right about you—only we know it and you don't. Some day you'll thank me and The St. James Sun for 'raising Cain.' Van Dyke is merely using you, playing the old, old game of drawing chestnuts by the aid of a pussy-cat, with you for the pussy. The interurban will be built to Mitchellville when the street car company is convinced that the business in that territory demands it, and not one minute before. All the legislating you can do from now till doomsday couldn't stop it if the company thought it was a good proposition. Capital is not timid, as Mr. Street says. Capital is bold. It is the boldest thing in the world, next to man. Capital will climb mountains, ford torrents, dig tunnels, swim floods and split icebergs, if there's a reasonable chance of profit beyond. You might go to the Capitol tomorrow and have a law passed making it a penitentiary offense for the street railway company to run a survey to Mitchellville; but if the company believed there was money to be made by building the line the survey would be run. That's how timid capital is."

The Blundering Boycott.

"Van Dyke has twisted you round his fingers and is laughing at your stupidity this very minute. The farther you go for him the harder he will chuckle. I know, because I have seen a lot of men like Van Dyke. They're clever and they're nice and amiable and they're patriotic, but they're always looking out for themselves and their corporations, and using men of less intelligence, like ourselves, to accomplish their desires.

"I want to tell you another thing: The advertising you are doing with us now or the advertising you might do if we quit this fight can't shut our mouth. We are trying to help the people of St. James—just the plain, ordinary people who work for wages—to get a fair, decent rate to the only place they can go for recreation, and we're going to keep right on. That's final."

"All right," said Street, as the committee rose, "you'll hear from us, and hear from us aplenty. We have stood as much as we're going too."

"No, you haven't," I retorted. "You're going to stand a lot more. We've only started."

"Well, you're near your finish, even if you don't know it.'

Three days later I received a very dignified, very formidable document on the stationery of the Retail Merchants' Association. It was signed by the president, who informed us that he had been instructed by the board of directors of the Retail Merchants' Association to notify us that in future the members of the association would withhold patronage from any St. James newspaper or newspapers that attack the street railway company for not making a five-cent fare to Riverside Park.

Austin and I debated that letter from three o'clock in the afternoon until nearly seven in the evening. It didn't require all this time for us to discover that the men responsible for the letter had made a stupendous blunder, which would react on them if we took it up; but it did require time to decide just what to do. Here was a serious situation. Manifestly we could not operate a newspaper in a town where the association of retail merchants, comprising nearly all the mercantile establishments, had boycotted us. We realized, and had always realized, that by the time our sixty thousand dollars was spent we must have procured sufficient advertising to keep us going, and we had always believed that we would procure it. But already half of our money was gone, and if went into an open, knock-down-and-drag-out fight with the merchants' association we feared we wouldn't be able to win it before our reserve was exhausted. Austin finally put it up to me on the ground that it was purely an editorial question.

I backed off so that I could look at the problem from a distance, and applied my journalistic principle to it; here was the question of five-cent fares to the park. Here was Van Dyke using the flimsy excuse of the Mitchellville Interurban to control us Here were fifty retail dealers trying to direct the editorial policy of The Sun through control of its advertising. Here were the people of St. James—our readers. What were their rights? Were they entitled to know what the street railway company and the advertisers were doing?

An Eleven-Thousand Fly.

Looked at that way, there was but one answer—and I made it. Austin agreed to it, and the next afternoon we used the three middle columns of the first page of the paper to present it to the public. We published the letter from the Retail Merchants' Association in three-colmun measure in ten-point black-faced type. Below it, in the same form, we printed what we had to say. It was this:

The foregoing, received yesterday, speaks for itself. We are publishing it for the benefit of the people of St. James and for the purpose of making clear what we have to say for ourselves.

We are peaceably inclined to all the world. We seek no fight with the Retail Merchants' Association, but the foregoing cannot be accepted in any light save a declaration of war. As such we accept it, and we here and now declare that we are prepared for war.

The Retail Merchants' Association has attempted to dictate the editorial policy of this newspaper, first by offering us advertising if we would do what it wanted done, and afterward by threatening to withdraw advertising if we failed to yield to its demands.

We cannot be controlled by either method, and we hereby announce that any member of the Retail Merchants' Association who is now advertising with us and wants to quit may have his contract by calling at our office. We do not want his business if he thinks he can use it as a bribe. The same principle applies to those who may consider advertising with us in the future.

The obligation of the St. James Sun is to the people of St. James. We believe the people are entitled to five-cent fares to the park and we shall work for five-cent fares until we get them.

Whatever this be, make the most of it.

Austin and I signed this statement, sent the paper to press and sat down and held our breath. We felt we had either made or wrecked the paper and naturally we were something more than curious to see what would happen.

It began to happen mighty fast. The paper had not been on the street more than twenty minutes before the telephone began to ring. It rang every few minutes from three-fifteen until Austin and I went home at six o'clock, and it was sweet music. Thirty-two of the individual members of the Retail Merchants' Association called up one or the other of us and emphatically repudiated the action of the board of directors. They declared they had never heard of the boycott until they read the directors' letter in The Sun, and that they wouldn't think of attempting to control our editorial policy by giving or denying advertising.

There was one fly in the ointment, and it was a monstrous big fly. Gorman & Rudge, the second largest department store in the city, took us up on our offer to cancel the contracts of any advertisers that desired them canceled. The manager of the store called at the office, produced a copy of the paper, curtly demanded his contract, declined to talk with Austin, pocketed his agreement which had been signed but a few weeks before, and departed. When he walked out of the office eleven thousand dollars of our annual advertising receipts went with him, never to return. This was the only big advertiser we lost as a result of our stand. Mills Brothers, the Streets, the Longmans and the Tuttles, the foremost influences in the Retail Merchants' Association, we had already lost, and they were no more determined to control us or force out of business now than they had been before, so we had not hurt ourselves by antagonizing them.

The next day we followed up our declaration by printing interviews with all but about a dozen members of the association, in which they disavowed any connection with the boycott. We discovered that only seven of the fifteen directors were present at the meeting at which the letter to us was drafted, and we published this fact, with the names of the seven—five of them constituted the committee that had previously called on me. We explained that the whole thing had been cooked up by Van Dyke, who had used a little handful of merchants to try to stop our campaign for five-cent fares to the park.

In an editorial I thanked the individual members of the association for their confidence in The Sun, commended them for refusing to be used by Van Dyke, declared that the seven directors had been faithless to their trust and called upon them to resign. I told of the cancellation of the Gorman & Rudge contract and reiterated our offer to give up any other contract upon demand.

Except for the loss of the Gorman & Rudge advertising the effect of our ultimatum was magnificent. Scores of readers telephoned to us to congratulate us on our courage and to thank us for fighting for them, and we received hundreds of letters expressing this same sentiment. We published a page of the letters and took advantage of the arused public interest to get in some good hard blows for an honest, progressive delegation to the State Legislature to work for a new charter and primary election law.

Though we felt pleased over the general results and had the satisfaction of realizing that we had won a victory in a holy cause that had, incidentally, attracted a great deal of attention to us and to the work we were trying to do in St. James, Austin and I did not underestimate the significance of the loss of the Gorman & Rudge business. That was serious, for we knew it meant a heavy draft on our diminishing reserve. We realized that unless some miracle brought into the paper advertising that we could not reasonably expect to get in the immediate future, it wouldn't be long before our money would be gone and we would be facing a deficit of three thousand or four thousand dollars a month. We saw that we should simply have to win that legislative election in the fall. We felt sure that if we won it the prestige we would gain and the new charter that would probably result therefrom would give us the public recognition and the circulation necessary to force our ex-advertisers to use The Sun in self-defense. So we plunged into the most vigorous campaign we could make on the new charter issue.

In that fight I had the satisfaction of feeling and seeing the evidences of the work we had been doing for more than a year. The business men I had discovered when I was hunting for independent candidates for mayor and assessor—the potential insurgents of the community—were rapidly breaking away from the old Tuttle-Van Dyke influence. I had been pounding so long and so hard on the proposition that the people and not a few professional politicians, public service corporations and business men ought to run the town, that the idea had begun to take hold. The masses had grasped it early in the fight, but now a great many of the so-called "better element" were beginning to understand and believe it. Merchants, lawyers, doctors, architects, builders came to the support of the Greater St. James committee; in fact, I think if one had gone up one side of the street and down the other in the business section he would have found a majority of the men he encountered in hearty sympathy with The Sun's fight, for the Sun's reasons. Furthermore, he would have found a decided inclination on the part of the men of St. James to say so openly and plainly. The old combination was breaking up; evidences of it were plenty. The city was stirring, was on the verge of turning over, getting its eyes open and waking up with a start.

The Greater St. James Committee was working along general lines, advocating a new charter for the civic, commercial and social betterment of the community. It was not a political organization and could not pick out candidates or make a campaign for any party or ticket. I found twenty-five members of the committee, however, who were willing to come out into the open with an organization that we called the "Progressive Municipal League" and to make an open fight for individual candidates. The city was normally Democratic and the Democratic organization didn't seem to be quite so corrupt as the Republican, so we decided to seek the nomination of four good men for Representatives and one good man for Senator on the Democratic ticket. I should have preferred to make the league strictly non-partisan, but party lines were still pretty closely drawn and the others thought our best chance lay with the Democrats.

We decided on two lawyers, a retail clothier and a doctor, all under forty-five years of age, as the league's candidates for the House, and upon a former circuit judge, an exceptionally strong, courageous man of advanced ideas, for the Senate. The primaries were to be held September nineteenth, and the Tuttle and Van Dyke people had their candidates out and were working day and night with their precinct organizations to head off the defeat that they now realized was almost certain to be their portion. The Progressive Municipal League was able to muster enough workers to assign three men to every polling place, and they were not the ordinary riff-raff that work on election day either. They were well known citizens of good standing and reputation, men who had never before taken an active part in an election, but had considered that sort of thing rather sordid and had left it to the rougher element. Now they were ready to take off their coats, shelve business for the day and stand watch that their city might be regenerated.

The Remedy in Sight.

The day of the primary elections finally arrived—too soon, I feared, as I crept into bed at half-past two, after a day and night of nerve-tearing work in final preparations, with the prospect of rising at six and spending as much time as possible at headquarters and at the polls. I was still haunted by what had happened to us in the city primaries; in spite of the better organization, the better campaign of publicity, the heightened public interest and the benefit of experience, I felt we had left undone many things that we ought to have done.

Sixteen hours later I cursed myself for my stupidity and timidty. We nominated our whole ticket, with almost enough votes over to nominate it a second time. The five candidates of the Progressive Municipal League carried every ward by overwhelming majorities in the Democratic primaries; they lost only two precincts out of fifty-three. Never in the history of St. James had such a vote been cast, and I doubt if such a vote has been cast since. The whole town simply walked to the ballot boxes and voted for the men pledged to get a new charter and fair elections. No matter what the intentions of Van Dyke and the Democratic organization might have been, they made no attempt to defeat the will of the rank and file after it was expressed. They did not dare. It was too stupendous, too terrorizing. They were forced to yield to the inevitable. They ground their teeth, but the returns from every precinct were the true record of what the public had spoken.

SHERMAN AT LOVE FEAST.

Vice-President Meets Party Leaders at Lunch.

New Castle, Ind., Oct. 12.—Vice-President Sherman, former Congressman James E. Watson and nearly a hundred Republican politicians yesterday attended a party love feast and enjoyed a chicken dinner in the country near this city.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Sherman made a speech in the Court House yard to a large audience, in which he praised Republican policis and predicted the renomination and reelection of President Taft. Last night there was a banquet at which many speeches were made, but political subjects were carefully avoided. At a conference late yesterday afternoon the "get-together" feeling was very marked and many suggestions were made as to the best manner in which all Republicans can be brought into line for all the party tickets.

Mayor at A. O. H. Fair.

A large attendance was at the A. O. H. fair in T. A. B. Hall last night, and enjoyed an address by Mayor George W. V. Moy. Visiting delegates came from Dunellen, South Plainfield and other places. Previous to the opening of the fair, last night, the members of Division No. 4 paraded about town, headed by a fife and drum corps.

BOY AND THE BIBLE; SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Franklin K. Mathiews will deliver his second lecture in the course, "The Soul of the Boy," tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 in the Y. M. C. A. hall. The subject will be "The Boy and the Bible, or, Geeting the Bible in Without Crowding the Boy Out." A synopsis of the lecture follows:

Introduction: The Bible the "Book of Books" but not the only book for moral and religious training—the place of classic literature, missionary biography, and the Book of Nature.

1. The God of the Bible the God of the Boy: The Child's natural capacity for religion; capacity for the divine not capability; "innate depravity" and "original sin"—the meaning of the sense of the sin in the child; the place of fear in religious training—the emotional and instinctive elements in a child's experience of the divine; the religion that is natural to childhood—Is a boy ashamed of being good?

2. The God of the Boy the God of the Bible: How the children feel toward the Old and New Testiment scriptures at different ages; how they feel toward the various books of the Bible at different ages; their interest in the different scenes, stories and characters of the Bible at different ages; the development of their interest in the scenic, narrative and personal elements of the Bible as age advances; what is the development of interest in the person and works of Jesus as age advances?

Six large charts presenting the above survey of children's interest in the Bible, based on the study of 1,000 children recently made by Prof. George Dawson, will be shown. An exhibit of some of the best books to interest children in the reading of the Bible will be shown, and the best kind of Bibles to give to boys will be exhibited.

With the co-operation of Miss Bowman a selected, graded list of books of Bible stories in the Public Library has been prepared and will be distributed. The mothers who have them are requested to bring Prof. St. John's charts of "Childhood" and "Adolescence." The lecture is for all the mothers of Plainfield and a special invitation is extended to all Sunday-school teachers.

GEN. SICKLES SPEAKS TO REGT'S SURVIVORS

Among those present yesterday at the reunion of the Eleventh Regiment, N. J. Volunteers, in Morristown, was Captain William H. Hand, Fire Chief T. O. Doane and Thomas Titsworth. There were twenty-seven members in attendance, including Gen. Dan Sickles, of New York, who gave what he styled a "heart-to-heart" talk to his comrades. While apologizing for not being a speech-maker, his utterances, delivered in a reminiscent vein, vividly recalled memories of the pleasures and hardships the men had experienced during their term of enlistment in the Civil War and which in subsequent years have bound them together with ties which only death can sever.

Gen. Sickles told of the friendship that had existed between himself and Gen. Longstreet after the war and until the latter's death. The battle of Gettysburg was recalled and described from the General's viewpoint; the injury he had received there which resulted in the loss of his leg, after which he had been carried on a stretcher from Chancellorsville to Washington, a three days' trip, was related and he told how President Lincoln had gotten up out of bed upon being told of Gen. Sickle's arrival and came out to greet him.

The veterans were entertained in the basement of the Methodist Episcopal church, where the banquet was also served. The business meeting was held in the morning in the Morristown Post headquarters.

TUTTLE TO APPOINT DIRECT TO NAVAL ACADEMY.

According to an announcement made by Congressman Tuttle, he will not follow out the method employed for many years by former Congressman Fowler in making appointments to Annapolis and West Point from the fifth Congressional district. The latter each year conducted competitive examinations in the Pingry school, Elizabeth, the applicant securing the highest average in the mental and physical tests, securing the appointment. Congressman Tuttle, said yesterday that owing to the scarcity of applications, he would make the appointments direct, which is the method most in use among congressmen.

Up to date he has received but two applications for appointments to the naval academy, and he is not prepared at this time to announce who the fortunate candidates will be. He will have no appointments to West Point during his present term of office.

The Record's Qualities.

What other educative force that any man can bring into his home can compare with the daily newspaper? In making choice of newspapers the local newspaper should always be preferred for local news. In the wider general field The Philadelphia Record is a general favorite; because it is clean; because it is accurate; because it is impartial; because it is in no sense yellow. These are the peculiarities and superiorities which have made it the most widely circulated of Pennsylvania daily morning newspapers.

BUYS ROBIN HOME

Thomas G. Clynes Purchases Country Estate of Alleged Bank Wrecker.

IT'S NEAR WADING RIVER, L. I.

One of the Finest Houses on North Shore Costing $125,000 Becomes the Property of a North Plainfielder.

Driftwood Manor, the country estate of Joseph G. Robin of Northern Bank fame near Wading River, L. I., has been bought by Thomas G. Clynes of Mercer avenue, North Plainfield. The deal was closed on Tuesday, but not until yesterday did it become known that the house upon which Robin had spent a fortune had passed finally out of his hands. The house is one of the finest along the north shore and was the scene of many parties when Robin lived there.

The house is three stories tall and is built of concrete at a cost of $125,000. It stands on an elevation which is reacher by a series of natural terraces. The house is in the centre of the estate and about half a mile from the highway. The property Robin bought in 1907 in the name of the Wading River Realty Company. He bought 112 acres for which he paid $12,000. Shortly after he mortgaged it to the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of Rochester for $30,000 and to the Aetna Indemnity Company, both of which were controlled by Robin, for a second mortgage of $15,000. Later he bought in his own name five additional acres. He then began the construction of Driftwood Manor. His order was to spare no expense in making the house one of the show places of the Wading River section.

The house is in the Italian Renaissance style. When it was finished he erected a granary, a pighouse, a chicken house and a manager's lodge, all of concrete, at a cost of $40,000. In his palmy day the pighouse held 300 pigs and there were 500 chickens. The mansion contains twentyfive rooms, of which nine are bedroom. There are five baths. The lower part of the house is like a club, with a large hall opening into a dining room with an immense open fireplace at one end. There is a library and a dance room 40 by 60 in which Mr. Robin held his parties. In the basement are the billiard room, bowling alley and wine cellars, which are said to have a capacity of 10,000 quarts each.

It is estimated that Robin expended $300,000 in decorating and furnishing the house. In the kitchen, which is very large, nearly everything was of solid copper. Every room was finished in mahogany, and the marble used was imported from Italy. The walls were hung with tapestries. On the floors were rugs and animal skins. Some of the chairs were obtained from an old cathedral in Italy.

The property was transferred by the Wading River Realty Company to Robin's sister, Dr. Louise Rabinovitch, last December, while he was eluding arrest. Last April it was put up at auction to satisfy a lien of $4,900 held by Gilbert E. Loper, who built the house. It was sold for $5,100 to a man who represented the banker's sister. The sale of the property to Mr. Clynes was made by the Allee Realty Company and Geo. S. Hagerman. Mr. Clynes will make it his summer residence. The house is to be redecorated and altered.

JOS. SANTS' AFFINITY SENT TO COUNTY JAIL.

Mary Fay, of West Eighth street, was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning and sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and to be committed to the county jail for a term of forty days. She was arrested in company with Joseph Sants, of West Front street, on West Second street, after they had been accosted by the latter's wife, whose objections to the company her husband was keeping caused a hair pulling match. Sentence on Sants was suspended with a warning after the court had given him some good advice about taking care of, and confining his attentions to his own wife and family.

Not Banker Colucci.

It was stated in this paper last night that Michael Colucci, of Richmond street, had been arrested by the police in connection with a suspected case of theft. An investigation shows that the Michael Colucci in question resides on Johnson avenue. The Richmond street man is a banker and is highly respected and the error caused by a confusion of addresses is gladly corrected in justice to him.

GEN. BOOTH'S SON AS THANKSGIVING SPEAKER

The union Thanksgiving Day service will be held at the First Presbyterian church an Thanksgiving Day morning, and it is expected that Rev. Herbert Booth, of London, son of Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army, who will be here at that time will preach the sermon. This was decided upon at the meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Booth has been engaged to conduct special services at the Park Avenue Baptist church for ten days and efforts will be made to have him deliver the sermon on Thanksgiving Day.

A communication was received from the local letter-carriers and clerks at the postoffice thanking the ministers for their efforts in behalf of the Sunday closing of the postoffice. It was voted that Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, should write a letter to Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Pittsburg, expressing the regrets of the associations upon his leaving this city, and Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will write a similar letter to Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who recently retired from the pastorate of the First Baptist church.

An amendment to the constitution was offered and will be finally adopted at the next meeting, whereby pastors of outside churches such as Dunellen, Scotch Plains and South Plainfield may be elected to membership. Rev. Dr. DeHart, who recently removed here from Raritan; Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church, and Rev. Evarts C. Conover, of the Temple Baptist church, were elected as members of the association.

MISS KOLB GIVES A COLUMBUS DAY PARTY.

The anniversary of America's discovery was fittingly observed by Miss Celeste Kolb, of Arlington avenue, who entertained a large number of friends at a delightful Columbus party, last night. The parlor and dining room were appropriately decorated with Italian and American flags and suggestions of the great explorer's trip across the unknown sea. Imitations of the navigators graced the dining table and Spanish emblems enhanced the effect.

Dancing and games were the principal diversions and in addition there were informal piano and vocal selections Charles Kregar and Alvah Bowlby contributed several much-appreciated numbers, while a quartet enlivened the festivities with some close harmony. Supper was served at midnight.

Those present included the following: The Misses Kittz Ellis, Anna Ellis, Mildred Forristel, Margaret Harris, ulia Leahy, Celeste Kolb, and Alvah Bowlby, Charles Kregar, Theodore Pruden, Lawrence O'Neill, Millard Bellis, Herbert Autmen.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR IN ANNUAL CONVENTION.

John H. Doane was the local delegate at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Honor of New Jersey at the North Ward Bank Hall, Newark, and was made a member of the committee on laws. Supreme Dictator Edwin C. Wood reported that the lodge has reached greater success than ever before in the fifteen years of its existence and the work of the State lodge ranks with that of any other State.

The State lodge has a reserve of $300,000 and during its existence has paid out $99,000,000 in benefits. It was reported that while the State lodge was the first one to raise its rates to meet new conditions it is now on a firm financial basis and doing good work.

Urgent Need of Funds.

The Board of Trustees of the Anti-Tuberculosis League will hold a special meeting Tuesday night at its offices in the Babcock building to consider a question of finances.

PLAN TO FACILITATE LAST REGISTRATION

Voters who register October 24, will not necessarily be subjected to the answering of questions to the enlightenment of all within hearing distance, as a plan has been devised whereby the required information can be silently conveyed to the election officers.

Blanks have been printed on which appears the questions that one must answer. Under each is a line on which to write the answer. The voter can then prepare his replies at home, and all he will have to do in the presence of those at the polls will be to hand the slip to the election officers and sign his name.

The Republican County Committee has adopted the system, and blanks will be sent to all Republicans in Plainfield who have not yet registered. It is probabe that they will also be mailed to unregistered Republican voters in other municipalities of the county over 5,000 population.

Morris county and one or two other counties in the State have adopted this method of encouraging voters to register.

These questions that must be answered or the voter will be ineligible to vote on November 7. Although they had opportunities September 12 and September 26 to have their names placed on the registry list, still a majority of voters in many wards have yet to answer the questions prescribed by the Geran law.

These questions that must be answered include telling one's age, the number of the floor of his room occupied by the voter at his residence, name of the householder, length of time in State, etc.

Y. W. C. A. RECEPTION IS WELL ATTENDED

The fall apening reception held at the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday afternoon and evening, was attended by about 200 people. The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves, foliage and flowers. In the afternoon tea and chocolate and cake were served in the dining room. Mrs. W. A. Conner and Mrs. William D. Murray, poured, and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart and Mrs. John Gray. Foster received with Miss Parmley and Miss Bradchaw, the new secretaries. The visitors were shown through the building and appeared interested in the complete equipment and general appearance of everything.

In the evening there was a much larger attendance. Chicken salad, sandwiches and lemonade were served under the direction of Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. William D. Murray, Mrs. Frank W. French and Mrs. John Gray Foster. There was also a fine program of Scotch songs rendered by Messrs. Bliss and Ralston, of New York. Miss Elizabeth Chadbourne will have charge of the former and the name of the teacher for the other class will be announced soon.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON CHARGE OF THEFT.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dilts, of Somerset street, were given a hearing before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning on the charge brought by Louis Kadish, who conducts a store below the flat occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dilts. Kadish alleged that on September 30, it is alleged by the police, Dilts took a chair which was a part of a display on the sidewalk and the chair was found in his apartments when the police made a search.

Judge DeMeza held Dilts under $50 bonds to await the action of the Union County Grand Jury and dismissed the complaint against Mrs. Dilts.

BOUND BROOK EASY

Planfield High School's First Game Proves to be a One-Sided Contest.

LOCALS SCORED AT WILL.

Ricketts and Nash Show Up Well—Players Given a Chance at Various Positions—Score Was 57 to 0.

The Plainfield High School football team started its season yesterday by defeating the Bound Brook High School eleven by a score of 57 to 0 on Parker Field. The local boys had the ball during almost the entire game and their goal was not in danger at any time. The Plainfield youths started off with their strongest lineup, but later all the members of the squad were given a tryout on the line. The backs were not changed. The visitor's chief weapon was a perfected forward pass.

P. H. S. started scoring in the first quarter. Nash kicked off to the 25-yard line, where Bound Brook was held for downs after a few short rushes. High School carried the ball for a short distance, but it was returned to the opponents on a fumble by Peacock. They carried the ball to the middle of the field, after a twenty-five yard gain on a forward pass to left end. P. H. S. again took the ball on downs and rushed through the line for long gains. Ricketts was caught just outside the goal and Nash took the ball over scoring the first touchdown. Nash missed the goal on the kick.

After several short gains by P. H. S. in the second quarter, Ricketts made a hole through right guard and sprinted for twenty-five yards. Nash carried the ball across from the fifteen-yard line scoring the second touchdown. The goal was not kicked. Ricketts was the next to score a touchdown after the interference had made a big hole through left guard. Nash kicked the goal. Captain Lindzey took his opportunity to score at the close of the quarter after a thirty-five yard run and Nash kicked the goal.

Ricketts stepped over the line again in the third quarter and no goal was kicked. Nash scored another touchdown and kicked the goal after he had made a thirty-yard end run. He soon repeated the trick with anoter touchdown and goal. Peacock was given an opportunity to score after the ball had been rushed to the two-yard line. Nash again kicked the goal. Ricketts soon made his third touchdown and Peacock completed the scoring after running half the length of the field with the ball which Nash had given him on a backward pass. Goals were kicked after both of these touchdowns. The lineups follows:

P. H. S.	Bound Brook.

McDowell, Sharkey	Heagney

Home Department Meets.

The quarterly meeting of the home department officers and visitors of Trinity Reformed church was held in the lecture room, yesterday afternoon. HOLIDAY'S EXERCISES AT MOUNT ST. MARY'S

The students of Mount St. Mary's College observed Columbus Day yesterday, by holding exercises on the lawn of the old St. Gabriel's academy at Manning and Watchung avenues. An interesting program was rendered in presence of the faculty and pupils and invited guests. Father William H. Miller delivered the principal address and Grand Knight H. P. Greenwood, of Watchung council, Knights of Columbus, together with a delegation of members, was present as a representative of the order.

Prizes had been offered for the best essays from each of the college's three departments on the subject, "The Life and Voyages of Columbus," and were awarded as follows, Father Miller making the announcements: College department, first, Miss Loretta Nolan, of Trenton; second, Miss Irene Duchesne, of North Plainfield; honorable mention, Miss Irene Smith, of New York. High School department, first, Miss Marcella Vooz, of South Bethlehem, Pa.; second, Miss Frances O'Hara, of New York; honorable mention, Miss Annie Dunigan, of Woodbridge. Grammar school department, first, Miss Pearl Jones, of Trenton; second, Miss Eleanor Ryno, of Rahway.

The program was as follows:

Columbia, Margaret Ribsam; maids of honor, Katharine and Frances Fagan; soloist, Irene Smith; chorus, school; recitation, "Columbus," Miller, Agnes O'Connor; patriotic march, boys; pledge and satiine to the flag, school; address, Rev. William H. Miller; pantomime and chorus, "The Star Spangled Banner," school; essay, "Columbus," Loretta Nolan; Columbus' favorite hymn, "Ave Sanctissima," school.

LOCAL COUNCIL HEARS ARCANUMITE CHIEFS

Plainfield council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, held an open meeting in its rooms in the Babcock building, last night, for the purpose of allowing non-members and others to hear addresses on the work of the order. The principal speakers were Supreme Regent Joseph M. Arnold, of Princeton, and Deputy Joseph Ammerman, of Bayonne. Regent Howard W. Satterfield, who was in charge of the meeting, also spoke, as did H. A. Todd and other members of Plainfield council.

The addresses by Mr. Arnold and Mr. Ammerman were very interesting. They detailed the financial and other benefits resulting from all fraternal orders in general and the Royal Arcanum in particular, the magnitude of which is seldom realized. The foresight of lodge protection in case of illness and death has been the means of providing thousands of people from want. The strength of the Royal Arcanum in membership and assets were given in figures, showing that it is one of the strongest in the country.

Cigars were passed and the statements were discussed informally. The attendance was quite large. Similar meetings are to be held throughout the State, the purpose being to rouse interest in the order.

HOLIDAY'S FESTIVITIES AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

Columbus Day was celebrated at the Plainfield Country Club in the evening with a dinner-dance. There were about forty guests for dinner, and seventy-five attended the dance which followed. Joseph Denny, piano, and Fred VanEpps, banjo, furnished the music. The dancing continued until after midnight.

Throughout the day a large number of members and friends visited the clubhouse and course and Steward Christoffersen served lunch to seventy people at noon.

"Ty" Cobb Coming Here.

"Ty" Cobb, considered by many baseball fans as the greatest ball player in the country, will appear at The Plainfield theatre, Wednesday night, November 1, as the hero in George Ade's great play, "The College Widow.' Cobb has been engaged for the entire season in this production and as he has many admirers in this city it is predicted that he will be greeted by a capacity audience.

Phillip Vroom.

Phillip Vroom, a retired school teacher, and brother of Miss Wilhelmina Vroom, of this city, died yesterday at his home in Bayonne.

Miss Mildred Schlessinger, of Yonkers, N. Y., has returned after a visit with friends in the borough.

ADDRESSES MEDICOS ON DISEASES OF SKIN

The Plainfield Medical Society held its quarterly meeting and banquet at The Homestead last night, there being a full attendance of the local physicians. Following the dinner, Dr. Howard Fox, of New York, a specialist in skin diseases, gave an interesting talk. Dr. Fox is prominently connected with the Skin and Cancer Hospital, in New York, and also contributes valuable articles to medical journals. An informal discussion followed his talk.

Dr. Fox is a cousin to Mrs DeWitt C. Ivins, of Watchung avenue, and was a guest at the Ivins home during a portion of his stay in this city.

GRAVELY ACCUSED, GOT AFTER A LONG CHASE

William Richter, twenty years old, of East Second street, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Dobson on an indictment found by the October Union County Grand Jury last year. Since that time he has been a fugitive from justice and was traced all over the West and to South America. The police had reason to believe that he would return to his home here and had the house under surveillance. Patrolman Dobson met the young man a few doors from his home and placed him under arrest.

The crime with which the prisoner is charged is of a grave nature and was brought by the parents of Andrew Santabarba, ten years old, of Watson avenue, who was employed as a caddie at the Westfield Golf Club at the same time Richter worked there. Since its commission the lad has underwent several operations. Richter was taken from police headquarters to the county jail and efforts will be made to have him admitted to bail.

After leaving here the fugitive went to Asbury Park. When he learned that he was wanted by the police he fled to Philadelphia, where he obtained employment only to rob his employer, it is alleged by the police, of $100, with which, it is alleged, he made his way to Panama. Returning to this country he landed at New Orleans several months later. He was then traced to Memphis, Tenn.; Boise, Idaho; Kansas City, Mo.; Little Rock, Ark., and a number of other western cities, but always managed to elude the police by but a few hours.

RETIRING PRESIDENT PRESENTED WITH PIPE.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest held its annual meeting last night at the parish house, with the retiring president, James A. Maynard, in the chair. The election will take place Octobber 26. These officers have been nominated:

President, William J. Ochiltree; vice president, George Caskey; treasurer, Robert Laramour; secretary, Mortimer Givens; financial secretary, J. R. Harris and Henry Sieglin.

Juan A. Babcock presented Mr. Maynard with a handsome pipe on behalf of the club, at the same time expressing the appreciation of the members for his services. During a social hour, refreshments were served, a smoker enjoyed and cards were played. Three new applications for membership were received.

REV. DR. CHARLES A. EATON TO TALK ON CHRISTIANITY.

The October meeting of the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors, Friday night, October 20. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, who resides at Watchung, will be the speaker. His subject will be: "The Strength and the Weakness of American Christianity."

Darn Kid.

Lawrence Fahn, who has been known for many years as the "Darn Kid," has discontinued his tailoring shop on West Second street and has taken a position with Weinberger's, 202 West Front street, where he will do cleaning, pressing and repairing. He invites all his friends to call and see him.

Rev. Mr. Miller to Preach.

Rev. Royal R. Miller, who preached so acceptably at the Church of the Holy Cross last Sunday, will again have charge of the services on Sunday, morning and evening. Mr. Miller is an eloquent preacher and has made a favorable impression among the members of the parish.

—Fresh vegetables, the finest in the market, will be offered for tomorrow's trade at Neuman Bros.' An early selection is desirable.

HONOR COLUMBUS

LODGE'S TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

More Than 150 Attended the Celebration Held at Hotel Waldorf—Senator and Mayor Among Speakers.

The 419th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus and the tenth anniversary of the organization of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, were jointly celebrated by 150 knights and some friends last night at the Waldorf Hotel. The dinner was one of the finest ever served in this city and was fully in keeping with the reputation of the Waldorf.

Toastmaster George J. Tobin read a letter from Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church, explaining his absence owing to his health, and a similar communication from Father Bogan, of St. Mary's church, for the same cause. He also read telegrams from Vivian M. Lewis, C. A. McGlennon and James Baker, who were announced to respond to toasts, expressing regret over their inability to be present. Mayor Smalley was also unable to attend.

Owing to the speakers' list being thus curtailed, Toastmaster Tobin mustered as speakers Mayor G. W. V. Moy, former Mayor James F. Buckle, Judge William Newcorn, Father Daniel F. Hogan, of St. Mary's church; District Deputy Thomas J. Doyle, of Trenton; National Warder Thomas J. McLoughlin, of Newark; Assemblyman Calvin Brodhead and Grand Knight H. P. Greenwood.

Edward J. Sweeney, of Bayonne, was called upon first and the high standard his remarks set acted as an incentive to those following as well as being greatly enjoyed by the diners. Taking his hearers about the old world with the discoverer in his quest of some one to furnish the means for making the discovery, the speaker led them by easy stages up to the present time and closed with a short review of Catholic achievements, citing historical facts both in times of war and peace to illustrate his remarks.

Senator Martine received an ovation. He gave one of his characteristic addresses in which he said that he can see a Christian in every faith and a statesman in every nation. Continuing he spoke of the remarkable growth of the Knights of Columbus and the laudable work the order is doing by endeavoring to perpetuate the memory of Columbus. In twenty-nine states, he said, the day is now being observed as a legal holiday and sixteen of these states are celebrating it as such for the first time. By next year he hoped there will be as many more.

Mayor Moy, who was next introduced, expressed his pleasure at being present and noted the friendly relations existing among men of different faiths. Being entirely unprepared for making a speech he concluded by mentioning some of the ideas which occurred to him while listening to the other speakers and fraternizing with the guests. Father Hogan quoted more historical facts in which Catholics have played important parts and said that it was with pardonable pride that the Church looks back upon its accomplishments. Admonishing his hearers to adhere to the same principles of their forefathers he said that the same inspirations that had prompted these acts in the past would be felt in times of need in the future.

Former City Judge William N. Runyon congratulated the knights on the selection of their patron saint and said that as obstacles arise in the future, one has but to look back upon the difficulties that beset Columbus on every side; of his disappointments, heartaches and yearnings and of the wonderful patience and persistence he displayed, and when these qualities are contemplated a knight could not but feel inspired to push steadily on to the desired end.

Andrew E. Kenney recited the history of the order here since its inception, telling of the purpose for which Watchung Council was organized and briefly related some of the things that have been accomplished and mentioned some that are anticipated in the near future.

Judge Newcorn responded as the next speaker, giving the knights credit for their past acts and encouragement for the future undertakings. District Deputy Doyle, National Warder McLoughlin, former Mayor Buckle, Assemblyman Brodhead and Grand Knight Greenwood spoke on the tenets of the order as they appealed to him.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of George J. Tobin, chairman and toastmaster; Daniel J. Courain, Francis J. Blatz, Andrew E. Kenney, John J. Kenney and Arthur A. Cannon.

This Boiler saves coal

The square fire pot cuts down coal bills one-quarter, because its effective radiating area is 25 per cent. more than in boilers of like dimensions.

The square corners prevent ashes from clogging and choking, thus relieving you of much disagreeable labor. A cutting bar smashes all clinkers. The is easily controlled—moderate or intense heat, as you like, in a few minutes. Note in this sectional view how all interior surfaces tend upward toward the front connection. This means quick water circulation and lively steaming. Many other strong points. Ask your dealer.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Recorder D. S. Campbell's court was enlivened Wednesday night by two cases. George Meyer, a baker, employed by Isaac Kuppenberg, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct in the latter's bakery and was fined $3. Frank Fox also owned up to riding a wheel on the sidewalks and handed up a dollar for his indiscretion. Day Marshal John Hill made both the arrests.

While the local drill crew was shunting freight cars opposite the depot yesterday afternoon, a "flying switch" attempted was not made. Three cars followed the engine into the siding instead of continuing on the main track, and bumped it off the track. Another locomotive was secured and eventually replaced the disabled one.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Nuis, of New Market, left yesterday morning for Ocean Park, Cal., where they will remain until next May as the guests of Charles Ward, a former resident of the village.

The executive committee of the Board of Trade will meet in the borough hall tonight.

HORSE REPLEVINED FROM ONE STABLE, SEIZED AGAIN.

While waiting for Judge Mountain, of the East Orange District Court, to determine the ownership of a horse that has been at the Bullshead stables, in Newark, for some time past, Samuel Black, of Roselle, who thinks he owns the animal, and Thomas H. Hoy, proprietor of the stables, who says he knows he owns it, have been passing the time getting out writs of replevin seizing the horse and putting up bonds to back their legal procedure. The horse is now back in the sales stables, and the only one who has profited is the constable who served the respective writs.

Both writs are returnable next Tuesday, but it is not expected that the question of ownership will be decided on that day, because the court is full of cases ahead of it, and Mr. Hoy is looking for the deposition of the person in East St. Louis, who, he says, sold him the animal. He said yesterday he felt quite confident he could show the court that Black has not the shadow of a claim on the steed, but the deposition will come in handy. He took something for granted once before in a suit, which happened to be tried in the East Orange court, and, because he was trusting, the other side put one over on him.

Black had a team of horses stolen some time ago and he sent out a description. Some one advised him that a certain horse in the Newark stable answered the description of one of them. He went and took a look and felt satisfied his informer was right. Then he served a writ of replevin, which restrained Hoy from selling the animal. Yesterday Black decided he would put up a bond of $400 and take possession of the horse. Constable Abram S. Overmiller, of the East Orange court, served the writ and got the horse, stabling it not far away.

Hoy took his cue from that action and himself procured a bond for $500, which he posted with the court and obtained another writ of replevin. Again Constable Overmiller acted and this morning the horse was restored to the Bull's Head Stables. It will remain there until the suit is settled. Black paid Hoy $170 for the horse that was stolen. Hoy values the horse, which is now the subject of dispute, at $250.

WILSON TALKS IN LONG BRANCH

Tells Crowd He Isn't Worried About Fall Election.

Gov. Wilson Wednesday afternoon addressed 2,000 persons in the Lyceum in Long Branch. He was introduced by Judge John W. Slocum, candidate for State Senator. After praising the county candidates on the Democratic ticket the Governor spoke of Jefferson and likened him to Lincoln. Both, he said, were "first in the hearts of their countrymen."

"There are stand-patters in the Democratic party, but I am happy to say they are pocketed and sidetracked," said Wilson. "The Progressives are stalled. They got sidetracked in Hudson county and they cannot get anywhere because the line is blocked."

The Governor added he has no fear about the outcome of the fall election.

Wilson was the guest of Melvin A. Rice in Middletown before going to Red Bank.

SEIZED AND BITTEN BY HORSE.

Man Whirled In Teeth of Animal May Die.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Jacob Fucher, attacked by a horse when attempting to cross the crowded thoroughfare at Delaware avenue and Dock street Wednesday, was so badly mangled he may die.

The animal, attached to a wagon, was standing at the crossing when Fucher attempted to pass. Seizing the man by the shoulder with his teeth, the horse lifted him from his feet and whirled him around like a terrier shaking a rat. A crowd of onlookers rushed to the rescue, but before they could drag the animal away it had tossed its victim to the street and trampled him.

BROTHER STOLE SUIT MADE FOR WEDDING.

Brotherly love was stretched beyond the breaking point in Westfield yesterday when Ollie Brown, colored, decamped with the wedding raiment of his brother, Walter Brown, almost on the eve of the nuptial ceremony. It helped matters no whit, so far as Walter was concerned, when the fugitive was arrested, because the police are holding the garb as evidence against Ollie. The suit of clothes was made expressly for the wedding. Their appeal was too strong for Ollie to resist. With them he went to Newark. His brother was willing to excuse the fact of theft, but not when it had to do with his nuptial attire. If Ollie had helped himself to anything else, Walter made known, nothing would have been said. But the fact that he took the wedding suit was going too far. So the aid of the law was invoked and Special Officer Hensel went to Newark and captured Ollie, who was attired in the missing clothes. He was brought back to Westfield and committed to the county jail. Walter would like to get even the loan of his own clothes from the police, if only for the wedding, which takes place in a day or two, but his chances seem nil.

SAILOR ACQUITTED OF BIGAMY CHARGE.

Somerville, Oct. 13.—Augustus Shinsky, able seaman of the U. S. S. Delaware, bids fair to emulate the example of the proverbial sailorman who "has a girl in every port," according to the verdict rendered in his case in the Somerset court yesterday, which acquitted him of a charge of bigamy in the presence of his two wives, one of whom received the verdict with an air of contempt, while the other collapsed and was assisted from the courtroom.

The jury acquitted Shinsky of the charge of bigamy because of its belief that the sailorman, while having a wife in this town, married a second woman in Raritan, a mile away, under the belief that wife No. 1 had obtained a divorce from him and had married a second husband while he was at sea.

EVEN MONEY BETS ON THE BIG SERIES

Betting on the result of the world's baseball championship series is at even money, although the Giants have been quoted 7 to 5 favorites. Athletic backers tried to obtain these odds yesterday, but as soon as the money was produced Giant supporters asked for evens. Many bets at even money were made that Mathewson would not pitch the first game, as there seems to be an impression that McGraw will save him for Monday's battle in Philadelphia, putting Marquard in against the world's champions in the first contest. Many rumors of big wagers reaching beyond the $10,000 mark were reported to have been made, but particulars were lacking. It was said that a $7,000 commission was sen to New York from Philadelphia, but it could not be traced. Among the big fellows who are ready to back the Giants for the limit are E. E. Smathers, John A. Drake, George M. Cohan, Honest John Kelly, George Considine and a dozen well-known bookmakers, who say they will take any amount of Athletic coin. There is no doubt that the series will involve heavy speculation, but the bulk of it will be of a private nature.

The Athletics will leave Philadelphia at 4 o'clock this afternoon for New York. Connie Mack has engaged quarters at the Hotel Somerset and will bring these men with him: Pitchers Coombs, Plank, Bender, Morgan, Krause, Danforth and Martin; Catchers Thomas, Lapp and Livingston; Infielders Harry Davis, McInnis, Collins, Barry, Baker and Derrick; Outfielders Lord, Oldring, Murphy, Strunk and Hartsel.

It was predicted by baseball sharps yesterday that Coombs would pitch tomorrow's game regardless of McGraw's selection. Coombs was the Athletic's mainstay in the series with the Cubs last fall and is in magnificent trim. He is cool and steady under fire and Mack believes he will work well in the presence of the huge crowd. It is thought that Bender will be Mack's relief pitcher in case the Giants hit Coombs, while Plank will be reserved for Monday. Mack says that if he dared to take a chance with Morgan he could beat the Giants tomorrow. Morgan is an accomplished spitball pitcher, but he is inclined to be wild and rattled under pressure.

During the games Umpires Klem, Brennan, Connolly and Dineen will stop at obscure hotels, the location of which will be known by the National Commission exclusively. These officials will travel back and forth between New York and Philadelphia by themselves. They will avoid the trains used by the teams. It is probable that the Giants and the officials of the New York club will go to Philadelphia and back in a special train over the Pennsylvania Railroad. Shibe Park is four blocks from the North Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Gate tenders have been instructed to be on the watch for counterfeit tickets. The tickets sold for the games at the Polo Grounds are ordinary printed pasteboards, which could easily be reproduced. The New York club announces that holders of reserved seats will have no trouble finding them, as special policemen at the head of each aisle will not allow persons without coupons to occupy the chairs.

At the leading hotels is was said yesterday that rooms had been engaged by hundreds of persons who will arrive in New York today from Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and other cities. No sporting event ever has attracted so many visitors.

Two more bodies were taken from the wreckage at Austin, Penn., making the total number seventy out of esevent-four persons missing.

Two boys were drowned by the upsetting of a raft in a pond in Jamaica, a third boy being saved by the quick work of an ambulance surgeon.

Plainfield, N. J., October 13, 1911.

WANTED—$300.

Among the many charities supported by the voluntary subscriptions of the good people of Plainfield, none is more deserving than that conducted by the Anti-Tuberculosis League. From the first, it has been a had struggle for those who have devoted their time and energies to the laudable undertaking to meet the running expenses. Not only is a model camp maintained where the afflicted receive the best possible treatment and every comfort without charge, but a campaign of publicity on the causes and methods of prevention of the dreaded disease is pursued. The treasury it appears has been depleted and the league finds itself some $300 in debt. This amount at least must be raised at once if the splendid work is to be continued. Here is an opportunity for some well-disposed residents to help a most worthy cause. Any information concerning the details of the league's efforts in the past and plans for the future may be obtained by communicating with its president, William S. Tyler, or any of the trustees.

Something's wrong somewhere. James E. Martine praised Mr. C. Columbus last night and never once declared that if the latter were living today he would be a Democrat. Senator, your reputation is in danger.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Plainfield High School football team will go to Elizabeth Wednesday, October 18, to play the Battin High School eleven. Manager Phillips has arranged for a special car if enough rooters expect to go.

Two matches were finished yesterday morning in the Plainfield High School tennis tournament. Esther Phillips and Allen Doggett beat Pauline Gates and Warren Butler. This victory brings the winners to the finals, in which they will meet Jessie Stewart and Jack Zerega for the mixed doubles championship. The winners were easily defeated in the first set with a score of 6-1, but they developed fast form in the second and third sets, winning by 7-5, 6-4. The match between Frank Varley and Julian Linke vs. Dixon Phillips and Warren Butler went to the last named team by default.

The pupils of the Plainfield High School will be admitted at half-price to hear Beatrice Herford's monologues Monday evening in the P. H. S. auditorium.

The Misses Secor and Conner, members of the faculty of the Kearney High School, have returned after a visit with Miss Margaret Kenney, of Sandford avenue.

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

BROTHER RETURNS AFTER SIXTY YEARS.

Jersey City, Oct. 13.—William O'Brien, a ranch owner in the West, after an absence of about sixty years from this city, returned Wednesday and called on his sister, Mrs. Jeremiah Sweeney, of 209 Seventh street, who believed him dead. He got the gold fever in 1849 and went West and several years later, Mrs. Sweeney heard that he had settled at Lake Placid, Mich. That was the last she heard of him until yesterday, when he called at her home.

Mr. O'Brien is now about 85 years old and has amassed a fortune.

The reunion between brother and sister was affecting. There was a knock at the door of the Sweeney homestead and Neil Sweeney, Mrs. Sweeney's eldest son, answered it.

"Does Mrs. Jeremiah Sweeney live here?" an apparent stranger asked.

"She does," but she is busy now," said Neil.

"Are you her son?" asked the caller.

"I am," was the reply.

"Then," said the man, "I am your uncle, William, I am your mother's brother who left this city in 1849."

Mrs. Sweeney heard this from the dining-room and she rushed out and embraced her brother.

When Mr. O'Brien was a boy he carried water to the men who were laying tracks for the Erie Railroad, through the old Bergen tunnel.

HIGHER TROLLEY FARE IS FRGED.

Atlantic City, Oct. 3.—The Electric Railway Convention completed its session yesterday and elected the following officers: President, Thomas N. McCarter, of Newark; first vice president, General George H. Harries, of Washington, D. C.; second vice president, Charles N. Black, of San Francisco; third vice president, C. Loomis Allen, of Utica; fourth vice president, C. L. Henry, of Indianapolis; secretary and treasurer, H. C. Donecker, of New York; executive committee, P. S. Young, of Newark; H. K. Bennett, of Fitchburg, Mass.; J. N. Shannahan, of New York.

Arthur W. Brady, of Indiana, retiring president, said in his final address:

"The dimensions of the electric railway industry in the United States are even vaster than indicated by any statements recently made public. Most wonderful of all, this mighty industry employs for its motive power a force absolutely unused and unknown for the purpose twenty-five years ago."

The American Electric Railway Association has indorsed the following resolutions of its committee appointed to consider the subject of determining the proper basis for rates and fares:

"First, we believe that there exists a widespread need of increased fares if adequate service is to be furnished and capital secured to provide for the continued growth of the industry."

THOMPSON'S VISIT TO AUTO FACTORY

Andrew C. Thompson, of the Thompson Auto Co., the local distributor for the Studebaker Corporation, returned today from Detroit, Mich., where he was the guet of General Manager Walter E. Flanders of the Studebaker corporation at the E-M-F factories. Mr. Thompson boarded the Studebaker special train at New York, arriving in Detroit on Monday, where he spent two days inspecting the E-M-F factories, and enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Flanders. He now speaks in glowing terms of the trip, and especially of the hospitality of the Studebaker corporation.

"I was one of the party of dealers from this section who were personally invited to go to Detroit and inspect the facilities the company have for turning out Flanders and E-M-F cars," said Mr. Thompson. "I confess until my visit to Detroit I was just a little skeptical of the ability of any company to build 50,000 automobiles in twelve months. I had expressed that skepticism in a letter to Mr. Flanders personally and his response was 'come and see.' And he provided a special train of sumptuous appointments. There was every comfort. We had a royal good time in Detroit. We spent one day in the big plant No. 1 where E-M-F "30" cars are made, and then we spent a day in the still larger one, plant, No. 3, where Flanders cars are made from the pig iron to the complete fully equipped car.

"It was the most interesting experience I have ever had and I feel as if I know my product better than ever before. I know just how the cars are made and just what quality it put into them. Add to this the fact that I had the pelasure of meeting personally all the important heads of the departments in the enormous organization, and you will understand that I now feel as if I am indeed one of the family."

Mr. Thompson was enthusiastic in his description of Detroit, which is the world's great automobile center as well as one of the most beautiful cities in America. He devoted several hours to driving about the several parks and boulevards and one trip to Mr. Flanders' home was over thirty-two miles of road, a part of which was over the Bloomfield Hills.

ELKS PLAY CHAMPS ON THE OVAL TOMORROW.

Great interest is manifested in the game between the Plainfield Pets, winners of the Central New Jersey League pennant, and the Plainfield Elks team, champions of the State Elks League, which will be played tomorrow afternoon on Crescent Oval. Manager Marshall, of the Elk champs, has bolstered up his nine by the addition of Willie Keeler, in left and Ketler, the star keystone sacker of the Burlington Elks team, in his effort to lower the colors of the Central flag winners.

Manager Dorflinger will not make any material change in his line-up, feeling sure that his aggregation is strong enough to maintain its title. Linderman and Nelson will be his battery and Warry McLoughlin and Jack Torpey will be in the points for the Elks.

Blackwell-Newton.

Arthur R. Blackwell, of New York city, and Miss Bertha Newton, of this city, were married by Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, at his residence, 218 Watchung avenue, last night. The Misses Elizabeth V. and Eliza L. Blackwell, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. G. W. Bailey were the witnesses. The couple will reside in New York city.

Holiday Birthdays.

Called to the telephone from the table at the Knights of Columbus banquet last night, Joseph O'Keefe was informed that he was the father of a fourteen-pound son. This is the third time he has experienced this pleasure and on each occasion the little heir has arrived on a holiday, the first on a Washington's Birthday and the second on a Fourth of July.

County Fair Note.

Fred H. Firstbrook, the West Front street grocer, has on display in front of his store, one of the largest pumpkins seen in this vicinity in a long time. It weighs thirty-seven pounds and looks as though it might furnish the makings for two score man sized pies. The pumpkin was grown by Harold Leach, of the borough, from a recipe of his own.

Miss Jennie Hillman, of Philadelphia, is visiting Miss Rose Verdon, of Somerset street.

HUGE TIDAL WAVE TAKES 500 LIVES

Mexico, City. Oct. 13.—Buried under thousands of tons of water cast up by a terrible earthquake in the Gulf of California the cities of San Joe de Guayamas, El Palmo and Ortiz, on the eastern shore of the gulf, were destroyed early in the morning of October 4, and Guayamas, Aytata and Topolobampo were terribly damaged.

Owing to the fact that the hurricane succeeding the tidal wave five days, cutting off every means of communication with the outside world, no news of the terrible disaster leaked out until word was received from the Governor of Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora, yesterday calling for provisions, tents and clothing for the stricken survivors.

The message states that from 300 to 500 persons lost their lives either in the tidal wave or in the hurricane, and that it is impossible to estimate the damage done to property along the coast.

The earthquake occurred in the middle of the night and almost before the inhabitants of the coast towns had time to become alarmed at the earth tremors, a huge wall of water twenty feet high, swept in from the gulf, carrying everything before it.

Ships and houses were swept far inland and deposited half a mile or more on the sand dunes of the interior.

The survivors, almost all of whom are suffering from broken arms or legs, tell heartrending tales of the scene when the huge wave struck the sleeping towns and men and women were drowned in their beds or crushed beneath the fallen wreckage.

Men fought for pieces of boards to enable them to keep their heads above the water and women unable to save themselves held their babies aloft crying for someone to come and save them.

Seventeen ships in the harbor of Guayamas were totally destroyed and the wrecks now repose far inland, carried there on the crest of the huge wave.

Many of the dead, and it is feared a number of the living, were washed back into the gulf and there devoured by the great school of sharks which infest this arm of the Pacific.

FIELD GRAIN IS MADE BREAD IN HALF HOUR.

Beloit, Kan., Oct. 13.—What is believed to be a world's record in transforming standing grain into bread was established Wednesday by W. S. Gabel, a farmer living near here. Just thirty minutes elapsed between the time when the wheat was cut and when Mr. Gabel took the first bite of a biscuit which had been made from it.

As soon as the grain was thrashed it was rushed a mile and a half to a mill and made into flour and then taken to a baker, who made the biscuits. The previous record is said to be one hour.

LODGE FUNDS ARE MISSING.

Perth Amboy, Oct. 13.—Mrs. William De Bender, of 381 Market street, secretary of the Elizabeth lodge of the Daughters of Pocohantas, and until several weeks ago a resident of Newark, is minus $70.55, which she alleges was stolen during the night.

The police, however, do not seem inclined to aid in the search for the thief, as circumstances, they say, indicate that someone in the house is guilty.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASS'N CONVENTION THURSDAY

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the Union County Sunday School Association will be held in St. James M. E. church, Elizabeth, Thursday, October 19, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. An attractive program has been arranged for each session. Thomas B. Lindsay, of Rahway, president, will preside at the convention.

Among those who will take part at the morning session will be F. H. Andrews, who will give the Home department report. There will be other reports and short addresses on Sunday school work. In the afternoon, among other features will be an address by George E. Hall, of this city, on the subject, "Message from State Committee," and Miss Harriette R. Halloway, of this city, who will give a talk on missionary training.

The principal address in the evening will be given by Rev. Dr. Addison W. Hayes, of Westfield, on "Principals of United States Life Saving Service Applied to Consecration." F. H. Andrews will conduct the consecration service closing the convention. Luncheon and supper will be served to the delegates by the women of the Elizabeth churches. Several prominent State Sunday school workers will take part in the day's program.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

At the Plainfield theatre on Friday, October 20, Wm. G. Stewart offers Chas. B. Dillingham's original production "The Fair Co-ed," by George Ade and Gustave Luders, with Hattye Fox in the principal role of Cynthia Bright. Mr. Ade wrote "The College Widow," and he also wrote "The Fair Co-ed," and they may be termed mental twins. The scene of the former is laid at Atwater; the locale of the latter is at the rival institution of learning, Bingham.

"Madame X," the supremely triumphant melodrama which Henry W. Savage will offer, exactly as in New York, and with a notable cast of metropolitan players, at the Plainfield theatre Saturday, October 21, matinee and night, is the work of the most fecund and expert dramatist France has produced. Alexandre Bisson is the author in question. Oddly, though Mr. Bisson has written so many plays, "Madame X" is the first he has produced that is serious. Practically all its predecessors have been either farces or light comedies. Incidentally, many of these amusing works have been translated into English and produced with fine success in this country. It is also interesting to note that, like "Madame X," they have seen the glare of the footlights successfully in England, Germany, Russia and a score of other countries.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Julian Eltinge in "The Fascinating Widow" is an unmistakable hit at the Liberty Theatre in New York. Just why the women should take so enthusiastically to a man whose female impersonations attain their artistic excellence through an intimate acquaintance with the possibilities of their makeup, which he freely exposes, does not seem quite clear; but that is what they do with Julian Eltinge in his play, "The Fascinating Widow." The play, too, is filled with comical situations and possibilities which create no end of laughter and applause. Innocent amusement is plainly the aim of the author and it is admirably attained. Incidental music by Fred A. Mills in the form of pretty songs, adds to the charm of the play and enables Mr. Eltinge to reach his full scope in his impersonation. He is graceful, flirtatious and altogether a pretty good—and it might also be added a good looking—substitute for a stage girl. His voice is well handled both in speech and song and his dancing is a decided feature. But there are other laughable things in the play beside the situations.

It was a lucky day for Manager Brady and the Playhouse when "The Rack" fell down with such a crash, for it cleared the way for the immediate production of George Broadhurst's "Bought and Paid For," one of the best comedies of New York life that any American playwright has shown in many a long day. Not only is this play immeasurably superior to anything that Mr. Broadhurst has done before, but in one of its characters at least, James Gilley, he has drawn a picture of a parasite, which is a ceration. This role of Gilley as played by Frank Craven, and the almost equally droll and human character of his adoring wife as played by Marie Nordstrom, keep the audience in such fits of laughter that the serious story of the play becomes almost of secondary interest, and yet so admirable is the work of Julia Dean and Charles Richman in the leading roles of the telephone girl who marries for money and the young millionaire whose wife deserts him because he insults her when he is drunk that the honors of the performance must be divided between these four players.

PRISONER'S POCKETS BULGING WITH SILVER.

Somerville, Oct. 13.—Policeman Joseph Hanlon, yesterday morning arrested Christopher Miller, for whom the authorities had been searching, on the charge of stealing an overcoat and $30 from William Koechlein, of the Commercial Hotel. Miller's pockets were filled with silver coin when he was searched at the police station.

As Detective Totten was looking over the prisoner he received information of the robbery of a hotel at Whitehouse Station owned by George R. Reitze. The cash register in the bar-room had been broken open and $45 in silver taken.

The detective connected this robbery with the silver found in Miller's pocket. Reitze was sent for, and identified Miller as a man who had put up at his hotel Wednesday and suddenly disappeared after the robbery.

Koechlein also identified Miller as the man who disappeared suddenly from his hotel after his cash register had been robbed and his overcoat stolen. Miller finally confessed to having committed both robberies, and is held for trial.

Rev. Abram Duryea, formerly of Hackensack, has become assistant to Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, pastor of the Bergen Reformed church, Jersey City, and an informal reception was tendered to him at the church Wednesday night. Mr. Duryea resided in Hackensack for seventeen years during which time he was pastor of the Reformed church there. He is well known in this city.

LUCK OF A MINER.

What He Deemed a Disaster Brought Him a Fortune.

The miners of New Mexico tell a queer story which illustrates their belief in luck. A miner was trudging along one hot day through a gulch, with the sun shining on his back, when he smelled smoke and presently, to his dismay, discovered that his knapsack was on fire.

Like all miners, he carried a large lens for the purpose of examining specimens, and for want of room he had hung the glass on the outside and the rays of the sun had been concentrated on his pack.

As among the contents were fifteen pounds of powder he lost no time in dropping the dangerous burden and getting as far away as possible. The haversack fell between two big rocks, while the miner from a safe distance mournfully watched the smoke rising from his sole worldly possessions.

Presently there came a deafening explosion, and the miner went to gather up what he could find. Then his eyes almost started out of his head at seeing the quartz that had been blown up fairly glistening with gold. His powder had literally blown open a gold mine, and he was made a rich man in an instant. He named the mine the "Nick o' Time."—Exchange.

HINDU WOMEN.

Whatever Their Station They Are Gracious and Picturesque.

There are, of course, all kinds of Hindus. They range from the lowest levels of superstition and ignorance to high attainments of intelligence and culture. But in one respect they are all alike. "Never once," says Mr. Begbie, "have I detected the very smallest smirch of vulgarity either in manners or in dress." The Hindu may believe in 30,000,000 gods, he may hold that the world is flat and that his soul's salvation is endangered by the shadow of a European, "but he will have charm of manner and make a picture either in the unhandseled jungle or on the platform of a railway terminus."

But the Indian woman is the crown of her creation, as, of course, all women are everywhere. She may be unable to read or write, she may give food to idols and believe that her god or devil rides around the village at night on a plaster horse or a mud elephant, "but she will be modest and gracious in her manner, and her dress will be as beautiful as the flowers of the field." No matter how savage and heathen, how ignorant and stupid these people may be, they "have a nobility in their manner and a loveliness in their raiment."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Environment.

The street car conductor was about to be transferred to another line. Not his to reason why, yet on that occasion he did, and with the chief of the department.

"I don't like that line," he said.

"What's the matter with it?" asked the chief.

"It's commonplace," said the conductor. "I will lose my good manners if I go down there. The line I am on now is a well dressed line and a liberal education for the railway employee. I am not the same man I was when I was moved up there two years ago from a downtown line. I a mmore polite, my voice is lower, and I have spruced up in general appearance. It is that way with every man in the business. Put him on a line patronized by well dressed people and he will fix up to fit his surroundings. If I go back on that other line I will lose polish."

All the chief said then was "Well, well," but the conductor was not transferred.—New York Sun.

A Queer Animal.

"That is the only animal I ever saw that would eat and drink and sleep upside down," said a visitor to the zoo, indicating a fruit bat or flying squirrel from Borneo. It hung head downward in its cage. Three curved claws on what appeared to be its tail embraced a roof bar. In its pendulous position it reached out for the disks of banana the keeper passed through the bars. Finishing its meal, it swung over to a cup of water and took a drink. Then, folding its membranous wings, it closed its eyes and was soon asleep.—New York Sun.

Ball Money.

Blackmail used to be levied on the newlyweds in England to prevent them from being mobbed upon leaving the church. This "graft" was called "ball money," because it was given ostensibly to buy a football for the village green, but it rarely went beyond the nearest public house.

A Matter of Habit.

He (nervously)—What will your father say when I tell him we're engaged?

She—He'll be delighted, dear. He always has been.—Lippincott's.

As One Sees It.

"Jones grumbles that his wife can't take a joke."

"That's funny, seems to me."

"How so?"

"She took Jones."—Judge.

His Standing.

"Is Julia's suitor a man of birth?"

"Sure he's a man of berth. He's a Pullman car conductor."—Baltimore American.

Mind is the beginning of civilization, but the ends and fruitage thereof are of the heart.

LOCAL SOCCERS TO MEET HAWTHORNES

The Plainfield Association Football club and the Elizabeth Hawthornes will meet on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in what should prove a close and exciting game of soccer. This will be a league match and as the two teams are playing a strong game, a victory for Plainfield would insure the locals of holding the leading position.

This will be the first visit of the Hawthorns in a league fixture, having only been admitted to the league this season. Last year they won the championship in the Sons of St. George League. The local lineup will be as follows:

Goal, Patridge; backs, Somers, Lambertson; half-backs, Kenny, Zachel's, Cooper; forwards, Ingram, Heneghan, Heaume, Sutton and Jensen. McNeice, Crawford and Spalding will be the reserves.

—Peaches, white and yellow fruit, Bartlett and Sickel pears, Malaga, Toka, Niagara, Delaware and Concord grapes will be offered tomorrow at Neuman Bros.' This is especially fine fruit.

"The Fortunes of The Sun"

(Reprinted from the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia).

Copyright 1911 by the Curtis Publishing Company.

The next day The Sun committed that one unforgivable crime in the decalogue of the newspaper that has any metropolitan pretensions whatever. It got out its old rooster cuts and sprinkled them over every page in the paper. It crowed. The roosters went in red ink, and the editorial on the election went in three-column measure on the first page, also in red. For the one and only time in my two years in St. James I was openly, flagrantly and intentionally sensational. I was deliberately and maliciously yellow, but I didn't feel a flicker in the neighborhood of my conscience. The St. James Sun had done it, and I proposed that the people of St. James should have that fact driven home to them so hard they would never forget it. We had put brain and muscle and nerve and heart and soul and money into an honest fight; we had won a glorious victory; we were entitled to the credit. If I had it to do over again I should do it exactly the same way—and there's no truer test than that.

When Success Seems a Losing Game

An easy victory in the election was assured after the indorsement given The Sun, the Greater St. James Committee, the Municipal League and their candidates in the primaries. Van Dyke kept out of it altogether. Tuttle and his friends made only a perfunctory effort to elect the Republican ticket, and the Democrats were chosen by almost as large a vote as they received for the nominations. The Legislature did not meet until January, but we filled in the intervening time working out the details of the new charter and the primary law. The five new members of the Legislature and a committee of five from the Greater St. James Committee got busy immediately, and by January first they had drafted a bill embodying substantially the features I advocated the day after my defeat in the municipal primaries eight months before. A week before the Legislature opened the committee called a mass meeting at the auditorium for the purpose of reading the bill and explaining it. Seven thousand citizens attended and approved the bill unanimously, section by section. The legislators went to the Capitol with a solid front, backed by the indorsement of the mass meeting and by the big majorities by which they were nominated and elected. The Greater St. James Committee sent a delegation of twenty-five that camped at the Capitol until the bill became law. Neither Tuttle nor Van Dyke attempted to defeat it, although I watched them closely every day, confident that they would try to prevent its passage. For once, however, I did them an injustice.

Before the new charter became operative it had to be approved by the people at a special election. This election was set for April seventeenth. If the charter was adopted, the first primary under it—thoroughly legalized—would be held May seventeenth, with the first election June seventeenth. There was no question that the charter would carry, but the Greater St. James Committee organized a campaign for it anyway, and the Progressive Municipal League began casting about for candidates for the offices it created. By this time I had found others to bear much of the responsibility and do much of the work of this character, so I had a chance to confer with Austin over our own affairs.

We were losing about four thousand dollars a month, and we had less than twenty thousand dollars of our original sixty thousand dollars left. Two of the three big department stores were out of the paper; so was the biggest furniture store, the biggest clothing store and all the Tuttle companies. We still had the third department store and most of the small merchantts in our advertising columns, and we had almost caught up to the circulation of The Star, which had remained stationery ever since we had been in the field.

It was pretty hard to see the page and double-page advertising of the big stores in the other newspapers during the holiday shopping season, but when I reflected on why they had it, and why we didn't have it, I did not feel so badly.

When compared with the previous year our November and December business showed a loss and our expenses showed an increase. That was one of the particularly bad features of losing advertising. We not only lost the revenue, but incurred extra expenses in connection with the material used to fill the space that the advertising had occupied. In January the clearance sales were held, to clear the track for early spring and Easter trade, and again we showed a loss in business as against January of the year before. Editorially we were making a fine newspaper. The news and discussion of the new charter bill and the beginning of the campaign for its adoption furnished plenty of interesting reading. Our circulation thrived, and everywhere people talked about The Sun's victory and the new charter. But from an advertising standpoint the paper was sad to behold. Austin renewed solicitation of the men who had quit advertising with us because they couldn't control us, but he found them just as determined as ever not to give us another line. He talked circulation and civic progress from morning until night, but he brought no new copy back to the office, and it became more and more evident every day that we should soon have to call upon Mell, Butler and Ashman for help.

We agreed, however, to wait until April first before informing them how things were going. In the mean time Austin was to make a desperate effort to get Mills Brothers, the Streets, the Longmans, German & Rudge and the Tuttle companies back into the paper. If we won the charter—which was certain—and made a new contract with even of the big advertisers, we felt sure that our associates would provide more cash and that by the time the election was over and the new government established we would have sufficient prestige and circulation to get back all or nearly all of our lost business.

56th Anniversary

In this celebration it isn't a question of how cheap we can sell, but how low we can offer the medium and better kind of merchandise.

We cannot be too emphatic in dwelling upon this point: That all the goods were made up for this season—that every article is new, clean and thoroughly trustworthy—AND WE GUARANTEE EVERYTHING REGARDLESS OF HOW UNUSUAL THE PRICE.

Plan to come here tomorrow. There may have been many memorable sales in the past and there may be many great sales in the future, but judging by the values, we know there never was, and we doubt whether there'll ever be a money-saving event like this.

FELL AMONG THIEVES.

And the Old Man Didn't Know Which Set Was the Worst.

An old man from rural England with his wife was on a holiday in London and decided on an evening at a theater. He looked up the advertisements in the papers and selected a house where "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves" was being played. It was a "cheap" house, the price of stalls being given as two-and-sixpence. The farmer was surprised, however, on arriving at the box office to be met with a demand for 6 shillings for the two tickets. The extra sixpence per seat, it was explained, was for booking. Then he was called upon to pay sixpence for a program, and the female attendant who showed him to the seats also asked for sixpence, in addition to which there was a shilling to be paid for hats and coats being taken care of in spite of his protest that they could take care of them themselves. A footstool was brought for his wife and was accepted without suspicion that it would be charged for, but the attendant who brought it demanded another sixpence, and finally opera glasses were handed to them and payment of another sixpence requested. Then the farmer went in search of the manager and, finding him, said in a tone of deepest disgust: "You may do what you like with these tickets. There are so many thieves in front of the house that we don't think we want to see the forty on the stage!"—London Answers.

THUNDERSTORMS.

They Kill Over 300 Persons a Year In Madagascar.

Thunderstorms never occur in the arctic regions, and even the north of Scotland very seldom suffers from such a visitation. The nearer you get to the equator the more frequent and severe are the electric manifestations. In parts of Central Africa the average of thunderous days rises to the astonishing total of 250 per annum.

Yet there are curious exceptions. In Java and Sumatra, both intensely hot climates, there are but ninety-two storms yearly, and in Borneo only fifty.

The Gold coast of Africa has only sixty a year, which is less than occur in Florida, though the latter country is outside the tropics.

In Jamaica there is a thunderstorm every day during the rainy season, which lasts for five months. These storms almost always occur between midday and 3 in the afternoon.

Perhaps the most astonishing fact with regard to thunderstorms is that the island of Mauritius, which is only 550 miles east of Madagascar, has, on an average, only one thunderstorm in eighty years. Yet in Madagascar the lightning is more destructive than anywhere else in the world, the annual death roll being over 300.—Pearson's Weekly.

Costly Privacy.

Although a waiter, he was very human, so when he perceived that the young couple who had been assigned to his table had many matters tender and confidential under consideration he retreated to a respectful distance and stared at the opposite wall. The restaurant proprietor disapproved of that humanitarian attitude.

"Don't stand away back there," he said. "Go up and hang over that fellow's chair back for awhile."

"Oh, no," expostulated the human waiter. "They want to talk."

"Of course they do," the proprietor retorted. "That is why I want you to butt in. Every time you come near they will send you to the kitchen for a fresh order to get you out of the way."—New York Times.

Grim Relics.

A prison sale is held annually in Paris. The articles offered for sale are the clothes of murdered people, the instruments with which the crimes have been committed and the effects which have belonged to the deceased prisoners. Articles which have been taken to the prefecture of police and have not been claimed are also sold. The proceeds go to the Paris almshouse. Unclaimed jewelry is usually bought by ordinary brokers, but the articles which have belonged to criminals, especially those who are notorious, are bought at high prices.

Dodging a Difficulty.

"Are you going to send the Sparkler girl a wedding present?"

"No, old Sparkler and I had a squabble yesterday."

"That's too bad. What was the cause?"

"I really can't afford his friendship. He has five marriageable daughters."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Fast Talker.

The orator spoke about the things he had not said, the things he did not believe and the things he would not do.

"That fellow," observed the sailor, "is talking at the rate of about thirty nots an hour."—Judge.

A Faithful Likeness.

Sapleigh—I really don't think the photographer caught my expression, do you? Miss Keen (looking at photo)—I don't see any.—Boston Transcript.

A Strong Player.

Mother—What do you think you will make out of my daughter's talent? Professor—About a dollar a lesson, if the piano holds out.

His Monopoly.

"He has unbounded faith in himself."

"In other words, he has a monopoly of the faith in himself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

ELECTION ROUTINE

Some Information Concerning Duties and Dates Under the New Geran Law.

CONDENSED FOR THE VOTER.

What the District and County Boards Must Do—Registration In Places Under and Above 5,000 Inhabitants.

Under the new election law a great deal of confusion has arisen, as would be expected when trying something new, and the people have become mixed on the various dates. Below is published a list of the dates from the book of instructions for election officers which pertain to the general election.

Thursday, October 23, is the last day for the filing with the county clerk all certificates and petitions, naming candidates to be voted for by all the voters of a single county, or more than a single political division thereof, or where the candidates are to be voted for upon the county ticket. The Secretary of State, on or before this date, must certify to the county clerks the names of the candidates nominated by certificate or petition which have been filed in his office. It is also the last date for the filling of vacancies, the candidates for which are required by law to be nominated by petition and voted upon at a primary election. The names of the candidates to fill the vacancies must be filed with the county clerk by the county or municipal committees.

The third meeting of the boards of registry and election in cities, towns, townships, boroughs and villages exceeding 5,000 inhabitants will be held Tuesday, October 24.

The law requires that on October 25 a copy of the complete register made by each board of registry and election, outside of cities, towns, townships, boroughs and villages exceeding 5,000 inhabitants must be delivered by the chairman of the boards of registry and election to the county clerk. On this same date the judges of the boards of registry and election in municipalities less than 5,000 must deliver to the county boards of election all affidavits made before them on the registering of voters and take a receipt from the county board for them.

A sufficient number of sample ballots and one cent stamped envelopes must be furnished municipal clerks by the county clerk for the usual purposes on or before Saturday, October 28, and on or before the thirty-first of the month the municipal clerks must deliver the ballots and envelopes to the members of the district board of registry and election.

On October 31 also will be held the final meetings of the board of registry and election, outside of cities, towns, townships, boroughs and villages, exceeding 5,000 inhabitants for the revision and correction of the registers. The meetings are held from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock in the evening. Before noon of the next day, November 1, the members of the boards of registry and election must deposit the envelopes containing the sample ballots in the postoffice.

All official ballots must be printed and in possession of the county or municipal clerks by November 2. The ballots are subject to inspection by the candidates or their agents. All papers appointing agents or challengers must be filed with the county board of elections on or before the same date. The board then will issue to the agents or challengers the permits prescribed by law. On this day the board sits at its office from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the evening for the purposes of adding names to and erasing names from the register of voters. Also the county clerks must certify to the Secretary of State the names and addresses of the nominees for the Legislature.

The county board of elections will hold its final meeting November 4 at its office from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the evening for the purpose of adding names to and erasing names from the registers of voters.

On November 6 the township and municipal clerks must deliver ballots to the clerks of the respective boards of registry and election and take receipts therefor. The township or municipal clerks, on or before this date, must have fixed up the election room with booths, etc. On this same date it is allowable for the county board of elections to meet to fill any vacancies existing on any of the boards of registry and election.

On this same date a justice of the Supreme Court, assigned to hold the Circuit Court, and the judge of the Court of Common Pleas in each of the several counties of the State, or one of these judges will hold a court

MISS MARION PIERSON TO WED DAVID MAUGER

Miss Marion Pierson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pierson, of 1138 Myrtle avenue, and David Mauger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mauger, of West Seventh street, will be married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the parents of the bride-elect. Rev. George W. Gardner, former pastor of Grace M. E. church, North Plainfield, but now of Jersey City, will perform the ceremony.

The maid-of-honor will be Miss Helen Pierson, sister of the bride-elect, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Ruth Mauger sister of the bridegroom-elect, and Mrs. Raymond Smith, of this city. Mildred McCutchen, niece of Miss Pierson, will be the flower girl, and the ushers will be Carlton Perrine, of East Orange and Prescott Wyske, of Brooklyn.

There will be 150 guests from all parts, including California, New York, Brooklyn, Newburg, Boston, Schnectady, Hoboken, Summit, East Orange and this city and among the guests will be Mrs. Pierson's mother, Mrs. Abram Baker, and her sister, Miss Louise Baker, of Pasadena, Cal., who formerly lived here. The wedding marches will be played by Suhr's Imperial orchestra, which will also furnish music for the reception.

Miss Pierson is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, and is popular. Mr. Mauger is a graduate of Stevens Institute, Class '99.

CHARITY ORGANIZATION WORK IN SEPTEMBER

A number of women, the advisory and relief committees of the Charity Organization Society, met at the committee room of the society's office yesterday. Mrs. Kathleen Ryder was in the chair, and the others present were: Mrs. Frank Clark, Mrs. Hugh F. Fox, Mrs. J. C. Haywood, Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. B. S. Shrete, Mrs. David Rowland, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Mrs. W. S. Tyler, Mrs. W. B. Tyler, Mrs. F. D. Warren, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Miss Elsie Burke, Miss Florence Huntington, Miss Florence Tweedy.

Miss Holly and Miss Phillips presented a report of the work for September. It showed a total of 120 families in charge, 186 applications were made at the office and 244 persons called in regard to giving assistance. The secretaries made 337 visits and 314 letters were written. Twenty-seven cases of tuberculosis were helped and fourteen other cases of illness attended to. Eight children were placed in private homes, and six other persons in institutions.

The material relief for the month amounted to $280.18 and included. Rent, $47; clothing, $48; board, $35; provisions, $40; milk, $63. These large expenditures were partly counterbalanced by contributions for particular cases amounting to $156.43, showing a large amount of co-operation between the society and philanthropic persons. One particularly interesting case was cited. It was that of a deserted woman with five children, who has worked for four years in a factory, and her eyesight has become so impaired that she is unable to sew. She has therefore rented a large and comfortable house and has already secured a number of boarders. The society is anxious now to help furnish more of her rooms and any furniture for this purpose will be gratefully received.

The members of these committees were particularly interested in hearing a detailed account of the "nursing bureau," in the initiation of which they have had a large share of the responsibility. Dr. W. H. Murray, as chairman, told of the work since its inception in July. The total receipts, Dr. Murray said, has been $4.25.25 from the advisory and relief committees, $45 from patients, $109.50 from an insurance company, $70.11 from the Anti-Tuberculosis League, $75 from the Board of Education, making a total of $725.86. The disbursements for salaries for three nurses, supplies and carfares, $431.47, leaving a balance of $294.39. Three nurses are now employed and have made 1079 visits during the summer, besides 2448 school inspections.

Miss Olive L. Schreibweis, the head nurse, then gave an account of the work, giving in detail the treatment in a number of interesting cases.

Wireless Association Head Quits.

The resignation of James A. Wotton, as president of the Plainfield Wireless Association, was received at the regular monthly meeting held last night at the Y. M. C. A. A nominating committee, headed by Bradford Willard, was appointed to select candidates for the office and report at the next meeting.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Edward A. Geicheidt, of Kensington avenue, the young man arrested charged with the theft of a tire from the Laing Machine and Auto Co. garage, was arraigned for a hearing beforoe Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty through his counsel, J. Henry Crane. In addition to the tire, a silver mesh chatelaine bag, taken from a car left for repairs, and an instrument used in testing were recovered from the youth's home after his arrest.

Mr. Laing told of the alleged thefts having been brought to his attention. Suspicion, he asserted, pointed to Geischeidt. Chief Kiely told of questioning the lad and of his having admitted taking the articles. In his own behalf, Geischeidt waived examination and bail was fixed at $200 for the action of the Union County Grand Jury.

DR. CABOT TO ADDRESS AFTERNOON CLUB

Dr. Richard C. Cabot, of the Harvard Medical School, will deliver the first of a series of lectures arranged by the Monday Afternoon Club on "Hygienic Development of the Present Day," on Monday afternoon at the Hartridge Auditorium. Besides being a recognized medical authority and the writer of standard medical works, Dr. Cabot was the pioneer in the unknown region of "Medical Sociology," which will be the subject of his course at 3:30 o'clock. He is the author of a book entitled "Social Service and the Art of Healing," in which he has described a new aspect of medicine and the physician. With the development of the hospital and the dispensary, the need arose for the physician to establish relations with the social worker and the teacher.

Dr. Cabot was the first, if not to appreciate this need, at least to put it into practice in the Boston institutions. The conclusion was reached that prevention must take the place of reform and that this can only be accomplished through education. Dr. Cabot will trace the growth of this phase of medical effort and indicate its future progress.

On November 20, Dr. Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, will lecture on "Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine." On December 4, Dr. Woods Hutchinson, of New York, will lecture on "Popular Fallacies."

FRUIT THIEVES FINED IN THE BOROUGH COURT.

The borough police have received numerous complaints of fruit thieves operating in the Washington Park section and have been keeping a watch for the culprits. The grounds at Tunlaw have been frequently visited in this way and Chief Weiss maintained a personal surveillance of the premises. His efforts were rewarded at 5:30 this morning by capturing four Italians as they were in the act of filling bags with the choicest fruit they could find. The broken tree limbs and other damage they occasioned amounted to many times the value of what was taken.

The men were arraigned before Recorder Dolliver later and fined $8. They all live in the upper part of the borough.

PAIR TOO BOISTEROUS WARNED BY THE COURT.

Hannah Ember and Charles Thompson, of Watchung avenue, were arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court this morning on the complaint of James Hennessy, a neighbor, who charged them with disorderly conduct and drunkenness. The complainant told the court that when the couple get intoxicated, which is quite frequently, he alleged, they make nuisances of themselves and have no respect for the rights of those living in that section. Judge DeMeza advised the pair not to be so boisterious and suspended a heavy sentence which he said would fall if conditions do not improve.

'BOYS AND BIBLE'

Religious Developement of the Youth the Theme of Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews

AN ADDRESS FOR MOTHERS.

Second In Series of Lectures on "The Soul of the Boy" at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium by Scotch Plains Minister.

The second lecture in the course on "The Soul of a Boy," was given yesterday afternoon by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, who spoke to a goodly number of mothers in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The subject of his talk was "The Boy and the Bible, or Getting the Bible in Without Crowding the Boy Out." He said in part:

"The best book for the culture of boy's soul is the Bible. Stanley Hall calls it the soul's greatest text book and in a recent address Ambassador Bryce, of England, pleaded that it might have a larger place in the training of the young because it puts truth and fact and moral precept in religious form giving them the highest sanctity. The real difficulty, though, is to get the Bible into the child, the boy, without crowding them out. To this end, it must be understood that the God of the Bible is the God of the boy. We must see that the same God who is in the Bible is in the boy, that the child has a natural capacity for religion. The parent helps the child to walk and talk because the parent believes the child has a natural capacity to do these things; the teacher ventures to instruct the child because she believes the child has intellectual capacities that will respond to her instruction. So in training the soul of the child, parents must believe deeper still in the child's nature is the natural capacity for religion. One reason why this has not been more generally accepted, but instead we hear very much of a 'depraved nature' and 'original sin,' is because the capacity for religion in a child expresses itself in such a crude way. Yet there is nothing singular about this for the same principle obtains both in the realm of the physical and intellectual; when the child begins to walk or talk the effort does not produce a finished product.

So it is in the realm of the spiritual, the beginning of religious experience are crude, elementary, finding expression in the instincts of self-preservation, curiosity, fear and like emotions of the child's soul. Here the greatest sympathy is needed and the most careful instruction. Fear awakened by the Greatness of the Infinite must be allayed and modified through the child's learning of the goodness of the Infinite Father. First, fear of God, for "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom;' afterward, faith in God, for 'perect love casteth out fear.' The two elements of reverence are fear and love, and the one is as necessary as the other; in the developing soul, fear comes first, and it is as necessary to train children rightly to fear God as it is needful to teach them to love Him. But it is just here that the Bible helps us most for it is not only true that the God of the Bible is the God of the Boy but also that the God of the boy is the God of the Bible.

"By careful study it has been found that the order of development of religion in the Bible is the order of development in a child's religious experience. Professor Dawson recently made a survey of children's interest in the Bible. The experience of one thousand children was studied, questions being asked as to their interest in the Old Testamen and New at different ages, and as to their interest in the different Bible characters as age advances. It was found that at eight sixty per cent of the boys preferred the New Testament and forty per cent the Old; at thirteen, there was a marked change, by that time sixty-two per cent. preferred the Old Testament and thirty-eight per cent. the New; at seventeen another change takes place; seventy per cent. prefer the New Testament and thirty per cent. the Old. These transitions of interest mark the boy's religious development. At first, we have his interest in Christ as the child; then, as the egoistic, self-loving, self-seeking nature develops in the boy, his interest shifts to the Old Testament because it is there we find so many instances of the same thing; at this same period the boy's love of heroic stories is developing and here again the Old Testament provides just the stories he likes, stories of adventure, action, rivalry, feats of skill and daring, etc. But later, the boy's interest changes decidedly from the Old Testament to the New because from fourteen or fifteen on there is developing in him the altruistic spirit that delights to do good to others and thinks of others in self-sacrificing

F. W. WALLACE PRES'T OF LOCAL YALE CLUB

The Plainfield Yale Club held its annual meeting at the Queen City Hotel last night. There were about twenty-five members present. It was decided to bring the Yale University Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs to this city during the winter. It was also decided to hold the annual dinner at a date to be announced later.

These are the officers for the coming year:

President, F. W. Wallace; vice-president, Charles H. Frost; secretary-treasurer, L. A. Williams, Jr.; executive committee, W. B. Tyler, H. L. DeForest and Donald A. McGee. The following new members were elected: Harry English, Edward Jeffcott, Henry A. Howe, John Hall, Major-General Davis, Robert N. Crane and A. W. Ransome.

DUNELLEN CONTINUING SEWAGE BED FIGHT

Another step in the fight against Plainfield's proposed enlargement of the Rock avenue sewage disposal plant was taken at a meeting of the Dunellen Board of Trade's executive committee, last night. It was decided by unanimous vote to employ the services of an expert chemist to analyze samples of water taken from Green brook for the purpose of proving the contention that the effluent from the present beds contaminates the stream. The analyses will be placed in the hands of the Dunellen Sewage Commission, which has the opposition fight in charge, and this body will in turn bring the facts to the notice of the State Board of Health and other interested departments, calling upon them to prohibit any further endangering the health of the community.

The executive committee of the Board of Trade has full power to act as it did last night, and will follow up the engagement of the chemist with other investigations. The Dunellen Council and the local Board of Health has combined with it to carry on the fight. The people of the borough claim that the plant as it is operated now is, and always has been, a menace to health and a detriment to the community. No stone is being left unturned in securing proof of the contention and any move on the city's part will produce a stubborn resistance.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR LITTLE GLADYS A. DAVIS.

Mrs. A. B. Davis, of Grove street, gave a birthday party for her six-year-old daughter, Gladys A. Davis, yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 5 o'clock. About twenty-five young friends of the little girl were present, and enjoyed the time with music and playing games. Refreshments were served. The dining room and table were tastefully decorated with streamers of pink and white, interspersed with bouquets of chrysanthemums. The young hostess received many handsome and useful presents, among which was $5 in gold and a gold locket, from her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lindaberry, of High Bridge, they making four generations being represented.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Davis entertained a few of their friends at a five-hundred party. The honors of the evening went to Mrs. Margaret Wilson. At a late hour refreshments were served.

EASTERN STAR LODGE MEMBERSHIP INCREASES.

Lydia Chapter, Order Eastern Star Lodge, held its first fall meeting last night when several candidates were initiated, followed with a social hour during which refreshments were served. The chapter is in a flourishing condition and a number of applications have been received for membership. Preparations were also made for the coming entertainment and dance to be held Friday evening, October 20, in Sebring's auditorium.

A fine program has been arranged. One of the features will be selections by the Elks' Quartet and a good orchestra has been engaged for dancing. Several past masters of the local Masonic lodges will assist.

Service Annuity Bill.

Letter-carriers, clerks and other employes of postoffices here and elsewhere in New Jersey are intrested in the progress of the service annuity bill, introduced in Congress by Representative Hamill, of New Jersey. The provisions of the measure are almost identical with those of the bill introduced in New York. It is the belief that the bill will pass. The act provides that no employe shall remain in the service after reaching the age of 70 years.

TO DISCUSS PETITION FOR THAT HUGE TANK

The Councilmanic fire committee will hold a meeting tonight in the councilmanic committee room in the City Building on North avenue to consider questions pertaining to the proposed amendment to the building code whereby it would be possible for the Standard Oil Company to erect a large tank here for the storage of gasolene and kerosene. Chairman Taylor is anxious to have a thorough discussion of the matter before it comes up at the adjourned meeting of the Council Monday night.

The proposed amendment if adopted would not permit the Standard Oil Company or any other concern the right to erect large tanks for the storage of gasolene. It would simply make it possible for the Council to grant such privileges if in its judgment it thought best. The question now is on the amendment to the building code.

There are many people who believe that if the Standard Oil Company should be allowed to carry out its plans, it would levae a loop-hole for others to do likewise. The company says that it has never been compelled to place such large tanks underground, at the same time the Council wants to protect the interests of the city and take no risk for the future. Sentiment in the city is strongly against the Standard Oil Company's petition.

PIG ROAST IN HONOR OF 'COLONEL' HACQUER

Twenty-five friends of "Colonel" Archibald Hacquer, who has been exemplifying the simple life in a bungalow on Johnston's drive tendered him a testimonial gathering last night. The affair was in the nature of a pig roast and was as thoroughly enjoyable as it was novel.

The guests assembled at 7:30 on the sloping mountainside adjoining the Martin cottage the spot commanding an unobstructed view of the two Plainfields below, the twinkling lights of which gave a decided finishes to the surroundings. Two big camp fires blazed and cracked merrily and scores of Japanese lanterns strung about afforded brilliant illumination. Story telling and songs passed the time until 9 o'clock, at the conclusion of which the roast was commenced.

Borough Clerk Frederick A. Martin presided as master of ceremonies and with Edward Baker, Stryker Hoagland, Harry G. DeMeza, William Cass and Arthur Humble acting as assistants, savory bowls of steaming clam chowder were first served and at their disposal two beautifully roasted suckling piks were brought before the gaze of the expectant group. They were the pick of Former Sheriff Edward Cooper's corn-fed Warrenville flock browned to a turn under the skillful eye of A. G. Martin. Mayor Newton B. Smalley was elected carver and with keen-edged knives, lopped off juicy portions of the steaming meat. There was plenty of chestnut filling and the most delicious apple sauce that ever tempted an epicure. There were as many disciples of Oliver Twist asking for second and third helps as there were people present., Surpassing Java coffee topped off the menu, and furnished a beverage to toast the genial "Colonel." It was close to midnight when the gathering broke up with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Those in attendance included the following: Stryker Hoagland, Arthur Humble, Albert Steiner, Fred Armstrong, Frederick A. Martin, A. G. Martin, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, Councilman William L. Smalley, Ralph Smalley, Charles Dutcher, C. C. Wheeler, Dr. Frank French, L. M. French, Edwin Baker, Harry Blimm, A. C. Lohrman, Harry G. DeMeza, M. A. McGrath, Thomas M. Muir, John E. Nicol, William Cass, "Colonel" Archibald Hacquer and Dr. Raymond Stevens.

Proctor's New Show.

Le Maize, Quail and Blaise, in "Tumbles, Twists and Turns," will be the headline act at Proctor's theatre, Monday. They are said to be among the cleverest acrobats in vaudeville. John W. Ransome, who was formerly the big hit in "The Prince of Pilsen," will entertain with a number of popular songs. Joseph Hanley & Co. will present a comedy playlet, "In After Years;" Marie Arvelle, a dainty singer of popular songs, is good and Winrow and Renard, an excellent dancing and singing team, will complete the bill for the first half of the week.

Scores of Deaths.

Early this morning the grandmothers of all office boys died. The game between the Giants and the Athletics for the world's championship takes place at the Polo Grounds this afternoon.

CONVENTION CHOIR

Volunteers Wanted by Committee For State Sunday Ass'n Sessions in Nov.

SELECT 2 MUSICAL DIRECTORS.

Arrangements Made For the Reception of Delegates—Banquet to Be a Feature of the Annual Gathering.

The local committee having charge of the arrangements for entertaining the New Jersey Sunday-school Association here November 14-16, is making a special effort in all the Sunday-schools for volunteers for the large chorus choir to sing at the sessions of the convention. Superintendents of the different schools will receive applications as long as there are vacancies. Charles W. McCutchen and David E. Titsworth are the committee on music.

Isaac H. Meredith.

Rehearsals will be held on Thursday nights, beginning October 19, with a final rehearsal on the Sunday preceding the convention. The musical directors will be Grant Colfax Tullar and Isaac H. Meredith, widely-known composers of Sunday-school music. Mr. Tuller is a Connecticut boy, the youngest of a family of nine, who was left motherless when Grant Colfax was two years old.

The children were scattered and this boy, after being maltreated by the man who took him in charge, who used to get drunk and ugly and hang him up by the thumbs, ran away at the age of ten years and got a job in a woollen mill at $5 a month "and found." When he had saved up $40 toward an education he was badly injured by the machinery in the mill and all his money went for doctor's bills. Upon his recovery he began life anew in Hartford on a capital of $2.15 as errand boy in a shoe factory, going later to Boston as shipping clerk.

Becoming discouraged over his failure he was about to jump off a ferryboat on the night of the big blizzard in March, 1888, when a kind word from a stranger brought him to himself. He turned square around, or as he expressed it, "experienced an old-fashioned conversion." He then entered Hackettstown Seminary, intending to be a minister, but his health gave way and he went into business with Isaac H. Meredith, a kindred spirit, and the two have written and composed hymns which have been sung around the world.

Mr. Tullar lives in East Orange and has traveled in every State in the Union, acting as a musical conductor for State and provincial Sunday-school conventions. After his service at the recent convention in Arkansas a local paper said, "Grant Colfax Tullar will dust and tighten your musical organs, so that you can sing if you never knew a tune or a note of written music. He puts music into your very soul and you sing and help others to sing all the year through. If you cannot sing you will go home and organize a Boys' Whistling Club. Believe what I tell you."

Mr. Meredith is the accompanist and Mr. Tullar is the musical wizard. He is full of spirit, a born leader and a musician to the tips of his fingers. It is said that after he has charge of a chorus at a convention the Sunday-schools sing better for a year afterward.

Arthur M. Harris, chairman, has a busy bunch of committeemen reporting to him on the local preparations for entertaining the delegates. At the committee meeting this week J.W. Gavett stated that the entertainment committee would provide lodging and meals for 400 out of town workers to whom the people of the churches are being asked to open

For a week Postmaster A. K. Gale has been out of money order blanks and could issue no money orders. Dozens of people who wished to send money orders were sent to the express company. A new stock of blanks arrived Thursday.

The Japanese members of the Westfield Golf Club entertained the board of governors of the club at the Nippon Club in New York last evening. There is a large Japanese colony in Westfield and nearly all are represented in the golf club.

The season at the Fair Acres track was closed Thursday with a matinee. There was but a small attedance, as the races were mostly contests between the horses of club members.

ROSELLE PARK CHURCH DEDICATION SERVICES.

Roselle Park, Oct. 14.—Concluding with a banquet, at which the borough officials and several visiting priests made addresses, dedicatory exercises were held at the new Church of the Assumption here Thursday. Bishop John J. O'Connor participated in the ceremony, administering confirmation to a class of children previous to a selomn high mass.

A guest of honor was Rev. Owen A. Hill, a Jesuit, teacher of the senior class at St. Francis Xavier's College, New York, whose friendship Rev. Salvatore J. La Vechio, the local postor, dates back to when Father La Vechio was in the Jesuit novitiate.

Father Hill preached the dedication sermon Thursday morning and in the evening he responded to the toast, "Christopher Columbus."

Rev. Joseph A. Ryan, of Benardsville, was the celebrant of the mass, and he was assisted by Rev. Cathaldo Alessi, who was the first pastor of the local church, and Father La Vechio. At the banquet the speakers, besides Father Hill, were Mayor George H. Horning, Father Ryan, Father Alessi and former Mayor Charles E. Cawl.

OLD OFFICERS RETAINED BY JERSEY W. C. T. U.

Woodstown, Oct. 14.—Miss Esther Elfreth, of Haddonfield, the president, and the other officers of the New Jersey W. C. T. U. were unanimously re-elected at the annual convention here Thursday. Besides Miss Elfreth, the officers are: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. I. H. Demarest, Gloucester; recording secretary, Dr. Eva M. Lake, Arlington; treasurer, Miss Ida Lillian Page, Hoboken. Twenty-eight delegates were elected for the national association convention, to be held in Milwaukee, the city "made infamous by beer," as a delegate put it.

At the diamond medal contest Wednesday night the opera house held the largest audience in its history. Miss E. H. Goodwin presided, and the contestants were Miss Ada F. Harris, Newfield; Miss Rebecca C. Barrett, Almonesson; Miss Leola Moore, Ocean Grove, and Elwood L. Haines, Swedesboro. Miss Barrett was declared the winner.

One of the features of the convention was the address of Mrs. Edith Smith Davis, national superintendent of scientific temperance instruction. Mrs. Davis painted vivid word pictures of the conditions surrounding the hordes of immigants daily pouring into this country, and the vital need for temperance instruction that should reach the children of these foreigners, to counteract the habits and customs of the Old World. She declared no agency for moral good more powerful than that possessed by the teachers of the public schools.

MISSIONARY APPROVES CHINESE REVOLUTION.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 14—Rev. A. W. Lagerquist, in Omaha on a year's vacation, after spending twenty-one consecutive years in China as a missionary in the province of Hu-peh, champions the cause of the revolutionists in their civil war now raging in the Empire.

"I have been at Laohokow, which is 400 miles from Wu-Chang, capitol of Hu-Peh, for the last ten years," he said. "Before I left there I saw this thing brewing. The revolutionists are composed of scholars, the more intelligent class, and are led by those who have traveled abroad and seen much of other countries.

"Some of them want a Republic like France of the United States and if the present empire is overthrown will call for the election of a President, but others insist on choosing an Emperor from the Chinese and expelling the Manchurian rulers, who live in the finest houses and have the finest offices and are unjust.

"The officials are avaricious. The Mayor of the cities is judge, treasurer and everything else, and the magistrates are all corrupt."

MILK THIEF PEPPERED WITH SHOT BY FARMER.

Burlington, Oct. 14.—His face blackened with bruises and his back peppered with shot, Howard Jobes, sixty years old, of Florence, who had been milking cows that did not belong to him, presented a sorry sight when brought before Magistrate Peacock Thursday on charges preferred by Joseph Smith, manager of a farm on the River road. Armed with shotguns Smith and his farmer had watched their herd several nights without result. Shortly after midnight they saw a man enter the barns and begin milking the cows. This has been going on for months.

Jobes was caught, but thinking he saw a chance to escape, snapped the rope with which he had been bound and attacked the men. He got away with a load of shot in his back, but was later arrested at his home.

STATE RAILWAY COMM'RS WANT MORE REGULATION.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The National Association of Railway Commissioners Thursday urged additional power for the Interstate Commerce Commission in a report of the legislation committee.

GREATLY REDUCES STOCK.

Water Company's Shares Drop From $100 to $1 Each.

Trenton, Oct. 14.—Following the acquirement by Jersey City of the Boonton water supply plant by the paying over of $6,992,000, the Jersey City Water Supply Company, the former owner of the plant, filed with the Secretary of State yesterday a certificate decreasing its capital stock from $1,000,000 to $10,000.

The decrease was affected by decreasing the par value of each of the 10,000 shares of stock from $100 to $1. The certificate was signed by Edmund LeB. Gardiner, president of the company.

The purpose of retaining the $10,000 capital stock is to perpetuate the corporation until the assets of the company, that is, the cash received from Jersey City, are all distributed among the stockholders.

OCEAN GROVE TO FIGHT SUNDAY TRAIN RULING

Ocean Grove, Oct. 14.—Following the announcement that Sunday trains are to stop after November 1 at the main station in Asbury Park, in obedience to the order of the Public Utilities Commission, members of the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association declare the matter will be fought out in the courts as a matter of principle.

It has been openly said that the association would be satisfied to have the railroad company either purchase or forfeit the land upon which its freight station is erected if the agreement not to stop Sunday trains made with the campmeeting association in the early days were to be violated. This belief was strengthened when at the recent prosecution of the Sunday train question before the Public Utilities Commission by representative people of Asbury Park, the Ocean Grove association remained practically quiescent, although represented by counsel.

"There is as much principle involved in the prohibition of Sunday trains today as there was when the agreement between the railroad company and the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association was made," said a member of the latter body in reviewing the situation. "And Ocean Grove," he continued, "stands today as much for that principle as it ever did. The association is not in favor of Sunday trains, for they will bring to us on cheap excursions an undesirable class of people. We will resort to the courts for all the power we may be able to get in our behalf."

The main depot at the railroad in Asbury Park belongs also to Ocean Grove. The location depot out near the present power plant at Bradley Beach. Later, to accommodate the new place founded by James A. Bradley, the location was changed to its present site and a joint depot was erected. The agreement with the railroad comprehended the gift by the Ocean Grove association of the land for a freight station and the necessary sidings, with the expressed stipulation that there would be no trains to stop on the Sabbath at the join depot, under the penalty of a forfeiture of this land.

HORSE RACES A TRAIN; CAR STEP WRECKS RIG.

Sparta, Oct. 14.—Racing alongside a train until the steps of a coach caught the wheels of the rig and upset horse, buggy and occupants down an embankment, was the unusual experience of Mrs. Titman Earl and children Wednesday evening. Excepting for the wrecking of the buggy no damage was done, even the horse escaping injury.

Mrs. Earl was driving home from West Mountain. Approaching a place known as "Cory's Crossing," she confronted an express train that emerged from a deep cut directly in front of the horse. The animals became unmanageable and, turning, ran alongside the train some distance, until a step caught the wheels of the rig. Mrs. Earl, the children and the horse were pitched over an embankment wall to a grade eight feet below, falling clear of the buggy and suffering only bruises.

DRINKS CARBOLIC, CHILD IS DYING.

Elizabeth, Oct. 14.—Elsie Anderson, two years old, of 1320 North Broad street, is in a dangerous condition in the General Hospital as the result of burns from carbolic acid, which she drank in mistake for water. The doctors say her chances for recovery slight.

Mrs. James Anderson, the little one's mother, had been clearing the spots from clothes and had gone from the room for a few minutes, leaving the solution in a cup on the table. In her absence Elsie entered the room and seeing the cupful of clear liquid picked it up and drank of it.

Her screams as the acid burned her throat brought her mother and first aid was applied while neighbors telephoned for the ambulance and the child was removed to the hospital. Her mother has been at her bedside constantly since.

Falling Beam Kills Man.

New York, Oct. 14.—A derrick near the top of the skyscraper at Wall and Nassau streets, which is almost completed, slipped its grip on a five-foot wooden beam Thursday afternoon and the beam fell down on the Nassau street side of the building. When it was dropped it was at about the seventeenth floor. Julius Schupp, of Riveredge, N. J., an ironworker, was taking a load of iron from a truck. The beam fell through the hole and flattened Schupp on the ground. He was killed instantly.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are not only always better than all other soda crackers, but always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every one of them—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked.

CONFESSION HALTS FIREBUGS' TRAIL

Hackensack, Oct. 14.—The sensational trial of two alleged firebugs, August Deichman and John Capuun, of Cliffside, which began early in the week, came to sudden termination yesterday with a most dramatic scene, when Capuun declared, "I want to tell the truth."

He first made this remark to Court Officer Butler while on his way from the jail to the courtroom. The constable mentioned the fact to Prosecutor Wright and the latter conferred with Judge Demarest. As Capuun was a defendant and had a lawyer it hardly came within the privilege of the prosecutor to interfere at that stage, but they did not have to wait long for developments, for no sooner had Capuun taken the stand to resume his testimony in his own defense than he began to tell the court what his real desire was.

Judge Demarest asked one of the jurors to leave the box and then declared it a mistrial.

Capuun, after being turned over to Counselor E. C. Iron, retracted a plea of not guilty and pleaded non vult. His full confession will be made to the court Monday morning.

Capuun and Deichman were on trial for having on April 10 caused the destruction by explosion and fire of a double two-story house in Cliffside, valued at $8,000, on which there was $18,900 insurance. The policies on the two buildings were held by Matilda Becker, who afterward married August Deichman, and Rosina Kracke, who passed as the wife of Charles Deichman, and tried to collect the insurance as Mrs. Deichman, despite the fact that Charles has a wife and two children living in Hoboken.

Capuun was in the employ of the Deichman brothers. His confession will probably contain the fact that he dynamited the building on April 10.

ACTIVE LOBBY IS THE PLAN OF WOMEN.

Congress of Mothers to Push Campaign at Trenton Next Winter.

Trenton, Oct. 13—Members of the New Jersey State Congress of Mothers plan to maintain an active lobby in the State house next winter in the movement to induce the Legislature to authorize the introduction of domestic science training in the Normal Schools at Trenton and Montclair.

The women hope this year to overcome the objections which have heretofore been advanced by Dr. James M. Green, principal of the State Schools here, and to convince the Legislature of the need of the State providing for teachers, a training in the coure, which it now demands of them.

In addition to this domestic science effort, the women will take up a course which promises to have a far more sweeping effect in educational affairs. This will be investigation by the education committee of the Legislature of the famed Wirt School System, with a view of having it adopted generally by the various school districts of New Jersey. Mrs. I. H. Welling, of this city, chairman of the Legislature committee of the congress, has for sometime past been making a careful study of the Wirt School System and she is now one of its most enthusiastic advocates.

She believes that its adoption would solve practically all of the school problems of the present day.

SLANDER SUIT BEGUN BY SENATOR GEBHARDT.

Flemington, Oct. 14.—Suit to recover $20,000 damages for an alleged slander has been instituted by Senator William C. Gebhardt, of Clinton, against former Senator John R. Foster. Yesterday Senator Gebhardt asked his counsel, former Judge H. B. Herr, to prepare the declaration in the suit, and it is expected that the case will come to trial at the December term of the Hunterdon county court.

The first papers in the suit were served on Mr. Foster September 30. Senator Gebhardt said yesterday that he was in earnest. He had understood, he added, that Mr. Foster had asked several of his (Gebhardt's) friends to try to have the Hunterdon Senator withdraw the suit.

"There will be no let up, so far as I am concerned," said Senator Gebhardt. "At a public meeting in Glen Gardner, before the primary election Mr. Foster attacked me, declaring I had got rich in the Legislature, and wondering if it was because of my interest in the Ocean boulevard bill. Insinuations along the same line had been made before, I understand, and I decided that it was time to take legal action. I hear that Mr. Foster will deny that he ever made the utterances attributed to him and which are the basis for the slander suit, but I am confident that he made them."

The semi-finals in the Plainfield High School tennis tournament were played yesterday afternoon, including mixed doubles, girls' doubles and boys' singles. The match in mixed doubles went to Jessie Stewart and Jack Zerega after two uphill sets with Helen Platt and Stanley Bellows as opponents. Miss Platt substituted for Clara Neuman, who is ill. The winners displayed better team work, clinching the match by strong playing at the net and accurate placing with score of 6-4, 7-5. The most evenly matched playing yesterday was in girls' doubles, Misses Gertrude Butler and Esther Philips beating Pauline Gates and Mabel Foster after three exciting sets, including two duce sets. Misses Gates and Foster started with strong strokes, winning the first set with a score of 7-5. The winners retaliated in the next set by running up the same score of 7-5. The third set went to the winners, showing superior team work and endurance with a score of 6-2. Philip VanDeventer took an easy victory by defeating Warren Butler in two short sets. Although VanDeventer was given a slight rub in the first set, he managed the second in good form, winning with a score of 6-4, 6-2. The match in boys' doubles was postponed until this morning on account of darkness. Philip VanDeventer and Stanley Bellows are leading with Allen Doggett and Inon White as opponents, by one set of 6-3, and the second set tied at 6-6.

ARRESTED FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT.

Sidney Burton, colored, of Plainfield avenue and Hugo Hartpense, of Washington street, both about twelve years old, were arrested yesterday by a Central Railroad detective for trespassing and throwing stones at passing trains. The lads were arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza this morning in the city court and admitted that they were guilty as charged, but did not mean to do other than try their markmanship. The trains stoned were freights and coalers. Advising them to seek other targets, Judge DeMeza warned them that another appearance before him for a similar complaint would result in the probation officer taking them in charge. Sentence was suspended.

DINNER-DANCE GIVEN AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Warren, of Hillside avenue, gave a delightful dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club, last evening for their son, Dale Warren. The clubhouse was attractively decorated with autumnal foliage, and pretty favors were distributed abong the guests, little parasols for the girls and butterflies for the boys. There were forty-eight at the dinner and many more at the dance.

Music for the dancing was furnished by VanEpps and Denny, piano and banjo. Dancing was continued until a late hour with an intermission for refreshments.

PROSPERITY OF BANK PROMPTS ENLARGEMENT.

Owing to the expanding business of the State Trust Co., it has been found necessary to utilize all possible space in the banking house and to this end alterations will increase the apparent size of the banking room and to place the officers in position to be more readily reached by the institution's customers. The women's room partition has been taken down and the room extended to the end of the bank grill. The space thus made is divided, a portion being set aside for the officers.

Blew Into the City.

Ed Kendall, general agent, of "The Fair Co-ed" company, underlined at the Plainfield theatre, Friday evening, October 20, blew in here at 8:51 o'clock this morning and by 3:13 p. m. everybody in the city directory was made aware of the marvelous merits of the attraction whose "horn he is tooting." As a matter of fact Mr. Kendall is in advance of an excellent attraction and may perhaps be excused for waxing eloquent of the same. He and Manager Sanderson are old and warm friends and Mr. Sanderson was manager for the late Tony Pastor, at Pastor's theatre, New York city, "Ned" Kendall was a vanity performer and played at Pastor's theatre in the 70's.

A. L. Wills, of this city, is spending a few days at the Hotel Wolcott, New York city.

THE FORUM.

STUDY SOCIAL PROBLEMS.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Men, whether young or old are all vitally interested in the social conditions amid which they are obliged to live and the forces and influences which determine those conditions. Probably it is not very generally known that there is a class in our city which is making a study of these conditions and of the principles on which they should be founded and improved. Just at present the subject being studied is the church and the workingman—not the workingman in the narrow sense, but every man who is a worker in any way in the broad field of industry.

The class discussions as conducted by H. E. Parker, our Y. M. C. A. secretary are unique and made so interesting that no one present is able to refrain from expressing his ideas on the subject for the session.

This class meets each Sunday afternoon at quarter past four o'clock in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church. It is unsectarian, nonpolitical and is simply trying to find the best ground for binding men together and causing each man to feel that he is really on an equality with all of his fellows as to obligations to service and claims to sympathy.

Mr. Parker uses the Bible as the highest authority in these discussions and also bring to the class the best ideas of modern writers on sociological topics.

The First Presbyterian church has kindly granted the free use of its chapel for these meetings and it is hoped that a large number of men will take advantage of this exceptional opportunity for obtaining the best light on these leading questions of the day. All men are welcome every Sunday at 4:15 p. m.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Fifteen years at hard labor in the State prison is the sentence meted by the Somerset County court to the auto-bandit recently convicted there. It is none too much, for this fellow was making a business of holding up automobilists and robbing them at the point of a revolver. He had been very successful, two or three robberies in this State having been added to his record. Had he not been checked in his criminal career there is no telling how many imitators he would soon have had. It was not so much the reward of $1,000 by the National Automobile Association that led to his capture as the fighting strength and courage of the Somerville merchant whom he attacked on a lonely country road. Mr. Dumas risked his life and fought the robber, after the latter had robbed him, till all the cartridges in the revolver had been fired and he was wounded. It will afford a sense of safety and satisfaction, not only to automobilists, but to all who use the public roads, to know that this terror will not have to be reckoned with for fifteen years to come. —Newark News.

Dry Cleaning

like everything else, is cheapest when you get the best, for your garments are cleaned and pressed better—and therefore the work lasts longer and is better for your clothing or household furnishings.

Besides a saving, good cleaning is sanitary. Since this is so, get the best, for handwork in small tubs is sure to carry some dirt along from other clothing belonging to other people.

You don't experience anything of that nature in a first-class place.

GOVERNOR COMPARES CANADA WITH U.S.A.

Governor Woodrow Wilson killed two birds with one stone in Hackensack last night when he held an informal reception in the chapel of the First Reformed church, which yesterday commenced the celebration of its 225th anniversary, and later delivered an address in Trinity Lyceum to about one thousand persons under the auspices of the Hackensack Democracy.

The Governor reached Hackensack at six o'clock. He was met by Mayor C. W. Bell and escorted to the Susquehanna Cafe, where dinner was served. Then the Governor and political escort went by automobile to the old church.

"As Governor of New Jersey I wish to extend official felicitations to you in behalf of the State on this occasion of your anniversary; that is, if you will condescend to receive felicitations from so young a corporation, for it must be remembered that New Jersey is only 136 years old, while your church is 225 years old," remarked Governor Wilson good naturedly. At the close of his remarks a silver badge was pinned on his coat by Miss Nina Von Schlieder, a daughter of the Rev. Albert Von Schlieder, the pastor.

At the mass meeting Governor Wilson among other things said: "Gentlemen, you say that all this reform that is in the air is disturbing business. Is it going to disturb business to get back on a constitutional and honest basis? Is it going to hurt business to restore confidence? The basis of business and prosperity is confidence. If you depress the working classes, make them hopeless and resentful and give them the feeling that they are not getting their just due, do your suppose that they are going to be the producing class they were? Do you suppose that wealth is going to be produced as it would be if they felt they were partners in the thing, justly treated, honorably dealt with, generously paid? Why, if you were to alter those relations upon the intimations I have just given you it would increase the prosperity in America fifty-fold. But if business is supposed to be controlled by little groups of men, then there will be an inevitable universal suspicion and distrust, and so long as suspicion and distrust exist you cannot have prosperity.

"Do you know the real reason why reciprocity was voted down in Canada? Has any of you visited Canada recently? The present contrast between Canada and the United States is this, that in the United States business is feverish and fretful and distrusted, but in Canada absolutely bouyant with confidence and hope. The contrast is extraordinary, and the Canadians fear that reciprocity would be the opening wedge to a very much closer commercial and industrial relationship with the United States, and they felt that their situation in regard to these matters was vastly superior to ours, and they did not want to be pulled down into our distress. I do not take that by conjecture. I take that from gentlemen in Canada who know what they are talking about.

"The truth is that Canada is just about a generation ahead of us in the regulation of corporate business, in her banking system, and in her currency system. She has got through all the deep waters we are in now, or rather she was never in them—she never let herself go in them, while we have been going on helplessly from one financial crisis to another Canada has not had any financial crisis. And Canada, if we must admit the truth, feels her economic superiority to the United States, because, forsooth, she did some time ago as a matter of course the things now called radical in the United States which are making business men uneasy."

Governor Wilson reviewed conditions in New Jersey under his administration and showed the advantages of the direct primary, the Corrupt Practices act and Public Utilities Commission, explaining that all were intended to purify politics and bring the people in closer touch with those representing them in the Legislature. Then he asked: "Is it not true that the atmosphere has changed in recent months?"

The Governor was then taken by automobile to Ridgewood, where he spoke in the opera house to a large audience.

The United States District Court at Baltimore rendered a decision in favor of the government in its dissolution suit against the so-called Bathtub Trust.

INDIANS DEPOSE OFFICIALS.

Mexican States in Pitiable State of Waste.

Monterey, Mexico, Oct. 14.—The Chumala Indians are in complete control of the State of Chiapas and are threatening to invade the neighboring States. In almost every town in the State local Mexican authorities have been deposed and Indians installed in their stead.

Advices received from Tuxela say that hundreds of people have been killed in the State since the uprising of the Indians began. Business of all kinds is at a complete standstill.

Robbery and murder are common every day occurrences and unless stringent measures are taken the entire State and its inhabitants will be reduced to want.

The situation in the State of Morelos, where the bandit chief, Zapete, and his men are operating, is not improved. The reports received here indicate that Zapete's men have completely overrun the State and are now in possession of all the towns they want and are operating with a free hand.

INVENTOR SUES TO PROTECT PATENTS

Elizabeth, Oct. 14.—Four cases were tried yesterday before Circuit Court Justice Benjamin A. Well in the Supreme Court. In three there were verdicts, while in the fourth a non-suit was granted.

Judgment for $198.60 was given by the jury in the suit brought by Rodger Doughtery against the Public Service Railway Company. The suit lasted the better part of two days. Doughtery calimed that he had been knocked from his wagon and injured in September, 1910, by a Third street car at Elizabeth avenue and Sixth street. He sued for $5,000.

As the suit was not contested, Justice Vail gave judgment for $4,076 in the action brought by Sarah G. King against Edward and Fannie Denniston to recover on two notes. Judgment was also given for $306 in the suit brought by Harry Jacobson against F. Simon. This suit was likewise to recover on a promissory note and was uncontested.

A non-suit was granted the defendant in the action brought by Henry A. Meers against the Pandero Company to recover $2,500 back salary. Meers claimed to be the inventor of a process for making cloth and stated that the defendant company was formed to take over his process. They were to give him a salary of $3,000 a year, he claimed, but said that after about two months, when they had gotten his secret, things were made so unpleasant that he left. He will begin suit for an injunction to prevent the defendants from using his process.

Mexican Soldiers in U. S.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 14.—The Mexican troops which were granted permission by President Taft yesterday to pass through the United States will enter at El Paso and return to Mexico at Nogales. This is necessary because of lack of railroad transportation across Mexico and owing to the desire to get the soldiers into Sinaloa at once to enforce the election laws. The command is made up of General Orozco and 400 picked insurrecto soldiers, who will go to Sinaloa to act as rurales in that State. They are due to arrive in Ciudad Juarez, Monday, according to present plans.

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish, and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

WILSON REFUSES TO VISIT ESSEX COUNTY

Trenton, Oct. 14.—Stating that he appreciates the honor of being invited to address the Essex county campaign committee and at the same time declining to accept their invitation on the ground that the interests of the party would not be served by participating in the meeting, Governor Wilson today sent a letter to Charles F. Herr, chairman of the committee, declining the invitation. Governor Wilson's letter follows:

"My Dear Sir—Allow me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of October 10 and to express my warm appreciation of the desire of the campaign committee of the Essex County Democratic Association that I should be present and address the mass meeting which the committee is planning to hold in the new Symphony Auditorium, in Newark, in behalf of the candidates nominated on the Democratic ticket in Essex county, and also for the compliment that the committee has paid me in leaving to me the choice of the date.

"While I warmly appreciate this action on the part of the committee, I feel that the best interests of the party would not be served by my participation in the meeting and, therefore, feel constrained to decline.

"Respectfully yours,

Henry Rankin Poore, the artist, an enthusiastic lover of the hunt who has made redcoated cross-country riders and their packs of hounds familiar in his paintings, has written an article for the November Scribner on "Fox and Drag Hunting in the United States." The illustrations are from his own paintings and a number are reproduced in colors.

General Funston's account of his "Capture of Emilio Aguinaldo," in the November Scribner, reads almost like a chapter in some highly sensational novel of adventure. Its impression is made by the surprising nature of the plot involved, and the desparate character of the expedition that succeeded in putting an end to the war. Its success brought General Funston his promotion to a Brigadiership in the regular army.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

All who crowd the Lyceum Theatre to see "The Runaway," the new Billie Burke play see in it a similarity between its story and the announced Astor-Force wedding. The subject of "The Runaway," which is a comedy in four acts by Pierre Veber, adapted by Michael Morton, is the account of a man of fifty who proposes to marry a girl of eighteen. The unravelling of "She Runaway" is Pierre Veber's attempt to tell whether such a social happening has any justification. In the cast besides Miss Billie Burke at Miss Desmond Kelly, C. Aubrey Smith, Ivan Simpson, Edwin Nicander and Emily Wakeman, and Henry Miller, Jr.

"You will be fifty when you marry this girl o feighteen," declaimed Mr. Miller, "and the year after you think you will be forty-nine and the following year forty-eight, but you won't. You will be fifty-one years of age the first year after your marriage and fifty-two the next year and fifty-three when she is barely twenty-one. It will mean degradation for both of you."

All standards in variety entertainments will be outranked by the extraordinary bill of novelties that will be the drawing attraction at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre for the week of October 16. It is a program rich and varied, with many acts that are now to this city and other tried and true favorites with new comedy material. The headline honors on this occasion go to the season's latest sensation, We-No-Waw, in her thrilling and spectacular "Dance of Death." We-No-Naw is the first of a series of sensational features which the management of this theatre have booked for the coming season. An elaborate and pretentious production will accompany the "Dance of Death" which is expected to be the talk of the town after the opening performance. Joe Welch, the famous Jew comedian, will re-appear at the Fifth Avenue after an absence of several season's in the legitimate field.

The next three months were back-breakers and headsplitters for Austin and me. I kept up a lively, ceaseless campaign for the new charter, and spent my afternoons out with Austin, interviewing merchants. We classified and tabulated our circulation in every conceivable form, showing how many readers we had in every block in the city and how many in every town in the territory that traded in St. James. We made sworn statements; we invited advertising managers and store proprietors to visit our circulation rooms and watch the boys get their papers and follow them on thier routes in an automobile. We gave them route lists and asked them to trail the boys when we didn't know it. We offered to let them interview the carriers, and agreed to give them, in confidence, the name of every person who took The Sun and let them visit the homes where we claimed our paper was going.

I talked social and civic betterment, political economy, municipal government and honest journalism until I dreamed it when I tried to sleep. After each afternoon's labor I stayed at the office until midnight, writing editorials and editing copy for the next day. The next morning I would rise at half-past six and get to my desk again at half-past seven. Austin and I didn't make a poverty plea. Nobody could suspect, from our arguments or manner, that we were desperate. We talked straight business in a straight business way. We gave no hint of any purpose to back down from our position of honest independence; we reiterated our purposes when occasion demanded, but in our hearts we were sick with fear.

The Last Big Advertiser Goes.

Our efforts, though undoubtedly of value as a foundation for future business, brought hardly a dollar that we wouldn't have received anyway. We made a few new contracts with small dealers, but the big fellows were as determined as ever not to give us another inch. They listened to us; they received us respectfully, almost cordially; but they positively declined to be moved by any argument we could advance. They acknowledged we had the circulation shown by our figures; they admitted our rate was reasonable; but they would make no contracts. They told us frankly that they didn't propose to do business with a newspaper run as The Sun was run. Our independence, the effects of which they had felt when we found it necessary to tell the public what they were trying to do to us, was still offensive. They would break that independence—or they would ruin us.

Our circulation continued to climb during those three months, and on April first it had reached a daily average of a little more than twenty-seven thousand. On this date we lost the dvertising of our remaining department store. Lisner, the manager of this store, was connected with a certain shoe factory concerning which I had published some unpleasant facts. On April second I again told the people of St. James that our news columns could not be controlled by any interest but theirs. I published a first page editorial, showing just what had occurred between Lisner and The Sun and what Lisner's connection with the shoe factory was, and stating that he had discontinued his advertising because we had insisted on printing the truth about the factory.

The paper containing that editorial reached Mell the next morning. Two days later he, Butler and Ashman walked into the office, and I knew that the hour for the great show-down had arrived.

"Well, we're ready to see what you've done with our sixty thousand," said Mell, as we sat down at Austin's desk that afternoon to go over the records and decide whether The Sun should continue to shine, or set forever.

"That's easily answered," I replied. "We've spent it, as you told us to."

"Not all of it," put in Austin. "We still have a balance of two hundred and thirty-seven dollars."

"Is that all there is left?" asked Ashman.

"That's all," said Austin; "but I'd like to have you take a look at our circulation statement."

"We'd rather see your statement of advertising receipts first," said Butler.

Austin had prepared a balance sheet of our advertising, circulation and cash, and he silently passed it over the table to Butler. Butler glanced at it and passed it to Ashman, who in turn contemplated it briefly and passed it to Mell. It did not require much time to read it and understand it. We had only two hundred and thirty-seven dollars left out of the original sixty thousand dollars. Our circulation had risen from 8,148, the record of the day prior to our assumption of the management of The Sun, to 27,389, the record of the day previous to this meeting. Our advertising receipts had fallen steadily from $12,245.48 for May, 1905, to $4,422.67 for March, 1907.

"All the big advertisers are out of the paper, aren't they?" asked Mell.

"Every one," replied Austin.

"And all because they wouldn't stand for something that I printed because I believed the reader was entitled to the information," I said.

"Boys, we've given this thing an honest trial," said Mell. "Our editor has done exactly the right thing from the day we turned him loose on this proposition until today. Our business manager has worked his nails off trying to get business for this kind of a newspaper. The fact that the paper has been run right is demonstrated by that circulation statement. I'm satisfied—also I'm convinced. I don't need any further evidence to prove to me that you can't make a newspaper succeed and run it solely for the benefit of the reader. It's been worth twenty thousand dollars to find that out. We've done what we started out to do—we've made a sixty-thousand-dollar experiment in this kind of journalism—and we've failed to put this newspaper over. Nothing remains but to close up shop, pack our machinery, charge our sixty thousand to profit and loss, and forget it."

Butler replied promptly: "That's the way I feel about it." Ashman was only an instant behind him. "So do I," he said. Austin studied the balance sheet a moment and then joined the majority. "I hate to admit it," he said with a sympathetic glance at me, "but I'm afraid you're right."

"You're all dead wrong," I declared. "All we need is about twenty thousand dollars more to put this paper on its feet. We've got the people—we've got 'em solid. Our circulation is within three thousand of The Star now, and by the time these elections are over we'll pass it. This town is waking up. It is right on the verge of turning upside down; and when it turns we'll get the credit for it and we'll get still more readers, and then we'll get the business. It's coming, just as sure as the sun rises. You don't need to lose that sixty thousand dollars. All you need to do is to put in twenty thousand dollars more—probably not that much—and we'll have a property here worth a quarter of a millon that cost us only a hundred thousand."

Why the Sun Need Not Have Set.

Austin admitted that I might be right; Mell, Butler and Ashman said I was crazy. I argued and pleaded the rest of the afternoon, and spent the evening describing the civic, political and commercial conditions of St. James as I understood them; but Mell, Butler and Ashman were immovable.

Finally I gave up, and we agreed to make the next day's issue the last. I prepared the paper with the same care and thought with which I had prepared every previous issue. I even printed an editorial, advocating the adoption of the charter, just as if The Sun were to be there to help in the election. The only difference between that last day's paper and any other was that it carried a small two-column box on its first page announcing its suspension and giving as the reason that it had spent all of its receipts and sixty thousand dollars more in two years, and had become convinced that there was no demand for it from advertisers.

A year later I returned to St. James for a visit. I had felt pretty sick over the two years of wasted effort and time that went only to the credit of experience when The Sun set. I had had no difficulty in getting a managing editorship in a distant city at an advanced salary; but I had been terribly disappointed, both in the failure of our effort to establish the paper by our methods and in the loss of opportunity to own a fifth interest in a newspaper property and eventually to lift myself from the salary roll to a proprietorship in journalism. I went back to St. James prepared to find all the good I had accomplished undone—all the political and social progress halted and turned back. I expected to find the same old crowd of business men and professional politicians running the town. I found, instead, that practically everything for which I had fought for two years had been established during the year I had been away. The first man I met in St. James was my old friend Harry Street.

"Well, well, well!" he said warmly as he slapped me on the shoulder and shook hands heartily; "I'm certainly glad to see you, and I want to apalogize and thank you for opening my eyes. I was all wrong about you and The Sun. You were right in everthing you did, only we didn't understand it then. You showed us. We're a different town now; we're different people. We've turned over a new leaf. This city is a hummer; business is booming and the old crowd that used to stand in the way of everything progressive—and I was one of 'em, I admit—have either seen the light or been forced down and out. We've got a new lease on life, and you and The Sun gave it to us. Our new charter works splendidly; and we've got a bully lot of aldermen who are driving ahead like lightning and making this a real place to live. Taxes have been whooped on everybody who wasn't paying his share, and my only regret is that they were not whooped long ago. The Sun pointed the way and stirred us up, and I'm ashamed of myself for the part I had in putting it out of business. If you'd stayed on the job six months longer you'd have won out. You'd have had the leading paper, and the town would have been proud of you. Why, oh, why didn't you stick another six months?"

Street's rambling but sincere outburst was bitter-sweet to me. I was graified and proud to find that St. James had found itself, largely as a result of our efforts. It was something to carry through. He—the realization that I had contributed that much to the sum of human progress; but it was galling to know that I had missed by such a narrow margin the satisfaction of success and the material rewards that success would have brought me. As I met other ancient enemies, however, I forgot my disappointment in the joy of the discovery that the redemption of St. James had been complete. My charter was now the law under which the people of St. James lived. My plea for decency and respectability at Riverside Park was now orthodox doctrine. My plan for public lighting, for paving extensions, for public schools, for parks, for the police department, for the fire department, was now the plan upon which the city had already made considerable headway. My fight for equable assessments and just taxation was now the fight of the city government, and the men who had formerly paid but little now paid dollar for dollar with the workingmen, according to the honest value of their property. My demand for five cent fares to the park had become the demand of the community, and consequently five-cent fare had been instituted. My prediction as to the building of the interurban line to Mitchellville was now a reality, for the right of way had been purchased and construction work started, in the face of the reduction of rates to the park. Even my hteory of independent journalism had become orthodox, for I was told that The Star turned progressive twenty-four hours after we left town It simply went out and took possession of our policies, not only on public issues but on newspaper issues.

The Acid Test in Journalism.

Public service officials, politicians and advertisers, from one end of the city to the other, now saw the line between the advertising and the news columns, and no longer demanded consideration in the latter because they or their relatives or friends bought space in the former. The backbone of newspaper control through advertising had been broken. We had cracked it. The Star had been quick to see its advantage and had completed the fracture.

All these things I learned from the business men of St. James. During the two days I remained, twenty-four influential citizens, many of them men I had frequently opposed or vigorously criticised in The Sun, tol dthem to me. That's the reason we call The St. James Sun a successful failure. The Sun failed from a dollars-and-cents standpoint, but St. James succeeded. I had been standing on solid ground when I pleaded with Mell, Butler and Ashman to put in twenty thousand dollars more and stick for the success that was just around the corner.

The fact that the St. James revolution came only confirmed the conviction tha I held when I became the editor of The Sun, a conviction I have always held, that I held unflinchingly during my two years in St. James and that I hold today—that honest jouranlism pays in money profits, that the way we tried to establish the St. James Sun is the right way to establish a newspaper, and that the theory held b yso many newspaper publishers—that a newspaper cannot be absolutely honest to its readers—will not stand the acid test.

(THE END).

The superintendents' banquet on Thursday evening will be in Y. M. C. A. Hall. All delegates arriving by rail will be met at the North avenue station by representatives of the committee, transported in automobiles to the church, where they will be registered and assigned to their lodgings to which they will be piloted by the official pages, who will be boys from the Sunday schools.

The decorations of the church will be in blue and red. A big "welcome" placard in these colors with the convention monogram will be furnished to all business houses in the centre of the city which will display it during convention week. The police and public service employes will be furnished with information for the guidance of out of town delegates. D. E. Titsworth, of the committee on music is enrolling a volunteer choir of 200 to be drilled by Tullar Meredith, of New York. A special music loft for their accommodation has been contracted for. Just now the publicity committee is sending a unique series of post card eye-openers to every Sunday school superintendent in the State ,stirring him up to the advantage of having his school represented at the great gathering in Plainfield in November.

Through N. A. Miller, of the borough a New York typewriter concern has placed two of its machines at the service of the convention. Another concern will send two machines with operators. A special telephone will be installed in the convention church November 13. The call is "Plainfield 25."

At ten only ten per cent. of the boys were interested in Jesus, at thiteen only thirty per cent., but from this time forward Chirist's appeal to the boy becomes more urgent until at seventeen sixty per cent. of the boys chose Jesus as the one Bible character they most preferred. On this day also the county board of elections must deliver to the county clerk at or before 8 o'clock in the morning all the copies of the registers which were in their possession the Saturday next preceding the general election.

Election Day will be November 7, and the polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening.

WOMEN ON JURIES.

May Have to Serve as Result of California Election.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Women who won the right to vote at the recent election will escape political and probably jury duty. The present poll tax law expressly stipulates that it must be paid only by "male" residents of the State. In this State payment of poll tax is not one of the requirements of franchise.

As to jury duty there is some doubt. The law does not expressly state that only men hall serve on juries, but, on the other hand, there is nothing in the amendment which gave women the ballot, which implies that they shall do jury duty.

Women will become voters as soon as the returns are officially certified to the Secretary of State.
